Teen-Agers Are Good Drivers Juvenile Expert Says

By HARRY FULTON

The traffic division director of the Long Beach Juvenile Bureau Saturday described most teen-agers between 16 and 18 as "good drivers" and appealed to the public to stop identifying them with reckless driving.

Juvenile Officer C. E. Richie, who has directed the juvenile traffic division here for the past six years, declared that the 16-18 year olds are "not guilty" of the public impression that all teen-agers are reckless drivers.

"Police records indicate that youths between 16 and 18 are relatively careful drivers," said Richie. "Reckless driving is prevalent in the age group 18-25, but we should give these younger drivers the credit they deserve."

To emphasize the outstanding record of safety compiled here by juvenile drivers, Richie pointed out that in the past year and one-half not a single traffic death has been caused by a youth between 16 and 18.

In that same period of time, adults have slaughtered 74 persons on the local highways.

"WE SHOULD TAKE a more positive approach with this teen-age group," said Richie. "For years we have been including these youngsters in a 16-25 age bracket and telling them what stinkers they are as drivers. That's like beating a mule over the head when it balks. It's not going to get us anywhere. It just stirs up a feeling of resentment in younger people against adults.

"I have a lot of faith in these youngsters. We should recognize them as good drivers and allow them to take pride in their accomplishments. If we do this, they will be much more cooperative with law enforcement authorities as they grow older."

James B. Worsham, manager of the Long Beach Safety Council, said national safety records also indicate that 16-18 year olds are careful drivers.

"One thing these juveniles need is a pat on the back occasionally instead of wholesale condemnation for what an older group does," he said.

RICHIE, THE JUVENILE TRAFFIC OFFICER, twice each week holds interviews with 16-18 year olds who have been issued citations for traffic violations. Parents are required to appear with their offspring, and they receive a briefing as to parental responsibility while the young drivers are warned of possible loss of driving privileges and advised in the ways of safe driving.

These juvenile traffic division interrogations are held each Wednesday and Friday from 2 to 7 p.m. at the City Health Center. They are informal and strictly private.

In most instances, Officer Richie is able to straighten out the juvenile offender without having to send the young driver to juvenile court. With parental consent—and most parents give it readily—he is able to suspend a youngster's license for a short period of time, and this time is used as a period of concentration on the value of safe driving. Serious traffic offenses and habitual offenders are referred to juvenile court for action, however.

Richie is warm in his praise of the driver education programs now being conducted in schools at the high school level, and he regards his work as a continuation of this program. He also feels that drag strip operations, such as the one conducted by the Lions Club on 223rd St. just east of Alameda Blvd., provide a useful service by permitting youngsters to "get speed out of their system" with a maximum of safety.

LAST YEAR 3,850 16-18 year-old drivers were issued citations in Long Beach. Speeding was the biggest cause, with 1,126 cases reported. Drivers license violations came next, 958, and then came defective mufflers, 660; defective lights, 578; signal violations, 470; no license, 243; boulevard stop violations, 228. Of the total speeding violations, only 180 cases involved "speed contests," so often associated with juveniles. Violations at night exceeded those by day by almost 3 to 1, and boys outnumbered girls as traffic offenders by about 16-1.

Richie believes that one important reason why drivers in the 18-25 year group have such bad records is because they are not given credit for good driving conduct when they are 16-18 years old.

When they turn 18 and graduate from high school, they break away from close parental supervision, he observes; they are suddenly treated like adults, and they are unjustly lumped into a driving group with a bad reputation.

"The incentive to be careful drivers just isn't there," said Richie. "You get the impression that a teen-ager is something to avoid, whereas 95 per cent of them are darned good kids. It's folly to condemn them."

PENTAGON ADMITS HUGE WASTE

SOME WITHOUT PASSPORTS

Ranks of Youths Split in China

LONDON (AP)—A split in the ranks of 41 Americans visiting Red China was reported by the British news agency Reuters Saturday. It said the delegation which went to Peiping from the Moscow youth festival had broken up into leftists and rightists, with some of the group remaining neutral.

The break erupted shortly after the Americans pulled into the Peiping railroad station after an eight-day trip from Moscow.

Shelby Tucker, 22-year-old former Yale student from Pass Christian, Miss., said it happened when he and other so-called rightists refused to turn over their passports to the Chinese.

Tucker, who said he made the trip to Peiping to "balance out the lunatic fringe" among the Americans, told Reuters the Chinese made less fuss about their refusal than the American leftists.

* * * *

HE SAID THE Chinese were willing to let the rightists off the train but said they would look at the passports when the group reached their hotel.

But, said Tucker, the leftists attempted to force the dissenters to hand over the passports and later subjected them to what he called "a struggle and criticism meeting."

The Reuters dispatch quoted one of the neutrals in the group as saying relations between the opposing factions were "pretty strained." The neutral quoted one of the leftists, identified as Jerry Fiderer of Brooklyn, as having told the group, "Let's not criticize the Communist Party in the presence of foreigners" and the rightists. Delegates from 11 other nations are making the tour.

U.S. Expert, 2 Kings in Syria Huddle

ISTANBUL, Turkey (UP)—U.S. diplomatic troubleshooter Loy Henderson Saturday began conferring with Syria's worried neighbors on ways to counter the Syrian drift into the Soviet orbit.

Henderson, a Middle Eastern affairs expert and former U. S. ambassador to Iran, rushed directly from his plane to meetings with Turkish officials.

Later he conferred here with Kings Feisal of Iraq and Hussein of Jordan, both of whom preceded him to Turkey.

Turkish sources said Henderson's discussions with Turkish leaders also would be concerned with how far developments in Syria could be expected to go and what threat they posed to Middle Eastern security.

* * * *

TURKEY, A NATO and Baghdad Pact member already flanked by Russia and Red Bulgaria, feared it would be enclosed on three sides by potentially hostile nations if the Communist coup in the Syrian army extended to the Syrian political system.

More Russians were flying to Damascus, the Syrian capital, where press dispatches Friday said thousands of Soviet technicians had been pouring into the country during the last eight months.

Twenty-seven Russian civilians, including wives and children, stopped over in Athens Saturday en route to Damascus from Sofia, Bulgaria. The Athens press described the men as "Russian experts."

In Moscow, the Soviet press continued to stir troubled waters. A Tass News Agency report from Washington accused the United States of plotting forceful intervention in Syria.

Profs Prove You Can't Fool Bats With Blindfolds

MADISON, Wis. (UP) — Two University of Wisconsin scientists learned Saturday you can't fool a bat with a blindfold.

H. C. Muller and J. T. Ehlen Jr. took 484 bats, 25 of them wearing blindfolds, from their home in an abandoned mine and released them five to 25 miles away.

The blindfolded bats returned to the mine just as fast as their unhandicapped brethren, at speeds up to 19 miles an hour, the scientists said.

L.A.C. Says: Is It Typical?

The Moscow Radio told the Russian people that the Confidential magazine libel trial was typical of the morals of the American people. The announcer described Confidential and told of how its operatives peeked in windows and through keyholes to report on the way American movie stars and other prominent people spent their lives. It was entertaining listening to the Russians, who usually hear only of the five-year plans and Communist doctrines.

We may discount what the Russians say. But it is disgusting to realize a large part of the world feels much the same about us. It is disturbing to realize so many Americans seem to find such rotten literature

'Lies' on Stewart Scored

PRINCIPALS IN PROMOTION ROW

Sen. Margaret Chase Smith (R-Maine), shown with actor James Stewart in 1955, has accused Air Force Lt. Gen. Emmett O'Donnell Jr. (left) of misrepresentation and "extensive false testimony" in an effort to promote Stewart to reserve brigadier general in the Air Force. The accusations appeared Saturday in the Congressional Record.—(AP Wirephoto)

Solon Blasts at General in Nomination of Actor

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Margaret Chase Smith (R-Maine) Saturday accused Air Force Lt. Gen. Emmett O'Donnell Jr. of "extensive false testimony" in his effort to win approval of a reserve general's star for movie actor Jimmy Stewart.

The only woman senator also charged that O'Donnell had tried to strike from the Senate Armed Services hearing record "this false testimony." The committee blocked Stewart's promotion from colonel to brigadier general, mostly because of Mrs. Smith's efforts.

O'Donnell told a reporter Mrs. Smith's statement caught him "completely cold" and he would not want to comment until he had studied it. However, the general added that he certainly had not intentionally given any false testimony.

* * * *

AS FOR THE senator's charge that he tried to strike his testimony from the record, O'Donnell said the committee sent him the record for correction as is customary in such congressional proceedings. He said there were a few minor errors which he corrected and which he said almost always crop up in several hours of off-the-cuff testimony.

O'Donnell said he did not seek to change "one iota" of his basic testimony.

Mrs. Smith's sharp blasts at O'Donnell appeared in the Congressional Record. The Senate Friday confirmed nine reserve generals but not Stewart or another man blocked in committee.

* * * *

SENATOR Smith said she was inserting in the record the same statement she made at the closed-door committee session because "the member of the committee who opposed me in this matter expressed his feeling that fairness to all parties concerned required that my statement to the committee should be printed and made public."

Panel Claims Miller Tried to Join Reds

WASHINGTON (UP)—The House Committee on Un-American Activities charged Saturday that playwright Arthur Miller, husband of blonde film star Marilyn Monroe, applied for Communist Party membership in 1943.

Miller immediately denied it.

He accused the House group of attempting to influence a court now considering his appeal from a contempt of Congress conviction initiated by the same committee.

The committee published in an official report a photostatic copy of an application for membership by "A. Miller, 18 Schermerhorn St., Brooklyn, N. Y., writer." The committee said A. Miller was the playwright and that he lived at that address during part of World War II.

Miller, in a statement issued through his attorney, said he had never filed an application and that the committee's document is "either a forgery or was done unknown to me."

The photostatic copy released by the committee was not signed and had no space for the applicant's signature.

"The committee has brought forth one more rehash of the material gone into at my public hearing," Miller said.

"I testified then and I repeat it now—that I never filed an application for membership in the Communist Party in 1943 or at any other time."

Multi-Million Pile-Up of Excess Arms

Report Confirms Charges Made by McClellan Probe

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Defense Department acknowledged Saturday that millions of dollars worth of unneeded supplies and equipment were allowed to pile up in northeast air command bases, and that some of the material went to waste.

It said corrective action has been taken by both Air Force and Army commanders, and a special Pentagon policy is being developed for the handling of surplus supplies in remote areas.

The department's statement was issued by Perkins McGuire, assistant secretary of defense for supply and logistics. It was in response to a report by Chairman McClellan (D-Ark) of the Senate Investigations Subcommittee Friday night that the Senate group was investigating evidence of waste and mismanagement at air bases in Newfoundland, Labrador and Greenland.

* * * *

McGUIRE SAID military investigators had confirmed the subcommittee's charges of supply irregularities. He said more than six million dollars worth of excess supplies had been returned to the United States from Harmon Air Force Base, Newfoundland, leaving 14 million dollars worth still to be sent back.

McClellan said still more supplies worth "many millions of dollars" were being salvaged at the various bases.

McGuire, commenting on one incident cited by McClellan, said personnel of the 823rd Aviation Engineer Battalion, an Army unit operating with the Air Force, "buried about $33,000 worth of scrap, used and unused parts, or supplies and equipment."

* * * *

"THESE HAVE BEEN recovered and returned to the supply system, with resultant loss estimated at about $6,300," Perkins said.

McClellan said the "personnel" involved was an unidentified warrant officer.

McGuire said Pentagon investigators underscored "procedures, circumstances and conditions" which led to mismanagement and improper disposal

CHURCH CONVERTING PUB

Saints Welcomed Now Into Garden of Allah

The Garden of Allah moved a step in that direction Saturday. It was purchased by the First Baptist Church of Seal Beach for $40,000.

The Church plans, of course, some changes in the structure, which will reopen about September with an entire new cast.

For example, the bandstand upon which PeeWee Hunt once blared through "When the Saints Come Marching In" will be converted to a choir loft, and the saints may come marching in, after all.

In converting the Garden of Allah into Allah's garden, the Rev. Mr. Guy Newton, pastor of the purchasing church, has run into a unique problem.

The First Baptist Church now owns a first class bar. Horseshoe type, with all sorts of modern equipment.

"It's for sale," Mr. Newton announced Friday. "Fellow has already offered us $1,000 for it, but we think it might be worth more."

In all, the Garden of Allah covers four lots on Pacific Coast Highway in Seal Beach, and it has been the scene of some alleged gambling, some alleged dancing and some alleged music.

Bopsters and beboppers, Dixielanders and dime-a-dancers have pounded its dance floor in the past 15 years. In recent years the Garden of Allah declined noticeably as an Orange County "hot spot" and owner after owner failed to restore its appeal to night-clubbers.

Recently, an owner installed fine kitchen fixtures, a new cork ceiling and some rugs.

"We appreciate that," the pastor said, "they'll come in handy."

Past patrons of the Garden will never recognize the place, the Rev. Mr. Newton says. The entire interior will be changed into an auditorium and Sunday School classrooms.

The First Baptist Church of Seal Beach, its pastor reveals, is used to "converting" its home.

"Our present site in Seal Beach was once occupied by a place of gambling and prostitution," he reports.

Molders Strike Ends

OAKLAND (UP)—The Molders Union and the General Metal Corp. Saturday reached a tentative agreement to end the strike that has idled 800 workers since July 30. It includes 12 to 16½ cents hourly wage increase for the first year and nine to 12 cents for the second year and is retroactive to July 29.

Climber, Leg Hurt, Caught on Icy Ledge

LONGMIRE, Mt. Rainier National Park, Wash. (AP)—A hiker en route to the summit of Mt. Rainier, slipped over the icy lip of a crevasse Saturday and lay trapped on a ledge about 12 feet below the surface of a glacier.

The hiker, George Sainsbury, of Bremerton, was believed to have suffered a broken leg.

Word of the accident was brought here hours later by one of his hiking companions, Arnold Bloomer, also of Bremerton.

An eight-man rescue party led by Bloomer set out for the site on Kautz Glacier at about the 8,000-foot level. Another team left several hours later.

Church Forbids Catholics in 3 States to Work or Shop Sundays

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—Roman Catholics are forbidden to work, conduct business or go shopping on Sundays in Oregon, Idaho and Montana.

The restriction, issued in a pastoral letter from Archbishop Edward D. Howard, becomes effective Sept. 1, the day the letter is to be read at masses in all churches throughout the three-state province.

* * * *

A PASTORAL letter, directed to the clergy and members, is binding in conscience for Catholics and violations become a matter for confession, church officials said.

Archbishop Howard's letter was made public here Saturday by the chancery office. It was signed by the archbishop as head of the province and by Bishops Joseph M. Gilmore of Helena, William J. Condon of Great Falls, James J. Byrne of Boise and Francis P. Leipzig of Baker, Ore.

ARCHBISHOP HOWARD
He Issued Order

"Sunday," the pastoral letter says, "is our weekly commemoration of the resurrection of Christ. . . ." and it adds that the church commands for Sunday observance: "First, assisting at holy mass: second, abstaining from unnecessary servile work."

The only exceptions to the ban will be for "business services which are so necessary for the common good that they may be rendered legitimately on Sundays." Even then, the pastoral letter continues, those working must have an opportunity to attend mass.

* * * *

BUSINESSMEN MAY not consider what the effect of competition may be.

The letter asks:

"Since others conduct businesses on Sunday and thereby in our competitive economy put Catholic businessmen at a disadvantage, may not these latter do business also on Sunday?"

And it answers:

"They may not."

so entertaining. It is claimed the magazine has over 3 million readers. Certainly the American people have been given great quantities of the dirt through their newspapers.

It is not only Confidential that impresses other people with our lack of morals. They remember the great television show put on by Senator Kefauver when he went from city to city disclosing the terrible gangster control of some of those cities. Because of those disclosures some of our best-known national characters left the country to live in Mexico. There were few prosecutions because it would have embarrassed too many public officials who had allowed the hoodlums to operate in their cities.

Only a week ago it was disclosed that a fourth of the liquor consumed in this country was sold by bootleggers. Men in high places were found to be stealing taxpayers' money through freeway contracts in Pennsylvania. We are loud in telling other people of this country being a nation where equality for all is assured. But our Congress is deadlocked over a bill to give such rights to colored people.

At the same time the Senate hearing is disclosing how labor racketeers pass out union charters as they would cigars. Some of the charters are given to the worst criminal element in the nation. Union leaders are proven to have used union funds to finance race horse stables. Swanky homes are purchased for leaders with union funds and those same leaders use union funds for personal investments.

We may pass over what Moscow says about us. But we cannot escape the fact that we have given good reason for asking if this is typical of the American people. We know it is not typical of average Americans. But they are responsible for it because of their apathy. They are more interested in reading of scandals than they are in voting. They fail to demand decency in government.

None of this rottenness could exist if the American people took enough interest to make their wishes known by telling their public officials—and then enforcing their wishes at the ballot box. It may not be typical of the morals of the American people—but it is definitely typical of their apathy where such conditions prevail.—L.A.C.

NEW YORK (UP) — A policeman was arrested Saturday on a charge of being drunk while driving a "paddy wagon" carrying two prisoners to jail.

Lyons was suspended from the police force.

Sees Lies in Stewart Reserve Nomination

11 of the proposed reserve generals.

Symington, after reading Sen. Smith's statement which was not delivered on the Senate floor, said "the matter has been decided for the time being but Chairman Russell (D-Ga.) noted that both men were passed over without prejudice."

In her statement, Sen. Smith said the Air Force record on the nominations included "repeated and direct misrepresentations . . . extensive false testimony on these nominations . . . attempts to make a wholesale rewriting of the transcript of the hearings before it was printed."

* * * *

SHE SAID Gen. O'Donnell, chief of Air Force personnel, gave false testimony about the reserve record of Stewart and J. B. Montgomery.

"Later Gen. O'Donnell sought to have stricken from the printed record this false testimony that he had given," she said.

"The worst two cases of the 11 nominations are those of Col. Montgomery and Col. Stewart," she said.

The woman senator said O'Donnell testified that Stewart was competent to serve as "deputy director of operations of the Strategic Air Command—literally the No. 3 job in SAC importance if war comes."

She said Stewart, until nominated for general, has participated in only nine days of reserve training during 11 years and that he was not qualified to fly any Air Force plane at that time.

* * * *

"STEWART'S normal civilian pursuit is that of motion picture actor," she continued. "Obviously he can't maintain his proficiency for deputy director of operations of the Strategic Air Command by being a motion picture actor."

She said that "past national presidents of the Reserve Officers Assn. have complained bitterly to me that the Stewart nomination was destructive to the morale of the Air Force reserve."

Pentagon Discloses Big Waste

of surplus supplies. Among the causes cited were:

1. Large quantities of parts and equipment were apparently abandoned at the northeast air bases after World War II. When these bases were re-established and built up during the Korean war the new supplies got mixed up with the old.

2. "A major construction program was started at various air bases in Newfoundland and Greenland immediately after the start of the Korean conflict, when Communist intentions were unknown."

3. "Tours of duty for personnel are relatively short, one year to 18 months. This has created a problem in the continuity of effort." Some units were inadequately staffed with supply specialists.

4. Inadequate facilities "resulted in supplies and material being stored in exposed or open areas where severe weather conditions in winter months caused rapid deterioration and obliterated marks in some cases."

5. "Improper computation of requirements, requisitioning and inventory control . . . contributed to the spare parts excesses."

"These conditions created a supply problem that continued to become more critical even though as early as 1953 steps were taken by commanders to reduce known supply excesses," McGuire said.

McGuire said the investigation is continuing.

Tucker, one of eight Americans at the Moscow festival who were called fascists by the Soviet press, was said by Reuters to have become unpopular with some others in the delegation.

He told the news agency he decided to ignore a State Department ban on travel in Red China and go with the delegation "in an attempt to paint a more favorable picture of America than some others who in Moscow and China have done little but criticize their homeland."

THE STATE Department now is permitting 24 American newsmen to go to China on a trial basis.

The United States took the final step Saturday for entry into the mainland by the newsmen but the Chinese Communist government still was keeping its doors closed.

Reuters reported that the Chinese had extended the visit of the youths until after Oct. 1 so that they may see the National Day parade in Peiping.

Sees Safer Driving but More Cars

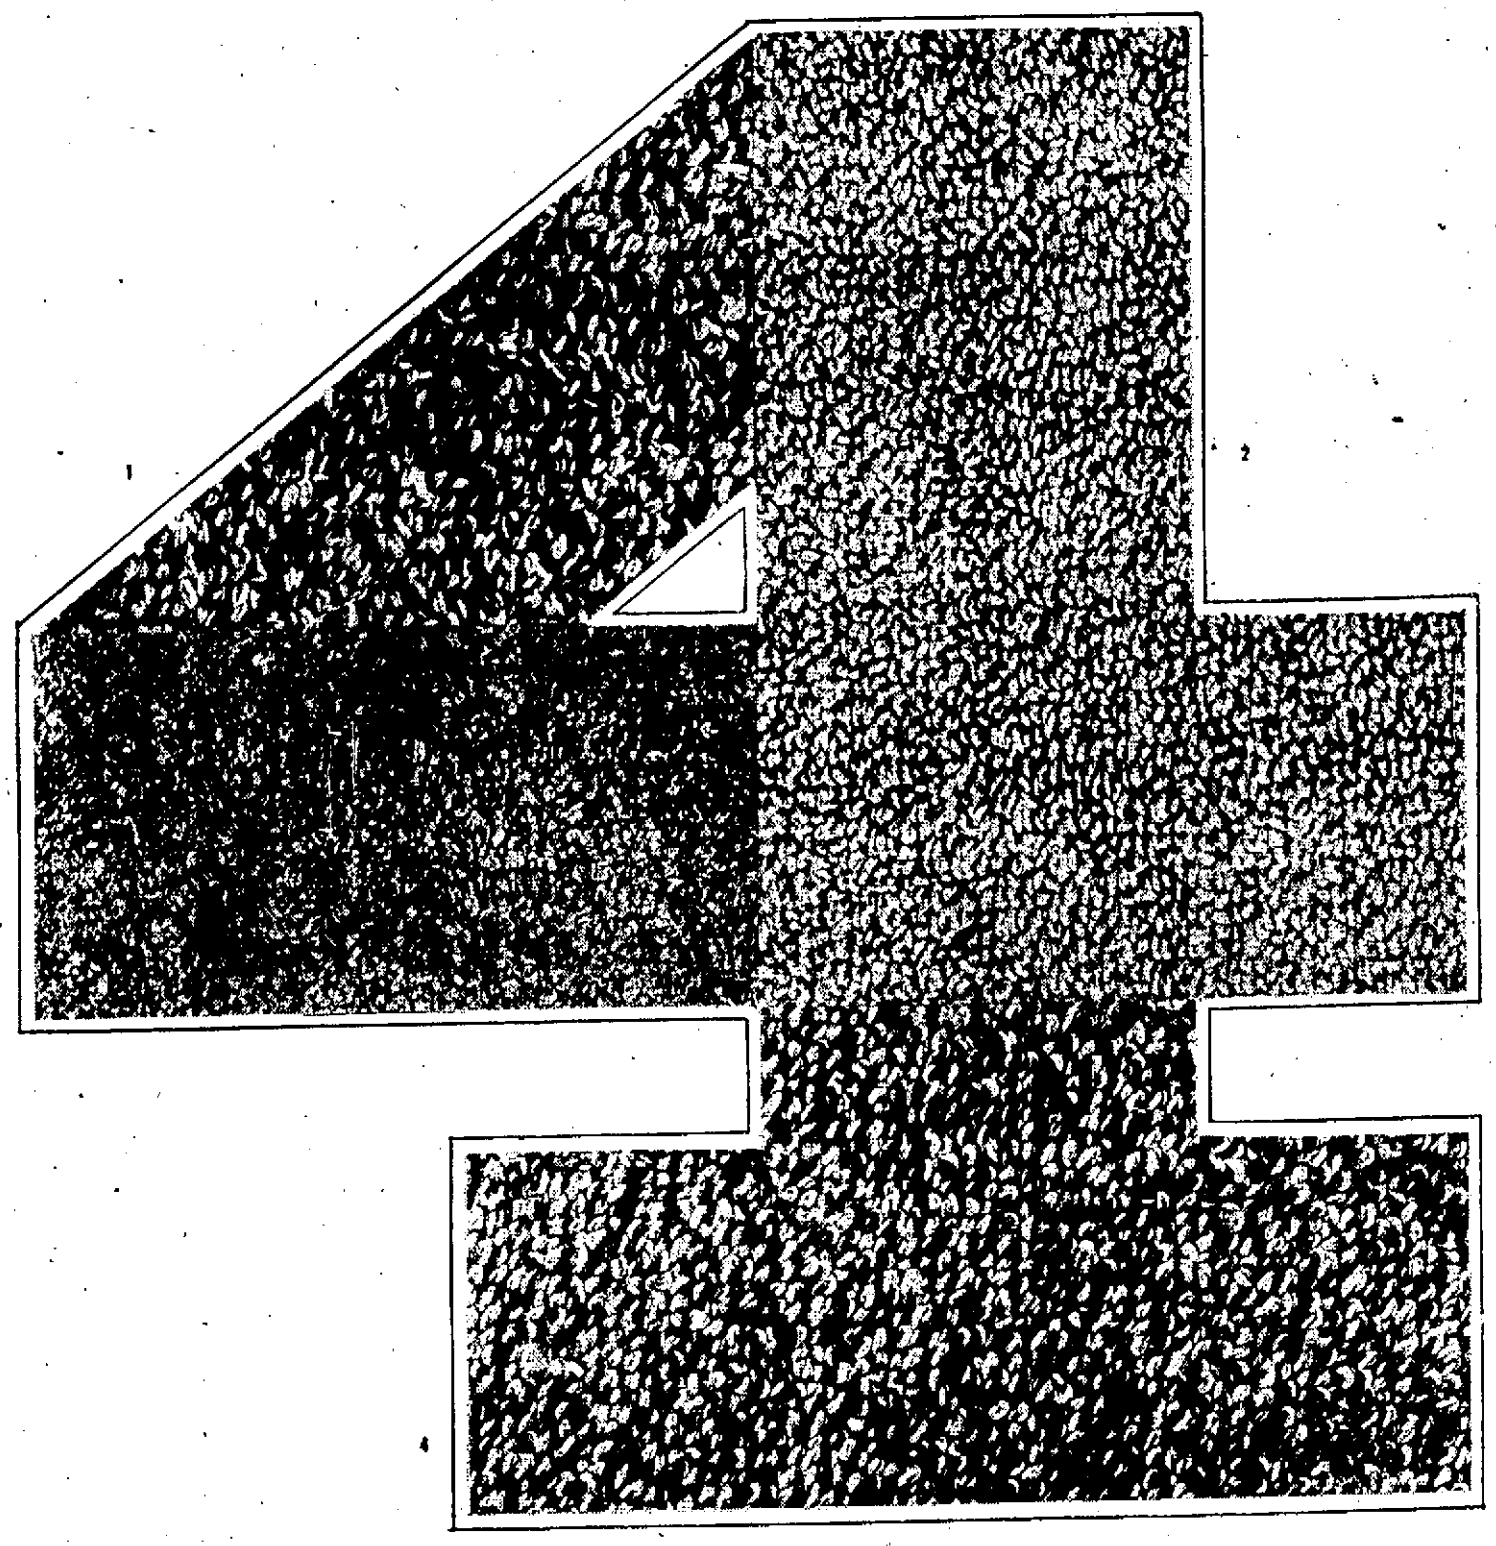

CHICAGO (UP) — More than double the current number of vehicles on the nation's highways will swarm over the auto lanes in 1975, a safety expert predicted Saturday night, but the "traffic toll will be smaller than it is now."

Paul Jones, director of public information for the National Safety Council, made his predictions at a dinner of the Central Motor Freight Assn. of Illinois.

Jones' optimistic preview was based on the hope that traffic safety would "develop faster than traffic volume in the next 20 years."

He is confident that a combination of better and safer roads, increased traffic enforcement, driver education, stricter licensing laws and mounting public concern over the traffic toll will avert he "highway jam a lot of people see by 1975, or sooner."

"But not unless America — every segment of it—faces up to the fact that it is confronted with a real emergency in the traffic situation," Jones said.

Japanese Solon Sees No Rearmament Prospect

Japan has "no prospect" of moving toward rearmament, Dr. Junzo Sasamori, chairman of the foreign affairs committee of the Japanese Diet, said here Saturday.

Dr. Sasamori said most Diet members still favor the clause in the Japanese constitution written during the American occupation, forbidding rearming.

However, Dr. Sasamori said, it is probable that all American ground troops now in Japan will return home by 1960 at the latest, in accordance with a goal set a year ago. Some Air Force units are expected to remain beyond that time.

* * * *

"MOST OF the younger generation (in Japan) do not want to fight against any country," Dr. Sasamori said.

He said many Japanese now appear to want either their own police force or a United Nations police force as a defense unit.

"Of course the high ideal is a federal world government," he said, adding that he subscribes to that ideal himself.

* * * *

DR. SASAMORI said there has been little change in the strong pro-Western feeling in his country at the beginning of the year, but that the leftist Socialist Party constantly tries to stir the Japanese people against the United States.

"There are some extremists that make trouble all the time," Dr. Sasamori said.

He said Japanese cabinet members and many Diet members "know they must co-operate with the United States—that they cannot live alone economically, politically or educationally."

Dr. Sasamori is here in an "exchange of courtesies" and in an official capacity as president of the All-Japanese Students' Kendo Federation.

Missing Man in Collision of 2 Navy Ships Identified

The Navy Saturday identified a man missing and presumed dead after the collision between two Navy transports 180 miles west of San Diego Friday morning as L. D. Penniston, of Argyle, Wisc.

A Long Beach man, D. R. Schwab, a fireman, of 1237 Missoula Pl., was injured slightly.

The Navy said Penniston was standing watch in the port engine room of the 2,130-ton high-speed transport Wantuck when it was struck by the 10,765-ton attack transport Lenawee during a convoy exercise.

THE ENGINE ROOM was flooded after the collision and Penniston is believed to have drowned.

Other crewmen in the engine room injured were F. P. Helton, a fireman apprentice of Los Angeles and L. E. Pluard, a chief machinists mate.

The injured men were transferred to the Lenawee, which is proceeding under its own power to Pearl Harbor. The Wantuck, under tow of the submarine rescue vessel Florikan, was due in San Diego Saturday night.

L.B. Skin Divers to Yugoslavia for World Spearfishing Matches

Three Long Beach skin divers will take off from International Airport soon after midnight tonight, winging their way over the top of the world to Yugoslavia where they will challenge the Russians and 24 other nations for the world's spearfishing championship.

Aboard the big Scandinavian airlines system plane will be Jim Christiansen, 31, of 135 Covina Ave.; Lee Jamison, 35, of 2707 Knoxville Ave.; and Bob Weaver, 26, of 4748 Pimenta Ave., Lakewood. They are members of the Long Beach Neptunes, national skin diving squad.

The squad will compete Sept. 8 for the international championship at the island of Lussinpiccolo, Yugoslavia. The divers will go to Italy first to outfit. They plan to arrive in Yugoslavia a week early so they may become accustomed to underwater hunting in the deep clear depths of the Adriatic Sea.

The Independent, Press-Telegram will have on-the-spot coverage of the "underwater Olympics." Bob Wells, staff writer and an experienced skin diver, will be at Lussinpiccolo to cable first-hand coverage as the Neptunes square off against the Russians and the equally formidable Italians, French, Spanish, Germans and other European teams.

Little is known about the Russian team. It is believed the Soviet divers may be frogmen from the Red Fleet, comrades of the divers who supposedly met and bested the English diver-spy, Cmdr. Lionel (Buster) Crabbe, in battle under the keel of a Soviet cruiser in a British harbor.

Whoever wins the international title will have to dive deep. It is expected the spearmen will hunt at depths of 60 to 100 feet. No aqualungs or breathing devices are permitted: the divers must get their air at the surface, and carry it in their lungs to the depths.

Fellow members of the Neptunes have been conducting a fund drive to furnish transportation for their squad. They are still $200 short of their goal. The rest of the money necessary to send the squad to Yugoslavia will be borrowed, but contributions are still being accepted by Bill Hogan at the Underwater Sports Shop, 5914 E. 2nd St.

Negro Home Shot Up, Cross Burned

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Three shotgun blasts were fired into a Negro cafe owner's home and a crude 12-foot cross set afire on a nearby hill here Friday night.

Police said they were unable to find out the reason for the incident.

The shotgun blasts were fired into the bedroom of James Cole, 44. No one was in the house at the time. Two windows were broken by the pellets.

A Negro woman, Mrs. Gertrude Blackman, was quoted as saying she was across the street and saw the shotgun fired from a moving car which continued up a side road where the cross was burning.

The cross was on a high ridge overlooking a valley in North Montgomery which is predominantly a Negro residential area. It burned for about 15 minutes before police officers arrived and extinguished it.

Miss England in Love, Wants to Stay in U.S.

Homesick Miss England, who couldn't get back to the shores of Britain soon enough, has reversed her field.

Blond, blue-eyed Sonia Hamilton flew back to London Saturday, her head giddy—but not from the altitude.

From Cloud 9 she announced that she plans to return to the United States "for good."

"I left my heart back there," explained the girl who won third place in the recent Miss Universe Beauty Pageant.

* * * *

HER CHANGE of attitude was further explained to London newsmen with the statement, "I have fallen in love with someone in Los Angeles."

The someone remains a mystery.

Asked to reveal the man's identity, Miss Hamilton, a 5-7, 136-pound model, replied:

"I had better not say anything at the moment."

Immedately after the Miss Universe finals in the Municipal Auditorium, Miss England told reporters that "I just want to go home."

Her hostess here, Mrs. Leona Mealey, says that Miss Hamilton "talked as if she never wanted to come back to the United States."

"She had a boy friend in England," Mrs. Mealey said Saturday. "He wrote her several times during the pageant. I don't know how serious it was, though."

* * * *

MRS. MEALEY said Miss Hamilton left for Los Angeles the day after the pageant ended.

"If she fell in love, it must have been during the last few days she was in Southern California," the pageant hostess remarked.

Mrs. Mealey said that when Miss Hamilton left Long Beach, she said she had a five-week modeling engagement to fulfill in Germany for the Mecca Modeling agency of England.

Neither Mrs. Mealey nor pageant producer Oscar Meinhardt had any idea Saturday who Miss England's heart throb might be.

Prop Mishap Delays Liberte

SOUTHAMPTON, England (AP) — The French luxury liner Liberte snarled a steel cable around one of her propellers Saturday night and was forced to postpone her departure for New York.

The 51,839-ton liner freed itself after several frantic hours, but then eased out into open water to anchor like a wounded giant. After daybreak divers will go down to inspect the ship for possible damage.

The mishap took place in the narrow waterway leading from the English Channel to the inland harbor at Southampton. It was almost the exact spot where the Liberte went aground in 1950.

Whoopers Are Thriving

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Fish and Wildlife Service said Saturday the world's only captive whooping crane chicks are "eating like pigs and growing like weeds" in their home in the New Orleans zoo.

The fledglings are doing so well, it said, that aviculturist George Scott, who has been caring for them since before they were hatched last May, has returned to his job at the Bronx Zoo in New York.

The chicks still have no names. They are known only as "No. 1" and "No. 2." They are almost as large as their parents, Crip and Josephone.

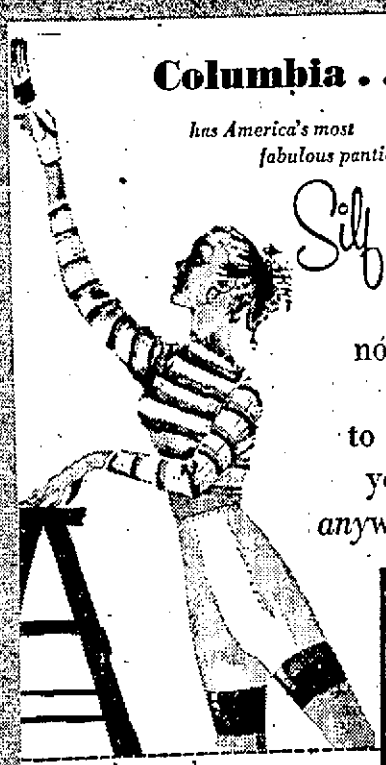

Santa Anan Killed in Auto Accident

VICTORVILLE—A Santa Ana resident, Bentley M. Tullos, of 15662 Harmon St., was killed here late Saturday in an automobile accident, the California Highway Patrol reported.

BIG CATCH
Mrs. Dolores Morgan battled this 190-pound marlin to a standstill from a 16-foot outboard boat Saturday off 14-mile banks. The fish fought for nearly 3½ hours. Now Mrs. Morgan, of 5440 Ocean Blvd., wants to give it to orphanage or other charitable institution, for food purposes.—(Staff).

Lock the Door--Freeway Coming!

FOR FORTY YEARS, Mrs. Jim D. Hubbert has lived on the land where her present home—10038 Beverly St., Bellflower—stands. Now, plans for the Artesia Freeway indicate she may have to move. Mrs. Hubbert is unworried, though. "At least," she says, "that old eucalyptus stump in the front will finally have to come up."—(Staff Photo)

THIS ULTRA-MODERN, $45,000 home is one of those which may have to make way for the Artesia Freeway if the proposed route is approved. Built by Gerald Adler, 43-year-old contractor, the home is at 9946 Beverly St., Bellflower. His lament, like many others, — "Why couldn't they build the freeway somewhere else?"—(Staff Photo)

New Homes, Church in Route Path

By PETE HANN

The day Nellie Hubbert bought the Model T, she piled Dad and the children into it and drove for miles through the sweet-smelling countryside.

She didn't even need a license.

That was in 1923, six years after she and Jim moved onto the one-acre lot in Bellflower.

Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Hubbert still live on part of that lot.

Today is it 10038 Beverly St., and the dirty white frame house is, in Mrs. Hubbert's words, "about the worst-looking home on the street."

And now, almost 34 years after that thrilling first trip, descendants of that ludicrous, tenacious old Ford threaten to turn the Hubberts out of their home.

No. 10038 Beverly St. is in the path of the proposed Artesia Freeway.

• • • •

"I COULD HARDLY BELIEVE the news when I heard it," said Mrs. Hubbert, now a nimble 78. "It seemed there were lots better places to put a freeway."

Hundreds of others along the 7.6-mile, 30-million-dollar route thought so, too.

Doctors and gardeners, housewives and midwives, middlemen and poets, all hastened to suggest other routes. They raged and ranted.

At a public hearing, the State Department of Highways engineers stood by their chosen ground. They explained it on the basis of cost and directness.

Some of the people involved, like Mrs. Hubbert, bowed to what they considered was the inevitable.

The engineers said it would be seven years before building began. They promised a fair price for the houses affected. And anyway, the freeways were badly needed, weren't they?

"I'm not going to lose any sleep over it," said Mrs. Hubbert flatly. Neither are lots of others.

• • • •

BUT GERALD ADLER, 43-year-old contractor, can't pass it off so lightly.

He and his wife and five children live in a $45,000 house at 9946 Beverly St. They moved in last March. Their home represents 16 years of hard work to them.

A serious, earnest man, Adler spoke quietly, almost dispassionately about the house he built "from the ground up in a year."

"Before this, the six of us lived in a three-room bungalow on this lot," he said.

"Yes, I know we need the freeway and they'll buy our house from us—but there are some things you can't duplicate. I will never be able to achieve this again."

The prospect of tearing down a newly erected building doesn't worry Richard L. Williams, lumber store owner.

"In fact, either way they do it will help me," said Williams. "If it runs slap through the center they buy me out. If it runs right past, I get a wonderful advertising site."

• • • •

FREEWAY PLANNERS drafted double trouble for Williams.

They may take his frame store at 17149 Lakewood Blvd., Bellflower, and the new two-story store next door at 17159 Lakewood, that is still only a skeleton.

Although he wishes someone "had stopped me spending $40,000 on a building, which will come out of the taxpayers' pockets," Williams is philosophical:

"I will try to buy near here if they take the store. And anyway I'll probably get to use the new place for about 15 years."

• • • •

SELLING "CONDEMNED" property on the route is a problem. Mrs. O. E. Hudson knows.

Her house at 9561 Beverly St., Bellflower, has been listed since May. It ought to be worth about $30,000. Now, no one is sure.

"We had several inquiries before the freeway was mentioned, but none since," said Mrs. Hudson.

"Why couldn't they have taken a poorer section than this?" she wanted to know. "Some of those streets south of here are not even paved."

Freeways? Pah! "I will go several miles to stay off one myself!" said Mrs. Hudson.

• • • •

MRS. CHARLES ZANTER lives in a recently-built house at 3319 E. 67th St., Long Beach. Like scores of others in new homes, she feels angry and bewildered.

"Why here" she asks, "where it splits the town, tears out new homes, and separates us from schools to the north?"

"We thought this would be a fine place to rear children—and now this." And a final exasperated note: "We just finished putting the fencing in."

• • • •

WHEN THE PLANNERS got to Long Beach Blvd. and Artesia St., they faced an unpleasant decision. Preserve the church—or save the school?

Starr King Community United Presbyterian Church will go. Its neat white exterior and velvet-green lawn will fall to a steam shovel's jaws.

Rev. L. Roy Lash, the pastor, appealed to the engineers. "It would be a tragic thing if this church went out of business," he said.

"It is the only traditional church in this area."

But Starr King Church, hundreds of homes and dozens of business are almost certainly doomed.

Roads are the arteries of the nation, and someone must bleed a little. This is the price of progress.

Mr. Ford's rickety old flivver has come a long way since 1923.

AN UNHAPPY CHOICE faced Artesia Freeway engineers at Long Beach Blvd. and Artesia St. Which should they save—a church or a school? Their decision means that Starr King Community United Presbyterian Church will probably be pulled down. The pastor, Rev. L. Roy Lash, has appealed on the grounds that his is the only "traditional" church in the area. It was built in 1955.—(Staff)

ARTESIA FREEWAY PLANNERS scheduled double trouble for Richard L. Williams. Owner of a lumber yard and paint store at 17149 Lakewood Blvd., Bellflower, he has just begun a new building adjoining it, when plans were released. They indicate both buildings will be taken. But under Williams' eye, construction goes on.—(Staff Photo)

JUDGE TELLS GIRL:

Fight Juvenile Crime---or Else

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—A 17-year-old girl who pleaded guilty to stealing a record player from a department store was sentenced by Municipal Judge Henry Esteva Saturday to work out a program to combat juvenile delinquency within 10 days or go to jail.

"You come up with a program to stop this juvenile delinquency in 10 days or you'll serve 30 days in jail," Esteva told brown-haired Ginger Buckley of St. Petersburg.

However, the judge gave no such alternative to Frank Atkins, 18, who pleaded guilty along with Miss Buckley to the same offense. Atkins got a mandatory 30 days.

Souvenirs Sent U.N. Norwegians

OSLO (AP)—A large consignment of souvenirs such as miniature Viking ships and dolls in Norwegian costume has been shipped to the Norwegians serving with U.N. forces in the Gaza Strip. The army's welfare corps explained that Norwegian troops often visit contingents from other countries and need gifts to bring to the party.

'Miss Back' Wins Without Showing Face

TOKYO (AP)—The judges never saw here face, but they voted 21-year-old Kumiko Homma the prettiest and rosiest of them all. She was named "Miss Back" in the annual Water Sprite Festival at suburban Asakusa.

Before donning their bathing suits, the 32 girls downed half a pint of sake to give their skins a rosy glow.

DOCTORS' RESEARCH PRESENTS NEW EVIDENCE ON THE CAUSE OF EMOTIONAL DISTURBANCE
(Article in Southland Magazine, Independent, Press-Telegram)
Call for Above Informative Article and Research Literature

Emotional and mental disturbance may be the result of nutritional deficiency rather than of psychological origin. This conclusion is based on the result of years of intensive research conducted in the laboratories of Kalash Vitamin Corporation, Pasadena. The Project has been under the personal supervision of W. C. Kalash, B.Sc., augmented by a Medical Doctor (M.D.) and scientists.

Effective in Controlled University Tests!

University research offers further evidence of the relationship between certain emotional upsets and nutritional replacement. For use in these studies, Kalash laboratories developed K-54, nutritional replacement, containing 54 substances in the broad spectrum of possible dietary deficiency.

K-54
FOR EMOTIONAL FATIGUE RESULTING FROM STRESS AND STRAIN

Today, K-54 is used extensively for the alleviation of frequent periods of depression, anxiety, and fear (where there is no organic or functional cause). Remember, K-54 is composed entirely of vitamins and minerals in a scientific formulation. It has no relationship with the so-called tranquilizers which act only in a palliative manner on the symptoms rather than attack the underlying cause.

You May Need K-54 for Better Emotional Health

Why go on being irritable, unhappy and depressed if yours is one of those cases that can be relieved by nutritional replacements. How wonderful it would be to improve your emotional health . . . to better enjoy life to its fullest with natural emotional serenity.
Don't let another day go by without trying K-54. It holds so much promise, you owe it to yourself to see what this nutritional replacement can do for you.

Water Lapping 1½-Ft. Below Top of Drydock Spurs Subsidence Work

Assembly Panel to Survey Sinkage in Six Weeks

The lapping of water 18 inches below the top of drydock No. 1, Long Beach Naval Shipyard, will underscore the urgency of subsidence remedial measures to a State Legislature interim study committee due here in six weeks.

Various other exhibits of the sea's encroachment on the shipyard will also demonstrate the timely nature of three protective developments—one under construction, one partially approved and one hoped for—at the yards.

The south end entrance of drydock No. 1, some 300 yards from the center of the subsidence bowl here, has 8½ feet of freeboard at low tide and 18 inches at maximum high tide. The dock was 14 feet above sea level when built in 1943.

• • • •

BULWARKING THE YARDS is a 28 million dollar undertaking. About 6 million dollars was spent between 1950-56. Now under construction is a $7,900,000 job known as increment No. 1. Its shape now is 250 feet of 16-foot high cyclopean concrete wall extending from Harbor Dept. property to Pier 1. It is about one-third complete.

It will be built to "elevation 10" or high enough so that at maximum predicted subsidence in 1970 there will be 3½ feet of freeboard at drydock No. 1 at high tide, ranging to 6 feet at Pier 4.

Congress has approved only 1½ million of the requested $5,600,000 for increment No. 2. Its approval, according to a Congressional committee which visited here last May, will hinge on joint city and state measures to halt subsidence.

If city and state leap that hurdle they may look hopefully to increment No. 3, an $8,100,000 parcel of work to render the shipyards safe from the half-foot per year sinkage. Drydock No. 1 is sinking at the rate of 9 inches per year.

A summarization of the current status of shipyard sinkage was provided Saturday by Capt. Charles H. Neel, public works officer for the shipyard, and his assistant, Capt. R. R. Gentry.

• • • •

CAPT. NEEL pointed out that the locomotive crane tracks of Pier 4 are under several inches of water at high tide. A huge gate keeps out the sea and the pier's operation is restricted to those hours when the tide is at maximum 5 feet and falling. He said this creates extra expense because of non-standard work hours demanded and, naturally, means operation at less than full efficiency.

Capt. Neel revealed that the yard's concrete pier is actually threatened by floating as a result of subsidence. The 1100-foot-long, 155-foot-wide, 28-foot-thick colossus would float with hydrostatic pressure of 22 pounds per square inch on its bottom. That pressure reached 20.46 pounds and concrete had to be added to the bottom and siphons along the perimeter to ward off the threat of floating.

The phenomenon occurred because of subsidence which lowered ground, thereby raising the underground water table.

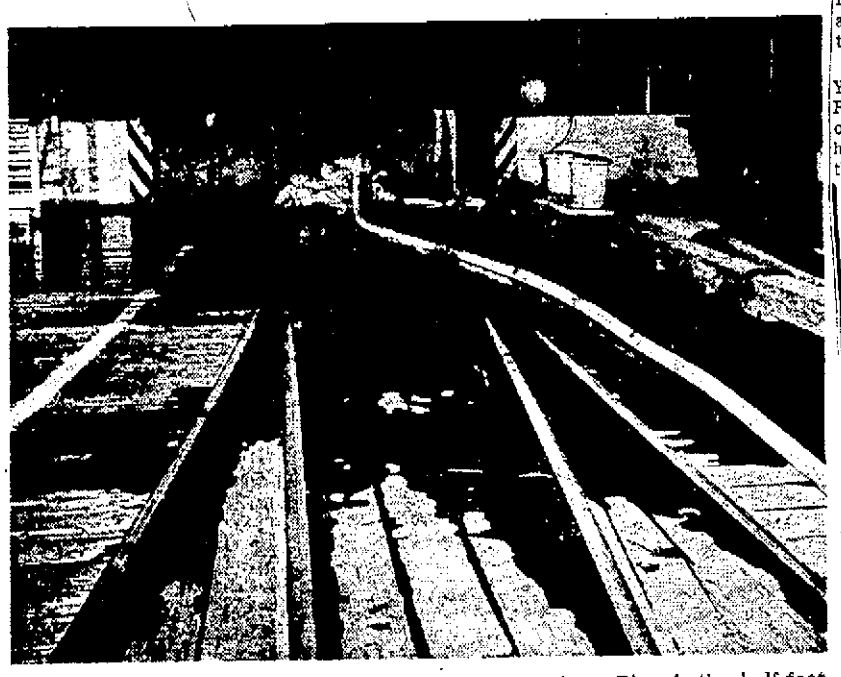

Sinkage of land, rising water table and horizontal movement are the three dilemmas posed by subsidence.

• • • •

CAPT. GENTRY SAID Pier 4 would have to be abandoned within two or three years, lacking remedial construction.

An interim committee to study subsidence was named by the Legislature last May on the basis of Bill No. 4163 introduced by Assemblymen William Grant and Herbert Klocksiem. The committee is scheduled to visit here Oct. 4.

Gov. Goodwin Knight recently signed a bill enabling the city to join forces with other oil producers here in repressurization efforts in the Wilmington oil fields.

FACING NORTH toward Long Beach Naval Shipyard from Pier 4, the half-foot per year sinkage of the pier is demonstrated by several inches of high tide water kept out of the yard by the steel gate and sandbags, during the current high tides. Naval officials say the pier will have to be abandoned in two or three years, lacking remedial construction now pending study.—(Official U.S. Navy Photo)

30,000 Youths Stage Religious Rally

ROME (AP) — About 30,000 youths from 84 countries marched with lighted torches through the ancient streets of Rome Saturday night, opening a rally to spread Christianity in the labor movement.

The world assembly of the Young Christian Workers, a Roman Catholic-sponsored youth organization, began with a holy hour of prayer and penance in the 18 churches.

Hanging of Young Bride Probed

HUNTINGTON PARK (AP) — Crime laboratory experts and fingerprint experts were examining fingerprints and fingernail scrapings Saturday in an effort to explain the death by hanging of a 20-year-old bride, Mrs. Marie J. Keebe.

Pending outcome of the investigation, her husband of six months, James, 34, is in jail on a booking of suspicion of murder.

An autopsy disclosed no bruises, said Detective H. S. Arnett. The woman's body, found by her husband, was clad in a blue nightgown, her right wrist was tied to her waist with a necktie and her left wrist was bound to her body with a belt. Another belt had been used as a noose, fastened to an overhead beam.

Keeble told officers he found the body Friday when he returned home from looking for work. The room was locked and he gained entrance through a window, he said.

Arnett said the death could be suicide or homicide.

WATER STILL RUNNING

Beauty Dead Near Tub

SANTA MONICA (UP)—Police Saturday investigated the mysterious death of the beautiful blond ex-wife of a millionaire hotelman who was found dead beside the bathtub in her swank apartment.

Clad in a dressing gown, the body of Mrs. Jo Wilson Osborne, 26, a former local beauty contest winner and divorced wife of hotelman Fred Osborne, 28, was found Friday by the owner of the apartment house.

The water in the bathtub was running, the bathroom door was locked and the apartment doors all were bolted from the inside, Detective Carter Kocher reported. The woman apparently had fallen while preparing to bathe.

• • • •

THE BODY WAS LYING face down with a cut and a small amount of blood on the lower lip and on the floor where the face was lying, Kocher said. There also was a bruise on Mrs. Osborne's right elbow where it had struck the floor, and she had bitten her tongue, he added.

A preliminary coroner's examination failed to reveal the cause of death and further, microscopic examination was to be conducted, the coroner's office said.

Police quoted Mrs. Osborne's sister, Marjorie Anne Wiard, as saying the 'dead woman had been "in a very depressed state of mind for about three weeks and was getting worse," although she had not been under a doctor's care. She had been under treatment about a year ago for a nervous condition, Kocher said.

• • • •

APARTMENT OWNER Robert Holbrook said he investigated Mrs. Osborne's apartment after receiving complaints from other tenants that there was no hot water.

He said he ascertained that the water was running in her apartment but received no answer to his knock and was unable to enter with a pass key because all the doors were bolted inside. He told Kocher he opened a bathroom window, saw the woman lying on the floor and called police.

A doctor called to the scene said she had been dead for about 18 hours, Kocher said.

Mrs. Osborne, who was divorced about a year ago from Osborne, was publicity director for a hotel here, police said.

Mary Martin Thrown From Horse, Injured

SAN FRANCISCO (UP)—Stage star Mary Martin suffered painful bruises Saturday when a posed publicity shot went awry and almost resulted in "a horse on her."

Miss Martin was riding with co-star John Raitt on the horse as he galloped along a treadmill in rehearsal for her opening here next week in "Annie Get Your Gun."

While photographers were shooting pictures, the horse, named Cloud, suddenly fell, throwing Miss Martin to the floor of the stage. Only quick action by the handlers, including trainer Ben Johnson, kept the horse from falling on Miss Martin.

A spokesman for the company said that the accident took place because Miss Martin, "a daredevil from Texas," insisted on riding the horse without guide wires to keep him in place on the treadmill.

Chores Too Varied, Firefighters Complain

DONCASTER, England (UP)—Local firemen complained this week that the fire brigade equipment and manpower is being used for just about everything but fire fighting.

Among the jobs: Transporting race cards, taking cash boxes to and from turnstiles, taking cash to the bank, transporting trestles and tables, hauling fodder for racehorses, patrolling the race course, and transporting "welfare food," school meals and workers' wages.

Should Religion Rule Adoptions?

Love Counts Most, Some Say in Poll

By JACK McDONALD

A few days ago a Baltimore couple watched helplessly as the 2-year-old boy they had reared since infancy was taken by the state and placed in a new home—because he had been born into a religion different from theirs.

It was the second such case to attain national headlines in recent months and in Long Beach it provoked plenty of opinions on adoption practices.

"It doesn't matter what the religion is in a home where the child is given happiness and the right sort of upbringing," said Mrs. Jerry Standard, 318 W. 9th St., a housewife.

"The only way it possibly could matter to the child is if someone else makes an issue of it later, confusing him."

* * * *

MRS. DONNA KOHN, 1444 Chestnut St., head cashier in a sportswear store, felt much the same way.

"A child has to be where it's loved," she said. "They (the Baltimore couple) raised him, and they obviously loved him. The boy should never have been taken from them."

Mrs. Kohn added she thought the Florida courts had ruled rightly in a recent case there, by refusing to allow a little girl to be taken from foster parents of one faith and returned to Massachusetts where the law is similar to that of Maryland.

W. C. Jorstad, 2711 Magnolia St., apartment house owner, disagreed.

"I think the foster parents should be of the same religion as the child they adopt," he said. "Some religions are very strict, and from youngest childhood they instill their own ways of life into a child. It's confusing to a child to suddenly find himself in a different background."

* * * *

MRS. ODA TVEIT, housewife of 4645 Marloma Dr., Rolling Hills noted that "the same God is the Creator of all children."

"The child should be in the home where he gets the best of care," she said. "And people that do as much for a child as the Baltimore couple did, should have the happiness a child brings."

Mrs. Tveit's daughter, Mrs. Elsie Lundgye, of Ventura, felt the same. "I don't think religion has anything to do with it," she said.

The housewives got more support from Miss Jewell Winchell, 537 Ocean Blvd.

"After all," she said, "a child doesn't know one religion from another. It's up to the parents or whoever brings them up to see that they are lead good lives."

* * * *

CHARLES ROBINSON, retired baker of 339 W. Anaheim St., thought the adoption agencies had a big responsibility in the matter.

"They should wherever possible follow the parents' wishes in placing a child. The child himself can't know what's best for him."

Robinson noted that the "religion phase" of adoption has kept several persons he knows from adopting children. "They are afraid they will harm the child in some way, bringing him up in a different religion than the one he was born in."

* * * *

THE CHANCES of children being placed in foster homes, then uprooted because of religious difference, are smaller in California than in some other states.

California has no law making it mandatory that foster parents take only children of their own religion. But the state does recognize the dangers of transplanting immature minds from one culture to another suddenly.

Bureau of Adoptions personnel carefully interview each mother who wants her child placed in a foster home.

* * * *

THE STATE makes sure she knows what religion the foster parents profess. In the event the foster parents' religion is different from the real parents', the bureau obtains the real parents' permission for the placement.

The system has worked very well, according to Jean Selden, supervising social case worker in the Adoption Bureau's Long Beach branch.

"We recognize that the natural parent has a right, when he or she makes plans for the future of the child through adoption," Miss Selden said. "We simply handle each case very carefully."

Lutherans End Meet on 'Partnership' Note

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—With a call for Lutherans to join in a solemn "partnership of work and witness," the Lutheran World Federation Saturday ended a 10-day assembly that scrutinized the broad sweep of church thought and action.

Adjournment came after assembly delegates voted to commend to the 50 million Lutherans they represent a 3,400-word statement of principles—expressing Lutheran thinking on a variety of church and global questions.

Shortly before retiring President Bishop Hanns Lilje of Germany declared the session ended, delegates bowed in recitation of the Lord's Prayer and joined in a Lutheran hymn.

In a final expression of fellowship, the federation today will present a massive rally and service in front of the state capitol in St. Paul before an expected audience of between 50,000 and 100,000.

Thousands of Lutheran young people, including overseas delegates clad in national costumes, paraded through the Minneapolis loop Saturday in observance of the federation's youth day.

The statement placed before the Assembly Saturday, Bishop Lilje said, is intended to stimulate Lutheran thinking by serving as "an instrument for exchange between Lutheran congregations throughout the world."

'NEVER' DID IT

'Last' Lottery Ticket Wins $22,000 Pot

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP)—For years S. A. Powell bought a five shilling (55-cent) ticket in the weekly lottery and wrote "now" on every ticket. Then the 45-year-old draftsman vowed to give up his weekly gamble and bought one last ticket—labeling it "never." He won first prize of 10,000 pounds ($22,400).

CONTENTED THIEF

None Like Someone Else's Home

TRENTON (AP)—There's no place like home, even if it isn't yours.

So, apparently, believes a thief police in nearby Ewing Township are looking for. Mrs. Francis Harman reported the thief entered her home on Nursery Rd. sometime during the night and made himself at home by:

Cooking himself a dinner.

Going upstairs to shower and shave with Mr. Harman's razor.

Leaving his old clothes and changing into Mr. Harman's tuxedo. Taking Mr. Harman's clarinet and a floral centerpiece and then leaving.

The Harmans were out at the time.

Divorce Planned by French Envoy

WASHINGTON (AP) — A French embassy spokesman said Saturday ambassador and Mrs. Herve Alphand are getting a divorce in France by mutual consent and that he could give no reason for the action.

Alphand is due to return to his post here next Friday. He and his wife left last month for a vacation in France. They had been in Washington since he was assigned here last September.

'Silk Stockings' Film 'Anti-Russ'—Pravda

MOSCOW (AP) — Komsomolskaya Pravda said Saturday Hollywood movie producers are trying to cause the British people to hate the Soviet people.

The organ of the Communist Youth League cited the Hollywood film "Silk Stockings," now playing in London. The film, said the Soviet paper, pictures the Russians as devoid of human feelings.

Perjury Rap Eyed on Hoffa

WASHINGTON (AP) — Justice Department officials will be asked to study, for possible perjury prosecution, Teamster leader James R. Hoffa's testimony that he failed to recall his many dealings with racketeers.

Chairman McClellan (D-Ark) of the Senate Rackets Committee, disclosing this Saturday at a news conference, conceded that it would be difficult to prove Hoffa lied when he pleaded memory failure.

But he said many of Hoffa's mental blanks were almost too much for any reasonable man to believe.

• • • •

"THEREFORE," he said, "I am going to send this (Hoffa) transcript to the Justice Department to pursue that phase of it."

In response to a reporter's question, McClellan declined to say flatly that he thought the man seemingly headed for presidency of the Teamsters Union lied during his four-day stay on the witness stand.

However, he did say: "There are some strong circumstances here that indicate he may not have been telling the truth when he said he couldn't recall."

The bouncy teamster's most frequent memory breakdowns during the hearings occurred during questioning about his secret relations with the New York labor terrorist, Johnny Dio.

• • • •

ONE QUESTION that caused Hoffa particular memory difficulty was whether Dio ever sent him some tiny microphones in 1953 to eavesdrop on testimony before secret grand jury proceedings in Detroit concerning Hoffa.

Hoffa said he did not believe this was ever done, but he could not say positively.

In other developments on the rackets investigation, McClellan announced that:

• • • •

THE COMMITTEE probably won't hold further hearings until about Oct. 1 but that it is possible there will be a "brief series of hearings before that date."

The committee is not gearing its schedule to affect the Teamsters' election Sept. 30, when Hoffa will be speking the presidency. "Whatever hearings we have will not be related to the (Teamsters) convention," McClellan said.

Looking beyond the Teamsters, the next big union international the Committee will investigate probably will be the United Auto Workers. That will be in connection with a long strike at the Kohler Co. plant in Kohler, Wis. Other international unions he said, are involved in that, too.

On 'Mission,' Smashes Up Liquor Store

DENVER (AP) — A 40-year-old veteran of World War II who said he had a "mission from God" knocked out the plate glass window of a liquor store here Saturday, and then proceeded to smash hundreds of bottles of spirits.

"It should have been done a long time ago," said Jesse Virgil Joyce, arrested while a river of liquor ran out the front door of the Argonaut Wine and Liquor Co.

Police booked Joyce for investigation of burglary and jailed him.

• • • •

AFTER GAINING entry to the store, Joyce hurled bottles of whiskey, wine, gin, vodka and other liquors at shelves laden with still more bottles.

The stench was so great that workmen cleaning up had to take frequent breaks. The fire department was called to stand by in case of an explosion.

Police said Joyce admitted having spent eight years in a veterans mental hospital at Las Animas, Colo.

Witnesses Sect Asks Trujillo to End Religion Ban

BALTIMORE (UP) — Thirty-three thousand of Jehovah's Witnesses, attending a district assembly at Memorial Stadium, Saturday unanimously adopted a lengthy resolution asking that the Dominican Republic lift its ban against the religious movement's activities there.

The resolution, addressed "to his excellency, Generalissimo Rafael Leonidas Trujillo," president of the Caribbean republic, also blamed the Roman Catholic Church for assisting in its action against the sect.

"If you persist in persecuting these followers of Jesus Christ," it said, "you will find that you will have to kill off all of them in your land to silence them and put them out of action."

• • • •

ONLY FEW YEARS AWAY

Secret of Life Near Disclosure

MOSCOW (AP) — Science was pictured Saturday as being on the verge of cracking the secret of how life began.

Two American scientists at an international symposium on the age-old mystery said the solution is only a matter of years away.

The scientists seek to duplicate in the laboratory what they say the forces of nature did at the beginning of time. They want to create a living thing in a test tube.

"Don't expect to see a little boy or little girl crawl out of a test tube," said one of them. The created life, he said, will be some microscopic matter which somehow has been given the impetus of the living.

S. L. Miller, a Columbia University biochemist who was one of nine Americans at the symposium, looked optimistically at the progress being made.

"I believe we will see life created in the laboratory within our lifetime," he said.

• • • •

ANOTHER AMERICAN, Melvin Calvin of the University of California in Berkeley, had this to say:

"Many things can interrupt. Discovery could be thousands of years away. But I do not believe that. I would say life under laboratory conditions is a few dozen years ahead—three dozen years."

A. I. Oparin, the Soviet Union's foremost academician and chief arranger of the symposium, said "we make progress week by week."

The symposium opened last Monday when scientists from 17 nations gathered in Moscow's trade union meeting hall. It closed Saturday.

"The meeting has been fruitful in several details," said Linus Pauling, the Nobel prize-winning chemist from the California Institute of Technology at Pasadena.

"Nothing startlingly new was brought out here in Moscow," he said. "All major findings discussed were known but technical progress was made.

"It's amazing how closely scientists in their work all over the world parallel each other."

But one California scientist who asked not to be identified differed in one respect. He said:

"Soviet scientists would like all of us to believe that only their political doctrine, mental approach and lack of religious beliefs are capable of creating a climate wherein the origin of life can be discovered.

"Most of us do not agree and we find great pleasure and consolation in the reading lists and references given at the end of all Soviet scientific papers. Invariably the sources are nearly half American in addition to numerous British sources."

• • • •

CALVIN SAID that the Soviet scientists, who appeared to average 15 years older than the Americans, are heavily emphasizing studies of life.

"They seem to have been ordered to a crash program on the subject," he said.

"They tell me they can get very quick translations of foreign texts and papers while sometimes we have to wait up to six months to get English translations from Russian."

Oparin's latest book on the origin of life was translated and published in London a year after it was published in Russian. It is the most recent of 12 highly detailed reviews on discoveries and theories.

Before the conference opened, Oparin said the scientists had not expected to come up with any answers to the secret of life. But he said the symposium would add to man's knowledge.

Oparin emphasized that scientists must co-operate to find the solution to life's secret. The answer, he said, "cannot be supplied by one man, one country or one type of scientist."

The visiting scientists headed for Leningrad after the conference closed to see Soviet scientific institutions. The Americans are expected to reach home by Wednesday.

British Plan New Series of H-Bomb Tests

LONDON (AP) — Britain Saturday night was reported planning a new series of hydrogen bomb tests in the Central Pacific early next year with Prime Minister Macmillan looking on.

The Sunday Pictorial carried the story by its diplomatic correspondent. It gave no attribution. Government officials were not available for comment.

"The new tests will be aimed at the development of a hydrogen warhead for the new 5,000-mile ballistic missile which Britain is developing," the newspaper said.

Six Rescued in Costly Yacht Fire

ATLANTIC CITY (AP) — Six persons were rescued after they leaped from a blazing yacht into the Atlantic Ocean about three miles off shore here Saturday.

Two dogs were also saved after the 65-foot Tara III of New York City caught fire.

Rescued by other craft and in good shape were the owner of the Tara, Roy Chalk, an attorney of New York City; and his wife; Chalk's sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Murray Greenberg of New York City; Capt. J. N. Phipps, of Lake Worth, Fla., skipper of the Tara; and the Tara's cook, John J. Royal of Washington, D. C.

When efforts to put the fire out proved futile Chalk shouted for aid just before he and the others jumped into the ocean.

The Tara was still burning two hours after the rescue. Thousands watched the fire from the boardwalk here. Chalk said he valued the yacht at $200,000. It was expected to be a total loss.

Tunisia Hangs Five

TUNIS (AP) — Five convicted murderers were hanged Saturday in Bardo Prison.

Two of those executed, Chedly and Abdelkader Belgaroui, were implicated in the 1953 slaying of Hadi Chaker, a member of the neo-Destour party headed by President Habib Bourguiba.

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — Indonesian Premier Djuanda and Yugoslav Vice President Svetozar Vukmanovic said in a joint communique Saturday that Indonesia and Yugoslavia will continue economic co-operation.

Vukmanovic is on a state visit to Jakarta.

Plans Move to North for Negroes

ATLANTA (AP)—A plan that could result in resettlement of Negro families from Georgia into the better residential areas of the North and West will be offered to the Legislature in January.

Rep. A. A. Fowler Jr. of Douglas County said he will offer a bill to create a state real estate commission that would be empowered to send agents north to quietly buy up property.

This property would be leased "at very attractive terms" or sold to "carefully screened, worthy and qualified" citizens or former citizens of Georgia.

Fowler, an eight-year member of the Georgia Legislature and a political independent, said he does not consider his plan as "hate legislation." Rather, he said, it might show the residents of good white neighborhoods in the North that the very thing the South opposes—racial integration — "could happen to them."

Belts Banned After Youth Fatally Beaten

MINEOLA, N. Y. (UP)—Nassau County police banned the wearing of flashy metal-studded belts today after a teen-aged boy was beaten to death with one.

The belts, a favorite attire of teen-aged delinquents in this Long Island county, are garrison-type straps bearing names and designs in sharp metal studs.

Richard Tunstall, 15, died after a beating with one of the belts, police said. Joseph Trentacosta, 14, was charged with beating Tunstall so severely that two operations for a fractured skull could not save him.

Broadway Store Denies Unfair Labor Charges

LOS ANGELES (CNS)—The Broadway Department Store Saturday denied charges of unfair labor practices filed by Retail Clerks Union Local 777.

The complaint was presented to the National Labor Relations Board Friday and alleged the store "intimidated and coerced" employes and "interfered" with their right to organize.

A Broadway spokesman said:

"While we have not seen a copy of the union charges, we have been informed orally of the document's contents. The Broadway has not committed any unfair labor practices of any kind.

"The filing of these so-called charges is nothing more than a request to the National Labor Relations Board to make an investigation. We are confident that the NLRB will find no basis for the issuance of a complaint, and will dismiss the charge."

MAINLY ON THE PLAIN

Blame der Texans for Sport Car Fad

Next time you pull up in traffic behind a sports car you may notice a small sign on it reading. "Made in der Black Forest by der Elves."

If you think that's silly, don't blame der Black Forest and don't blame der Elves.

Blame der Texans.

It was Texas pride that started a fad which has plastered Southern California cars with similar signs. The fad is on the way to becoming a full-scale craze.

• • • •

IT STARTED a few years back, after workers at a Dallas Ford plant began turning out their product equipped with windshield stickers reading "Made in Texas by Texans."

Soon Volkswagens here were sporting the elves' label, and stickers on Renaults testified they were "Made in France by Frogs."

Then came "Made in Russia by Spies," "Made in Spain Mainly in the Plain," "Made in Italy by Tenors," and "Made in Brazil by Nuts."

• • • •

NICK PASTOR, South Gate imported car dealer, boosted the fad along. He and his employes wrote a few labels of their own. "Made on the Moon by Lunatics," "Made on Mulholland Drive Last Night."

Pastor began turning the stickers out by the bushel. He estimates he has given away more than 3,000, so far.

• • • •

THERE ARE TWO dozen different labels available now. They include: "Made Quickly by Rabbits," "Made in London by Gentlemen's Gentlemen," "Made in West Germany by Cowboys," and "Made in Madrid by Bullfighters."

In addition to the "made" labels, there are: "Contains No Artificial Preservatives," "Don't Squash Me! I Eat Harmful Insects," "Mercedes Benz But Doesn't Break," and "Hillman Minx Stole from Rabbits."

There is even a sticker for the guy who objects to all this foolishness — "Help Stamp Out Sports Cars."

Morning Ban on Liquor Urged

COLOMBO, Ceylon (AP) — A special government commission has decided that prohibition would work in Ceylon only in the morning. It reported that a total ban on alcohol could not be carried out in the present "psychological and economic climate" of Ceylon. But the commission recommended banning sales of liquor in the morning.

$1.6 BILLION JACKPOT

Calif. Tax Total Tops U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The poor taxpayer, who gets whopped whichever way he turns, was slugged for a record 14½ billion dollars in state taxes during the fiscal year that ended June 30.

This was in addition to the 39 billion dollars he paid Uncle Sam in direct income taxes, plus a still undetermined amount in local levies.

California led the 48 states in tax collections with $1,637,000,000. New York was next with $1,440,000,000. The next ranking states, considerably down the line, were Pennsylvania with 905 million dollars and Michigan wth 771 million.

State taxes are a gold mine of revenue that produces a bigger yield each year. A census bureau report shows the 1957 fiscal year figure was 8 per cent higher than a year ago, about 50 per cent higher than five years ago and about 370 per cent higher than 15 years.

Across the nation the 14½ billion dollar total works out to $86.75 per person. Per capita rates in the various states, however, range from $145.13 in Nevada to 51.96 in New Jersey.

* * * *

THE CENSUS BUREAU warned against drawing too many conclusions from the difference in per capita rates because the states differ greatly in the scope and intensity of their public services.

All but four states — Delaware, Kansas, Nebraska and South Dakota—showed a greater tax harvest in fiscal 1957 than in the previous year.

The biggest increase in dollars was in Pennsylvania, up 203 million or 29 per cent. Much of this was due to a three per cent sales tax which became effective in March, 1956 and succeeded a one per cent sales tax which had expired the previous August.

Virginia showed the biggest percentage gain—39½ per cent, from 227 million in 1956 to 316 million in fiscal 1957.

* * * *

SALES TAXES and taxes on gross receipts totaled almost 3½ billion dollars during the year—about 25 per cent of the total although found in only 33 of the 48 states.

Gasoline taxes produced $2,821,000,000, alcohol taxes 568 million dollars and tobacco taxes 553 million.

Individual income taxes grossed the various states $1,563,000,000 and corporation taxes brought in another 984 million. License plates and drivers licenses accounted for $1,336,000,000.

State property taxes totaled 480 million dollars, and would have been much greater if this source hadn't been almost entirely relinquished to local governments.

9-Year-Old Girl to Be a Mother

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (UPI)—A girl of doll-playing age is scheduled to become a mother in October.

Hospital authorities have revealed only that she is a Negro and that she is nine years old. Another Negro girl gave birth by caesarian section to a 6-pound, 4-ounce girl on her 11th birthday last Saturday.

Dr. Eva Dodge attended the birth last Saturday as well as the birth of the mother 11 years ago.

Proposed Naming Protested

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Republicans Saturday were reported protesting vigorously to President Eisenhower against the prospective appointment of Robert McKinney, New Mexico publisher, as U. S. representative to the new international atomic energy agency.

EISENHOWER apparently has decided to appoint McKinney, a supporter of Adlai E. Stevenson's 1956 bid for the presidency, as a gesture toward bipartisanship in the international field.

Democrats have been complaining that while they are asked to support the Administration's foreign policies they have had no representation in top level jobs since the death of Sen. Walter F. George of Georgia.

THE WORD that Eisenhower was considering McKinney stirred up something of a hornet's nest among Republicans in the Senate, which will have to confirm any appointment to the post. These members think the ought to go to a deserving Republican.

The decision to name McKinney apparently was made at the White House without consulting either Senate Republican Leader Knowland of California or his deputy, Sen. Dirksen of Illinois.

'Ghost' of McCarthy May Cost GOP Votes

MADISON, Wis. (UP) — The late Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy has become the hottest issue in Wisconsin's special senatorial election next Tuesday and his "ghost" may cost the Republicans votes.

Republican Walter Kohler, three-times governor of the state, is still the favorite to whip Democrat William Proxmire, just as he did in two gubernatorial races.

But the entrance of two "McCarthyite" candidates after last month's primary election threatened to cut "Eisenhower Republican" Kohler's vote total.

As a result, Democrats appeared to have one of their best chances in years to elect the first Wisconsin democratic senator since 1932.

Despite the "back door" appearance of the McCarthy issue, a light vote was forecast for Tuesday. Experts said the total might even fall below the primary turnout, when only 460,552 out of 2,300,000 eligible voters cast ballots and seven Republicans out-polled two Democrats, 317,332 to 143,220.

* * * *

UNTIL THE ENTRANCE of "McCarthyite" candidates Howard Boyle and Douglas Wheaton, McCarthy appeared to be the forgotten man in the struggle for his empty Senate seat.

Neither Kohler nor Proxmire had made an issue of McCarthy's communist-hunting methods and views.

The Republican and Democratic candidates were old political foes. Kohler, 53, beat Proxmire, 41, by a whopping 408,000 margin in the 1952 gubernatorial election, but by only 35,411 in 1954.

WORLD NEWS BRIEFS

Ike Flies Plane for Few Minutes

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP) — President Eisenhower, once a licensed pilot, took over the controls of his two-engined plane in the air Saturday and flew it briefly. He apparently is the first American President to pilot an aircraft.

Col. William G. Draper—the man who sat alongside while Eisenhower flew the plane as co-pilot—reported later that the President "does a real job of flying." Draper, Eisenhower's Air Force aide and regular pilot, told newsmen the 66-year-old President had the controls for only a few of the 23 minutes it took to fly from Washington to Gettysburg airport. Draper handled the plane the rest of the way.

Eisenhower had a pilot's license for a time during the years between the two world wars. He let it lapse, however, and so far as is known had not actually flown a plane for several years until Saturday.

Bodies of 3 Sisters Found

DIXON, Ill. (AP) — Muddy volunteers Saturday dug the bodies of three small sisters from the rain-drenched dirt in an abandoned quarry. The Gurnsey girls—Nancy, 10; Ruthie, 9; and Theresa, 8—apparently had been trapped by an earth slide while at play.

Coroner Robert Preston said a pathologist determined that Nancy died of suffocation and her sisters of injuries—Ruthie of a skull fracture and Theresa of a fractured neck. Workers theorized the sisters were buried alive after they had descended into the quarry to play or that they were caught in an earth slide when they started to climb the steep slope of the pit.

Hunt Bombs Dropped by Plane

MERIDIAN, Miss. (AP)—A crippled Air Force transport plane dropped 17 cases of explosives near Meridian Saturday so it could make an emergency landing at Key Field here. Twelve rockets and three barrels of naplam were recovered. Air and ground parties searched for the rest.

The Air Force warned that although the bombs were not fused, they should be considered as dangerous. Air Force officials believed the bombs probably went deeply into the ground and would be hard to find.

Detroit Presses Roar

DETROIT (AP) — Newspaper presses roared in Detroit's three major dailies Saturday for the first time in a week.

James R. Hoffa, Midwest teamsters boss who flew in Friday night after testifying before the Senate Rackets Committee in Washington, helped effect settlement of a papers-closing labor dispute that erupted between mailers and publishers last Saturday. Settlement capped an all-night negotiating session. The Evening News and Times published Saturday editions and the morning Free Press joined them in issuing Sunday papers.

Falls 30 Feet, Bumps Head

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — An eight-month-old boy only had a bump on the head Saturday to show for his 30-foot fall from a second floor porch to the ground.

The mother, Mrs. Nellie Baggett, said she was washing clothes in her apartment when the youngster, William David, crawled to the porch from the living room. He was released from a hospital after an examination showed his only injury was the bump on the head.

Marine Makes Fatal Error

HONOLULU (AP) — Marine 1st Lieut. Aaron E. Haynes, 22, of Dallas, Texas, was shot and killed early Saturday when he entered a wrong apartment in a naval housing area and apparently was mistaken for a prowler.

A Marine Corps spokesman said Haynes was shot three times by a pistol fired by Marine Capt. Robert V. Morton. The spokesman said the two men were not acquainted. Haynes is survived by his wife and an infant child here.

IKE'S LOSSES HEAVY

Congress Leaving Hot Issues for '58

WASHINGTON (UP) — The first session of the Democratic-controlled 85th Congress may adjourn next week, leaving in its wake hot issues for the 1958 congressional election.

The session's record is summed up in what President Eisenhower got and didn't get, with emphasis on the latter.

The President stressed at his Wednesday news conference that he was "greatly disappointed." But he didn't blame the Democrats specifically, a fact taken note of by Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas and Speaker Sam Rayburn who blame White House indecision and members of the President's own party.

* * * *

THE RECORD shows that Republicans and Democrats joined more frequently than not to hand Eisenhower defeats, along with the few victories he won.

Johnson, in a Senate speech this week, defended Congress' record and accused Eisenhower of playing 1958 politics prematurely. Rayburn, another Texan, chimed in that the President might have fared better if he had been more decisive.

"I can't go along with a man who says one thing today and another tomorrow," Rayburn commented.

It is no secret at the Capitol that far-seeing politicians reserve some issues for an election year. They also like to see some buried so deeply they will never see the light of day. The key to this is how the current session acted on Eisenhower's legislative requests.

* * * *

HERE IS A rundown on what happened to a few of his major proposals:

Inflation — Eisenhower was dead set against legislative wage and price controls to help on a so-called tight money inflation. He depended instead policy which made money hard to borrow at low interest rates. A Senate committee aired the administration's policy but reserved action for the future. Inflation is expected to be the dominant election issue unless it tapers off.

School And Construction aid—Killed by House coalition which didn't like the $1,300,000,000 price-tag or the way the money would be allocated to the states. Eisenhower is certain to renew his request when the second session convenes in January.

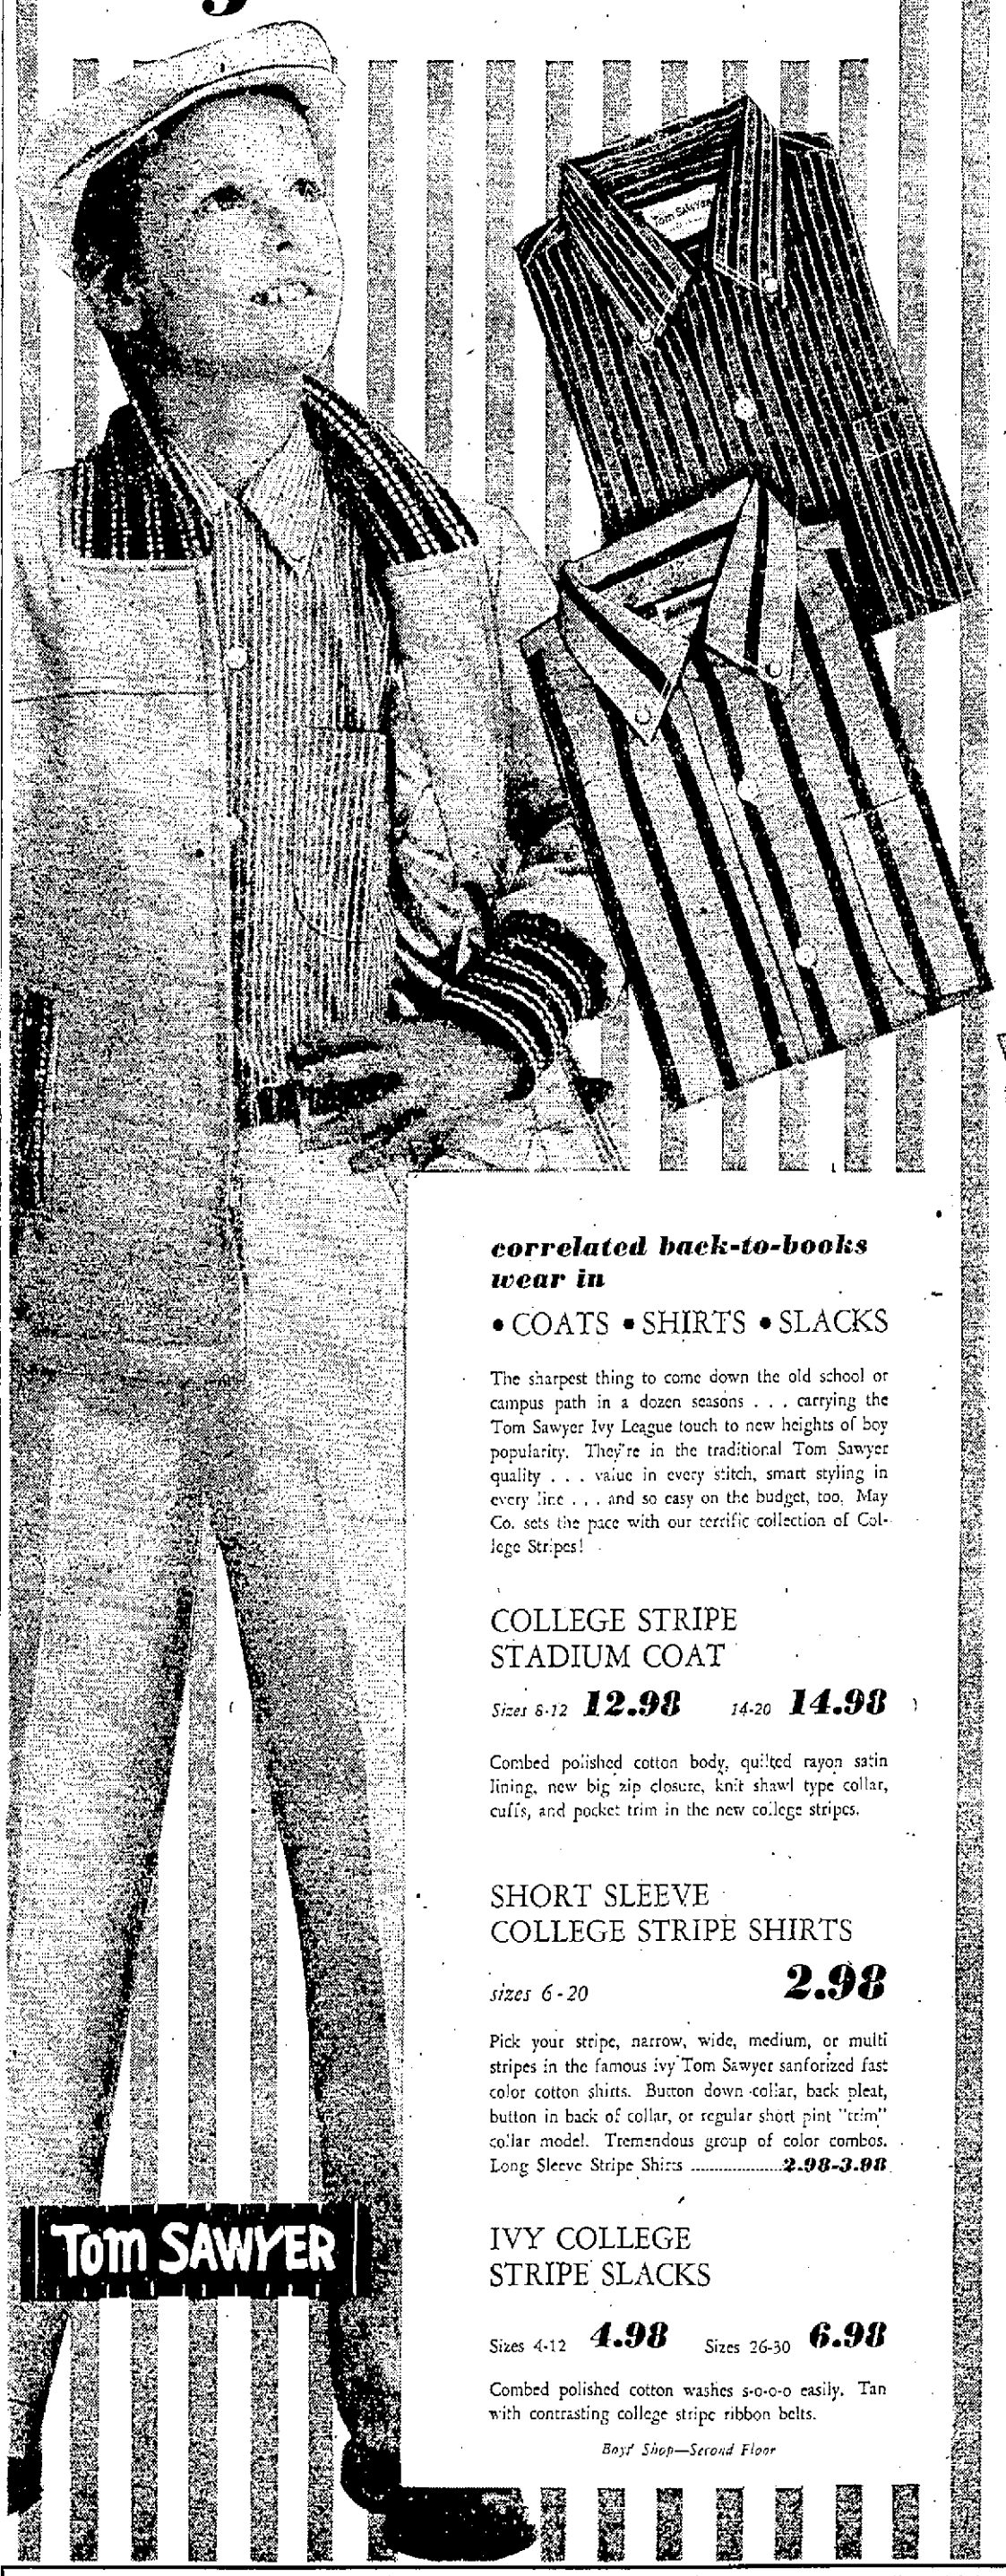

Minimum Wage—Both House and Senate delayed until next year his request that the $1-an-hour national minimum wage floor be extended to millions more workers. Some Democrats want to increase the wage. Eisenhower is against it.

Civil Rights — Senate and House are expected to pass next week a civil rights bill far narrower than Eisenhower's far-reaching program. It will be a compromise "jury trial" bill reluctantly acceptable to Southern Democrats and confined to voting rights.

Bob Hope Finds Dick Poor Host for Golf

By WALTER T. RIDDER, R. E. LEE AND W. BROOM
(Independent, Press-Telegram Capital Bureau)

WASHINGTON—Vice President Dick Nixon was a poor host when he entertained comedian Bob Hope for an afternoon of golf at the Burning Tree Club.

Not only did the Veep shoot one of his all-time best scores, an 82, but he also collected $4 in golf bets from Hope, who had an 84.

Nixon was a gracious winner, however. "You're a much better golfer than I am," he told the comedian as he pocketed the dough with a grin.

THE VICE PRESIDENT and his wife, Pat, showed off their new $75,000 home in Washington's exclusive Wesley Heights section last week at a reception for the California delegation.

Valuable objects of art, gifts to the Nixons during their goodwill trips to Southeast Asia, Africa and South America were blended among the furnishings.

A big attention-getter was a series of ebony and ivory elephants, the GOP party symbol, arranged on a shelf in descending order of size.

"I don't see any donkeys," said one of the guests.

"No one ever offered me any," shot back Nixon, Republican to the core.

NO ONE IS MORE anxious for Congress to close up shop than Congress itself. The lawmakers are tired of talking and want to take a rest.

So many Congressmen have fled the town, in fact, that a roll call in the House produced only 340 out of the 435 congressmen supposed to be there. This prompted Rep. Craig Hosmer (R-Long Beach) to remark:

"Congress is adjourning—one by one."

• • • •

SEN. BILL KNOWLAND'S office has announced the make-up of a committee in charge of arrangements for his month-long speaking tour of California.

Its members are Worth Brown, Santa Cruz County Republican leader, Robert Barkell of Oakland, John Dinkelspiel, chairman of the San Mateo County central committee, Philip Davis, Los Angeles lawyer, Dr. Frank Lowe, chairman of the San Diego County central committee, and William Moore, Redlands publisher.

• • • •

CALIFORNIA POTPURRI: Friends of both Vice President Nixon and Senator Bill Knowland stoutly declare that there have been no talks between them about the senator's decision to run for the governorship. This, they claim, would make it impossible for the two men to have made a "deal," as Democrats are claiming.

The Demos say Knowland will support Nixon for the presidency in 1960, if the vice president backs him against Gov. Goodie Knight.

• • • •

REP. CLAIRE ENGLE denies he has hitched his candidacy for U. S. Senator to Atty. Gen. Pat Brown's bid for the governorship. Engle says he might run for senator even if Brown refuses to try for the state house. The difference in the two positions, Engle is telling friends, is that if Brown runs for the No. 1 spot, Engle certainly will enter the Senate run. If Brown doesn't, Engle reserves the right to run for re-election in the Second Congressional District.

Democrats in the congressional delegation are becoming increasingly irked at Brown for refusing to commit himself. Several congressmen privately are accusing him of being a stalking horse for the Republicans.

MARCH OF SCIENCE

Virus Cousins Down Increasing Numbers

By FRANK CAREY
(Associated Press Science Reporter)

WASHINGTON (AP)—A worrisome pair of virus cousins is striking more and more Americans down.

They cause a liver disease—viral hepatitis. The late Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy was counted a victim.

One of the cousin viruses strikes at the liver through contaminated food or water. The other hits through transfusions of whole blood or plasma from someone who even unwittingly harbors the dangerous cousin in his bloodstream.

Each infects the liver, bringing fever, nausea, weakness and later jaundice.

As yet there is no quick, sure treatment. But medical research is stepping up efforts to crack this tough problem.

Health officials report the disease is causing more and more sickness. Estimates range from 20,000 to 50,000 cases annually, with up to 1,000 deaths.

One factor is that it may take weeks or months, to recover normal health. Victims must get plenty of rest, follow a careful diet, and foreswear alcohol to avoid further liver damage.

* * * *

ONE TYPE OF VIRUS causes epidemic or infectious hepatitis. It is spread through food or water contaminated with virus eliminated by other humans. Crowding and poor sanitation help it spread insidiously.

Its cousin is known as homologous serum jaundice, or transfusion jaundice. It doesn't cause as many cases of sickness.

But this virus can be carried without harm at all in the blood of apparently normal people. When they donate blood, the virus can flare up in a person receiving the transfusion.

Or this virus from one donor can infect many pints of pooled blood plasma.

Cases of serum jaundice have also been linked with faulty sterilization of hypodermic needles or other instruments.

* * * *

THE RED CROSS refuses to accept as blood donors, anyone who is known to have a history of jaundice, or to have been exposed recently to hepatitis.

And, says Dr. Margaret Sloan of the National Research Council, "It is probable that various improvements over the last few years in methods of processing plasma greatly reduce the hazard from pooled plasma."

Shots of gamma globulin can prevent infectious hepatitis if given early enough. But gamma globulin is apparently not able to prevent the transfusion type of the liver ailment.

* * * *

MOST PEOPLE recover from hepatitis after six to eight weeks' illness, but 5 to 15 per cent suffer new attacks or relapses. Physicians say this is generally because they swing back into normal activities too soon.

Hepatitis in the acute or first-flare stage kills 1 to 2 per cent of victims, says Dr. Norman B. McCullough of the U.S. Public Health Service. Another 2 to 5 per cent eventually develop cirrhosis of the liver and die in five to 15 years.

Some physicians have reported promising results from using a combination of hormones and antoibiotics.

As yet there has been little luck in producing the hepatitis virus in the laboratory or in animals to learn its nature and a good defense.

It may have to wait upon some new idea or approach, a "brainstorm out of the blue," to solve the problem, Dr. McCullough says.

Red Skelton Prays Hour for Dying Son

FATIMA, Portugal (AP) — Comedian Red Skelton spent an hour Saturday praying at the Roman Catholic shrine to Our Lady of Fatima for the life of his 9-year-old son, Richard, who is suffering from leukemia.

Skelton said on arrival from Lisbon: "God alone can save my boy's life, as science has done all it can."

After praying at the Chapel of the Apparitions, he was given a demijohn of Fatima water for his son to drink.

Skelton, who recently toured Europe with Richard and the rest of his family, is now on a business trip with Bo Roose, his business manager.

Legal Quibbles May Harm City's Case

APPARENTLY FEARFUL of testimony that might imply the city's legal liability for subsidence damage, the City Council has voted to place City Atty. Jacobson in full charge of the preparation and presentation of the city's case to the legislative interim committee on subsidence coming here in early October.

When it took this action, the Council called upon the Subsidence Advisory Committee to submit to Jacobson a report on the information it has gathered and any recommendation it might have for the legislative presentation.

The latter action has raised a question as to the status of the advisory committee—a question that should be cleared up at once by the Council. Some have interpreted it as meaning the committee has been discharged.

This committee, composed of representatives of the city, the Shipyard Employes Association and the subsidence committee of the Chamber of Commerce, has worked for months to develop the factual data on subsidence and a draft of proposed legislation to deal with it. It should continue to serve through the legislative hearings, and full use should be made of this group in the preparation and presentation of the city's case to the interim committee.

It may not have been the intent of the Council to deactivate the subsidence advisory committee. But inasmuch as the question has been raised, a vote of confidence in the committee is definitely in order, and this can best be given by appropriate action at Tuesday's meeting to assure its continuance. It would be folly to fail to capitalize to the fullest extent on this committee's work and knowledge.

WHILE CONCERN over the liability question is proper, it should not be allowed to divert the city's effort from the main objective—the arresting of subsidence. It is conceivable that the city's presentation, by attempting to skirt any matters that migh be applied to the question of liability, could become so timid and devious as to prove ineffectual. We must not let ourselves be led into a head in the oil-sands policy that could defeat the primary purpose.

City Atty. Jacobson has warned that the city testimony should avoid any assumptions or suggestions that subsidence has been caused by the extraction of gas, oil and water from the Wilmington field. It is apparently on that basis that the Council decided to place full responsibility for preparation and presentation in his hands.

This appears to put primary emphasis on the legal questions. But it is clear that this is not purely a legal matter. The problem is three-fold in character—political, engineering and legal.

It could best be dealt with as was originally indicated when the advisory committee was appointed, with the City Manager coordinating the preparation and presentation with the advisory committee. Full use should be made of the corps of technical experts hired to develop a feasible engineering plan. And of course the City Attorney should be the consultant and advisor on all legal problems, including that of liability.

THE COUNCIL'S ACTION of last week, however well intended, failed to assure an effective presentation on a matter of vast importance. It left the advisory committee's status in doubt and it indicated a one-sided view of the problem.

The people who suffer through subsidence are not going to be satisfied if the Council takes refuge in legal quibbles. It cannot escape responsibility for producing a positive program for compiling all the pertinent facts on subsidence and presenting them to the Legislature in such a way as to insure appropriate action.

If it fails in that key responsibility, a separate presentation by a citizens group may have to be undertaken. The Council still has time to assure a solid-front approach. Disjointed presentations have done the city no good in past legislative experiences.

Congress Should Leave in July, Return to Work in the Autumn

WASHINGTON. — More and more sentiment has developed at this session of Congress for the idea of taking a regular recess in the summer and returning in the fall.

One reason is that younger members of Congress with families must have continuity of schooling for their children. They can't have their children away from Washington in the summer when Congress is in session, then have their children going to school in Washington in the fall when Congress is not in session. A Congressman must be with his family, and his children must be in the same school through the school year. As a result, many young Congressmen are talking about quitting—including some of the best young members of the House.

• • • •

ANOTHER factor is that while Congress has been sweating it out in Washington, most of the cabinet has been away.

Sen. Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota recently put the bee on the cabinet for vacationing while Congress labored in Washington.

"I have a rundown on the itineraries of the cabinet members. They are not here. They are enjoying life," said the senator, who comes from a very beautiful vacation state.

"We have before us a mutual security bill, and the cabinet officer (Dulles) in charge of that responsibility is not here. We have farm legislation," continued Humphrey, "and the cabinet member (Benson) in charge of that responsibility is up in the woods communing with nature.

"We have civil rights legislation and the cabinet officer who made such a great demand for it (Brownell) is away seeing Queen Elizabeth. We have legislation to do with power, and the cabinet officer (Seaton) who has this responsibility is in the Pacific.

"This is the most absentee government in history," said the Senator from Minnesota. "In comparison, Eisenhower almost tends to business.

"I predict," said Humphrey, "that after we get out of town, the cabinet will come trooping back when it's nice and cool here and will proceed to put across a lot of things that they wouldn't dare do if Congress was here watching them. When the weather gets good, they'll come back to town with mean ideas. And there won't be anyone to watch them except Drew Pearson."

NOTE—Humphrey's speech had the effect of bringing several cabinet members back to town.

• • • •

IT'S A FAR cry from making munitions and Ivory soap-it-floats to the schools of the nation, but Neil H. McElroy, the new Secretary of Defense, probably knows more about education than national defense.

It happens that McElroy has spent a good many years in an unselfish crusade for education, first as a member of the National Citizens' Commission for the Public Schools, a privately financed group headed by Roy Larsen of Time Magazine, which was trying to stimulate local interest in schools. Later Eisenhower appointed McElroy to be Chairman of the White House Conference on Education which held a big national conference in Washington in December, 1955.

SEN. HUMPHREY
Hits Cabinet Vacations

For the entire year-and-a-half that this White House conference was being planned, McElroy traveled between Cincinnati and Washington, devoting about a third of his time to education, also contributed his own money to the conference.

There were about 40 members on the preparatory committee, representing varied viewpoints and political attitudes. McElroy proved a good leader, came out with final recommendations for federal aid. This led to the drawing up of the Eisenhower school construction bill which has just died such a stealthy death.

DAVID LAWRENCE

Ike's Naturalness, Candor Refreshing

WASHINGTON—There is something refreshing about President Eisenhower's naturalness and candor. He was asked, for instance, at his press conference this week if the record of Congress this year, which he regards as disappointing, might lead to his taking the stump for a Republican Congress next year in a sort of "modified give-'em-hell campaign." His answer was this:

"Well, I think I will just have to pursue what is natural for me. I believe that anyone who does something that is unnatural and artificial for himself is not effective. Now, what I plead for are the programs that I believe to be good for America. And now it happens that I believe the Republicans have a better program than the Democrats and, to that extent, of course, I am going to be partisan, but primarily I am for the program."

LAWRENCE

The reference to a "give-'em-hell campaign" was, of course based on the kind of stump speaking which Harry Truman boasted about in 1948.

There isn't any need to imitate Mr. Truman, for there are dignified ways to deal with a hostile Congress. Mr. Eisenhower, to a remarkable degree, retains the esteem of the American people. He has no selfish interest in government or politics. He is not eligible for a third term. His reward can come only in the satisfaction that he has served the American people faithfully. The President's efforts to conciliate rather than to antagonize Congress have been in conformity with his whole approach to problems of human conflict. For this reason, he has a real oportunity to cary to the American people his case for the enactment of a constructive legislative program.

Mr. Eisenhower needs only to go back to first principles and explain to the country why the American system of government cannot be effective if it is divided in a time of crisis. It is especially dangerous when a lack of responsibility is manifested.

After all, Mr. Eisenhower might well argue that, in the elections of 1956, the nation did place the responsibility for the legislative program in Congress on the Democratic party.

This is an inescapable fact and so simple that every voter who understands the principles of the Constitution can grasp it at once. For the President cannot by himself make the laws nor can he use any force except the force of public opinion to persuade Congress to pass the laws he recommends and is willing to sign.

• • • •

THERE IS a tremendous force in the impromptu remarks Mr. Eisenhower did make at his press conference, especially when he expressed his disappointment at the lack of action by Congress on "a long list of recommendations" that he made last January. He said:

"Of course I am disappointed, because these things that I talk about are not pet projects of my own. I have no particular personal reason—other than that of a concern for all of the United States of America — for wanting them passed, but that reason is governing and controlling with me.

• • • •

"AS A MATTER of fact, it is the only reason I think anyone has a right to occupy the job I do if he does feel that way. And, therefore, for the sake of the United States, I am tremendously disappointed that so many of these bills have not been acted on, and in some cases they not even have held hearings. Now, the details of them, there is no use going into now. They are long things. They apply to everything from the country's finances, the welfare of our people, mutual aid—and right down the line."

Other Presidents, particularly Woodrow Wilson, have expressed in more formal language and style than this, but none more eloquently, the concept of presidential leadership which is fundamental in the American governmental system.

Hosmer Would Quiet GOP Fears, but Lists Some Big 'Ifs'

IT'S A MATTER, says Rep. Craig Hosmer, of getting "mentally prepared."

That's the word from the Long Beach Congressman to Republicans who are steamed up with worry over the prospects of a hot primary fight between Gov. Knight and Sen. Knowland next year, with the GOP gubernatorial nomination as the prize.

EPLEY

Hosmer, in a "special memo" to GOP leaders hereabouts, says that IF they will look on the primary election in its true light—and IF the contenders conduct themselves properly — there need be no harm to the party from a Knight-Knowland duel.

There are some fair-sized "ifs" in Hosmer's proposition.

ANOTHER IF is implied in his definition of a primary: "An election in which only members of a party take part for the purpose of selecting the candidates they all will get behind at the following general election contest with the other party's candidates."

From the party standpoint, it would be fine IF all "would get behind" the party's nominees after a primary contest. But there's no assurance that will happen in any primary, and if it did, on the Democratic side, Republicans wouldn't get elected in California. If Democrats "all got behind" Democratic candidates, it would be a sad day for the GOP in a state where its well behind in voter registration. But of course, "all" the Democrats never do.

What Rep. Hosmer really means is that Republicans ought all to get behind the nominated Republican candidates after the primary. As a Republican and a good Congressman who always gets a barrel of Democratic votes, he can't possibly want the Democrats to apply the same standards.

Rep. Hosmer, we can be sure, is sending his memo only to Republicans.

THE LOCAL Congressman no doubt expressed the wish of most Republicans when he suggests the need for the contenders carrying on their campaigns in such a way as not to hurt the party's chances in the succeeding general election.

It won't be easy, however, if the Knight-Knowland fight develops. Gov. Knight, in announcing for re-election, took a shot at Sen. Knowland, and probably is thinking up some more things to say about the Senator's purported ambitions to be Governor and President. Knowland has been more restrained, but Knowland isn't openly a candidate as yet.

It would be unusual, indeed, for there to be a hot political contest without the embattled contenders saying some unfavorable things about each other. And that furnishes ammunition for the opposition later on, in case the exchanges of criticism occur between two primary candidates of the same party.

For example Adlai Stevenson and Estes Kefauver were frequently uncomplimentary in their remarks about each other, when both were seeking the 1956 Democratic Presidential nomination. That fall, the Republicans were able to use a lot of those things effectively, with Stevenson and Kefauver paired on the Democratic ticket.

Knight and Knowland may not get bitter enough about each other to drive Republicans into voting for the Democratic candidate in November, but they may weaken the appeal of the GOP primary winner for getting those needed Democratic votes in November.

BUT THAT'S a chance that has to be taken sometimes. As Hosmer says in his memo, the primary is legally established procedure and should be regarded as the "natural way" of doing things.

Even in speeches in which he has deplored the danger of a fight between himself and Knowland, Gov. Knight has declared his firm belief in the principles of the open primary. If Knowland runs, he'll simply be exercising his right under those principles.

Answers Letter Belittling Hoover

TO THE EDITOR:

With regard to the letter by Don Anderson questioning the charity and humanitarianism of former President Herbert Hoover, I would like to tell a brief story.

I hired a man to work on a farm in Artesia in 1951 who had one ear almost eaten away with cancer. He told me that he had had a successful trucking operation in Oklahoma several years before and lost it paying for doctor bills trying to cure the cancer which was affecting not only his ear but also his eyes.

He came to California and got a job on a ranch in Kern County and after being there a year or two the cancer was causing enough trouble that he thought he would lose his sight.

• • • •

ONE DAY the owner of the ranch came out into the field and asked this farm worker if he would like to get his ear taken care of. His reply was yes, so he was told to go to the ranch superintendent, who would give him a letter and instructions to go to San Francisco by train where he would be met and taken to Palo Alto by auto.

The letter was to be presented to a doctor who was the personal physician of the ranch owner. On arrival in Palo Alto he went to a hospital and after examination the cancer was treated, and after several weeks he was home cured with all bills paid by the ranch owner — the Honorable ex-President of the United States, Herbert Hoover.

Demos Sought Hoover Help

TO THE EDITOR:

I wish to ask Don Anderson, who took issue with your Hoover editorial, just who did the most damage to our country—our great humanitarian that was blocked in his efforts to fight the depression, or the successor who was responsible for our being sold out at the Yalta conference.

I notice that Mr. Hoover was always asked by Democratic President to do difficult jobs for charity on an international scale. These were matters with which he was not personally concerned, since he had sufficient funds for his own comfort.

I think Mr. Anderson has made a foot-in-mouth remark.

Puts Inflation Blame on Profits

TO THE EDITOR:

A Mr. Campbell flatly states in a letter to the forum that "the cause of inflation is the unions demanding and getting higher wages."

I claim that excessive corporation profits are to blame for inflation. Here are some facts to back up my claim.

This year U. S. Steel had a net profit of $115 million compared to $104 million for the first quarter of last year. The amazing part is that this $11 million profit increase came about at a time when it was producing and selling less steel than in the first quarter of 1956.

• • • •

GENERAL ELECTRIC reported that its first quarter net profit was up 16 per cent over last year. GE's net income for the first quarter was $64 million compared with $54 million the same period last year.

General Motors had a net profit of $261 million for the first quarter. It paid out dividends of $412 million and, get this, set aside $28 million for managerial bonuses. It also put $119 million into surplus.

Ford profits were up 36 per cent after its net sales passed the $1½ billion mark.

Sure hope there is no earthquake or flood soon. Surely the unions would get blamed for them.

Opposes 'Grove' Dump Proposal

TO THE EDITOR:

A large crowd of irate citizens of Garden Grove were at the city hall this week opposing a dump being opened in the center of a residential and commercial area.

Although there were more people present against than for, the City Council passed the issue. Does this represent public opinion?

All those who spoke in favor seemed to be directly concerned and making a financial gain from operating the dump. Are these people making money more important than our children? There are three schools very close to this site.

• • • •

THE TRAFFIC would be more hazardous than before. And what small boy can stay away from such an "exciting" place as a dump? The hole is dangerous enough, but holes have been filled before without making dumps of them.

We are paying taxes to improve our city. This doesn't seem like much of an improvement.

Why can't we have a public vote? The people don't want to live in "Garbage" Grove.

MRS. DONALD WAGNER

Any Such Thing As 'Clean' Dump

TO THE EDITOR:

According to Garden Grove's City Council, we are destined to become a city with the distinction of having a dump in our front yard. Are we to have the fragrance of orange blossoms or the stench of, and the sight of, a "clean" dump?

Is there such a thing as a clean dump? Can we accept the promises that there will be nothing in this dump to attract insect and especially rodent pests? If there are these pests (which will be impossible to keep out) at the dump, will they stay inside the fence? Will our children stay out?

• • • •

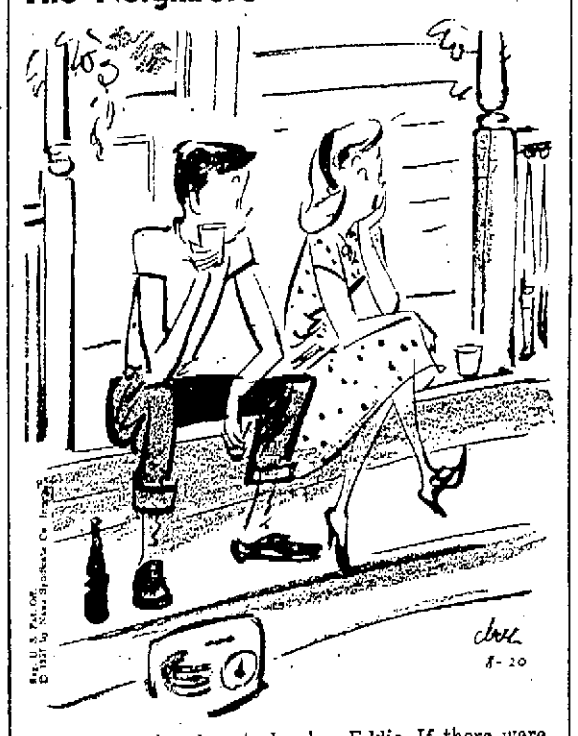

IN SPITE of strong opposition to this move, evidenced by the large number of homeowners and tax-payers present at last night's meeting, the City Council voted for making this site into a public dump. Notwithstanding the fact that there are four public schools in close proximity to this dump, there are commercial establishments dealing in selling food who will suffer when this dump begins operations.

Since our City Council shows such little regard for the wishes and health of our people let us VOTE in men who will have only one master to serve, the people of Garden Grove.

Student's Voice-Controlled Bed Aids Polio Victim

SHE SPEAKS, AND BED MOVES

Post-polio patient Mrs. Barbara Japhat, paralyzed from the neck down, has found new independence with a specially developed control unit which enables her to move her bed up or down by speaking into a microphone. Inventors of the device are Whittier College physics student Bill Morton (center and his physics professor, Dr. David Bender (right)

WHITTIER—The science of physics has solved a big problem for Mrs. Barbara Japhat, 9209 S. Mills St.

She can raise or lower her bed simply by speaking to it.

This is mighty important to Mrs. Japhat, a post-polio patient. The disease left her paralyzed from the neck down.

The bed which moves at the direction of the voice was invented especially for her by a Whittier College physics student, Bill Morton, and his physics professor, Dr. David Bender.

Morton, a member of the junior class, became interested in the project about six months ago while working in a radio-television repair shop. Somemone mentioned the problem of finding a bed that could be maneuvered by the paralyzed woman.

The physics student dabbled with the project for four months. Whenever he became stumped on a question or circuitry or switching, he would query his professor, Dr. Bender.

Finally they came up with a compact control unit hooked up to a pair of microphones. The sound of a voice would maneuver the bed.

When Mrs. Jahpat wants to move the bed up, she makes a steady sound into the mikes. When the sound stops, the bed stops. Then, the next time she makes a sound, the bed moves in the opposite direction.

The discovery has given her a new independence. But she's not content to stop there.

Her next project is to establish a babysitting agency through the aid of special telephones now being developed for her.

2 More Russ Warships in North Sea

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, (U.P.)—Two more Soviet warships steamed out of the Baltic into the North Sea Saturday on a mystery mission believed aimed at impressing the West with Russia's naval might.

The two Red vessels—the second group of Russian warships to enter Western waters in four days—were the latest model cruiser "Admiral Ushakov" and an unidentified destroyer.

The two Soviet ships sailed through the narrow Skaggerak Strait between Denmark and Norway and passed the Skaw lighthouse into the North Sea shortly after dawn.

The "Admiral Ushakov" is a sister ship of the Soviet cruiser "Mikhail Kutuzov," which only Wednesday sailed out of the Baltic with the destroyer "Bezukoriznennyi," en route to the Mediterranean.

Moscow Radio disclosed earlier this week that the first two Soviet warships were going to Communist Albania on a "courtesy visit." But the destination of the Admiral Ushakov and its attendant destroyer was a mystery.

Some reports said the vessels were following the first two ships into the Mediterranean where they would join other warships which recently arrived from the Black Sea to pose a powerful threat to the U.S. 6th Fleet.

Other reports said the Admiral Ushakov was en route to join the Soviet arctic fleet at Murmansk.

Danish naval observers said the sudden movements of the two big Soviet "Sverdlovsk" destroyers—one of the most powerful warship classes in the world—may have been meant by the Russians as a warning to the West of Red naval power.

The NATO powers will soon begin Baltic naval maneuvers. While it was not thought the Russians would attempt to interfere in these exercises, the psychological effect of the movement of the Russian warships in the area, was seen as a potent reason for their appearance.

The official Soviet navy newspaper "Red Fleet" charged Friday night that western submarines and planes had harassed the Mikhail Kutuzov and the destroyer Bzukoriznennyi constantly during their passage from the Baltic earlier this week.

The report, from a special correspondent with the ships, said British and West German planes flew low over the two Soviet warships while they were passing through the English Channel.

It also charged that Danish submarines tailed the Red ships so closely they were in constant danger of collision.

Planes Full, Tourists Stranded

LONDON (AP) — Several dozen American tourists returning from European vacations were stranded at London Airport Saturday night as three airlines reported fully booked flights to New York.

It was the second day of travel chaos at the airport, and some Americans were getting anxious.

British Overseas Airways Corp., Trans World Airlines and Pan American Airways, all reported tourist flights booked to the hilt.

"This is usually a busy season, but there has been an unusual rush of passengers coming to the airport at short notice for flights to New York," an airport official said.

Device 'Curbs' Car Speed

HAGERSTOWN, Ind. (AP) — An automatic speed control device for motor vehicles has been invented by the blind ex-president of Perfect Circle Corp, here.

Designed by Ralph R. Teetor, 67, who retired last May, the speedostat will enable a driver to select any cruising speed and maintain it without effort.

Teetor, blind since he was 5, got the idea while riding on a turnpike in fast traffic. He worked on it for 13 years in his home workship. Perfect Circle is producing the device and said three car manufacturers plan to include the speedostat as optional equipment on 1958 models.

By using a dial on the dashboard or steering column, the driver chooses the speed he wants.

When the auto reaches the desired speed, a warning backpressure develops on the accelerator. If the driver wants to momentarily exceed his preset limit, he pressed a little harder on the gas pedal and over-rides the back pressure. Relax the extra pressure, and the car returns to the pre-set speed.

When a motorist wants to cruise steadily over long periods he simply attains his pre-set speed and pushes a button recessed in the speed selector. The speedostat takes over, and the driver can remove his foot from the gas pedal while his car moves along at an even rate, automatically compensating for hills.

A touch of the brake pedal releases the device.

Perfect Circle officials say the speedostat's "live" backpressure on the gas pedal should remind a motorist he is trying to go faster than he intended and thus serve as a safety guard.

SECTION B

YOU never can tell when a little item here is going to raise a big fuss.

And so it did when I reported Nancy Varnier's observation of a sign on the old Brayton Theater which she said read: "Boys Clubs of America Promoting Juvenile Delinquency."

I wrote it as she told it to me, and took the next day off. I missed a barrage of telephone calls that kept poor Anne Barrows, my patient secretary, glued to the instrument all day.

"For heaven's sake," she pleaded, next morning, tell the world that sign out at the Brayton says 'juvenile decency', not delinquency."

I took a run out there, and the word is decency.

FROM Miss Varnier herself comes a note, confessing she and her mother misread the sign on the theater marquee.

"I guess it doesn't pay to look for laughs," she added. "We read them when they aren't there."

Well, she's not the only person who has misread that sign. Evidently, people are so accustomed to seeing the word "delinquency" coupled with juvenile" that they read them that way, regardless.

Mrs. Hibbard Fellows writes that she and her husband both misread the Brayton sign several times. She adds:

"We saw what it really did say about 1 a. m. one morning when we were on our way to the hospital to welcome our third baby."

With their minds, no doubt, on some very decent little juveniles.

ON THE sixth floor at Bullums' there is a display of bird cages and similar equipment.

And the other day a handsome parakeet flew in the window, looked about for a few moments, selected the most elaborate and expensive cage of them all, and flew right in.

The bird, no doubt, was a female.

SEN. Soaper, whose quips appear on the P-T editorial page, suggested the other day that the post office dept. might develop a dry three-cent stamp which can survive a hot day in a shirt pocket.

The item was seen by Ray Hemmerlin, who reported the method is already here without expense to the p. o.

When you purchase stamps in hot weather, he advises, just stroke them across your hair and the reaction of the oil in your hair places a film on the glue which resists body moisture.

A good idea—if you're not baldheaded.

PASSING through our bailiwick last week was Raymond R. Best, who is state supervisor for the federal interior dept.'s Bureau of Land Management, and who told us a story with a familiar ring.

Bro. Best recalled that back in the early days of the century his father owned seven and a half acres of land on Signal Hill. It turned out to be something of a white elephant, and after a few years, when he moved to Seattle, the elder Best exchanged his Signal Hill property for a piece of real estate at Port Angeles, Wash.

The younger Best, who received it as a part of the estate, later sold the Port Angeles property for $4500.

He gets up a sweat when he thinks of what he might sell that seven and a half acres on Signal Hill for if his dad had held onto it.

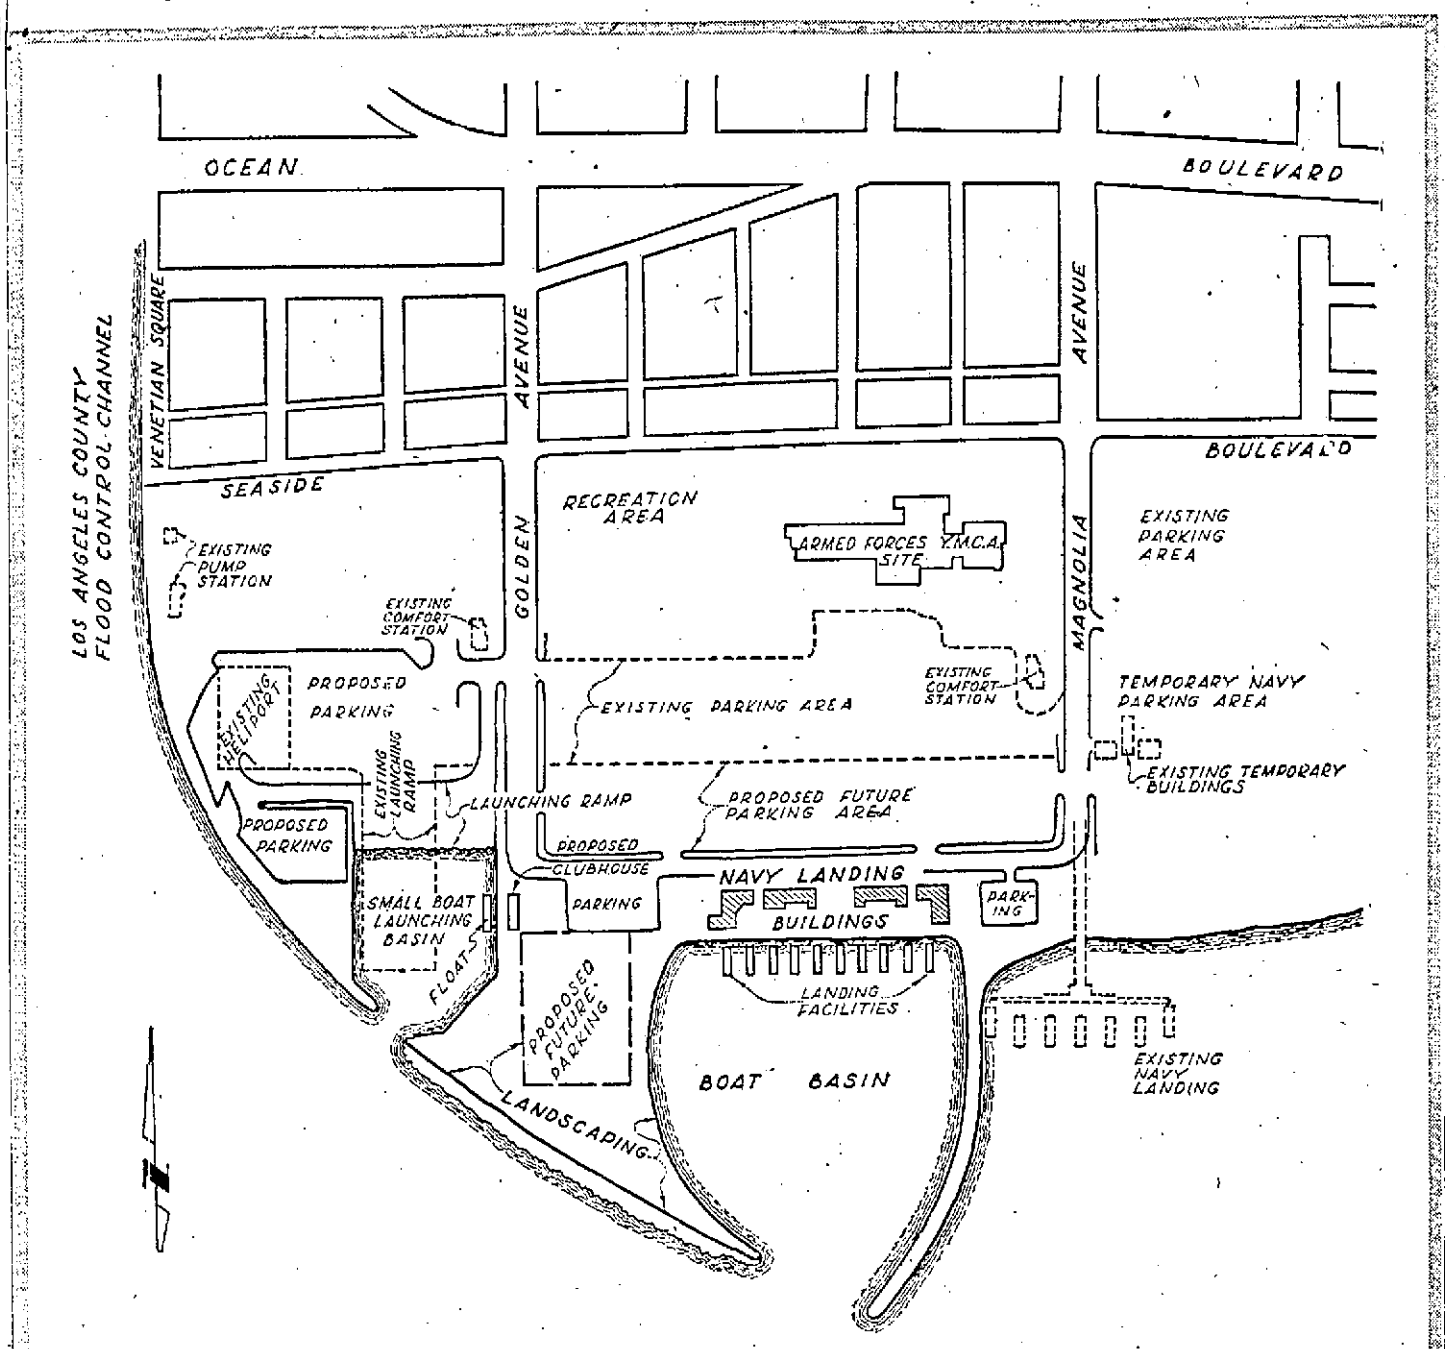

LAST Sunday I had a little discussion here about "jumps" of newspaper stories from one page to another, and how they irritate readers.

Now comes a note from J. Jones, who reads a paper as everybody should.

"I start at the top of the left hand side of the front page and read everything on that page, then I turn to Page 2 and do the same, and so until I have read the complete paper."

That's the ticket!

MAP PRESENTS Features of Proposed Development of West Beach

Work to Clear Way for Navy's Landing

By LEE CRAIG

The long-awaited $5,500,000 development of the city's west beach area—including the new Navy Landing—will begin Wednesday when Pacific Dredging Co. will set up shop off Magnolia Pier in the first phase of the two-year program.

The dredging firm, in a three-month operation, will dump 900,000 cubic yards of fill into the Navy Landing basin, reducing the water dept from a present maximum of 80 feet up to about 15 feet.

Dredging will be conducted right in the middle of the city's most popular water skiing and small boat area. A life guard boat will patrol the region to keep small craft at a safe distance.

SKIERS AND BOATSMEN will probably accept the situation with good grace, however, when they learn of a revision in original plans of the development.

Now, plans call for construction of a new, larger small boat launching ramp, more than double the size of the present facility.

Brainchild of Deputy City Engineer E. E. McCune, the ramp will be 300 feet wide and much more narrow, to obviate problems of boat owners in backing their trailers to the water. Equally important, the ramp will be protected by a "quiet water basin," which will slow silt deposits at the foot of the ramp and eliminate troublesome waves in the launching area.

PARKING SPACE for the boatsmen will be enlarged to about four times its present capacity.

The present ramp will be in operation for about another six months. After that, until completion of the project, facilities will be provided elsewhere by the city.

Second stage of the development, to follow completion of the fill, will include construction of bulkheads and seawalls and bringing the land behind them up to grade. New landing floats will also go in at this time.

In the final phase, land improvements will be made. These include construction of officers' and enlisted men's waiting rooms, restaurant and cafeteria, a shore patrol building, parking lots, landscaping and the new launching ramp.

The Navy's present floats at Magnolia Pier will be used until the entire project is completed in 1959.

CAUSING TRAFFIC PROBLEM

Homemade 'Cars' Spell Trouble

A box, a board, old tricycle wheels and a motor from a lawn mower — they make a dandy homemade car.

But if the driver of such a car is under 16 years old, chances are the vehicle is being operated illegally.

That's on the authority of Juvenile Bureau Superintendent Joseph M. Kennick, who says the "nondescript" vehicles are causing a summer traffic problem.

* * * *

KENNICK SAYS if young drivers of these jerry-built cars persist in running down pedestrians, their parents face criminal complaints not to mention civil liability.

He says complaints will be filed in the city prosecutor's office against these parents for allowing a minor child to operate the cars without a driver's license.

* * * *

"THE FACT that these vehicles were built at home out of odds and ends does not change the fact that these cars are self-powered and their drivers must conform to the state code."

Kennick says that the homemade cars can be operated legally only on private property.

* * * *

HE SUGGESTS that interested youngsters persuade their parents to lease vacant land where a track can be developed and the cars operated without danger to others.

The popularity of the cars increases during the summertime, Kennick says. One sure sign: Thefts of motors from lawnmowers are on the increase, according to the Police Department.

Tourist's Pants, Wallet Stolen

A Missouri tourist enjoying a day at the beach reported the theft of his pants and billfold while he was swimming Saturday.

Edward H. McVey, 28, presently staying in Los Angeles, told police that he had gone swimming, and had left his clothes unguarded. When he returned, only his shirt and shoes remained.

The billfold contained $23 and identification papers.

REGIONAL POLITICS

Sen. Knowland May Announce Intentions at L.B. Gathering

By THE LOOKOUT

A Republican gathering in Long Beach in mid-September, billed prosaically as the quarterly meeting of the Board of Directors of the California Republican Assembly, is building up in prospect into one of the year's significant political events, bound to attract national attention.

For the main speaker will be U. S. Sen. W. F. Knowland, who will make the major address of his California tour at a Saturday night dinner here and may pick this as the occasion to reveal if he intends to run for Governor of California.

Because of the hot interest in Knowland's appearance, the California Assembly conference is expected to attract unusual attendance, with an exceptionally large representation by the press. Out-of-state writers are expected to augment California's regular corps of political journalists, who of course will be here in full force.

The national interest is heightened by the possibility that Knowland will be a top contender for the GOP presidential nomination in 1960.

* * * *

KNOWLAND WILL speak at a dinner in the Grand Ballroom of the Lafayette Hotel on Sept. 14. The press announcement says he will give a review of the present session of Congress and a discussion of Republican politics in the state and nation. There have been strong hints from Washington that he will declare his future plans some time during his visit here.

Rep. Craig Hosmer of Long Beach is the other major speaker on the conference program. He will address a noon luncheon Saturday. The conference will get underway Friday with registration, there will be unit breakfasts on Saturday, and the board of directors of the Assembly will meet Sunday.

SENATOR KNOWLAND
Governor's Race?

* * * *

THE CALIFORNIA Republican Assembly is a volunteer organization of Republicans, with units in most areas. Jane Storm and Warren Doherty of Long Beach are on the arrangements committee. Tickets for the Knowland dinner and other events may be obtained from Mrs. W. H. Gillis (HEmlock 5-9926); Doherty (HEmlock 8-6500) or, after 5 p.m., from Mrs. Helen Mozingo (GArfield 5-2416). Reservations for hotel rooms should be made directly with the Lafayette.

FINCH ON SWITCH — Atty. Robert Finch, chairman of the Los Angeles County Republican Central committee, told a San Diego audience yesterday that he is strongly against a proposed movement of Democrats to infiltrate the Republican Party in an attempt to influence the outcome of the 1958 GOP primary.

Finch referred to a recent statement from an AFL union leader that some union members, now registered as Democrats, might re-register as Republicans before the 1958 primary. Many union Democrats are favorable to GOP Gov. Goodwin Knight, who faces a possible battle with U. S. Sen. Knowland for the governorship nomination.

* * * *

REPUBLICANS, Finch said at San Diego, are interested in "full-time, not part-time" union members in the GOP. He claimed the proposed re-registering would be a step to "undermine the traidition of the state and nation in the selection of candidates for public office."

He said he thought both Knight and Knowland ought to discourage the proposed move.

Not all politicos share Finch's views, however. One of the advantages of lively primary contests is that they attract voters to a party. The Republicans, long behind in California voter registration, might garner some permanent registrants among union members if the 1958 switch develops.

FEELING OF ISOLATION STRONGEST EMOTION

Earth Still Looks Huge Even 19 Miles Up

NEW YORK (UP) — The Air Force doctor who hovered at record levels for 32 hours in a space capsule dangling from a balloon said Saturday the earth looked much larger from 100,000 feet than he had expected.

Maj. David G. Simons, 34, told a news conference that the man in the moon appeared to him just about as clearly etched as when seen from the ground, but the view of the earth was spectacular.

"My strongest emotion during the flight was one of complete isolation in a completely hostile environment," the Air Force doctor said.

"It was a truly inspiring sight. The view left me the impression, not of a small earth as you would expect, but rather of an immense one. I saw the horizon, a perfectly s m o o t h, clean curve, some 400 miles away."

SIMONS, head of the space biology branch of the aero-medical laboratory at Holloman Air Force Base, Alamagordo, N. M., came here from Baltimore, Md., where he received the distinguished flying cross for establishing a new balloon altitude record of 102,000 feet.

He came to New York to appear on several television shows. He was accompanied by Col. John Stapp, chief aero-medical officer at Holloman, and Mr. and Mrs. Otto Winzen, heads of the Winzen Research Company, who made the big balloon that carried Simons aloft.

"I never was in doubt that the experiment would succeed," Simons said.

He said thta the experimental flight was just a "nibble" at space flight, but proved that it is psychologically and physically possible for man to exist on the outer edges of the earth's atmosphere.

The ascension was made to study not only the atmospheric conditions 19 miles in the air but also to determine whether pilots would be able to survive flights to that level.

Simons went up from Minnesota and came down in South Dakota. He began his experiment Monday and landed Tuesday.

Diamond-Finder Claimed by Russ

MOSCOW (UP) — Here is the latest Russian invention — "a locating and harvesting machine" for the new Siberian diamond fields.

Moscow radio said the new device has been tested successfully and performs almost automatically, locating and extracting the gems from the earth. Two hundred diamond snatchers are under construction, the broadcast said.

Queen's Kin Dies

LONDAN (UP) — The Hon. Malcolm Bowes-Lyon, great uncle of Queen Elizabeth, died here Friday. He was 83. Bowes-Lyon was the 7th son of the 13th earl of Strathmore. He was a retired lieutenant-colonel.

Ford Rejects Reuther Price-Cut Proposal

DETROIT (UP) — Ford Motor Co. Saturday made unanimous the big three car makers' rejection of Walter Reuther's proposal they cut prices on 1958 models in a union-management move to combat inflation.

Replying to the United Auto Workers' chief, Henry Ford II said the company's pricing policies were not a subject for collective bargaining.

The Ford Motor Co. president agreed with Reuther that inflation is a serious problem but Ford said, "We will not solve the problem with propaganda broadsides."

Ford's refusal to go along with Reuther's plan was based on similar reasons previously offered by General Motors and Chrysler. Neither Ford nor Chrysler, however, suggested, as GM did, that the present three-year contracts be extended two years as a "contribution to economic stability."

Reuther had promised to make unspecified concessions in the union's contract demands next year if the companies cut prices on 1958 models this fall by an average of at least $100.

Ford told Reuther the "rapid increase in wages of automobile workers over the past 10 years —which were negotiated under the duress of your demands — have unquestionably contributed to inflation."

CONFIDENTIAL JITTERS

Stars Cringe Over Disclosures

HOLLYWOOD (UP) — The movie capital's big-name stars had the "Confidential jitters" Saturday as they awaited new courtroom disclosures about tattletales who sold spicy tidbits to the scandal magazine.

The Confidential Magazine criminal libel case enters its fourth week in Superior Court Monday.

So far the names of more than two-score stars have been spread upon the court record and others are expected to be added next week.

• • • •

NAMED TO DATE, either as subjects of racy Confidential stories read to the jury or as being involved in purported escapades, have been:

But as the sensational trial neared a climax, it appeared increasingly unlikely any star would testify.

The husband of one, Corinne Calvet, was quoted by defense attorney Arthur Crowley out of court as having declared his wife would be "blackballed" by the movie industry if she testified a Confidential story about her was true. The French actress, meanwhile, publicly branded the tale as false.

Most of the stars mentioned in testimony so far have remained discreetly quiet.

Four Chinese Spies Sentenced

LONDON (UP)—Red China announced Saturday night four Chinese accused of spying for the United States have been sentenced to prison terms ranging from eight years to life.

Peiping Radio said the four landed in Liaoning Province in 1955 and were captured with a collection of spy equipment ranging from ultraviolet flashlights to pistols and daggers.

Maj. Wang Tsung-Tu, described as "a reactionary military man and agent for 27 years," received the life sentence.

Blaze Encircles Town, 50 Homes Evacuated

PLATTSBURGH, N.Y. (UP)—A raging forest fire almost circled the little village of Altona in Northern New York Saturday night but fire-fighters had established a fire line they hoped would save the community.

About 50 residents of the village, which has a population of 400, had evacuated their homes. Plans to move others were postponed after the fire line was established and the wind died down at nightfall.

The fire, worst in the state in 13 years, had raced to within 3,000 feet of Altona's outskirts before it was halted, at least temporarily.

About 3,500 acres of scrub forest near the Canadian border have been charred since the fire broke out last Monday.

More than 700 weary volunteers were reported fighting the fire during the day.

No injuries have been reported.

Elections Approved

GUATEMALA (UP) — Guatemala's Congress has voted 36-12 to hold congressional elections Oct. 20 and a government majority indicated today the presidential election may be set for the same date.

Guatemala must elect a president to fill the vacancy caused by the assassination of President Carlos Castillo Armas last month.

Ford's New Edsel Line First of 1958 Models

By DAVID J. WILKIE
Associated Press Automotive Editor

DETROIT (AP)—The first 1958 model car will be given its press preview next Tuesday with the presentation of Ford's much-publicized Edsel line. The new line with models at the top and bottom of the medium-price bracket will go on dealer display and sale Sept. 4.

The preview presentation itself will be somewhat elaborate. Working representatives of newspapers, trade publications, radio and television and other organizations have been invited from virtually all sections of the country. They have been invited to bring their wives for whom special entertainment will be provided.

Details of the several new series of Edsel models will be disclosed by the manufacturers on Tuesday. Most of them already are rather widely known, including such innovations as pushbutton controls mounted in the hub of the steering wheel and the large vertical oval in the grille.

Gossip has it also that the Edsel series will have the highest horsepower of any conventional volume production car so far presented. The Edsel Division expects to have 20,000 of the new cars in dealers' hands when they go on sale. The price tag will be announced at that time.

Ford already has disclosed that development of Edsel line cost more than 250 million dollars.

The Edsel division has set up a retailing organization of some 1,200 dealerships. In a relatively few instances the Edsel will be sold by retailers handling some other Ford line. This will be done where it is figured the territory cannot support a single dealership.

After the dealer introduction of the Edsel there will be no additional public presentations for several weeks. However, Buick, broadly redesigned and with a new body shell, will be previewed on Sept. 11. Oldsmobile will come on Oct. 1 and previews of the Chevrolet and Ford cars will be held in mid-October. Their public introduction will be made near the end of October.

The program, of course, means there will be no major shutdowns for model changeovers until mid-September. Meanwhile the car makers are aiming at the production this month of around 521,000 cars. Only a small percentage of these will be 1958 models.

Air suspension, mainly as an optional item, undoubtedly will be the most widely adopted engineering advance to appear in the forthcoming new models. Its cost probably will vary because of numerous types of the system to be offered.

The industry's decision to run out its 1957 model output on a high volume level suggests the manufacturers expect no great difficulty with the outgoing model cleanup. Many retailers disagree with this view.

In round figures the industry will have built 4,300,000 cars during this year's January-August period. Production will be off substantially in September because of the new model changeovers, although gossip has it the General Motors switchovers will be made this year with a minimum of shutdown time.

It is being said that even the drastic restyling by Chevrolet and Pontiac will not be permitted to stretch out the changeover assembly line idleness. Chevrolet obviously is trying to overtake Ford Division which has held first place in production and sales since early in January.

The Ford lead in factory output has been cut down to around 13,000 units.

MEL BURNS SIGNS EDSEL FRANCHISE

Paul W. Pursley, Los Angeles district sales manager for Edsel Division, left, discusses the Edsel sales agreement with Mel Burns, right, who has just been named Edsel dealer for the Long Beach area. The new dealership, known as Donel Edsel Sales Inc., is located at 2055 American Ave. Burns also handles the Ford automobile at another location in Long Beach.

WORLD OF WHEELS

Mel Burns Awarded Franchise for Edsel

By ART STEPHAN
Independent, Press-Telegram Auto Editor

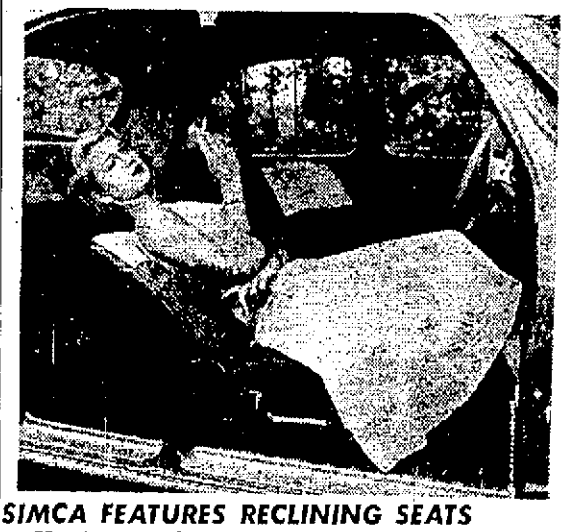

Now its official. Paul W. Pursley, Los Angeles district sales manager for Ford Motor Company's Edsel Division, last week announced that Mel Burns has been awarded an Edsel sales agreement for Long Beach.

Burns, who has been a Ford dealer in Long Beach since 1946, will handle the Edsel at 2055 American Ave, under the name of Donel Edsel Sales Inc. He will continue to handle the Ford at his present location.

The appointment of Jack Putney as sales manager was announced by Burns.

The announcement of the Long Beach Edsel dealership coincided with similar announcement of Edsel franchises in Southern California. Additional dealers will be appointed as sales agreements are formalized, according to Pursley.

The Edsel line was scheduled to go into production July 15th in six Ford Motor Company assembly plants throughout the nation. Locally the top Corsair and Citation series will be assembled at the Los Angeles Mercury plant No. 2. The Ranger and Pacer series will be built in the Ford assembly plant near San Jose.

SIMCA FEATURES RECLINING SEATS

Here's a comely lass who takes it easy while enjoying a cigarette, relaxing in the reclining seat of her French Simca. Peairs Bros. Buick, 17200 Lakewood Blvd., has been named to handle the popular French automobile in the Bellflower area. Ninety miles per hour, effortless handling and 35 miles per gallon of gasoline are claimed for the pride of the French auto industry.

Cooties Start Fun in VFW Convention

MIAMI BEACH (UP) — The colorful Military Order of the Cooties Saturday night kicked off fun-making preliminaries of the 58th annual encampment of the Veterans of Foreign Wars with an "everything can happen" parade through this tourist center's swank shopping district.

The organization expcted 30,000 members from 10,000 posts will be on hand for first general sessions Monday.

Soviet Finally Frees Anti-Red Visitor

AMSTERDAM (UP) — A Harvard University law graduate who was bitterly attacked by Russian newspapers for preaching Western views at the Moscow youth festival said Saturday he got permission to leave the Soviet Union only one minute before his plane took off.

George Abrams, of Newton, Mass., said before flying home Saturday he was "mighty relieved" when Soviet authorities finally gave him clearance.

Union Panel Blasts Red Chiefs, Aims

WASHINGTON (UP) — The AFL-CIO executive council Saturday issued a general indictment of Russia's two dominant leaders, Communist Party chief Nikita Khrushchev and Marshal George Zhukov and warned the free world to be on guard against their "fundamental aims."

These, the Council said in a special statement, are to concentrate all power in Khrushchev and to dominate the world by remodeling it in the pattern of Soviet despotism.

• • • •

THE COUNCIL described the recent Kremlin purge as merely a struggle within the Communist Party over which ruling clique should succeed the late Josef Stalin. It said that Khrushchev, like Stalin, has learned to camouflage and combine his purges with a seeming relaxation of Soviet domestic and foreign policies.

• • • •

"KHRUSHCHEV and Zhukov, posing as champions of peaceful co-existence, were the primary architects of the savage suppression of the Hungarian people," it said.

Talk about things to be proud of...

Chevy gives you more!

You're bound to take extra pride in Chevrolet's agile, eager ways—in its sure, soft-spoken power and gentle ride. Chevy's beautiful behavior and solid build are hard to come by in a car at any price.

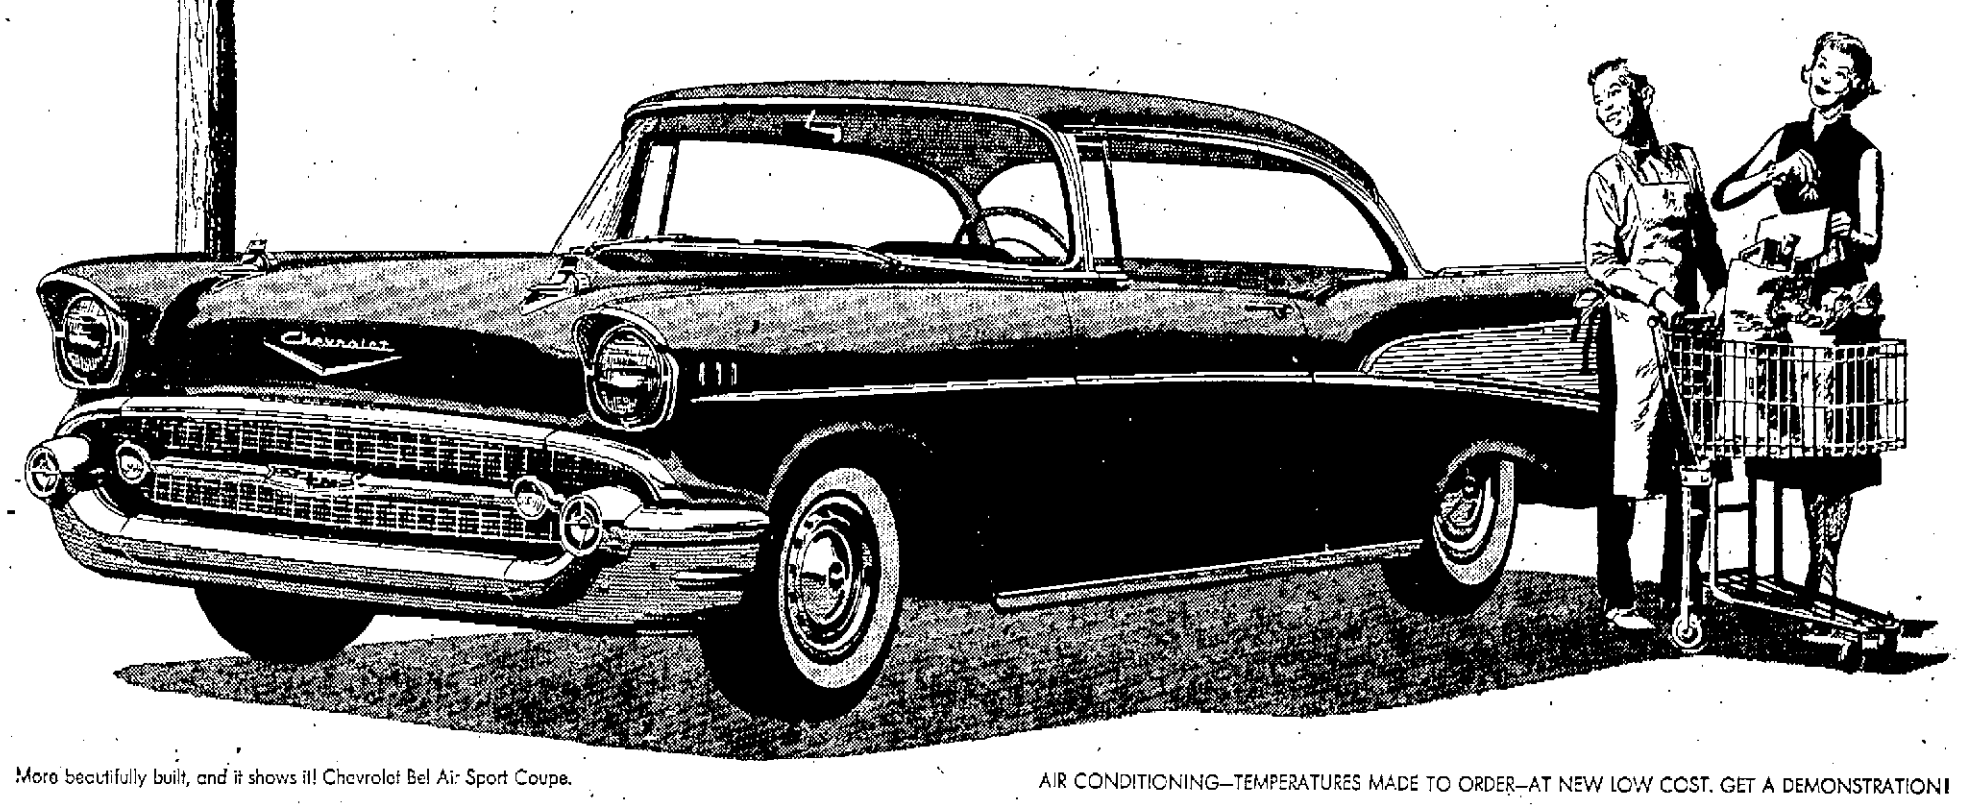

Give yourself five minutes beside a Chevrolet, studying the fine details of its Body by Fisher. Take five more on the road, sampling the sweet response of power and smoothness of ride. Be hard to please. A Chevy loves to show how beautifully it's put together—and what it can do for your pride.

No other car in the low-price field tells you in quite such certain terms that it was born for effortless handling. A Chevrolet has its pounds in the right places—keeps its stability and stance, no matter how sharply the road may dip, turn or climb. Its wide-based outrigger type rear springs help it to resist pitch and sway, and move with eager, easy strides. And with its ball-bearing steering, commanding a Chevrolet is simply a matter of your hands giving gentle hints to the wheel.

It spoils you—this car with its nimble ways. See it at your Chevrolet dealer's—soon!

U.S. Cardinal Marks 25th Year of Consecration

VATICAN CITY (IP) — Francis Cardinal Spellman, archbishop of New York, Saturday marked the 25th anniversary of his consecration as bishop with a mass on the same altar of St. Peter's where he received the title.

Four other cardinals, bishops, and other dignitaries including two nephews of Pope Pius XII attended the service before the altar of the chair.

Cardinal Spellman flew to Rome Monday expressly to observe the occasion 25 years ago when the Pope, then a cardinal and the vatican secretary of state, consecrated him bishop at the altar which, according to tradition, stands above the tomb of St. Peter.

It Happened Last Night
By Earl Wilson

DEAR DANNY . . .

NEW YORK—People are always asking me, "What are these movie and TV stars really like? Are they a bunch of creeps?"

Let me tell you about Danny Thomas . . .

On Sept. 8, 1943, Danny Thomas, completely unknown to New Yorkers, came here from Chicago by way of Toledo and opened in a night club act at La Martinique.

I reviewed his show next day and wrote a pretty corny but flattering piece. "A Star Is Born," I said.

DANNY THOMAS

Danny became a star of movies and radio in the next 10 years. One night the B. W. and I were in Hollywood for the premiere of Judy Garland's picture, "A Star Is Born."

As we were walking out, Danny Thomas poked me in the ribs.

"I was just thinking about you," he said. "When I opened at La Martinique a long time ago, you wrote a headline, 'A Star Is Born.'

"Anyway," he said, "how about you and B. W. coming out to the house for dinner?"

He followed this up with, "What night can you make it?"

• • • •

I WAS TO CALL HIM next day, but when I didn't he phoned me and we made the date. It was a wonderful evening.

Jerry Lewis came to dinner, too, and we played pool before dinner. After dinner, Liberace, who was just getting known, arrived and played the piano for us for an hour.

Then some more years passed.

Danny Thomas got even bigger. He was about to replace Lucille Ball and Desi Arnaz on TV.

The B. W. and I were in Las Vegas, where he was filming his first new TV show at the Sands. Between shots, Danny spotted me on the sidelines, removed the cigar from his mouth, and rushed over to shake hands, meanwhile asking, "Where's B. W.?"

"At the roulette table," I admitted.

Danny pushed in through the crowd calling, "Hey, B. W.!" Then he said, "You've got to get in the night club scene we're doing.

"Sure," he said, getting to like the idea, "we'll put you down at the ringside just like you were the night I opened at La Martinique a long, long time ago."

• • • •

AND SO WE WENT and sat at the ringside—a couple tables behind was one of my boyhood idols, Hoot Gibson.

Danny had a lot to do, but he remembered us and made frequent references to us when he did his audience warmup.

"It's funny me working for Post Toasties," he said to the crowd. "I was fired by them 12 years ago, for making a joke.

"I was on the air with Fanny Brice. The announcer kept saying how good Post Toasties were, and to be sure to eat them with strawberries and cream.

"I jumped up and said, 'HAY would be good with strawberries and cream.'

"They fired me on the spot. It took them 12 years to forgive me."

Then the TV cameras shot the scene and Peter Lind Hayes—playing the cafe M. C. —introduced me. I stood up and took a real hammy bow.

"Gee, thanks so much for coming over," Danny said afterward. "It was so nice of you to take the time . . ."

Personally, I thought it was real nice of Danny Thomas to ask us to be on his first show on CBS on Oct. 7.

In fact, Danny Thomas, in my opinion, has grown nicer toward his old friends as he has become more famous.

But if they should cut out that ringside scene from that opening program . . . well, just like I was telling you, Danny Thomas is a no-good bum.

WEEKEND WINDUP . . . Katharine Hepburn being helpful to an acquaintance, told him, "I'm sweet to a person once—and this is your day." . . . Milton Berle met teenage singer Frankie Lymon and said, jokingly, "Kid, when I was your age—I was through." . . . Lamuel St. Subber wants to star Dean Martin and Rocky Graziano in a B'way musical, "Viva Madison Av.!" . . . A noted singer was so scared of the Confidential trial that he flew off to Europe.

John Barrymore Jr. will make a movie at the Gold Medal-Biograph Studio in the Bronx, where his uncle and aunt, Lionel and Ethel, worked decades ago. . . . Sammy Davis Jr. will have a hotel lodge named after him because he says, "I want something named after me that the pigeons can't get at."

VIVA, SENORITA UNIVERSE!

Beauty of Miss Universe, Gladys Zender of Peru, is dramatized in this new portrait. Cheering Peruvians have proclaimed a national holiday in her honor. Her Highness will tour Chile, Brazil and other lucky South American lands before she returns to the United States in October as the Latin any student would love to study.

Ceylon's Universe Girl Surprised at U.S. Men

By ROBERT LIU

HOLLYWOOD (AP) —For a girl whose father is president of the Bank of Ceylon, Maureen Hingert is remarkably endowed with her own assets, all of them natural.

It's a matter of common knowledge to American movie fans that Miss Hingert (stage name Jana Davi) managed to convert those assets into the title of Miss Ceylon of 1955 and third place that same year in the Miss Universe Contest.

Her large eyes and striking face seem very soft as she says that American men are surprisingly indirect.

"I like a man who's straightforward," she adds.

A cigarette and a glass of punch sharing her slim hands, Maureen crossed her long legs and sketched a picture of the two years that have elapsed since she came to Hollywood.

She has played opposite such leading actors as Jeff Chandler, Van Johnson, Jack Lemon and Mark Stevens. But she still isn't sure she's on the right road.

"I'm allowing my latest movie opposite Mark Stevens decide that for me. If the response is good, I'll remain. If not, I hate to think about it."

* * * *

THE PICTURE is "Gun Fever." She portrays an Indian girl in a triangular love affair.

Maureen was born in Colombo, Ceylon, on Jan. 9, 1937. Her father is of Dutch ancestry and besides heading the Ceylonese bank has extensive tea holdings in Ceylon.

When Maureen was five she entered the Holy Family Convent in Colombo and remained there until she was 18.

Most of her life she has worn the sari, traditional Singhaless and Indian dress. When she came to this country she brought some 80 saris with her, but dresses mostly in western clothes now except when she's longing around her apartment.

A chic 5-foot-6 and 118 pounds, Maureen has dark brown hair and brown eyes. She measures an attractive 36-21-36.

In Ceylon she was a good student in languages, world history and nursing, but it was her study of interpretive dancing that helped her movie career most.

After teaching dancing for a while, Maureen won a role doing a solo dance in the movie "Elephant Walk." That was the start.

* * * *

SHE HAS GIVEN two packed-house performances on classical Indian dances in Los Angeles, and currently is studying modern jazz and flamenco dancing.

The past two years there also have been television appearances in shows like "Hiram Holiday" and "Captain Grief."

(Associated Press Photo.)
MAUREEN HINGERT . . . Likes Straightforward Man

Last year she was selected an envoy to publicize the Miss Universe contest and toured Europe and parts of the Middle East.

"I love to travel and for two whole months it was nothing but that," she recalls.

Language is no barrier for her as a tourist. She speaks English, French, Spanish, Hinddustani and Tamil.

The next logical question is "with all her busy schedule, has she been picking out a mate?"

She swung herself on the stool, squinted her eyes and said:

"Well to be honest I haven't thought much about it—yet."

But pressed, she'll tell you she admires intelligence and good manners, and has found that these are in greater supply among older men.

The crusher comes when she says she doesn't care too much for Hollywood men: They're too affected.

CONFIDENTIALLY SPEAKING

Scandal Trial Circus Without Laughs

By BOB HOUSER

LOS ANGELES—The wide-screen Confidential trial drama in Room 808, Hall of Justice, is a circus without laughs.

The circus came to town after five years of racy press agentry in Confidential and Whisper Magazines about "big names."

Grand jury indictment set the stage. Judge Herbert V. Walker banned laughter by gavel and dictum.

Gravity of the issues combined with the sometimes laughable nature of the Confidential texts in evidence produce, in effect, a reading of modern Hollywood's Arabian Nights uttered to 120 stone-faced witnesses.

Hollywood linen, rendered tattle-tale gray by Confidential treatment to a reading audience of 16 million souls per issue, now is being re-aired to newspaper readers who may not have "preferred the book."

* * * *

THE BUNDLE of scandal has been a revisitation of the "glory" that was Hollywood in the days of filmdom's legendary roster of free and easy livers and lovers. The piece-meal assault on stars' morals and manners has offended the studied, latter-day respectability of the film capital.

It has restored the taint which some portions of the industry feel is "good boxoffice." But film satellites lately accustomed to consideration as normal American citizens are watching the drama of Room 808 with full-whammy stares.

Room 808, Dept. 43, Los Angeles County Superior Court, is an acoustical monster. The high, ornate, once-gold ceiling but now as tarnished as some of the names below, gobbles up the sensational noises without regard to the press battery of 45 newsmen.

The seven-man, five-woman jury and its three women alternates lean forward, cup their ears and finally just tell the judge they are unable to hear certain witnesses.

* * * *

JUDGE WALKER politely asks the witness to speak more slowly and directly into the witness stand microphone.

Unamplified by microphones, words of attorneys at the counsel table are often lost and must be checked by reporters after court recesses.

Almost one-fourth of the press section is occupied by foreign press. London has seven correspondents, representing the Express, Mirror, Herald, Evening Standard, Mail, Telegraph and Sketch. Sitting nearby, one reporter of the "domestic press" said "it sounds like the press gallery in the House of Lords."

France has reporters for France-Dimanche and France-Soir. Italy reads the reports of Messaggero Roma.

The New York Daily News has two correspondents, New York Times has one and the Chicago Tribune and Kansas City Star each has one.

AP, UP, INS and City News Service each has two reporters. Life, Time, Newsweek and Fortnight Magazines are represented. ABC and CBS news have radio reporters and CBS also has television represented. Nine reporters of Los Angeles-Long Beach Metropolitan Area newspapers are seated.

Behind the press section remain 25 seats for spectators and five for witnesses in the trial.

* * * *

INSIDE THE COURT RAIL are about 22 seats for observing attorneys. Prosecution counsel, Dept. Dist. Atty. William Ritzi and Dept. State Atty. Gen. Clarence Linn; Defense Counsel Arthur J. Crowley and his defendants Fred and Marjorie Meade all sit at the counsel table in front of Judge Walker's bench.

The 15 jurors are in the jury box to Judge Walker's right.

Others are two court reporters who spell each other, the court clerk and the bailiff.

Chief courtroom actor for the prosecution is William Ritzi. He is a soft-spoken, contemplative man in his early 40s who has an almost constant mien of dead-earnestness. He has a shock of hair, freshly combed at the start of the day's session but invariably awry over his forehead at day's recess.

Atty. Crowley matches the intensity of Ritzi but fairly crackles with crispness and authority on his cue to cross-examine or to object. Like Ritzi and Atty. Linn, Crowley is a Sunday school teacher.

* * * *

BOTH MEN HAVE EARNED friends among newsmen for their cooperation in explaining trial developments.

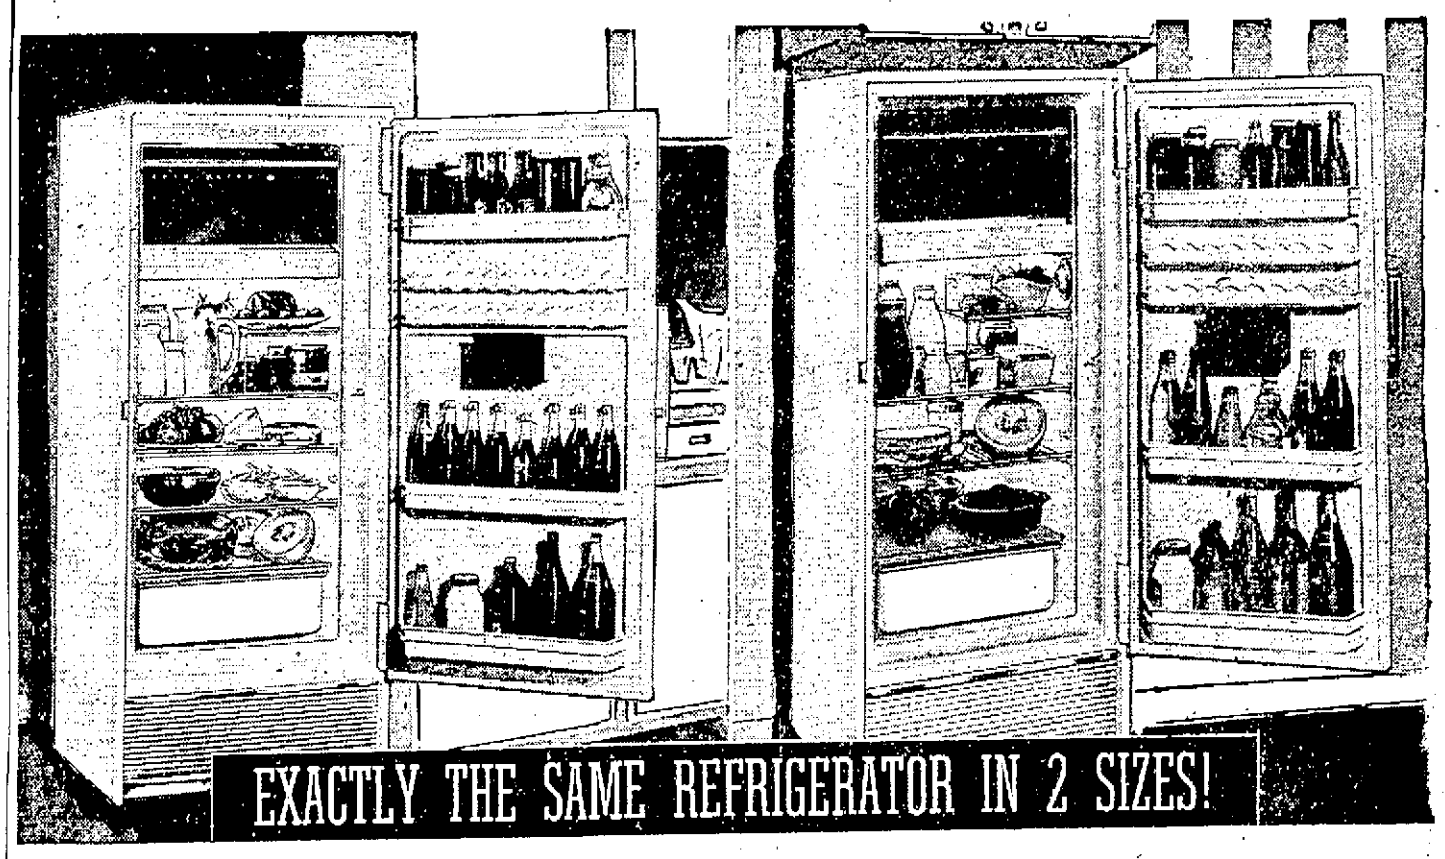

Judge Walker rules his courtroom, and no mistake.

FINAL MEETING TODAY

Fist Fights, Rhubarbs Mark Stars' 11-4 Win

The Hollywood Stars breezed to an 11-4 triumph over Los Angeles at Gilmore Field Saturday in a game that featured a full-blown slugging bee and 10-minute rhubarb in the fifth inning.

The beef began right after winning pitcher Fred Waters walloped his first homer of the season, a 400-foot poke, to put Hollywood in front, 5-4.

Spook Jacobs, the next batter, bunted down the first base line. But as Jacobs neared the base, Angel hurler Tom Lasorda gave him a hefty block that sent the Twinkler sprawling. Jacobs came up fighting. He and Lasorda tangled momentarily and after they were separated, Jacobs wound up trading punches with Los Angeles shortstop Bobby Dolan.

Meanwhile, the rival 200-pound catchers, Pete Naton and Earl Battey, were staging a heavyweight match nearby.

* * * *

WHEN THE UMPIRES and team managers finally got things cooled off, Jacobs was awarded first base for interference. That touched off another verbal flurry as Angel manager Clay Bryant argued with the umpires, but to no avail.

Despite the lengthy and heated debates nobody was ejected from the game, but Glenn Mickens took over for Lasorda on the mound.

The only injury reported was suffered by Battey, who came up with a cut lip.

Before the explosive round was over, the Stars amassed seven runs off Lasorda, Mickens and Bill George. Naton's three-run homer featured the assault.

* * * *

BOTH CLUBS HAD scored in the first round, with the Twinks taking a 2-1 lead on two unearned runs. A walk to Bill Causion and a three-bagger by Naton gave the Stars a 3-1 edge in the second.

Then the Angels' Windy Wade homered off Hollywood's Ben Wade with two aboard in the third inning to put Los Angeles ahead, 4-3. Jim Baumer, however, tied it up in the botton half by swatting his 13th round-tripper over the left field fence.

The two teams meet for the final time this year, and quite likely forever, in a doubleheader today. The Brooklyn Dodgers are expected to move to L.A. next year. Hollywood will start Bennie Daniels (14-7) and Don Rowe (5-4) against the Angels' Johnny Jancse (6-10) and Connie Grob (2-2).

Braves Assault 8 Pitchers

BROOKLYN (AP) — The Milwaukee Braves chased Johnny Podres with a three-homer barrage in the fourth inning and routed seven relief pitchers Saturday to overpower Brooklyn, 13-7.

Holding their 6½-game National League lead over St. Louis and dropping the Brooks 7½ behind, the Braves wrapped it up with two big innings after Nippy Jones, Hank Aaron and Andy Pafko had broken up a scoreless duel with solo home run blasts in the fourth. Aaron's homer was his 37th.

The leaders, winning the key three-game series, 2-1, scored five times in the sixth on five hits to take an 8-2 lead, then broke out with four more in the ninth after Brooklyn's desperate rallies had cut their lead to 8-7.

* * * *

FELIX MANTILLA, filling in for the injured Johnny Logan, applied the clincher with a three-run, ninth inning homer. The blow, Mantilla's third hit, was off Danny McDevitt, eighth pitcher used by the Dodgers as they tied a National League record.

The Braves used Ernie Johnson and Lew Burdette in relief of starter Bob Trowbridge. The victory went to Burdette, who hurled a complete game 6-1 victory Thursday night in the series' opener.

Johnson, an old Dodger relief nemesis, assumed a 3-2 lead from Trowbridge in the fourth inning and pitched steadily until the seventh, when four singles and Duke Snider's 34th home run accounted for four runs and left Milwaukee with a scant one-run lead.

Yanks Score 7 in 5th, Rout Indians

CLEVELAND (AP) — Scoring seven runs in the fifth inning, the New York Yankees trounced the Cleveland Indians, 10-4, before a crowd of 14,506 Saturday.

Three Cleveland runs were knocked in by rookie Joe Caffie, recently brought up from Buffalo, who hit his first major league home run in the seventh inning. Caffie also hit three singles.

Tom Sturdivant, who held a 10-0 lead at one point, posted his 12th victory, but was unable to finish. The Tribe knocked him out with two runs in the ninth.

Mickey Mantle rapped a double in two official times at bat, boosting his average from .375 to .374.

ANDY CAREY LED the Yankees' 11-hit attack with four-for-four, a triple and three singles.

The loss was charged to Don Mossie, who was forced to leave the game in the fifth with a pulled back muscle. The bases were loaded and the Yanks led 2-0 when he departed.

The Yankees scored two runs in the first on a single by Hank Bauer, a walk to Gil McDougald, a double by Mantle and a sacrifice fly by Bill Skowron.

Mantle Hikes Mark to .374; Ted Drops to .381

CLEVELAND (UP) — Mickey Mantle moved to within seven points of Ted Williams Saturday in their fight for the American League batting title.

Mantle hiked his average to .374 by collecting one hit — a double—in two at-bats against the Cleveland Indians. He was removed from the lineup in the sixth inning after the Yankees ran up a 9-0 lead.

Williams collected only one hit in four trips against the Chicago White Sox and dropped a point to .381. The Red Sox slugger now has garnered only three hits in his last 18 at-bats.

TRIBE BUYS VALENTINETTI FROM ANGELS

The Los Angeles Angels Saturday announced the sale of their winningest pitcher, Vito Valentinetti, to the Cleveland Indians.

Bill Heymans, general manager of the Pacific Coast League, said the Indians are giving cash and a player to be named as soon as possible for the 28-year-old right-hander.

Valentinetti won nine games and lost five for Los Angeles this season after his purchase from the Chicago Cubs. Instead of pitching against Hollywood Saturday as scheduled, he boarded an eastbound plane.

LeBARON READY

Brodie to Get First Pro Test Against 'Skins Today

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — John Brodie, Stanford passing ace, will get his first quarterbacking test as a pro footballer today in the exhibition meeting of his San Francisco 49ers and the Washington Redskins.

Little Eddie LeBaron, a College of Pacific passing hero who underwent a knee operation after the 1956 National Football League season, is in shape for a full test at quarterback for the Redskins.

Frank Albert, 49er coach, said he plans to start veteran Y. A. Tittle but would give Brodie his chance in the second and fourth quarters. Earl Morrall, former Michigan State Rose Bowl field general, is slated for a third quarter shot.

Joe Perry, San Francisco's veteran fullback, is out with a damaged knee. Albert plans to rotate rookies Larry Barnes of Colorado A&M and Gene Babb of Austin along with Bill Bowman, acquired from the Detroit Lions.

Floyd Denies Race Issue

Prejudice Motive for Guarantee

SEATTLE (AP)—Floyd Patterson denied Saturday he attributed a "white hope" motive to backers of Pete Rademacher's heavyweight title challenge, but reporters who interviewed him said there was no misinterpretation.

The controversy was set off when the Post-Intelligencer published an interview it said Patterson gave 24 hours before Thursday night's bout in which the Negro champion knocked out amateur Rademacher in six rounds.

The newspaper said it withheld the story written by Emmett Watson, until after the fight to avoid any possible race problems here. But it quoted Patterson as saying of the 22 Georgians who raised $250,000 to gain Rademacher's shot at the title:

* * * *

"IN NEW YORK they couldn't have raised $250 for this kind of fight. That money had to be raised someplace where they don't like colored people.

"I definitely feel that's the whole thing back of this fight. If I had been a white fighter they would never have put up any $250,000."

At Shelby, Mont., en route to New York, Patterson told a reporter:

"These things you'll read all the time. I've been quoted as saying worse.

"Even if I did feel that way, I surely wouldn't say anything like that publicly. But what's more, I don't feel that way about it."

* * * *

PATTERSON ALSO said that, as planned before the title match, he will head into the South in two weeks to visit his father-in-law, Matthew Hicks, in Lawton, Okla.

This was in reference to the Watson story which quoted Patterson as saying: "If I beat Rademacher up badly or if I knock him out, then I'm not going near Oklahoma. I won't go farther south than Philadelphia . . . well, no farther south than Washington, D. C."

Turning to the future, the champion said he will fight no more this year "for tax reasons"

7th Win in Row for Donovan

CHICAGO (AP)—Dick Donovan held the Boston Red Sox to nine hits Saturday and pitched the Chicago White Sox to a 7-1 victory. It was the seventh triumph in succession for the big right-hander and his 15th of the year against three defeats.

Ted Williams, battling Mickey Mantle for the American League batting championship, made one hit in four times at bat as his average sagged to .381. He knocked in the Boston run, however, with a double which followed a two-bagger by Billy Klaus in the fourth inning.

MINNIE MINOSO collected three of Chicago's seven hits and knocked home three runs.

Ike Deock, Boston relief specialist making his second start of the season, was in constant trouble because of his wildness. He walked seven men before being routed in the fourth. Five of the men he walked scored.

Penn State Rated 1st in Eastern Grid Poll

PITTSBURGH (UP) — Penn State has been voted the top college team in the East by 10 Eastern coaches in a pre-season poll conducted by the University of Pittsburgh athletic office.

Pitt was second and Navy third. The others in order were: Army, Syracuse, Princeton, Yale, Boston College, Holy Cross and Villanova.

NINTH TITLE TO CROMWELL

Jerry Cromwell, 13-year-old Southern California junior tennis champion from Long Beach, captured the eighth annual San Diego Metropolitan junior crown Saturday in the 13-and-under division with a 6-0, 6-1 conquest of John Emrich of La Jolla.

Cromwell, who lost only two points in the first set of the Balboa Park competition, has won nine tournaments this year.

Kathy Chabot of San Diego won the 15-year-old girls' crown, defeating Barbara Browning of Long Beach in the finals, 7-5, 6-3.

Gunderson Wins Ladies Golf Crown

SACRAMENTO (UP)—Joanne Gunderson, a husky 18-year-old from Seattle, Wash., won the 57th National Women's Amateur golf championship Saturday with a convincing 8 and 6 victory over Mrs. Ann Casey Johnstone of Mason City, Iowa.

Neither player could equal women's par of 74 on the 6,368-hole Del Paso Country Club match during the championship finals. But Miss Gunderson, a five-foot seven, 140-pound slugger who belts the ball like a man, was just too strong for the 34-year-old matron from Mason City, particularly from tee to green.

She jumped into a lead on the very first hole of their scheduled 36-hole match by sinking a 20-footer for a birdie and she never was behind in the entire match.

* * * *

FOR THE MORNING 18 holes, Miss Gunderson medaled 77 to a tired 82 turned in by Mrs. Johnstone. In the 12 holes that it took Joanne to close out the match in the afternoon, she was one over par while Mrs. Johnstone was five over.

Miss Gunderson, a freckled-faced, red-blond youngster who hits those tee shots out there 225 to 250 yards, won the coveted National title on her second try.

By winning, she became the second youngest player to capture the big black trophy. Not since 1896 when Beatrix Hoyt won the crown has the title been held by such a youngster.

Stan's Mark to Hit 895

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Stan (The Man) Musial may be back in the St. Louis Cardinals' lineup sooner than expected.

Manager Freddie Hutchinson said Saturday Musial will be used as a pinch-runner in the resumption of a suspended game with the Pirates at Pittsburgh Tuesday night.

Thus Stan's consecutive game streak which ended Friday night after he injured his left shoulder swinging at a pitch the previous evening, will officially be lengthened to 895. Musial missed the first part of the suspended game when it was played several weeks ago.

Del Ennis Turns on Ex-Mates

PHILADELPHIA (UP)—Former Phillie Del Ennis batted in the winning run Saturday as the St. Louis Cardinals came from behind with two in the sixth and then went on to defeat Philadelphia, 5-2, behind Herman Wehmeier.

The Cardinals, leading 3-2, iced the game in the ninth on a Phillie error, a triple by Ken Boyer and a double by Walker Cooper which added two runs and chased loser Curt Simmons.

The Cards opened the scoring in the second when Ennis doubled, took second on an infield out and scored when Cooper's pop to short right fell among three Phils, any of whom could have caught the ball.

Once Over Lightly

By DAVE LEWIS

Best crack of the evening at the Coliseum Friday night was delivered by the gent who said . . . "well, the hometown boys won, but the only trouble is they're all with the Giants.

As you probably know by now, the New York Giants belted the Los Angeles Rams, 24-7.

And instrumental in carving the Giants' impressive victory were six ex-Rams including the likes of Andy Robustelli, Ed Hughes, Harland Svare, Charlie Toogood, Corky Tharp and Ben Agajanian plus former UCLA star, Cliff Livingston.

Livingston accomplished a notable feat in the first 16 minutes of play when he blocked two of Norm Van Brocklin's punts—as many as the Dutchman has had blocked in eight previous seasons of pro ball.

NORM VAN BROCKLIN

The Giants took possession on the Ram 27 and 24-yard lines following the two blocked punts . . . and promptly succeeded in rolling up a 10-point lead.

Leo Nomellini of the 49ers was the first to block a Van Brocklin punt. That was in 1951. The other was blocked by the Redskins last year.

Meanwhile, for a pre-season game, the firing was exceptionally hot and heavy . . . for a very good reason.

As one of the veteran New Yorkers said, "most of us weren't too concerned about the game . . . looking at it as just another exhibition. But the ex-Rams with us wanted to win so badly that they finally got us all fired up like a bunch of college sophomores and it developed into a real war out there. In fact, I feel more bushed now than I did after the championship game with the Bears last year."

THE EX-RAMS NOW WITH THE GIANTS had the time of their lives "jockeying" their former teammates . . . particularly the ones up front—Svare, Robustelli and Toogood.

"They were on my back all night," Van Brocklin chuckled in the dressing room. "They really gave me a rough time. I would have loved to shove the ball down their throats a couple of times so we could talk back, but they didn't give us much of a chance to do that.

"Remember the time I went downfield to block and I was on top of that Giant player so long?

"Well, it was one of the 'ex-Rams.' I told him 'if you say one more word I'll bite your ear off in the next pileup!'

"And, you know, those guys are so darn tough that I'll bet if I had tried to bite an ear off, I'd probably chipped my teeth," he laughed.

While the Giants were marching 81 yards for their third quarter touchdown to make it 17-0, Les Richter of the Rams lost his right shoe and played without it for sequence of plays.

That started the Giants on a new sound track.

"Why don't all you guys take off your shoes and play tootsies. You're playing ball like it," the ex-Rams chorused.

The Giants usually are one of the "quietest" teams in football. As they say in the NFL, "they murder you in utter silence."

But as rookie Jon Arnett pointed out, "after college ball where the teams are yelling constantly and the Notre Dame players actually growl at you for 60 minutes, I expected pro ball to be a bedlam of noise.

"I was surprised though in the All-Star Game at Chicago when the Giants hardly made a sound other than thud of contact when they knocked you down. They just don't holler like most teams. They were very talkative in this game, but only because they were needling the Rams."

MEANWHILE, THE GIANTS IMPRESSED all veteran pro observers with their great defense. Needless to say, they left an indelible impression on the Rams.

"The Giant line had the best pursuit of any line I've ever played against," Van Brocklin declared.

"But we're not discouraged. Even though it may not have looked like it, we played a terrific game in view of what we were up against and the fact that we were a little flat after being up so high for last week's game with the Redskins.

"Our line, for instance, did a great job that was overshadowed only by what probably is the greatest forward wall in the game. The performance of the Ram line would have been enough to beat anyone else in the league, but those Giants just beat our guys down."

Billy Wade, who played much of the second half, maintained that "this year's Rams are still the best offensive group I've yet seen, so you know how great defensively the Giants must be to hold us to seven points."

Billy went on to say that "I've never seen a team react so fast on defense.

ARNETT POINTED OUT THAT HE thought the Giant line was extremely tough in the All-Star game, "but it is so much better now that there's no comparison. I can't imagine any line being any better. Then, too, the defensive backs are tremendous . . . and they have dozens of ways to stop you. I got a real education out there from that bunch of artists," he grinned. "One time they'll trip you, next time block you out, then they'll throw you off balance by holding, pushing or throwing an elbow. I only got free twice all night . . . and both times I was just the decoy. Hughes is a really great defender. You just can't shake him."

Robustelli spoke up and said "of all the Ram alumni on the New York squad, Hughes is the one who could do the Rams the most good. He's so much better than what they have now."

Andy went on to say that "our line strength was the thing that hurt the Rams the most, of course. Our middle linemen in particular completely outclassed the center of the Ram line. They couldn't run against us and so we had only to stop their long throws to keep 'em bottled up.

"Once we had that 10-point lead, we were in good shape with our stout defense and time-consuming ground game.

"Yes," Andy admitted, "we expect to have a terrific year if we don't get hurt too bad by injuries. But we'll know more after our big pre-season test next week against the Bears in Dallas."

In the meantime, the Rams head for Portland and a date with the Chicago Cardinals, rated by most observers as the Giants' chief rival in the Eastern Division race.

Prout Gains Sixth as Seals Rip Sacs, 10-4

SACRAMENTO (UP)—The San Francisco Seals, who have won 13 of 16 from Sacramento this season, maintained their mastery Saturday night in taking a 10-4 Pacific Coast League victory from the Solons.

Frank Kellert hit his 15th and 16th homers for the Seals and 18-year-old Bill Prout added his sixth pitching win.

San Francisco had to overcome a third-inning 3-1 lead held by the Solons but three runs in the fourth put the Seals ahead to stay. They scored in every inning thereafter but the ninth.

Flanagan Jumps Into Title Scene

ST. PAUL, Minn. (UP)—Del Flanagan pounded out a unanimous 10-round decision over Ralph (Tiger) Jones Saturday to jump back into top contention for a welterweight title fight with champion Carmen Basilio.

Jones, who fought on even terms through the early rounds, wearied and faded in the last three rounds as Flanagan finished in solid command.

Flanagan opened up a small cut over Jones' right eye in the eighth and jabbed relentlessly to victory.

Flanagan, the hometown favorite, weighed 155 pounds, five over his predicted weight. Jones, St. Albans, N.Y., a 29-year-old TV veteran of 38 fights, weighed in at 156 pounds.

The victory virtually assured Flanagan of a title fight.

U.S. Water Ski Crown to L.B. Girl

SAN DIEGO—Vicki Van Hook of Long Beach won the girls' overall competition championship Saturday at the 15th annual American Water Ski Assn. championships.

After winning top honors in the tricks competition and slalom on Friday, she followed up with a second place in Saturday's jumps.

She leaped 63 feet to equal the former meet record which was broken during the day by Sally Morris of McQueeny, who did 67 feet. Miss Van Hook holds the world record of 70 feet set two weeks ago.

The 13-year-old Long Beach Boat and Ski Club member amassed 1,300 points. Miss Morris finished second with 1,076. Janelle Kirtley of Birmingham, Ala., defending champion, finished third.

Mickey Amsbry of the Long Beach club fell and finished 13th in the boy class slalom but had enough other points to get third in the overall judging as he attempted to defend his championship.

Amsbry, 17, who resides at Orange, fell on his second run after 13 participants had made perfect scores on the first run.

Martha Ann Williams, Long Beach, placed 11th in girls' jumping competition.

Chuck Stearns, Bellflower, was second in men's tricks, as the senior competition opened. Wally Albright of Thermal won the event with 1,610 points to Stearns' 1,590. Though no meet records were available, officials said both surpassed the best previous performance in the meet.

Mrs. Ailene Williams of the Long Beach club tied for ninth in the women's slalom. Ronnie Dandliker, Lakewood, placed fourth in boys' overall judging.

Mrs. Leah Marie Atkins of Birmingham, Ala., successfully defended her women's slalom title. Mary Ann Moenert of West Palm Beach, Fla., was second and Nancy Rideout of Winterhaven, Fla., third.

Reeling Redlegs Lose, 4-1

PITTSBURGH (UP) — Righthander Ronnie Kline, allowing six hits, led the Pittsburgh Pirates to a 4-1 victory over the reeling Cincinnati Redlegs Saturday.

The Redlegs have lost 29 games and won only 18 since July 3 when they were leading the National League.

Kline, picking up his fifth victory, lost his shutout in the eighth inning when pinch-hitter Ted Kluszewski smashed a double and was replaced by Hal Jeffcoat who scored on Gus Bell's two-bagger. Bell was tagged out trying for third and was forced to leave the game when he suffered a jammed right foot.

Blanda's Last Minute Field Goal Ties Colts

CINCINNATI (UP)—George Blanda kicked a 28-yard field goal with 13 seconds left Saturday night to give the Chicago Bears a 24-24 tie in an exhibition professional football game with the Baltimore Colts at the Xavier Stadium.

Blanda's extra-point and field goal kicking climaxed the Bears' uphill battle that saw the Colts build up a 24-14 lead in the last quarter. Then Chicago rallied with a touchdown pass from Zeke Bratkowski to Jim Dooley. Blanda added the extra point and kicked the needed field goal on second down with 15 yards and 13 seconds to go.

Baltimore took a 3-0 first quarter lead on Bert Rechichar's 45-yard field goal. Chicago scored on Rick Casares' one-yard plunge, climaxing an 80-yard push. Baltimore pulled back into the lead as Carl Tassef ran the kickoff back 53 yards. Short plunges put the ball on the seven, where quarterback Francis Davidson found end Jim Mutscheller in the end zone. Steve Myrha's conversion made it 10-7.

* * * *

AFTER A 64-YARD Baltimore march was halted on the two, the Colts came back with a 58-yard drive in the third quarter, climaxed by Johnny Unitas' four-yard pass to halfback Royce Womble. Myrha made it 17-7.

J. C. Caroline of Chicago intercepted a Davidson pass on the 40. Willie Gallimore went 17 yards and Perry Jeter 20 for the touchdown. Blanda's conversioin made it 17-14.

Baltimore moved ahead 24-14 as Davidson found no chance to pass, and instead ran 59 yards around right end to the four, where Dick Young went over from the one. Myhra converted again.

Bratowski threw a 56-yard pass to Jim Dolley to the Colts' 18 and later found him again, good for eight yards and the score, making it 21-24. That set the stage for Blanda's tying field goal.

Berberet Bat Star in Nats' 6-3 Triumph

DETROIT (UP) — Truman Clevenger, a last-minute starter, broke Washington's three-game losing streak Saturday by pitching the Senators to a 6-3 victory over the Detroit Tigers in a steady drizzle which turned to a heavy downpour in the final inning.

Clevenger, 25-year-old righthander, scattered nine hits in winning his seventh game against four setbacks.

Playing conditions became so bad near the end that the players resembled so many gingerbread men slipping and sliding in the mud.

Catcher Lou Berberet led the Nats with a single and his sixth home run—a 400-foot smash. He scored three runs. Rocky Bridges knocked in Washington's first two runs with a two-out single in the second inning.

95-YARD RUN CALLED BACK

Green Bay Spills Cardinals, 17-14

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The Green Bay Packers snatched a 17-14 victory from the Chicago Cardinals Saturday night, thanks to an offside penalty that cancelled a sensational 95-yard Chicago touchdown run.

The Cardinals led for three quarters before the Packers struck back for their winning TD. Then, in the waning minutes, Chicago's Woodley Lewis returned a kickoff 95 yards only to see it nullified by an offside called against Carl Brettschneider.

Chicago swung a 14-0 halftime lead through a blocked punt and an intercepted pass. The first score came after a six-yard drive that began when halfback Dick Lane intercepted Packer Bart Starr's pass on the Cardinal 34. Lamar McHan completed two passes that went for nine and 27 yards, then went over on a keeper but was called back on a penalty. On the next play McHan passed to Dave Mann in the end zone. Pat Summerall kicked the point.

* * * *

A FEW PLAYS later Packer Dick Deshaine tried to punt out from the 13 but it was blocked by the Cards' Gario DaRe and Leo Sanford recovered on the Packer three. Two plays later Mann toppled over the goal line. Summerall's kick was good.

The Packers began their march early in the third period when Fred Cone made good on a field goal from the 40. Later in the quarter Starr connected with Bill Howton on a 14-yard pass. Then Howard Ferguson went over from the three. Cone's kick was good.

Green Bay went into the lead when Bobby Dillon intercepted a Cardinal pass on the Chicago 22. Babe Parelli and Cone worked the ball to the one-foot line and Paul Hornung sneaked over. Cone booted the goal.

BOB SPEAKE
Slams 14th Homer

Cubs Win on Speake's Belt in Ninth, 4-2

NEW YORK (UP) — Bob Speake's ninth-inning homer with Bobby Morgan on base gave young Dave Hillman and the Chicago Cubs a 4-2 victory over the New York Giants Saturday.

Speake's home run, his 14th, was hit off lefty Johnny Antonelli and followed Morgan's one-out single through third baseman Ray Jablonski. Hillman yielded only seven hits in gaining his fifth triumph of the year. The victory also was the eighth in the last 11 games for the Cubs.

Jablonski drove in the Giants' two runs, with a double off the left field wall in the first inning and with a sacrifice fly following Willie Mays' triple in the fourth. However, Ernie Banks tied the score at 2-2 in the eighth when he hit his 29th homer of the season into the left field stands.

Orioles Nab 15th Victory Over A's, 4-2

KANSAS CITY (UP) — Baltimore Oriole pitchers, practically unhittable so far as the Athletics are concerned, came up with their 15th victory of the season over Kansas City Saturday, taking a 4-2 decision behind the great relief pitching of Hector (Skinny) Brown.

The Orioles picked up a quick three runs off Ned Garver in the first two innings and that was enough although the Athletics, trailing 3-1, filled the bases in the sixth off Ken Lehman with none out.

That was where Brown, the knuckle-balling nemesis of the A's, came into the picture. He gave a base on balls to Hal Smith, forcing in one run, after getting Woody Held on a liner to third baseman Billy Goodman. Then he got out without further trouble on popups stroked by Joe DeMaestri and Irv Noren. Brown pitched hitless ball the rest of the way.

20-0 Record Shattered

NEW ORLEANS — A 20-year-old Yankee farmhand who compiled a 20-0 record in the class C Evangeline League made his first start in the class AA Southern Assn. Saturday night and was defeated 12-6.

Young Bob Riesener—who remarked afterward "I was throwing balloons"—gave up nine hits, including two homers and a triple, in the five innings he pitched for the New Orleans Pelicans.

He pitched Alexandria, Va., to a pennant. The Pelicans are in last place.

In This Corner
with DICK ZEHMS

Preseason football ratings are rolling off the presses as late August breezes (?) whisper of onrushing gridiron titanics.

Francis Wallace, who has been at this dodge with one national magazine for 17 years, has shifted his selections to another this year. He has been something of an institution, so his 1957 national "first 20" is worth passing along.

He picks Oklahoma to win another national crown, followed by Iowa, 2; Baylor, 3; Michigan State, 4; Texas A.&M., 5; Tennessee, 6; Michigan, 7; Minnesota, 8; Navy, 9; Duke, 10; Ohio State, 11; Oregon State, 12; Pittsburgh, 13; Penn State, 14; Auburn, 15; Georgia Tech, 16; Colorado, 17; Rice, 18; Kentucky, 19, and Mississippi, 20.

Iowa's Forest Evashevski is his choice for "coach of the year" because Bud Wilkinson, Oklahoma coach, already has enjoyed that honor.

Tommy Prothro's Beavers of Corvallis are his choice to repeat as Pacific Coast Conference champions. He doesn't see much else of importance on the West Coast. In the Big Ten, he forecasts a tie between the Hawkeyes, who mangled the Beavers in the Rose Bowl last Jan. 1, and the Michigan State Spartans.

These rankings will come as no great shock to the Messrs. H. E. Sanders of UCLA and D. Clark of SC, nor to C. Taylor at Stanford and P. Elliott at California.

BIG WEEK. Long Beacher Bill Wilson, outfielding with the Charleston Senators of the American Association, had himself a robust time fattening up on opposition pitching a week ago.

Big Bill has had trouble untracking himself this year, but finally hit his stride. He went "10 for 28" in one stretch, including a couple of home runs. One of them gave Charleston a 3-2, 10-inning win over St. Paul.

Like Long Beacher Bob Lemon of the Cleveland Indians, Bill has been slowed down by sickness and injuries a good part of this season.

BUSY FUTURE. A hectic winter looms for the baseball map-makers. Franchise shifts by the dozens appear in the offing—a chain reaction to the westward movement of the New York Giants and probably the Brooklyn Dodgers.

The Giant switch to San Francisco and the expected move to Los Angeles by the Dodgers will start the ball rolling. Exit the Seals, the Angels and the Hollywood Stars. They also cast dark shadows across the future of the Sacramento Solons and San Diego Padres.

Jerry Donovan, peppy proxy of the Seals, doesn't take a dim view of the future. He has made the statement in public that the Seal franchise, owned by the Boston Red Sox, will be alive next year, probably in the Pacific Coast League. He thinks there will be one. His view isn't shared by Emil Sick, owner of the Seattle Rainiers. Emil is ready to chuck it all rather than continue in a lower classified circuit composed chiefly of Pacific Northwest teams.

Donovan denies the Giants plan to will the Minneapolis franchise of the American Association to the Red Sox as part of their Golden Gate deal. He has intimated that the Seals might wind up in Salt Lake City, now operating in the Pioneer League.

Sacramento's future is a question mark. Same for L. A. and the Stars, pending final word on the Dodgers. San Diego is reported looking longingly toward the Texas League.

KICKOFF. Long Beach City College's Alumni Athletic Council will rip the lid off what it expects will be a rousing good football season this fall by staging a meeting this Thursday night at the Bank of Belmont Shore recreation hall at 8 o'clock.

George Marmion, the moving spirit in Vike alumni movements, yearns for a big turnout to greet Jim Stangeland, Bill Poore and Martin Hicks, the new Norse grid coaches. They'll say a few encouraging words and show some movies.

The Vikings could be big, really big, this fall.

WHAM! The zing with which the National League official baseball is plunking into the catchers' mitts these days has brought this observation from Duke Snider, Compton's gift to the Brooklyn Dodgers.

"When I first came up to the National League," mused Duke, "the pitchers were throwing a lot of slow and breaking stuff. The last two years the kids have moved in and they just rear back and throw hard. There's been a definite change in the type of pitching you face in this league."

Yeah, Duke, the older one gets the faster the youngsters look!

'DON'T HAVE ANY PLANS'

No Offer From Colts--Parker

DETROIT (AP) — Buddy Parker, former Detroit Lions coach, Saturday night denied that he has made any agreement to take over as head coach of the Baltimore Colts.

"There's nothing to it," Parker said. "The Colts have a good coach in Weeb Ewbank. I haven't talked with the Colt owners or anyone connected with them. I don't have any plans—I'm just taking it easy."

Watson Spoelstra reported in the Detroit News that Parker "has made commitments" to take the Colts' job and "possibly before the end of the 1957 season."

The News said the denials were expected for the sake of Ewbank and the morale of the Colts.

Parker provided the most dramatic resignation in Detroit sports history just two days before the Lions opened their exhibition season when he got up at a "Meet the Lions" banquet and told the 600 assembled guests, the players, newsmen and his bosses that he was quitting.

Browns Register 28-13 Win

AKRON (UP) — The Cleveland Browns took advantage of a weak Pittsburgh Steeler line Saturday night to win a 28-13 exhibition professional football victory watched by 28,000 fans here.

The Ohioans' first score came late in the first half with veteran signal caller Tommy O'Connell going over on a quarterback sneak. It climaxed a 67-yard drive which O'Connell paced by connecting on heaves to Frank Clarke and Pete Brewster.

The Browns' quarterback also figured very much in third quarter scoring. With the ball on their own 11, the Browns scored their second six-pointer in six plays. O'Connell contributed two long pass completions in the series.

* * * *

THE 89-YARD drive was climaxed with a nine-yard run by Preston Carpenter. Six minutes later, an 80-yard drive climaxed by All-American freshman Jim Brown of Syracuse, who sparkled throughout the game. Brown took a short O'Connell pass on a draw play and scampered 45 yards into the end zone.

In the last frame, Cleveland's halfback Junior Wren grabbed a Pittsburgh pass and carried it 45 yards to the end zone.

The Steelers scored twice in the final period.

Ferrarese 4-Hits Pads

SAN DIEGO (UP)—Lefthander Don Ferrarese's four-hit pitching Saturday carried Vancouver to its third straight victory over the San Diego Padres, 3-1, in a Pacific Coast League contest at Lane Field.

It was Ferrarese's third triumph in a row over the Padres, who have managed just two runs and 11 hits in 27 innings against the Baltimore Orioles farm hand.

The hurler, who has an 8-5 record, also collected three of the 11 hits the Mounties mustered off Vic Lombardi and Dick Brodowski.

Myerson will meet top-seeded Linn Rockwood of Provo, Utah, for the championship today. Rockwood defeated Bill Parks, No. 5 seeded, of Los Angeles in the semifinal, 6-1, 7-5, 6-3.

In women's singles, Mary Arnold Prentiss, top-seeded, will meet Joan Johnson of Los Angeles for the title.

British Walker Cup Team Surveys Course

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — The British Walker Cup team Saturday got its first shot at Minikahda's 6,500 yard par-71 layout, where it will meet America's top amateurs Friday and Saturday.

Irishman Joe Carr called the course "a good, fair test" but waggishly referred to "some tricky gnats" on the front nine.

The Britishers flew here from Winnipeg where they took part in the Canadian Amateur Tournament. They plan to play an 18-hole hound each day leading up to the Walker Cup competition.

None of them kept a score Saturday but Carr said he shot "around 73."

JOE RODGERS
'Chances Very Good'

Hawks Set for Third Title Bid

NEW BEDFORD, Ill. (Special)—The world softball champion Long Beach Nitehawks were scheduled to arrive here early this morning to open defense of their title beginning Monday.

The Nitehawks, who have won this gruelling 10-day tournament the last two years, will battle the Indiana state champions in a first round feature game Monday.

Manager Joe Rodgers and the bulk of his squad left Long Beach by plane Saturday night. Four players—catcher Stan White, infielders Cleo Goyette and Clint Herron and utility man Red Mealrs—motored east by private auto earlier in the week.

* * * *

ROGERS, WHO rates his chances for a third straight title as "very good," was undecided on his opening game starting pitcher. He can choose among Leroy Zimmerman, Jack Randall and Ritchie Stephen.

This trio pitched the Hawks to a sensational season record of 21 wins in 22 outings. The Hawks' only loss came at the hands of an all-star team in 16 innings.

The rest of the Nitehawks squad includes outfielders Bill Hull, Lucky Humiston and Ted Herder and infielders Larry Silvas and Jimmy Jones.

Sixteen teams are entered in the tourney.

First round pairings:

Today—New Bedford Elites vs. Brownsville, Pa.; Midland, Tex., vs. Gary, Ind.; Dinuba, Calif., vs. Toledo, Ohio; Springfield, Mo., vs. Dayton, Ohio.

Monday—Tulsa, Okla., vs. Arlington, Tex.; Genesco Ill., vs. McClave, Colo.; Long Beach, Calif., vs. Bremen, Ind.; Davenport, Iowa, vs. Providence, R. I.

Kuts Leads Russ Over Britain

LONDON (AP) — The great Vladimir Kuts, Russia's double Olympic champion, came back to the cinder tracks Saturday after months of illness and ran the fastest 10,000 meters in the world this year. His time was 29 minutes, 13.2 seconds.

Kuts began with a fast first 1,000 meters in 2:45.8 and for a brief period appeared en route to an attack on his world record of 28:30.4.

However, he began to slow down in the relentless grind of 24 laps and against a stiff wind on the backstretch. He reached the halfway mark in 14:22.2.

Russia defeated Britain's men's track and field team 119-93, while the Russian women won 73-40.

Saturday's winners:

Men—200 meters—Konovalov (USSR), 21.4; 800 meters—Rawson (Brit.) 1:48.8; 110 meter hurdles—Hildreth (Brit.), 14.4; broadjump—Techen (USSR), 24-6; javelin—Kuzentsov (USSR), 271-11¾; discus—Grigalka (USSR), 180-6; pole vault—Burilly (USSR), Eliott (Brit.), 13-9¼; shotput—Loschilov (USSR), 55-2¼; 4x400 relay—Britain 3:09.4.

New Record Score at Small Bore Meet

CAMP PERRY, Ohio (AP)—Firing a new record score of 6,392 points out of a possible 6,400, John Moschkau of Waterloo, Iowa, Saturday won the National Small Bore Rifle Championship.

The 50-year-old machinist led the field of 585 of the country's finest .22-caliber rifle marksmen for the entire six days of the title run of 16 matches here.

The old record of 6,390 points was set by Mrs. Viola Pollum of Brookville, Pa., in 1955 when she became the only woman ever to hold the national title.

READY FOR FLOYD?

Johansson Eyes Title

GOTHENBURG, Sweden (UP) — Europe's heavyweight champion is "ready" for Floyd Patterson, his manager said here Saturday.

Manager Edwin Ahlquist said his fighter, Sweden's Ingemar Johansson, was hoping for an offer from the world's heavyweight champ.

"We are ready for a fight with Patterson," Ahlquist said. "If we get an offer from America for a fight, we will accept at once.

"I think Ingemar has a good chance to upset Patterson. In any event he will be the fastest boxer that Patterson has ever met," he added.

DOUBLES FINALS TODAY

Mulloy and Patty, Gibson-Hard Win

BROOKLINE, Mass. (AP) — Australia's Ashley Cooper and Neale Fraser demonstrated their Davis Cup potential Saturday by defeating U. S. team members Vic Seixas and Ham Richardson in the semifinals of the National Doubles tennis tournament.

Cooper and Fraser, back together again as a pair, defeated the third seeded Americans, 6-2, 7-9, 10-8, 7-5 at Longwood.

The Aussies are seeded second here.

In the other men's semi-final, top seeded Gardnar Mulloy and Budge Patty summoned their vast experience and accumulated skills to run through Australians Roy Emerson and Bob Mark, 6-2, 6-4, 6-2.

* * * *

WIMBLEDON champions Althea Gibson and Darlene Hard overpowered Jean Arth of St. Paul, Minn., and Pat Naud of San Mateo, Calif., 6-3, 6-4 in a women's semifinal for the right to meet defending titlists Mrs. Margaret DuPont and Louise Brough today for the crown.

Fraser, bothered by a right knee injury suffered earlier in the year, was particularly outstanding as he showed a powerful service, keen placement sense and unusual agility in his leaping volleys at the net.

The Australian southpaw pitched to the ground in pain trying to return a volley in the 15th game of the third set and clutched his back, but, if anything, he played better after the mishap.

* * * *

IT WAS FRASER'S sparkling recovery of a wicked volley in the 11th game of the final set which set up Cooper for a slam that handcuffed Richardson and provided the vital service break against Seixas.

The 43-year-old Mulloy from Miami and the 34-year-old Parisian resident were so sharp and quick thinking they caused Emerson and Mark, expected to make more of a battle of their match, to falter.

Mulloy and Patty took full advantage of Mark's weakness on shootop volleys by bombarding him with low skidding shots. Patty and Mulloy served love games in the second and fourth games.

Defending champion Mrs. Midge Buck of Manchester, Mass., won—her seventh women's seniors' singles championship by defeating Mrs. Louise Ganzenmuller of Seacliffe, N.Y., 6-3, 6-0.

Savitt Spilled Twice in Nations Cup Play

RYE, N. Y. (AP)—A new idea in international tennis competition got under way here Saturday when the Nations Cup was put up for grabs.

Separate teams representing Eastern and Western U.S., Asia, British Commonwealth, England and South America — Mexico were represented.

Main development was that Dick Savitt went down to defeat twice in one-set matches. Herbie Flam, No. 2 player in the country, beat Savitt, 6-3, and Ramanathan Krishnan of India turned the trick, 7-5.

* * * *

SAVITT IS A temperamental fellow and it is possible he didn't take his matches too seriously. Also, the obvious fact that each match was limited to one set detracted from the calibre of play. A single set really means nothing since some players are fast starters and some slow.

Flam also downed Joaquin Reyes of South America, 6-3. In other singles matches, Sid Schwartz of U.S. East turned back Kosei Kamo of Asia, Japan's top player, 6-3, and Mike Franks, a young U.S. hopeful who was placed on the shorthanded South American team, edged Johann Kupferburger of the Commonwealth, 7-5.

In doubles, Whitney Reed of Alameda, California, and Sam Giammalva of Houston, Tex., representing U.S. West, outlasted Reyes and Franks, 11-9, and Krishnan and Kamo crushed Barry MacKay of Dayton, Ohio, and Ron Holmberg of Brooklyn, playing for U.S. East, 6-0.

That left the scores at the end of the first day's play: U.S. West 18, U.S. East 13, Mexico-South America 13, Asia 15, Commonwealth, 4, England 0.

American Trapshoot President Wins Title

VANDALIA, Ohio (AP) — The 58th Grand American Tropshoot ended Saturday with Vic Reinders, University of Wisconsin professor and newly elected president of the American Trapshoot Assn., gaining top honors.

Reinders won the over-all championship—961 out of 1,000 targets—and captured the All-Around title with 386-400. Lela Hall Frank of Los Angeles, absent for nine years, won the over-all women's title with 911-1,000, eight ahead of 17-year-old Helen Thomas of Los Angeles.

Venturi Nabs 5-Shot Lead

MILWAUKEE (UP)—Young Ken Venturi, who claimed he plays to win and "not for money," increased his lead Saturday at the three-quarter mark of the $35,000 Miller Open tournament with a five-under-par 65 for a 54-hole total of 199.

The 26-year-old Venturi socked in six birdies, two of them on the last three holes, to wind up with the best round of the day.

Al Balding, the cigar-smoking pro from Big Winn Inn, Ont., shot a 69 to put him five strokes behind Venturi with a 204 total. Mike Souchak, Grossinger, N. Y., who got a 67 Saturday, was one stroke back of Balding with a 205.

Bunched at 206 were Don Whitt, Alameda, Calif.; Paul Harney, Worcester, Mass.; Sammy Snead and Bob Rosburg.

* * * *

VENTURI, WHO HAS finished in the money 13 of 14 tournaments since turning pro nine months ago, continued to putt brilliantly. He knocked in one 35-footer, a 25-footer and just missed an eagle on the second hole, when his putt rimmed the cup.

Balding, the 33-year-old Canadian pro, had two birdies and played par golf for the remainder, except for a bogey on the 12th.

Snead, the only old pro who could overtake Venturi today, had a 69 and would have been lower but for his continued putting trouble, particularly short ones.

* * * *

VENTURI, A NATIVE of San Francisco, said he had been erratic with his putter until about a month ago when he made "a couple of adjustments."

Venturi won the St. Paul Open last weekend with a record equaling score and could better the 265 with Ed Furgol won last year's tournament.

Suggs Leads 'America' Open by 4

KANSAS CITY (UP) — Sharp iron play and an accurate putter gave Georgia veteran Louise Suggs of Sea Island a three-under-par 72 Saturday for a 36-hole total of 146 and a fat four-stroke lead in the $5,000 Heart of America Open.

Miss Suggs, who has won virtually every major title for women in her 10-year-professional career, faltered on only two holes for bogies on the 6,400 yard hilly layout.

With the final 18 holes to play today, Bonnie Randolph, 30-year-old Naples, Fla., pro in her third year on the circuit, moved into second place with 76, one-over-par for a 150 total.

Fay Crocker, Montevideo, Uruguay, a former U. S. Open champion, and Marlene Bauer Hagge, Delray Beach, Calif., 1956 top money winner, were next with 151 totals.

but planned two fights next year.

"If the IBC (International Boxing Club) would agree, I'd like to meet Eddie Machen or Pat McMurtry right after the first of the year."

Mike Jennings of Columbus, Ga., a principal Rademacher financial backer, quickly denied there was any racial issue. So did Pete Gannon, Washington, D. C., who helped negotiate for the bout.

But Watson said there was no question about accuracy of the quotes, and two other reporters backed him up.

"Notes were taken right in front of Patterson," Watson said, "and several questions were repeated to him. He spelled out his feelings clearly."

Jennings, president of Youth Unlimited, the organization that raised the $250,000 Patterson guarantee, said the race question "was never involved in any way."

Gannon said Clarence Hinnant, Negro sparring partner for Rademacher, "sat at the same table with us" during negotiations in Georgia and "there was no color line at all."

Midget Driver Killed; Parsons Wins 100-Miler

WEST ALLIS, Wis. (UP)—Veteran Johnny Parsons of Van Nuys, Calif., roared past a stalled Pat O'Connor of North Vernon, Ind., Saturday to win a tragedy-marred 100-mile midget auto race here at the Wisconsin State Fair.

Parsons averaged 92.2 m.p.h. O'Connor, who had held almost a lap lead on the mile paved track, stalled on the back stretch of the final lap.

Henry Nykaza, 37, Chicago Heights, Ill., was fatally injured in the 69th mile when his racer blew a rear tire and careened into a wall. He died en route to Milwaukee County General Hospital.

Rodger Ward of Los Angeles finished second; Lem Sutton of Portland, third; Gene Hartley of Roanoke, Ind., fourth; and Frank Burany of Milwaukee, fifth.

SDD needs an aeronautical engineer who might aptly be described as a specialist in the element of choice.
He will be required to evaluate equipment and equipment systems for purposes of incorporation into a major nation-wide system.
The position requires general familiarity with a wide range of technical subjects, including missiles, interceptor aircraft, and electronic systems, with recent specialization in at least one of these.
The ability to think in broad concepts, while retaining mastery of subordinate but complex factors, is also necessary.

THE ELEMENT OF CHOICE

This engineer must be qualified to keep up with advancements in his field, through liaison with other departments and companies.

Bob Kelley Says—

Curly Lambeau studied Waterfield unhappily. They were talking football.

"Bob," Lambeau pleaded. "Do we have to go through that again. I say you were the greatest passer and greatest quarterback ever to come into the NFL."

"Wrong," Waterfield smiled. "Norm Van Brocklin is the greatest passer I've ever seen. And Otto Graham is the greatest all-around quarterback."

Lambeau shrugged. He'd been through this argument before.

When the experts rate the all-timers, they list Sid Luckman, Sammy Baugh, Waterfield and Graham. I am not too sure but what you could safely drop Luckman out of there.

Despite all his accolades, Luckman could not throw with the other three.

In fact, a subject like this always scares me, because I'm afraid someone is going to talk me out of the notion that Waterfield was No. 1 of all time.

There is an extremely strong case for Otto Graham. During his entire career with the Browns, he never failed to win at least a divisional championship in both the All-America Conference and the NFL.

Last year, with Graham gone, the Browns finished out of the money for the first time since their inception. Does this not indicate that Paul Brown's genius might partially be spelled G-R-A-H-A-M?

Of course, it would be equally silly to say Waterfield was not great because he played on only two world championship teams. It's like the joker who wrote that article for Sports Illustrated a few months ago.

By his calculations, Ty Cobb—with a leading lifetime average of .367 over more than 20 years—was not really great because he didn't play for many winning teams.

Ridiculous logic. Just as ridiculous as calling Willie Shoemaker a bum jockey because he finished last in the race. Shoemaker cannot carry a horse, nor could Waterfield or Cobb carry teams.

Still, when you come right down to it, I have to eliminate Luckman, then Baugh, and I am left with Waterfield and Graham as the greatest of all eras.

And old Buck is still No. 1 to me.

WOULD YOU BE afraid of a stocky young man weighing 105 pounds? I doubt it—unless you're a girl weighing 105 pounds.

Yet 105-pound jockey Milo Valenzuela has a good deal of respect, and some fear, from his rival riders. He's the fellow they cater to at parties, the one they butter up constantly, as one would butter up his boss.

Why? Maybe it is because they don't want Valenzuela, probably one of the greatest natural riders of modern days, to give them the worst of it in a race. Milo is a take-chancer, who screams: "Here I come!" And he comes through all right, knocking other horses down, if he must.

"Milo has two bad habits," a fellow rider commented recently. "He's too reckless. He risks everybody's neck. And he likes to hang around honky-tonk joints with honky-tonk people. I wish he'd get some class.

"One of these days," the rider added reflectively. "Valenzuela is going to come busting through on the inside, and some other jock is going to drop his horse down in front, and Milo's going to go through the rail.

"It won't be me, though. How could I sleep at night?"

How Now Wins Crosby Sprint

(Compiled from AP and UP)

How Now, a Texas-bred gelding with a terrific turn of speed, rolled to his fourth victory of the meeting at Del Mar Saturday, winning the 12th running of the $15,000-added Bing Crosby Handicap by a length from the front-running 3-year-old, Jedgar Ruler.

With Ray York aboard, How Now, owned by George C. Newell, Seattle insurance man, swept the six furlongs in 1:09 1/5, fastest time of the meeting and only two-fifths off the track standard set by Colonel Mack and then tied by Prince Khaled last season.

The winner was top weight in the field of nine, packing 122 pounds, and was sent away by the crowd of 18,641 as the lukewarm public choice, paying $7.30 on the front end. Noredski finished third.

• • • •

JEWEL'S REWARD came fast in the final eighth under a whipping ride by Willie Hartack to upset the odds-on favorite, Alhambra, and win the $144,550 Washington Park Futurity by a length and a quarter.

Jewel's Reward, the only supplementary entry in the field of nine, added $92,050 to his earnings for a total of $125,145. It was his second win in eight starts and second stake triumph as well.

Jewel's Reward was a 12-to-1 choice in the field while Alhambra, the heavy favorite of the crowd of 22,195, went off at 3-5.

Jewel's Reward was timed in 1:11 1/5 and paid $26.80. Strong Ruler finished third.

• • • •

RENEGED, another outsider, raced to victory in the 55th running of the Saratoga Handicap, beating Ricci Tavi by a length under a strong ride by Bobby Ussery. C. V. Whitney's Career Boy, showing some improvement, was third. Finishing fifth in the field of 10 was the favored Dedicate under high impost of 127 pounds.

Reneged, earning a purse of $40,000, covered the mile and a quarter in 2:04 3/5 and paid $32.50 to win. He carried only 113 pounds.

BEN LOMOND outgamed Frank A. Piarulli's Vertex to gain a neck decision in the $29,625 Ventnor Turf Handicap at Atlantic City. Anxious Moment was third.

Second choice in the wagering before 32,893 fans, Ben Lomond, coupled with Anxious Moment, returned $7.20 to win. Ben Lomond was timed in 1:43 for the mile and one-sixteenth.

LAUREL BID TO GALLANT MAN

LAUREL, Md. (UP)—Gallant man, 3-year-old owned by Ralph Lowe of Texas, was offered Saturday the first chance to represent the United States in Laurel's International horse race on Nov. 11.

The bid to Gallant Man is the earliest issued by the selection board of turf writers in the six years of the $100,000 mile and a half race on the grass.

The Irish Derby winner, Ballymoss, already has been named for the Laurel International.

Hambletonian Will Be Run in Two Divisions

DU QUOIN, Ill. (UP)—A near record field of 21 top trotters Saturday forced officials to split the Hambletonian Stakes, to be run Tuesday, into two divisions for the first time since the race began in 1926.

The total prize money of $112,000 is second only to the purse of $117,000 in the 1953 Hambletonian when 23 trotters went to the post for the best of three heats.

Under the split set-up, 11 will go in the first division and 10 in the second. Each division will run two heats and the winners will meet in a fifth and final shakedown for the first time in the history of the race.

Shantz to Miss One Turn on Hill

CLEVELAND (UP) — Bobby Shantz of the Yankees suffered no serious injury of his pitching hand when struck by a line drive Friday night and probably will miss only one turn on the mound.

A ball off the bat of Bobby Avila of the Indians hit Shantz on the left hand in the sixth inning, and the three middle fingers puffed up. A splint was placed on the middle finger, but x-rays Saturday showed no fracture. Shantz has won 10 and lost only three games this season.

Military Golf Title

PARRIS ISLAND S. C. (AP)—Lt. Hillman Robbins of Blytheville Air Force Base, Ark., staged a brilliant rally here Saturday to capture the interservice golf tournament in a playoff with Sp.3c Ray Moore of Ft. Bliss, Tex., after both finished the regulation 72 holes in 290.

LEADS 'SHOE' IN TOTAL WINNERS

Hartack Eyes Arcaro's Stakes Mark

WILLIE HARTACK
Smacks of Confidence

CHICAGO (AP) — America's winningest jockey, 24-year-old Bill Hartack, has his sights set on Eddie Arcaro's record of 40 stakes triumphs in one year. He's fewer than 10 away right now.

In the process of overhauling old campaigner Arcaro's mark, Hartack easily could stow away an unprecedented third straight riding championship.

Hartack's 261 winners for the year, including 32 stakes victories, has him well in front of his closest pursuer, Willie Shoemaker, who has 225.

"I think I can crack Arcaro's record," said Hartack. "I've got enough time left, thanks to the good start I got in Florida. What's better, I get good horses to ride in stakes and that's the only way to win them."

If that smacks of confidence, it should.

Master Hartack is 112 pounds of solid confidence, not to mention great riding skill. It was said of the late Georgie Woolf he rode with a clock in his head.

You might say of Hartack he rides with the "book" in his head.

"I study my opposition thoroughly," explains this remarkable chap, who rode his first official race as recently as Oct. 11, 1952, at tiny Waterford Park, Chester, W. Va.

"Then a study of film patrol movies of other horses in the race gives me a pretty good idea of what we have to beat. I test my horse all the way to the post. I learn a lot about a horse by the feel of the bit in his mouth and the way he strides."

Last year, Hartack led jockeys in all departments with 347 winners, worth a total of $2,343,955, with $1,037,077 accrued in stakes and features.

Hartack and Shoemaker have been feuding for national honors since 1953 when Shoemaker had an all-time high of 485 winners and Hartack was next with 350. In 1954, the Shoe won 380 and Hartack 323. But Hartack passed Willie in 1955, with 417 winners against Shoemaker's 307.

Hartack suffered his worst spill July 10 at Arlington Park. First reports were he had broken his neck. Four days later, taped like a mummy, Bill was back in the saddle winning races.

"That fall scared me a lot," Hartack recounted. "But it also made me mad that I got into a position where I spilled."

COP May Be Surprise of Independent Grids

By Associated Press

Miami and Navy seek a slice of the national football pie while Notre Dame starts the long trek back from its worst season in history. That, in a nutshell, is the outlook for the major independent college teams in the approaching gridiron campaign.

TERRY BRENNAN
Schedule Plainly Brutal

The University of Pittsburgh, a bowl participant for the past two years, figures to be a step below the Hurricanes and Midshipmen on the basis of a murderous schedule. The Panthers open against defending national champion Oklahoma.

For high-powered offensive antics and a few surprises, watch Moose Myers' Tigers from College of the Pacific.

• • • •

COLLEGE OF the Pacific, fourth in total offense a year ago, has lettermen for every position and a line averaging 217 pounds.

Junior Dick Bass ran up 116 yards for each of four games before injured in '56 and still wound up 36th in rushing. Quarterback Tom Flores finished fourth in total offense and eighth in passing. End Farrell Funston was ninth in pass receiving.

At Coral Gables and Annapolis, outstanding records are expected in the event a few "ifs" are resolved favorably.

Quick development of a star-spangled sophomore crop is needed at Miami where only nine of the first 22 players return from the 1956 squad which ranked sixth nationally.

Added incentive has been provided by recent NCAA action lifting a ban on bowl games which was imposed on Miami two years ago for code violations.

• • • •

NAVY'S BIGGEST worry as it enters its 75th year of intercollegiate competition is overconfidence.

Numbering seven starters among the 16 lettermen available, the Middies ended spring practice early because coach Eddie Erdelatz said "we accomplished our mission." Erdelatz called it "the best spring practice we ever had."

The Middies have depth and a line averaging 213 pounds—heaviest in Academy history.

Top ground gainer Ned Oldham is back along with flea-sized fullback Dick Dagampat, who provided the 7-7 tie with Army last year, and quarterback Tom Forrestal who ranked 17th nationally as a passer.

• • • •

SIGNS ARE encouraging at Notre Dame where the only direction is up following a disastrous 2-8 campaign. Coach Terry Brennan is sure the Irish luck will prevent a recurrence of the 33 key injuries which hit the '56 club.

But the schedule is plainly brutal—Purdue, Indiana, Army, Pitt, Navy, Michigan State, Oklahoma, Iowa, Southern California, Southern Methodist. In addition, quarterback Paul Hornung and halfback Jim Morse are gone.

In Brennan's own words:

"We will have more experience than a year ago, but still lack the depth so necessary to play the type of schedule attempted by Notre Dame every year."

Pitt, fresh from its best season since 1938, will field another fine club headed by 222-pound center Charley Brueckman. The record may not prove it, however, after the Panthers run headlong into Oklahoma followed by Oregon, SC, Nebraska, Army, Notre Dame, Syracuse, West Virginia, Penn State and Miami.

Penn State looks better on paper than the '56 Nittany Lions who lost only twice.

At Army, backfield material is plentiful but the line has been shredded by graduations. A major objective will be the Notre Dame game, Oct. 12, in Philadelphia—renewing a series broken off after 1947.

Baltimore Recalls Green From Mounties

KANSAS CITY (UP)—The Baltimore Orioles Saturday recalled lefthanded outfielder Lenny Green from their Vancouver farm affiliate and said he would report in time to play in today's doubleheader with the Chicago White Sox.

General Manager Paul Richards of the Orioles also indicated that Baltimore would sign 42-year-old pitcher Paul (Dizzy) Trout, one-time Detroit Tiger star, after Sept. 1, when the rules permit a greater number of men on the roster.

Seek Approval of '58 Mille Miglia Race

BRESCIA, Italy (AP)—Organizers of Italy's hazardous and often tragic Mille Miglia (1,000-mile) open road race Saturday asked government permission to schedule it for next year.

After a meeting the organizers — the Brescia Automobile Club—said they proposed running the race on either the first or second Sunday of next May.

There have been strong press and public demands both in Italy and abroad for abolition of the race which took 13 lives this year.

DOPE CASES

Ban Trainer, 2nd Groom

The California Horse Racing Board has set down two grooms and a trainer—one of them for at least a year—in connection with the stimulation of thoroughbreds in Southern California this summer.

The license of groom L. C. Cornstalk Toole was revoked at the Friday board meeting.

The other penalties were assessed against trainer Willie Wyndle and groom Don White. Wyndle was suspended 90 days, retroactive to Aug. 6, when he was grounded by Del Mar stewards following the stimulation of Rekindled. White was suspended 30 days in connection with the Rekindled doping.

Jockeys' Guild to Honor Alessio

NEW YORK (AP)—The Jockeys' Guild Saturday named John S. Alessio, executive director of the Caliente race track, Tijuana, Mexico, "man of the year" for his efforts in developing a safety helmet.

When a young jockey, Leroy Nelson, fell from a horse at Caliente in 1956 and was killed by a kick in the head, Alessio personally financed development and adoption of a fibreglass helmet. It is now used as standard equipment at most major tracks.

Eddie Arcaro, Guild president, will present the award to Alessio at the organization's annual dinner here Sept. 28.

NASCAR 100-Lapper at Speedway Saturday

Bill McKay has programmed a NASCAR 100-lap national championship late model stock car race at Los Angeles Speedway Saturday evening to highlight a big Labor Day weekend of racing at the Southside strip.

Regional NASCAR executive Coldeway expects more than 30 1956 and 1957 model cars to compete in the chase. They'll be battling for a guaranteed purse of $3,200.

Fishin' Around

By DONNELL CULPEPPER

The Pete Peters family, consisting of Pete; his wife, Neva; a 10-year-old son, Wayne and Jackie, just 4, seems determined to defy all time and space in a fishing marathon that never seems to end. Pete, incidentally, is skipper of the Fisherman II at Pacific Landing.

Pete is the type of man who occasionally hires another skipper to run his boat so that he can take a day off from the seven-day-a-week grind that all skippers face at this busy time of the year. So, what does Pete do on that day off? He travels half way to San Francisco to fish for salmon; or he speeds down to the Colorado River to fish for bass. He may even go to Irvine Lake to catch a few crappie.

And what does he do as skipper of the Fisherman II? He'll stay out there for 24 hours, provided his passengers are willing. There seems to be no end to his energy.

Neva, Pete's wife, probably has just as much energy. She runs the galley on the Fisherman II and, between making hamburgers and fresh pots of coffee for the patrons, finds time to flick an anchovy on a hook when the boat's in a hot school of fish.

Wayne is following in his mom's and dad's wake and is developing into a top angler, too. He has caught albacore, yellowtail, bluefin tuna, barracuda and kelp bass. Last week he experienced his biggest fishing thrill when he landed a dolphin.

• • • •

NEVA REALLY flipped a bait last Thursday. It was just the usual anchovy but a marlin liked it, grabbed it and took off. It just about scared the wits out of Neva, but she stuck with the fish despite the fact that she was using 20-pound-test monofilament.

One hour and 45 minutes later, the 224-pound marlin peacefully gave up after 31 jumps. The Fisherman II patrons, with 65 yellows in their own sacks, had a real thrill in watching the battle. Pete was thrilled, too, but just a bit envious.

Coming home, Pete sent a deckhand to the wheel, rigged his heavy marlin outfit and started trolling with a dead mackerel. Nothing happened for a long time even though the deckhand slowed to trolling speed at every bit of kelp.

Then, finally, the rod tip bent and the reel began to sing. Pete set the hook. Within 30 minutes he had another marlin aboard. It weighed 176 pounds. All of which comprises some sort of a record for a sportfishing boat that isn't outfitted for even one marlin, much less two.

The Fisherman II returned to its dock shortly before 10 p.m. and the Peters were ready to go again at 1 a.m. A bit of endurance, we'd say!

HORSESHOE KELP provided ocean fishermen with some of the wildest days of the season last week. The action became so hot Friday that boats out of Pierpoint and Pacific were loading with limits of barracuda and white sea bass within a couple of hours and heading for home.

Passenger loads are running light on weekdays and if you haven't tried the ocean, by all means take a trip to the Horseshoe Kelp this week. You'll never regret it.

Pierpoint, Pacific, Belmont Pier and Seal Beach Pier boats are usually loaded to capacity on Saturdays and Sundays, but there's always room through the week.

Mac McClintock of Pierpoint called Saturday to say that one boat had gone out to the Horseshoe Friday with only six passengers. They caught limits within an hour. The skipper said that 20 or 30 others could have done the same, had they been on board.

Even the small skiffs are getting tremendous catches of fish. Clarence Smith, using frozen squid for bait, tied into a 200-pound black sea bass Thursday night at the Horseshoe. The fish pulled his small boat around in circles for quite a while, but he landed the fish, almost as large as his boat, and returned to Pacific Landing at 4 a.m. Friday.

DOVE SEASON begins next Sunday, with exceptionally bright prospects for one of the best shoots in years. Only a sudden weather change can dim the chances of a banner 30-day hunt. Shooting hours will be from half an hour before sunrise to sunset. Bag and possession limit: 10 birds.

Imperial County, no doubt, will provide the best shooting in the state, but don't overlook open areas in Fresno, Tulare, Riverside, Kern, Merced and Stanislaus Counties.

There's an open season—two days only—on ruffled and Sierra grouse Sept. 1 and 2 in Del Norte, Humboldt, Siskiyou, Trinity, Shasta, Tehama, Modoc and Lassen Counties. Limit is two birds. Sage grouse may be taken in Modoc and Lassen only on the same two days.

Deer hunters are blaming every one for the poor take of animals this year, but the truth is that few deer hunters are out in the hills—not enough, in fact, to stir up the bucks. You can't blame a deer for hiding in the shade these hot days. Not only that, but the statewide drought is forcing deer to change their habitat. DF&G men say there are more bucks in the lower brushy canyons than ever before. And those spots are difficult for two-footed creatures carrying guns, to reach.

OUTDOOR PERSONALS — Glenn Tennel, 8820 Charloma Dr., Downey, took a 13-pound silver salmon at the Horseshoe Thursday while fishing aboard his outboard. He came in, talking about the "big sea bass" he had just caught.

The Super Express III, skippered by Bob Straipp, is running out of Pacific Landing at 4 a.m. daily as an all-day local boat.

The last grunion run this year starts Monday at 10:45 p.m. and continues for the following three nights, with the run 45 minutes or an hour later each succeeding evening.

Just in case you haven't seen the news already, here are dates of the migratory waterfowl season for California, Arizona and Oregon: Oct. 12 to Jan. 14, inclusive. That makes a 95-day season, longer by 15 days than any California has had for many years.

Duck limits will be nine birds, three of which must be sprig or widgeon. You can take only six ducks provided you do not take the sprig or widgeon. Limit on coots is six, of which three must be the dark species. No Canadian geese may be shot in District 22, which takes in the Colorado River and the Salton Sea. Goot season runs simultaneously with ducks, with a limit of 25.

MARLIN MASTERS

Skipper Pete Peters and Mrs. Peters display 224-pound marlin she caught on 20-pound line while fishing for yellowtail on the Fisherman II. Not to be outdone, Peters landed one on heavy tackle on the run home from the fishing grounds. His weighed 176 pounds.

HEAVY MARINE SLATE

Outboards Race at Marine Stadium

By BOB RUSKAUFF

A host of Southland marine sports action today will be headlined by (1) the battle of 75 western outboard race drivers in their big Marine Stadium regatta, starting at noon and (2) the Long Beach Yacht Club's annual small-boat invitational regatta off Alamitos Bay.

They're but part of a huge array, however, in another transcending weekend. Other events include:

Concluding races of the Los Angeles YC's invitational one-design series at outer harbor and, on bay and ocean at Newport-Balboa, the Voyagers YC's final action of their 11th annual summer invitational.

In the latter 24 classes are competing, 12 racing on ocean and 12 on bay courses.

Meantime, at San Diego, the world's top Star boat sailors are gathered for Monday's start of the seventh Silver Star (North American) championships—a five-race series ending Saturday.

Some 13 of the Alamitos Bay Sabot fleet's top skippers and skipperettes are competing at Mission Bay in three-race wind-up, today, of their own little world series.

• • • •

AS FOR THE outboard skirmishes, nine fleets will take to the briny at noon, for 18 heats of racing over the single-buoy Marine Stadium turns.

Featured action, however, will be regional finals to choose top three boats in each fleet, to compete later in national championships for the tiny M-Hydroplane and big F-Racing runabout classes.

In both fields will be the present national champions. Eric Molinar, youthful Hollywood star, took the M title and Chuck Parsons of Lodi the "Thundering Herd" championship, during the nationals of 1956—which were held on the same Marine Stadium course.

The big meet of the "alky-burners" is co-sponsored by the Long Beach Junior Chamber of Commerce and the Los Angeles Speedboat Association.

Another lusty ocean sail feature on the agenda will be return sail, starting at noon off Long Point, of some 25 yachts which sailed cross channel from Balboa, Saturday, on first leg of the Newport Harbor YC's annual Moonstone Cove race.

IMMIGRATION LAW CHANGES

Congress to Help Keep Games in Squaw Valley

WASHINGTON (AP) — Expected easing by Congress of some restrictions in the immigration law will help keep the 1960 winter Olympic Games in Squaw Valley, Calif., Rep. Engle (Calif) said Saturday.

Engle said he has been assured by Rep. Walter (Pa) that proposed changes in the law will permit the secretary of state to waive fingerprinting requirements for Olympic athletes.

Under present law, all persons entering the country on temporary visas must be fingerprinted.

Red China, Bulgaria and other countries within the Soviet bloc announced they would not send their teams to the 1960 winter Olympics unless the fingerprinting requirements were waived.

Avery Brundage, director of the International Olympic Commission, said such action might mean transfer of the Games to another country.

"Personally, I don't care whether the athletes under Russian control compete or not," Engle said, "but I do want to do everything I can to help assure that the Games be held in California."

Virginia Holds Tee Spotlight

By JACK TEELE

The ninth annual Virginia Country Club Invitational, a 36-hole partner's best ball event at full handicap, will take over the golf spotlight in Long Beach this week.

A wide-open race looms for the Dr. A. C. Sellery trophy this year with over 150 teams vying for the title won in 1956 by Riviera's Dr. Peter Thomas and Mickey Brachman.

The 18-hole qualifying rounds for the tournament my be played Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday or Friday. Low 60 teams and ties will move into the 36-hole title meet slated for Saturday and Sunday.

• • • •

THOMAS AND Brachman, who won rounds of 65-61, will not be back to defend their crown. Neil White and Jim Ferrie of the host club, who combined for low gross honors with 132 last year, will be playing with different partners.

White, recent winner of the Virginia championship, will team with Hal McGrew. Ferrie's partner will be Ray Waestman.

Other low handicappers from Virginia and their partners include Jack Gage and Milt McGrew, Del Walker and Milt Arthur and Julie Bescos and J. V. Evans.

Leading the out-of-town challengers is the intercollegiate whiz Bob McAllister of San Gabriel, who is teamed with Lou Hageman.

• • • •

ONLY PAST champion in the fields is Harwood Clark, who shared the trophy with Carl Haymond in 1954. Clark's partner this week will be Dr. Ed Neushutz.

Among the celebrities participating will be baseball's Bob Lemon, who still hits 'em a mile bad elbow and all, and the movies' Johnny Weissmuller, a fine golfer who has no peer as a player of water holes. Unfortunately, Virginia is dry!

Nicklaus Captures Jaycee Golf Tourney

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UP)—Pretourney favorite Jackie Nicklaus of Columbus overcame a two-stroke deficit Saturday to win the 12th annual Jaycee International golf tournament.

The 17-year-old 1956 runner-up carded a one-over par 73 to inch ahead of third-round leader John Konsek, of Lancaster, N. Y., 284 to 296.

Konsek, who previously carded rounds of 73-72-74, shot a five-over par 77. He had a bogey six on the final hole.

WESTERN GOLF

Campbell in Finals

ST. LOUIS (UP) — Dr. Ed Updegraff scored a 2 and 1 victory over Phil Rodgers of La Jolla, Calif., Saturday to move into the finals of the 55th Western Amateur golf championship along with Joe Campbell of Knoxville, Tenn.

Russia Hits Its Stride in Oil Production

Soviet Now Rates Third, Still Gains

By THOMAS W. WHITNEY
AP Foreign News Analyst

The Soviet Union — already the third largest petroleum producer in the world—is upping its oil output rapidly each year.

The Russian oil industry which has at its disposal rich new fields, good drilling equipment, a large corps of experienced personnel, ample investment capital and a big domestic market has at last during the last three years hit its stride.

This year alone it's expected Soviet oil output will rise nearly 15 million metric tons over that of last year and reach in total nearly 100 million tons.

This is some 30 per cent less than Venezuela is expected to produce this year and only a little better than one-quarter of the gigantic U.S. output—but it's approximately equal to the combined production of Kuwait and Saudi Arabia, the two largest producers in the Middle East.

* * * *

HERE'S HOW it's estimated the big five oil producers of the world will stack up in 1957:

Area	Barrels Per Day
United States	7,283,000
Venezuela	2,800,000
U.S.S.R.	1,860,000
Kuwait	1,650,000

Here's how Soviet oil output has risen since the end of World War II, with yearly totals in metric tons:

1945	19,400,000
1950	37,900,000
1954	59,300,000
1955	70,800,000
1956	83,800,000
1957	98,000,000

* * * *

THE RUSSIANS in 1945 faced a petroleum crisis of major magnitude. By that year as compared with 1940 their output had fallen off 40 per cent. This was not a matter merely of wartime difficulties, shortages and destruction—though those played a role too. The major factor in the picture was the exhaustion of the great Baku oil fields on the Caspian coast which had always been the most important source of Soviet oil. Baku produced in 1940 22,000,000 tons or over 70 per cent of total Soviet production. But by World War II the Baku fields had been ruthlessly exploited for some 70 years. They folded. They will probably never be the same again.

Even today despite extensive offshore drilling many miles out into the Caspian, Baku produces still only about two-thirds of what it did before World War II.

* * * *

THIS COULD HAVE BEEN disastrous for the Soviet Union, which needs vast quantities of petroleum and its products for its tractors, air force and transport.

However, before the era during the war there had been discovered and brought into exploitation new oil fields located in the area between the Volga River and the Ural Mountains. The particular centers of production which developed there were near Kuibyshev on the Volga and Tuimazy in Bashkiria.

The Soviet government exerted a major effort to expand output in the area. It paid off richly. These new oil fields produce at the present time probably around two-thirds of all Soviet oil. They contain rich reserves and it's expected that production can expand there rapidly for a long time in the future.

* * * *

THESE FIELDS have another important advantage over those at Baku which is close to the Soviet frontier. They are in the heart of the country. This locates them well strategically and from the point of view of economy in transportation.

With their rapidly rising output the Russians could enter the petroleum export field on a large scale if they so desired.

They do export some oil at the present time — on a relatively small scale. Nevertheless it's not to be expected that the Soviet Union will ship large quantities of oil to foreign countries at least during the next few years. To export oil the Russians would have to deprive industry, transport and the military of fuel they require for their own expansion.

Big Dollar Cuts Caper in Canada

OTTAWA (AP)—Canadians reacted with mixed feeling of dismay and delight as their dollar put on a new display of strength last week, rising to unprecedented heights in the world's money markets.

Set free in 1950, the Canadian dollar had been riding at a premium of between two and four cents in relation to United States currency in recent years. On Tuesday it climbed to a record premium of more than six cents and then settled a little below that but still at a all-time high.

For importers it was good news. Canada is one of the world's biggest buyers of foreign goods. The higher premium meant some savings on imports, that might be passed along to consumers to help restrain rising living costs.

* * * *

BUT CANADA also has a heavy deficit in foreign trade. She has bought much more than she has sold and her deficit in 1956 reached a peak of $842,300,000. Total trade — exports and imports—swelled by $1,500,000,000 to a record $10,568,000,000.

Some Canadians argue that the high premium will encourage more and more imports, adding to the deficit and increasing prospects of widespread foreign control over Canadian industry.

The tourist industry fears that the low value of the American dollar in Canada—it takes about $1.06 in American funds to buy $1 Canadian — will frighten foreign visitors from Canadian resorts.

Main complaint comes from exporters. The high premium cuts into their profit margins and increases their problems in meeting for price competition.

* * * *

GOLD PRODUCERS, selling on the official market, appealed this week for increased federal subsidies.

V. C. Wansborough of Toronto, managing director of the Canadian Metal Mining Assn., said that for gold producers the rising premium is like the "turn of the screw." Gold was pegged at $35 an ounce, U.S. funds. Translated in Canadian funds it meant a drop to about $33. Production costs were rising while the selling price was dropping.

Through most of the 1940s, the dollar was pegged at a discount of 10 per cent. Many Canadians now feel there should be a repegging of the dollar, perhaps at par with American currency, or that other steps be taken to restrain it from its mighty climb. But there is definite opposition to interference with the dollar's freedom.

Experts argue that when the dollar was pegged the government found it difficult to keep it at the official rate. The heavy flow of foreign investors "hot" money in 1950—gambling on a rise in the Canadian dollar—was an example of the problem.

Federal officials appear to conclude that the dollar will be "self-correcting."

BELLEHURST'S CLOVERNOOK RADIATES WARMTH

A huge, genuine Palos Verdes stone fireplace creates a feeling of warmth and hospitality in Bellehurst's Clovernook model. The Chinese contemporary setting was furnished by W. and J. Sloane, who furnished eight of the 15 models which are open daily from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m.

BELLEHURST BUYS EQUITIES

Home Trade-in Plan Popular

A quick, practical method of trading your present home or equity in on a new Bellehurst home in Bellehurst's 900-acre country club development in the Fullerton-Buena Park area has been received with enthusiasm by home buyers, W. D. Windisch, development spokesman, said Saturday.

According to Windisch, "Bellehurst will buy your old home for its established valuation at the time a new home is selected in Bellehurst.

"We have found that the majority of buyers of new Bellehurst homes have sufficient equity in their present home to more than take care of the 10% down payment required."

Said Windisch, "The plan eliminates the many problems encountered in selling the buyers present home on the open market. Most of the new Bellehurst purchasers have built up more than ample equity in their old home during the past several years and now are ready to 'trade-up' to a home in the private country club community of Bellehurst."

Bellehurst is located in the Fullerton-Buena Park area and surrounds the new $2.5 million Los Coyotes Country Club. There are 183 three and four bedroom luxury class homes in the first unit, ranging in price from $30,000.00 to $37,000.00. A few estate size lots up to one acre in size are still available.

Purchasers are eligible for membership in the new country club which includes a 27 hole golf course, three large swimming pools, tennis and badminton courts and other recreational facilities.

Eight models furnished by W. and J. Sloane are open daily from 9:00 a.m. to 9:00 p.m. and are situated one mile north of the Santa Ana Freeway on Highway 39.

Roosevelt Shelves 'Divorcement' Bill

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24 (U.P.)—Rep. James Roosevelt (D-Calif.) has shelved, for the time being, his "divorcement" bill to prevent oil producers from owning retail outlets.

His house small business subcommittee also has bumped into so many complex problems in its two-year investigation of petroleum marketing practices that there will be no restrictive legislation this year. But he has wheels moving in congress, the justice department, and the federal trade commission, so 1958 could spell a different story.

* * * *

THE ELDEST SON of the late president made clear in a recent report on the subcommittee's inquiry that his digging is far from ended. He plans to go into the supply and demand issue, root evil of gasoline price wars. He also wants to expand the subcommittee's investigation of alleged price-rigging turned up in spot checks in South Bend, Ind., Denver, Los Angeles and other cities.

The divorcement bill was Roosevelt's ace petroleum legislation. It grew out of 250 complaints that independent filling station operators were being squeezed out by oppressive leases, unfair pricing arrangements, price manipulation, coercive sales of tires, batteries and accessories, and other dubious marketing practices.

Some testimony confirmed this but it also opened up new fields so completely inter-related that Roosevelt himself admitted further study is required.

"The subcommittee," its report said, "has noted the opposition to such measures by integrated producers as well as independent refiners, jobbers, and even some retailers . . . in view of the compliated nature of legislative divorcement, the subcommittee concludes that continuing studies and investigation should precede any attempt to secure passage of such a bill."

* * * *

THIS AND OTHER aspects of the report caused Associate Counsel Donald O'Hara of the National Petroleum Assn., a refiners' group, to comment that "the subcommittee's findings are surprisingly temperate, in contrast to the statements chairman Roosevelt issued before the hearings began."

"After the subcommittee settled down to a serious study of marketing," he added, "it found the subject much more complex than it appeared . . . it is difficult to find evils that are all black on one side and all white on the other."

Roosevelt has asked the federal trade commission to hit a faster pace in its investigation of questionable marketing practices, including "coercive" use by major oil companies of filling station outlets for automobile equipment. The commission says it is hampered by lack of manpower and money.

* * * *

THE CALIFORNIAN asked the justice department, which already is investigating price-rigging and other monopolistic devices, to inquire into "the present influence of consignment, commission and company-operated stations in price leadership, maintenance or fixing, or in price discrimination against independent lessee dealers, as possible violations of the anti-trust laws."

Meantime, he invited the oil industry to clean up its own house and adopt an "open door" policy which he said would give the independent retailer a new lease on life and end under-the-table dealings.

Steel Puts New Punch in Industry

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Steel producers are beginning to punch holes in stiff cards the size of bank checks and use them to control rolling mill equipment. It is another step toward automation.

Since punch card programming appeared about two years ago one steel firm already has begun using it. At least nine other big steel companies presently are installing punch card systems.

Chief aim of the steel firms interested in the new equipment is a higher and more uniform quality of steel. But the automatic controls also will increase a worker's production capacity.

The punch card system is being considered chiefly for blooming and slabbing mills and reversing roughers at present.

Steelmen expect to uncover many more uses as they become more familiar with the operation. Punch card system equipment comes high but steelmen think the investment will pay off.

Most of the installations now under way will use punch cards to set the width between huge rolls that shape steel ingots into forms for finishing mills.

* * * *

THE CARDS ALSO will set the speed and direction of the ingots and steel shapes as they pass through the rolling mills. Such operations now are done manually.

A mill operator at manual controls will perform something like 1,200 operations an hour, passing the steel shapes back and forth through the huge rollers of a blooming mill.

For example, the operator screws down the rolls that press the big hunks of steel into thinner shapes. He adjusts the speed and reverses the direction to bring the steel through the rollers repeatedly—as much as 25 passes for a single ingot.

World Bank Rings Up Neat Profit

Borrowers Set Strong Record for Repayment

By MARK EMOND

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) In its first 10 years the World Bank has rung up a profit of 254 million dollars while just doing its job—helping nations get on their economic feet.

It makes the proud claim that would be the envy of any bank: no borrower has missed a payment. Since 1947 the bank has made 166 loans totaling more than 3 billion dollars in 44 countries.

This capitalistic institution, officially called the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development counts among its 60 member nations—its stockholders—a number of Socialist countries and one Communist nation, Yugoslavia. The Communist bloc, including the Soviet Union, is absent by its own choice.

The bank's president and board of directors have been criticized at the United Nations and elsewhere for being hard-headed in their lending policies—too tight, is the charge.

* * * *

ITS PRESIDENT, Eugene R. Black, a veteran banker originally from Atlanta, makes no bones that the bank operates on traditional banking principles. He says it will continue to do so.

Its charter is dedicated to what has aptly been called "creative capitalism." One of its basic aims is "to promote private foreign investment."

Black has said, "If the bank is to succeed in stimulating the flow of private capital, the integrity of our lending operations must be preserved.

"This is of the highest importance to the bank and its members, and it means that we cannot and will not lend more than borrowing countries can afford to repay."

The position of the borrowing countries, or of private individuals or groups whom a nation backs, is not unlike that of a farmer who wants to improve his farm or of a factory owner who wants to increase his productivity.

Somebody goes to the World Bank with a development plan and an estimate of what it will cost. The bank decides whether the investment appears to be a good one: that is, whether the improvements made with the borrowed money can themselves pay off the loan, and whether the plan is in general well conceived.

If the bank is convinced that a project is worthwhile, and sources of private capital are dried up, it will make the loan. The bank gives a go ahead, sets up a repayment plan, and keeps an eye on how things are going.

* * * *

IN THE DECADE of the World Bank's operation, a number of loans have already been repaid and written off the books. They were short-term loans—two to five years—carrying from 3 to 4¼ per cent interest.

Chile paid back a 5-year loan of $2,500,000 for an agricultural development project. Finland a 2-year loan of $2,300,000 for equipment to improve its timber production, Netherlands a 2-year loan of $3,953,788 for postwar reconstruction, and Yugoslavia a 3 per cent loan of $2,700,000 for its timber industry.

Most of the bank's present loans are not scheduled for complete repayment until the 1960s and 1970. Four are due to be fully paid back in 1980 and one in 1981. The latter, 80 million dollars at 5 per cent, was negotiated by Britain for a high dam in the federation of Rhodesia and Nyasaland, Africa.

Two-Story Houses Staging Comeback

By ROBERT E. COLL

WASHINGTON (UP) — Many builders report the two-story house is staging a strong comeback.

They say there are ample signs the ranch-type rage has run its course. With more builders switching back to the traditional two-stories.

There are two reasons, according to contractors: economy and customer appeal.

The building industry has found that if the two-story house is built big enough it can be put up cheaper than a comparable ranch style home. But as always, it is the home buyer who has made the biggest impact through his preferences.

Buyers like the looks of a two-story house—solid and impressive. Bedrooms on the second floor are private—they don't have to be kept in apple pie order when entertaining.

It is easier for the builder to provide the extra bedroom many families want. It also is possible to provide a separate dining room.

Looking at it from the economy side, the two-story home is usually easier and cheaper to heat.

Thus far, the comeback has the current trend toward split level houses. Builders feel the split-level is a good idea and here to stay.

It is the ranch-type house that has felt the pinch.

Many developers have not made much of a dent in scrapped the ranch home and now offer a choice of some two-story homes along with their popular split-levels. But based on construction costs, there appears to be a sharp cut off point below which it is not practical for the builders to venture.

Investment Company Adds Three to Staff

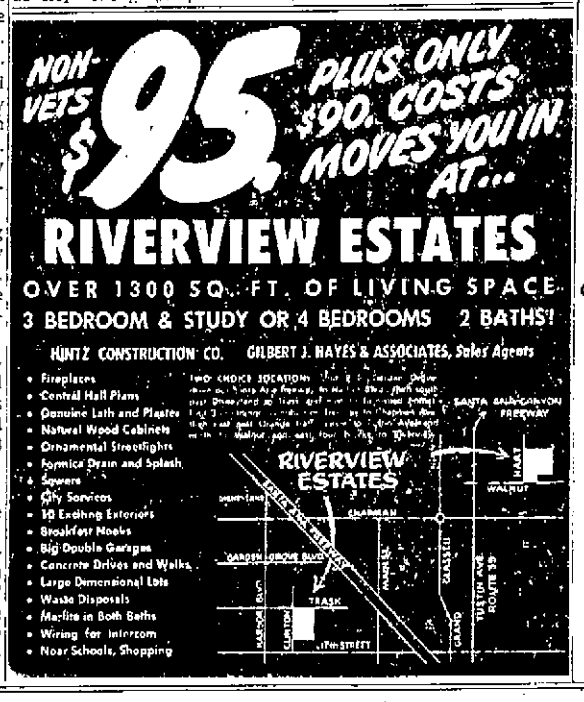

Three New York Stock Exchange registered representatives have been recently added to the staff of Paine, Webber, Jackson & Curtis, investment firm at 401 E. 4th St., according to Howard T. Booth, resident manager.

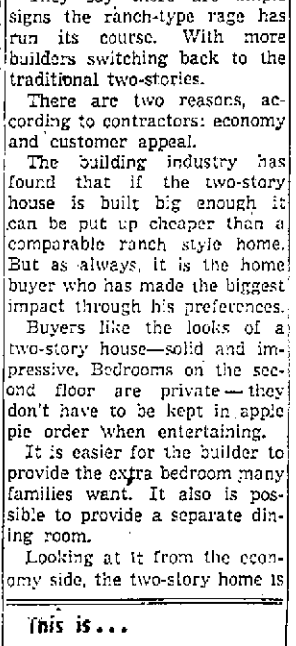

"This expansion in our service to the investing public of the Long Beach area includes S. L. Harrod, Garden Grove; Donald R. Bretting, formerly of Milwaukee and now residing in Lakewood; and Hale D. Cissell, Long Beach," Booth stated.

Hogle Investment Co. Names Vice President

G. Kenneth Handley, former vice president of the Hanover Bank of New York City, has been named vice president of the Hogle Investment Co., Salt Lake City, according to George Baumgardner, local manager of J. A. Hogle & Co.

In addition to his duties with Hogle Investment, Handley will be an investment adviser to the partnership of J. A. Hogle & Co., members of the New York Stock Exchange, Baumgardner stated.

CHECK WITH HARBOR CHEVROLET BEFORE YOU BUY A NEW CAR

Little Jack Horner just "stuck in his thumb and pulled out a plum." It was as simple as that! In our realistic world, rewards are not usually won so easily. It takes planning plus persistent effort. Smartest way to make sure of "pulling out plums" tomorrow is to put your confidence in reliablity. We are proud of our 39 years in the automobile business.

Fashion Editor Recalls Rome, Florence Shows

Editor's Note: Following are excerpts from a letter by Virginia Pope, fashion editor for Parade Magazine, to the publication's president, Arthur H. Motley, telling her impressions of the recent haute couture showings in Italy—and of the fashions you will be seeing in the Sunday Parade Magazines for the fall season.

"DEAR MR. MOTLEY:

"I'm off to Paris this afternoon, so it is 'arrvederci Italy' where I have spent two weeks. I hate to leave this land of sunshine where I lived for five years some time ago. As you know, I've been 'covering' the showings in Rome and Florence. It's the fifth time I have done it.

"Before plunging into work I had a few days holiday on the beautiful Island of Ischia, green gem set in the blue of the Mediterranean.

"When I reached Rome I was proud to tell the designers that I was reporting for Parade, pointing out that their styles would be seen by some 21 million persons in 56 cities. They were so impressed they had me on the air twice—imagine talking about fashion in Italian!

"The Italian couture is very young, it was not organized until seven years ago in Florence. Four years later, Rome, jealous of its neighbor to the north, set up rival showings.

"IN ROME the showings go on for three days, starting at 9:30 in the morning and continuing until late afternoon; sometimes there are evening presentations.

"This year, one of the outstanding affairs was to take place at the home of Simonetta and Fabiarri, husband-and-wife team. Their exquisite villa is located on the Via Appia Antica. The stage was set in the garden theater, the supper tables placed around the turquoise pool, the flares lighted. In awning-striped tents the models were ready to don their costumes, some 400 guests rolled up to the door in limousines and taxis when the heavens opened letting forth a drenching downpour. There was no show that evening but they showed in their respective establishments the following day.

"She designs excellent sportswear (I photographed some of her styles for Parade), good looking coats and suits and smart cocktail and evening dresses. Her party dresses have skirts that are round as balloons and knee-high. They are pretty but only for the young and slim.

"HE IS BETTER at suits and coats. His perfectly tailored suits are trim with short boxy jackets and slim skirts. Coats are easy, some tapered toward the hem and beautifully detailed with pockets and belts.

"Next in importance was a social as well as a fashion event, the celebration of the 50th anniversary of the founding of the house of Fontana. The fashions were inspired by the anniversary and reflected the dignified elegance of the turn of the century. Everyone was charmed by the opening number, the first dress in Parma violet made by Mrs. Fontana at the start of her career.

"An amusing picture of an Italian ballroom this winter came to my mind when I saw Mingolini-Guggenheim's dance frocks with 'bubble skirts'—the shoulders are quite bare, the waists wasp-slim. I imagined them floating around like a lot of carnival balloons.

"Even though the showings keep us very busy, we manage to sneak in a few minutes at the Coloseum and St. Peter's. At the close of the day we gather at Doney's for a nightcap, sitting at sidewalk tables watching the world go by as we discuss the latest fashion trends. Yes, it's fun to have an assignment in Rome.

"FLORENCE PRESENTS a different picture. The presentations are held in the vast hall of the Pitti Palace against the background of Medician splendor. The walls are hung with priceless tapestries, two-centry-old crystal chandeliers cast their light on the fashions many of which this year reflect the influence of abstract design.

"Endless model parades go on from 3 in the afternoon to 2 in the morning, with time off for dinner. If the canvas chairs were more comfortable it would make the viewing of the models less tedious.

"There was lots and lots to note in the Pitti Palace showings, brilliantly colored full skirts of wool, silk or cotton which look like enormous butterflies as the girls whirl and twirl on the runway.

"The picture which I carry

90th Birthday for Mrs. Walker

By IOLA MASTERSON

She was Long Beach's first woman driver!

Her home, at Pacific Ave. and 3rd St., where she lived as a bride, boasted the first telephone in town!

She is Mrs. C. L. Walker, now of 3820 Pine Ave., who celebrated her 90th birthday Saturday; widow of the founder of the Farmers and Merchants Bank and one of the city's most valued pioneer civic leaders and mother of prominent business and civic leaders, too. Her children are Charles Walker Sr., Gus A. Walker and Mrs. Winchell Boice.

We delight today in sharing some of her reminiscences from a host of wonderful memories of early Long Beach.

HER AUTOMOBILE DRIVING days began in 1903, the year her husband not only served as mayor of Long Beach but also purchased a two-cylinder Oldsmobile, first gasoline-powered car ever to scare horses on local streets.

As a matter of fact, that car soon was disposed of because of the way it DID scare the horses. Walker, an ardent horseman, kept a stableful of fine animals on their property—at that time generously surrounded by open fields. Mrs. Walker recalls that his favorite, a handsome black saddle horse, named "Midnight," was particularly disdainful of motors in any form, which resulted in the early retirement of the city's first car.

About that telephone! It was an ingenious contraption: a most private line connecting just two telephones—the one at the house and the original "business" phone in her husband's office at Pine Ave. and 1st St. The phones consisted of two sounding boxes joined by ordinary household cord stretched

Wounds From Cupid's Ill-Aimed Arrows Heal Completely—in Time

By ILKA CHASE

Mrs. Dorothy Parker, a distinguished writer and a lady tutored in the ways of love, has written a good deal of poetry dealing with topic A and much of it is wise and realistic.

For this treatise I filch two of her poems, one in its entirety and one an excerpt because it seems to me they admirably illustrate, if from opposite sides of the fence, two widely experienced emotions. The first one goes:

"Oh when I flung my heart away
The year was at its Fall.
I saw my dear the other day,
Beside a flowering wall;
And this was all I had to say:
I thought that he was tall!"

The other one is a little old lady of 77 issuing a statement on what the years have brought her:

"So I'll say, though reflection unnerves me
And pronouncements I dodge as I can
That I think (if my memory serves me)
There was nothing more fun than a man!

Though the shabby unbalanced the splendid.
And the bitter outmeasured the sweet,
I should certainly do as I then did,
Were I given the chance to repeat."

WOULDN'T WE ALL! If we are honest it is usually the things that we missed that we regret the most. Certainly when it comes to love and men! No fisherman ever keened so bitterly for the one that got away as keeneth woman for the love affair she didn't have.

To take the first rhyme first. When one is in the agonies of love it is impossible to believe that it could ever happen—that a state of indifference could ever come. Indeed we don't want it to. Agonizing as a love affair may be, and one may suffer intensely in the throes of love unrequited, one would rather endure the pain than be free of it because to be free is to be removed from the person without whom the world is empty.

And yet time does pass, wounding all heels as they say and let us hope so, as well as healing all wounds and the day comes when we are able to murmur, "I thought that he was tall!" It is possible to murmur much less. It is possible to take a look and think only, "Well, well, well."

THE THING IS WE mustn't expect too much, for in all likelihood the bitter will outmeasure the sweet. That is the way of life. What is important is that we ourselves should not become embittered. Love is a very tricky affair and although highly regarded it is rare that it brings out the best in us. Love is the Great Distorter. Perfectly normal pleasant people can behave outrageously when involved in l'amour. They are jealous, touchy, downright mean.

I HAD A STRIKING EXAMPLE of this the other day. I was watching a television program in the company of a woman to whom I am devoted. It was an interview show and one of the guests was a man who some years ago she had taken very seriously indeed. As he appeared on the screen we looked at each other. I had played the role of confidante and the gentleman's shortcomings, gross betrayals and generally piglike traits were no secret to me.

To my surprise, and not a little to my annoyance, on the program he acquitted himself admirably. I began to feel a sneaking admiration for him and a sneaking sense of disloyalty to my friend. I stole a look at her. She was gazing at the set with an expression at once affectionate, amused and relieved. Suddenly she laughed aloud and a smile that was down-right smug, settled on her face. She stuck out her legs and stretched her arms over her head. "Know something?" she said. "When we were going through the mill I used to feel ashamed that I had chosen such a skunk to fall in love with, but he's not bad at all. He's even quite good." And, with a happy little sigh, "I had excellent taste."

McCaffertys Mark 30th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth McCafferty of 5630 Walnut Ave. were honored on their 30th wedding anniversary with a reception given last Sunday by their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Robinson, at their Lakewood home. Co-host was the McCaffertys' son, Robert.

The McCaffertys were married Aug. 10, 1927, in Pittsburgh, Pa., where both grew up and were educated. They came to Southern California on their honeymoon, settling in Long Beach in 1929.

A ring of miniature white nosegays, each centered with pearls in recognition of the "pearl" anniversary," circled the base of an antique brass candelabra. A three-tiered wedding cake was cut by the honored couple.

Assisting the hostess were Mrs. Mary Coleman, former resident of Pittsburgh and lifelong friend of the honorees, and Mmes. Stanley Houghton, Hugh B. Reynolds, Martin L. Bonnewitz and McKinley Eaton.

Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Harold Kime and Kathleen, and Mrs. Jack Shrum, all of Upland; and Mrs. Helen Craig and Mrs Bea Judge of Pittsburgh, Pa.

Ladies of Elks

Ladies of Elks will have a Wednesday luncheon at the Elks Club. Mrs. Amelia Blume and her committee will be hostesses. Bridge and canasta will be played, following the 12:30 p.m. luncheon.

Bankers on European Tour

THEIR FACES wreathed in happy smiles, these Long Beach residents prepare to board an SAS plane for a transpolar flight to Europe. The travelers, from left, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ibbetson and Mr. and Mrs. Everett Wightman, plan to holiday for three weeks in Scandinavia and then proceed southward. Ibbetson is director of Lakewood's four Bank of America branches. Wightman is chairman of the board of directors for Bank of America, Long Beach.

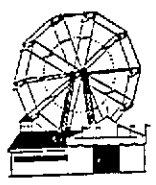

Teenagers Ready for FREE Back-to-School Fashion Fete

The Wild Waves Say

By IOLA MASTERSON

"Round 'n' round"

THAT OLD ferris wheel of hospitable summer fun is spinning around so fast it leads us to suspect it's in love with the roller coaster. Step right up, folks, no waiting. Step aboard!

Top seat on the wheel Wednesday will be occupied by Jess and Hale Young's home, 5620 El Jardin, to be opened for its first formal party since occupation by the Youngs, a garden cocktail buffet. Invitations (extended to 150 friends) pictured a couple standing in an open door with a red carpet extending down some steps. Jess, not to be outdone by some nimble fingered artist, hints she'll actually roll out a red carpet, 100 per cent wool broadloom proof how she and Hale value their local cohorts.

May Dickie of Ft. Worth, Tayuksus, lifelong friend of the hostess, will arrive tomorrow in time to be party co-honoree with the new manse.

Assisting make the who's-who houseful of guests extra happy will be Della and Les Lawson Sr., Kathleen and Bruce Mason, Chlora and Ross Hall, Ila and Jim Locke, Dorothy and Morris Holmquist and Ann and Dr. Tom Noble.

MR AND MRS. W. F. Prisk (Bill and Alice) will say those familiar French words, "bon voyage," next Saturday night using a typical American translation pronounced "cocktails and dinner"! Present to collect the message in person will be travelers to the Orient we envied in print last week—the Cottrells, Davis', Dunns and Millers—plus a few other close friends of the host and hostess.

MARY JANE DURNIN and Bea Hart decided that Marge and Edison Demler would settle into their new home at 6300 E. Ocean Blvd. more comfortably if they gathered a few of the neighborhood old friends together to say "howdy." George and Bill were agreeable and so, we understand, the long time Long Beach Demlers will become official Peninsulans next Friday. "Naturalization" formalities will be in the form of cocktails at the Harts followed by buffet supper at the Durnins.

DUST OFF YOUR easel, cousin, Fran Soldini's teaching art again! You can squeeze a tube of oil or mix a water color in company with such near professional amateurs as Leonie Pray, Marian Lewis, Pat (Bartell) Johnson or Mildred Beckstrand.

Other playmates of the palette set are Jane Rhorer, Catherine Carlyle, Nada Richards, Mildred Dorsey, Kay Hammer and Curtyne Driscoll.

Fran, whose reputation as an artist is nationwide, returned to Long Beach this summer after a year's absence during which time she has been studying and painting in New England, New York and the Southwest. Many of her canvasses, left on exhibition in the East, are still winning awards.

IF YOU WERE waiting for a Polar bear you'd be as excited as Betty and Jim Worsham. They were, at last report, expecting such a bear on their doorstep at any moment. Fortunately, said bear will arrive sans everything but his coat. He has been relieved of the rest of him by Norwegian furriers. Before the furriers did their work he was relieved of his will to live by Jim, himself, on an exciting hunting trip into the far Northland, part of the Worsham's European trip earlier this summer.

Escorted by Norwegian guides, Jim, and another American plus two Austrians went off on a month-long Polar bear hunt up through Adm. Byrd's old scouting territory. Dead-eye Worsham bagged the biggest beast of the trip—a seven-foot brute—leaving it to be bleached and dressed for shipping here; really the antiseptic thing to do. Betty is expecting a "trophy" of her own from abroad. A new French sports car purchased over there in which she did her more feminine type of hunting, referred to as "shopping"!

"Sweet music"

THE ROAR of a lion or the snarl of a leopard will be music to the ears of Millie and Frank Vessels Jr. in less than a month. From Sept. 15 to Oct. 15 they'll be on a full scale African safari, hunting all through the teeming Tanganyika area and guided by one of the most famous hunters in Africa, Geofrey Lawrence Brown.

This will be part of an 80-day flight around the world, beginning Sept. 1. They'll be in Europe, briefly, before meeting their guide in Nairobi to begin the safari, being conducted exclusively for Millie and Frank. After their search for game they'll continue their travels through India, Egypt, Bali, the Orient and other places with an uncommonly sultry glamour. Their cache of travel days used up, they'll return home Nov. 20.

SUMMER OF '57 has been a bowl of sour cherries for the Gibbs, Gertrude and Hugh, we've been told. First of all, Gertrude and daughters, Caroline and Sue, were all ready to leave for Hawaii until something went awry in Gertrude's health department. So she cruised through a hospital's routine for a month instead of through trade winds and muttered "O, ouch-o" instead of Oahu. Finally recovered and home so what happens? Hugh sprained an ankle and another Gibbs took to bed.

BRIDE BROKE HER ARM. Right after the wedding in Las Vegas. In a few well chosen words the new Mrs. Robert White (Dorothy Jerglins) said to the bridegroom, in essence, "Isn't this ridiculous?" Now the bone is mended well enough to travel so the newlyweds will leave for Hawaii next Saturday on a belated honeymoon. Dottie and Bob hosted a combination belated wedding reception and aloha preview party for close friends yesterday—Hawaiian themed, of course—in their home at 371 Park Ave..

Docs 'on Staff' as Party 'Consultants'

"Oh, Doctor!"

Just don't stand out in front of Sallie and Dr. Milton Van Dyke's Park Estates home this afternoon and yell "Doctor! Come quickly" or the next thing you know you'll be up to your ears in medics! Same will be true next Saturday.

Sallie and Milton are having a party to welcome son, Dr. Alexander (Ike) Van Dyke and his wife, Dee, smart as she is chic, back to Southern California. Ike, his medical school and intern days over, is now serving as a lieutenant in the U. S. Navy Medical Corps Reserves, stationed at Camp Pendleton. The Van Dykes wide circle of friends (naturally a lot of them in the medical profession) have been bidden to one of two affairs—this afternoon or next Saturday.

CO-HOSTING will be Ike's sister and her husband, Sally and Dick DeGolia, and assisting will be Drs. Francis and Nancy Hertzog Jr., Lyle and Rita Gray, Bill and Jane Rhorer, Bob and Betty Godwin, Edwin and Lucille Squire and Philip and Nancy Hartley. Nonstethescopian assistants will be Katie and Carter Boswell, Sylvia and Bill Reid, Anna and King Parks and Phylis and Harlan Miller.

For the second party good friends assisting will be Drs. Gordon and Eddie Brown, Walter and Gladys Furie, Fritz and Haldis Hertzog, Ben and Anabel Parks, Seibert and Waula Pearson, Hugh and Frieda Prichard and Jack and Mildred Dorsey. Lone "civilians" aiding the hostesses and hosts will be Marion and Don Locke.

Webbs Tell Betrothal of Patricia

Ernest B. Webb, Director of Industrial Relations for the State of California and a member of the Governor's Cabinet, and Mrs. Webb, who maintain residences in both San Francisco and Long Beach, are announcing engagement of their daughter, Patricia Jean, to Keith Michael Kramer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Myron T. Kramer of Long Beach.

Miss Webb and her fiance are both graduates of Wilson High School where she was president of Yoga Sorority and he was a member of Scarabs. Continuing their education at Long Beach City College Miss Webb affiliated with TNT Sorority. The bridegroom-elect graduated with the June class and will continue his education at Long Beach State College.

The popular young couple will be married on Sept. 12 and will reside in Long Beach.

DUV Session

Anna Etheridge Tent No. 58, Daughters of Union Veterans, will meet at 12:30 p. m. Monday at Veterans Memorial Bldg. for installation of new members. Rose Capron will be in charge.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY, MRS. WALKER!

Shares Memories

across the intervening fields. To call her husband she simply picked up the receiver and tapped the box energetically with a pencil. This set up a hum along the line, a signal at the office to answer the phone!

* * * *

WHEN MRS. WALKER used that telephone she already had lived in California more than 16 years, 12 of them in Long Beach. As Miss Carrie D. Ziegler she arrived here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. N. Zeigler, from their native Minnesota, the family journeying to California by covered wagon.

The Zieglers settled in Tulare for a while. It was here Miss Carrie met her future husband. In 1887 they moved to Los Angeles and to Long Beach in 1891. They bought farm acreage "out in the country" at 3rd St. and Walnut Ave. for their home, an easy buggy ride into town with its bustling "3,000-plus population."

In the meantime Charlie Walker never forgot or lost track of the blue eyed, auburn haired Carrie and when the Zieglers settled here he decided, post haste, Long Beach was the place for him. Carrie became Mrs. Walker in 1895 and moved into the Pacific Ave. and 3rd St. house, "on the outskirts of town."

* * * *

IN THOSE DAYS Long Beach was mainly a winter resort popular with hundreds of midwesterners with a strong desire to retire someday to this sunny, quiet spot. Walker, a real estate man then, was being requested constantly by the winter crowd to keep money for them here with the admonition, "Charlie, you keep this and when a good piece of property is up for sale, you just buy it for us." Finally he was handling funds for so many investors he decided he might as well be a banker, so he founded the F. & M. bank in 1907, serving as its president or chairman of the board until his death in 1938. His sons still head the firm which has remained a local institution.

Always active in church work, the Walkers were among those instrumental in the construction of First Methodist Church, the second church for a specific denomination built in this city.

* * * *

MRS. WALKER was graduated from the California State Normal School (it ultimately became UCLA) in 1893 and taught school here until her marriage. She remembers leading the music for graduation services at The Tabernacle for the last class of seniors before the first regular high school building was erected.

As a Sunday School teacher at First Methodist for more than 50 years, she and her husband recognized the need for, and promptly headed the committee organizing the YWCA, its first members all from Mrs. Walker's own Sunday School classes. They also helped organize the local YMCA.

Modjeska, scene of the birthday celebration Saturday, also is wrapped in memories for the Walker clan. The house originally was built by Madame Modjesta, famed Polish opera star, in 1876 in the Orange County canyon she bought. The property was purchased by a group of local businessmen in 1906, the sale negotiated by Walker and Stephen Townsend, another pioneer leader of that era.

* * * *

IN THOSE days the local families who shared the resort, made the day-and-a-half trip by horse and wagon, stopping overnight en route at Orange. In 1923 Walker bought the home and its immediate grounds for the family's country house and it has remained a favorite rendezvous ever since.

Approaching her 90th birthday and hesitant about bothering with a party, she later confided to her family (children, grandchildren and great grandchildren now total 48) that she felt a little like she was "the last leaf on the tree." Then she said, "I looked about me and there were 48 new leaves, fresh and healthy, belonging to the same tree—so of course there should be a party for all of us."

* * * *

THERE ARE ten thousand times "48 new leaves," Mrs. Walker, who live in this city you helped build and, in a sense, have become part of your family. They all say the ks—and happy birthday! Yo 'll never be alone on your tr

MRS. THOMAS O'BRIEN

The blonde loveliness of Miss Mardel Graham was enhanced by her bridal gown, an exquisite creation of white silk taffeta, fashioned with moulded bodice of Alencon lace, portrait neckline, lily point sleeves, and bouffant skirt, with its shimmering folds ending in a chapel train. Her fingertip veil was held with a pearl-studded Alencon lace tiara, and she carried cattylea orchids and lilies-of-the-valley.

Miss Graham, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas H. Graham, 4029 Chestnut Ave., and Thomas Michael O'Brien, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jerome J. O'Brien of San Antonio, Tex., were married Aug. 17 in a high noon nuptial mass at St. Anthony's Catholic Church, with Monsignor Bernard J. Dolan officiating. The bride's prayerbook was specially blessed by Pope Pius XII.

Miss Patsy Ball, maid of honor, and bridesmaids Mary Powell, Los Angeles; Jeanne Charvat, Long Beach; and Dickie Hoffern, Anaheim, wore identically styled ballerina length empire line frocks of sea green silk organza and lace. Lace hats matched their attire, and they carried fans covered with pink and white blossoms.

Others in the formal bridal entourage, were Jerome Jerglins, best man, and Douglas Graham Jr., Robert Gerson, George Clifton, Jan Erickson, William Simonds Jr., and Joseph Seavone, ushers.

Out of town guests were uncles and aunts of the bridegroom, Mr. and Mrs. Myron Anderson, Midland, Tex., and Dr. and Mrs. Mark O'Brien, San Diego, and Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Grindal, San Antonio, Tex., William C. Newman and Von E. Newman, both of San Antonio.

Pastel-hued water lilies floated in the patio pool at the Pacific Coast Club, setting for a reception, and hanging baskets held pink and white flowers.

When the bridal couple returns from a honeymoon trip to Hawaii, they will establish residence in Austin, Tex.

The bride, a second generation Californian, is a graduate of USC, affiliated with Alpha Gamma Delta, and attended school in Switzerland. Her bridegroom, a UCLA alumnus, is a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity.

HONEYMOON IN THE SUN

Currently honeymooning in Hawaii are Mr. and Mrs. George R. Johnson (Patricia Geary Barteli), 53-68th Pl., pictured aboard the Lurline. The bride, daughter of the Leslie Edward Gearys, and her husband, son of Ward Johnson, former congressman and the late Mrs. Johnson, were married here Aug. 15. The newlyweds, who will return early in September, were feted at a reception aboard ship when it docked in San Francisco Aug. 16 by close local and Bay area friends.—(Matson Photo.)

Anne Avery Lovely Bride

A rosepoint lace crown worn by her mother at her wedding, rested on the beautifully coiffured hair of Miss Anne Moore Avery, and held her nylon tulle veil. The lovely brunette was gowned in bouffant-skirted tulle and Chantilly lace, for her marriage to Andrew Dwight Hotchkiss Jr.

The August 17 wedding of the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Barnett Avery, longtime Long Beach residents, and the son of Mrs. A. B. Hilton of Bel Air, and Andrew Hotchkiss Sr. of Grosse Pointe, Mich., took place in St. Luke's Episcopal Church.

Bridesmaids bouquets of pink rosebuds prettily complemented Miss Avery's bridal bouquet of phaelanopsis, lilies-of-the-valley and bouvardia.

Matron of honor Mrs. John W. Klug; bridesmaids Miss Jacque MacLeod, Mrs. Donald Peck, Mrs. Willard Badham, Mrs. Donald Killian and Mrs. Robert Ivey, and junior bridesmaid Miss Peggy Avery, sister of the bride, wore ballerina-length light blue frocks.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. Four hundred guests attended the solemn rites, at which the Rev. F. C. Benson Belliss officiated.

Groomsman was Frederick Hotchkiss, and ushers duties were performed by Michael Brennan, Robert and John Avery, Chauncey Lufkin, Richard Spencer and Edward Hunter.

Church floral decorations, pink roses, gladioli and stock, were repeated at a Virginia Country Club reception, where the newlyweds' happiness was toasted in champagne cocktails. After a honeymoon trip to Northern California, they will establish residence in Los Angeles.

away with me of the general trends is one of easy slender lines for daytime and elaborate draping and handling of fabrics for evening in gowns that may have bulbous silhouettes, bouffant skirts or drapery that floats like wings in the wind. Miles and miles of chiffon has gone into the after-dark styles.

• • • •

"IN THE SUITS I see no particular change of outline—boxy jackets, straight skirts, all very young in feeling, with newness in details of collar, pockets and belts. Many of the coats taper toward the hem. A few are high-waisted in cut or have a high-placed belt. Collars are often Puritan types.

"Many of the dresses have an enciente look, floating in swooshes of material from shoulders to hem. I don't believe they will find popularity with the American gals! Of course there are plenty of smartly tailored and fitted ones which the buyers were noting with interest.

"Continuing our photography of sports fashions, we betook ourselves to the Hotel San Michele, at Fiesole for background interest. It is a converted monastery in which the old atmosphere is preserved in spite of those modern conveniences which Americans love.

"In loggia and courtyard, where monks have walked prayer book in hand, we photographed Emilio Pucci's newest 'pantie shirt,' Myrieac's embroidered cotton dress and Mirsa's wool knit sport shirt and short shorts. Through the arches of the loggia we saw the dark fingers of the Tuscan cypress and the far-away domes and campaniles of Florence.

"So much for my Italian impressions, I'll write again from Paris. This will be a different type of fashion story.

"With sincere regards.

VIRGINIA POPE."

Judges Listed for Careerist Contest

By ANNE GILCHRIST

The panel of judges who will select the outstanding business or professional woman of Long Beach for 1957 has been announced by the three Long Beach Business and Professional Women's Clubs sponsoring the contest now in progress as a major local salute to women who work.

The contest, to be a highlight of National Business and Professional Women's Week observances here Sept. 22-28, will culminate with a banquet Sept. 24 when the winner will be announced and honored.

* * * *

JUDGES who will select the outstanding careerist from nominees entered by business firms, service clubs, and trade or professional groups are: Sam Vickers, city manager of Long Beach; Dr. Lois Swanson, assistant dean of women at Long Beach State College; Vito Romans, manager of the Long Beach Retailers Assn.; Iola Masterson, Long Beach Independent and Press-Telegram woman's section columnist; Dr. Charles R. Brantingham; Wallace Bruce, manager of Butler Bros.; and Mrs. Cravens Douglass, president of the Sierra Mar District BPW Clubs.

* * * *

LAURA JANE WALTER is chairman of the coordinating committee for the sponsoring clubs and, with members of the three groups, has prepared contest rules. Invitations have been received by hundreds of firms and groups to enter employes of prominence. Judging will be based on participation and interest in community projects and affairs, efficiency, appearance and personality, contribution toward her company or profession's welfare and progress, and lastly, education, voluntary in-service training and academic efforts toward career advancement. Presentation of contestants' names and qualifications closes Sept. 10.

Executives' Secretaries

Tables at Virginia Country Club, accustomed to white linen toppings adorned with artistic floral arrangements, became miniature "construction yards" Saturday night as scale size models of trucks, cranes and tractors centered the tables and blueprints became place mats, replacing the snowy tablecloths.

It was all in the spirit of Executives' Secretaries "Firm Night" in keeping with the business of Millie and Severson, host firm, building contractors. Invitations to the smart affair cleverly imitated a construction company's work sheet. Information included these facts: Project Supervisor; Agnes Herbst (she is Millie and Severson's representative member of Executives' Secretaries); Schedule: 7 p.m. to completion; Layout: Virginia Country Club; Specifications: Cocktails, dinner, dancing, Project personnel: Secretaries, executives and wives, guests.

* * * *

NOBLE MILLIE, president of the host firm, gave a brief history of the formation of the company explaining informally how he and fellow USC classmate and Sigma Phi Delta Fraternity brother, Chuck Severson, decided, during their senior year, to form a business partnership. The big decision was reached one day during an "open air" conference on the steps of the university's administration building!

Shortly after their graduation we entered World War II and the boy from the Panama Canal Zone (Charlie) and the kid from So. Dakota (Noble) had their college-fresh engineering knowledge promptly put to use by Cal-Shipyard here, subsequently going into business in Long Beach following the war.

"Hospitality Sunday"

Queen Beach Chapter, National Secretaries Assn., has named Sept. 8 as "Hospitality Sunday," and is planning a party to take place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Forest Jr., 24 Headland Dr., Rolling Hills.

Purpose of the day, as planned by the membership committee, is to acquaint prospective members with NSA. Invitations on behalf of the chapter are being extended by Beverly Samuel, corresponding secretary, 2165 Chestnut Ave.

Women Accountants

Emphasizing that "most business firms are honest," Robert L. Gayley in his guest appearance before the Long Beach chapter of the Society of Women Accountants at the Lafayette Hotel last week, said that upward of 50,000 inquiries per year, an average of 250 a day, are handled by the Long Beach Better Business Bureau in an effort to thwart the unscrupulous operators.

Gayley said that queries come to the bureau by phone, mail or personal visit and that, in most instances, explanations are readily available in the pamphlets prepared by the BBB or by explanation from the staff.

Estelle Cannon was nominated by the club as its candidate for Long Beach's outstanding business or professional woman's contest, as outlined previously in this column.

Garry Alden Gives Ring to Miss Perrine

In a double ring ceremony at First Christian Church, Whittier, Miss Connie Jo Perrine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clair C. Perrine of Pico, became the bride of Garry Harwood Alden, whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Thompson of Long Beach.

The bride's ballerina-length gown of lace and tulle was trimmed with shimmering sequins. She carried a cascade of white carnations and stephanotis, centered with a white orchid.

Sister of the bride, Miss Jeanie Perrine, was maid of honor. Barry Alden, the bridegroom's brother, served as his groomsman. Bridesmaids were Chari Serrell, Betty Bath, and Sally Sanchez. The 200 guests were seated by Verne Bath, Jay Warnke and Owen Reynolds.

The bride attended San Jose State College. Her bridegroom, a Polytechnic High School graduate, attended Long Beach City College.

Presently serving with the U. S. Air Force, and stationed in Germany with the 604th Communications Squadron, he was recent recipient of an "Airman of the Month" plaque. Alden was home on a 30-day furlough when married. He has returned to Germany to serve six months more there. In his absence, his bride will reside with her parents.

Ruth Paige Troth Told

A buffet supper at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Paige last Sunday served to announce the betrothal of their daughter, Ruth Ann, to Myron Eugene Caldwell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer V. Caldwell, also of Long Beach.

Both young persons attended Wilson High School where the bride-elect was active in music organizations. She now is a student at Long Beach City College. Her fiance is serving with the Navy.

No date has been set for the wedding.

2 Exhibits at Museum

An excellent opportunity is offered art enthusiasts of this area to view comprehensive collections of the graphic techniques of printing and drawing. Two such exhibitions — Contemporary Prints from Italy and California Drawings—are currently on display at the Long Beach Museum of Art, 2300 E. Ocean Blvd.

Outstanding examples of the graphic arts, which refer to techniques predominantly linear in effect, are included in both collections.

Drawings employing the media of charcoal, wax or conte crayon, ink, and textural studies may be seen in California Drawings. Sixty-nine works from such noted California artists as Karl Benjamin, Richard Diebenkorn, Leon Goldin, Rico Lebrun, Bernard Rosenthal, Richards Ruben, and Jack Zajac represent the drawing technique. Another collection of drawings, the Los Angeles Area Drawing Exhibition, may be viewed at the Exodus Gallery, 235 6th St., San Pedro, until Sept. 13.

DIFFERING from drawing, which uses pen, pencil, crayon or brush applied directly to the surface, printmaking uses many impression processes to produce a linear picture. These may include the techniques of intaglio—engraving, drypoint and etching—lithography, or wood engraving, all of which are represented in the Contemporary Prints from Italy exhibition.

The etching process of intaglio uses a copper plate which has been covered with a layer of wax. The metal is exposed by drawing lines with a needle, after which the plate is immersed in acid. The acid bites into the metal, giving the impression for the printmaking process. Excellent examples of this technique are Luigi Bartolini's "Broken Flasks" and "The Tortoise."

* * * *

AGAIN A METAL plate is used in engraving and drypoint. However, in engraving, the lines are cut with a burin, and the cut areas are polished to make them parallel with the plate surface. The plate is then inked for printing. Drypoint uses a needle, instead, and the cut areas are not polished, which gives it a fuzzy quality when printed. The drypoint technique is used in "Old Man" by Gisberto Ceracchini and "Marco Polo" by Fabrizio Clerici.

Lithography simulates the effect of a pencil or crayon drawing by using a grease pencil or crayon on a stone surface. After wetting with water, ink sticks only to the greasy areas, again making an imprint. There are many lithographs in the Italian collection, among them color and black and white works by Afro Basaldella, Renato Birolli, Massimo Campigli, Luciano Minguzzi, and Antonio Music.

* * * *

IN WOODCUTTING or wood engraving, the design is drawn on the surface of a wooden block and all areas except the design are cut away. Representative of this technique are Guiseppe Balbo's "Fishermen" and works displayed in the exhibit by Ettore Bonfatti, Bruno Bramanti, Bruno Colorio, Tranquillo Marangoni, Romano Rigucci, and Remo Wolf.

Another fine collection of prints may be seen at the Tower Gallery, Los Angeles City Hall, where an exhibition entitled "Swedish Prints" is on display. At the local Museum, Contemporary Prints from Italy will be on display until Sept. 1 and California Drawings until Sept. 25. Most of the works in both of these collections at the Long Beach Museum are for sale.

The Italian prints range from a very reasonable $5.00 to $25.00, while the California drawings may be purchased for $25.00 to $300.00. The Museum is open Tuesday through Saturday, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Sundays 1 to 5 p.m. It is closed on Monday.

Dear Abby

Send Out an Alarm Fast!

DEAR ABBY: I am trying to locate my husband and this old maid retired schoolteacher he took off with. He is a man of 46 and this old maid retired schoolteacher is (now get this, Abby, but don't faint) not a day under 60 years old.

I don't know what he wants with her. I am 44 and am an excellent cook and housekeeper and my only fault is that I am a little bossy. They have been gone almost three weeks and I don't know where they are but I am sure they are together. How can I find them?

GUSSIE.

ABIGAIL

DEAR GUSSIE: I think your husband is missing both physically and mentally. If you notify your Bureau of Missing Persons promptly they will try to bring him back (physically) . . . the rest is up to a doctor. Good luck!

* * * *

DEAR ABBY: Do you approve of separate vacations for a couple who has been married for 16 years, who love each other and trust each other? Please reply to NELLIE and put this in the paper as my mother reads your column every day and this is for her. NELLIE.

DEAR NELLIE: I not only approve—I recommend it.

* * * *

DEAR ABBY: I am 37 years old, and am a good God-fearing woman who lives in the country. My husband farms and we have six boys and three girls. I think I am going to have another baby and I don't want this one. What should I take?

HAD ENOUGH.

DEAR "HAD": Take another look at the Bible.

* * * *

DEAR ABBY: I just finished reading about a man named Steve who said he couldn't find a decent girl in a bar. Well, he is wrong. My husband found me in a bar and I am as decent as they come. I also have a sister who is 26 and she goes in bars all the time and enjoys herself. She is a decent girl and is some looker, too. Too bad Steve and my sister can't get together as she would also like to settle down.

FOR BARS.

New Musical 'Wows' Capital Social Throng

By PATRICIA WIGGINS
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP) — "Boy Wonder" Leonard Bernstein (who hates the title) is setting the capital on its social as well as musical ear during the opening run of "West Side Story."

The premiere of the new Bernstein - Robbins - Laurents musical last week not only drew an unusual number of VIPs but got them into fancy first-night garb usual in New York but not here. It also caused eruptions of cheers and applause the politically-minded capital usually reserves for inaugural parades or other non-theater events. Frosty Presidential Aide Sherman Adams was one of those on his feet applauding when the curtain fell. Presidential Physician Dr. Howard McC. Snyder, one of those giving lobby laudings to the show's "originality."

* * * *

THE 38-YEAR-OLD Bernstein personally wowed guests at an elegant supper party after the opening, where you could locate him by the fluid movement of the Ambassadorial-White House-Congressional guests. Everywhere that Bernstein went—dining room, living room, bar or hall — the crowd was sure to follow.

Bernstein brought down the house in an impromptu performance kicked off by the arrival of first newspaper reviews. Shoes off and atop a soft-cushioned chair, he read them aloud with gestures and expressions that brought appreciative shouts from Sen. Jacob K. Javits and others.

If he weren't going to be so busy putting finishing touches on "West Side" for its New York opening, Bernstein obviously could win hands down a "social lion" title that Washington hostesses would love to bestow. (Bernstein also obviously had more fun himself at his second stop of the evening, a cast party which ended at 5 a.m., with Bernstein playing Bach.)

Maturing With Music

As your child grows to ages three, four and five, he will undoubtedly develop into a TV fan and his choice of music may horrify you for a while, but it is only that his new favorites follow the pattern of short, bouncy tunes.

The most popular tunes for the moppet stage are the simple commercial jingles. Next comes the theme songs of the western heroes. Strong competition, however, is offered by the special children's shows that feature a single person playing a simple instrument. Children sit and sway to these tunes and learn them easily.

They seem especially fond of "demonstrated" songs for they can join in the action and imitate the movements of animals, birds and flowers and sing their songs as they bend and turn, wave their arms and march around the room.

Visits in East

Rachel Morton, music editor and critic of the Independent, Press-Telegram, left Thursday for a vacation in the East. She will visit her mother in Bar Harbor, Me., following which she will spend a week in Keene Valley, N. Y., with Mrs. Frederic Upham of Chicago, who maintains a summer residence in Keene Valley.

Major & Minor

By RACHEL MORTON

For many years I have been an ardent admirer of the music critic of the Los Angeles Examiner, Patterson Greene. He has a poetic and flowing style of writing that pleases my aesthetic sense and his viewpoints mostly coincide with my own. I thought, too, that it would be interesting for one music critic to interview another. So I asked if I might see him. He very graciously invited me to his home.

In a lovely house in Westwood he and his charming wife greeted us cordially. We met, too, their smiling young daughter, Catherine, age 13.

Rachel Morton

Mr. Greene has the quiet bearing of a studious man; the sure demeanor of an aristocrat and the kind manner of a thoroughbred. He is modesty itself and I had to put all the questions. So modest indeed is he that it was five years after he had graduated from Harvard before he learned, upon opening his diploma, that he had graduated "Cum Laude"!

Although born in Superior, Wis., he attended school in Washington State preparing to become a concert pianist. But after graduating from Harvard he went to the Philippines where he taught in Manila. There he met and became friends with Carlo P. Romulo, one time Philippine Ambassador to the U. S. Attending a concert together, Romulo asked Patterson Greene to write up the concert. That was his first review and for 33 years he has been writing reviews for the Los Angeles Examiner, where he sits enthroned as an authority on things musical.

I like Patterson Greene's healthy outlook. For instance, he says there are opportunities today for exceptional talent as there have always been. Our American singers are being engaged abroad singing in the opera houses of Europe and England. They receive excellent foundation here in America and experience over there. (For myself, I wish they might also have their experience in America.)

Music today, he says, is not degenerating if you seek out the best. Asked if he still enjoyed music after so many years of listening, he said: "I always enjoy music when it is good."

About two things Mr. Greene was most emphatic. When I asked him what the Los Angeles area needed most musically he cried: "An opera house!" Here, too, he was optimistic. After all, it took San Francisco 20 years to get one — an opera house that seats only 3,200, while the Shrine Auditorium (deplorable structure though it be for opera production) seats 6,700 and it is mostly capacity full during our opera season. Each year we get nearer the accomplishment of the project and this year the voting was two thirds in favor of building one. It is a heartening sign, says Mr. Greene.

The other subject upon which he held a strong opinion was the absurdity of having several different conductors in one season for the Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra. It was, he said, like changing the parents of one's children every few weeks. The perfection of orchestral playing comes from a singleness of purpose, a working as a whole toward one man's idea; a welding into a component ensemble. Every conductor has his own ideas, and to be continually tossed from one to another, plays havoc with virtuoso accomplishment.

Patterson Greene is not only a music critic. He writes short stories and plays. One of his plays is in production in Scotland right now. It was produced by the New York Theater Guild in 1944. It is called, "Papa Is All."

I asked him about his hobbies—a man who writes long into the night and is at his desk six days a week, has little time for hobbies. But he did introduce us to two beautiful Siamese cats, and Mrs. Greene says that his collection of very valuable old records is prodigious. He played one for us—a remarkable recording of the voice of Adelina Patti, which is rare indeed.

Patterson Green lives in a beautiful world, a world of music. He is a happy and contented man, sharing his gifts daily with the reading public. As I left him I was refreshed in mind and humble in spirit.

Claretian Guild

Claretian Guild will hostess a luncheon card party for its members and guests Wednesday at Machinists Hall, 728 Elm Ave. Mrs. Leonora Claremont is chairman for the day, and Mrs. Grace McClarenen is Guild sponsor.

Deadline Near for Entries

Long Beach Writers Club is now sponsoring a poetry contest for members in which much interest is being shown, says Mrs. Don Billings, club president. Sept. 15 has been set as the deadline.

Miss Olive Breed is poetry director and Mrs. Elizabeth McQuiston is acting as editor and the judges are: Hazel Kuno, A.B. M.S.W., Snow Langley Housh, M.A.B.S., and Eugene Lundholm, B.A. and M.A. degrees, all authorities on verse and authors in their own right.

JACK BECRONIS . . . A Sports Car Fan

SOMETHING FOR THE BOYS

Volkswagen Lines Seen as Trend in Clothing

(Editor's Note: This is the first of a series of Sunday features on men's fashion trends as seen by leading Long Beach retailers.)

By TED KREC

Sneaking back up Locust Ave. toward the paper after taking too long for lunch the other day, I spied the boss heading down the street toward me. "This," I said to myself, "will be a most opportune time to duck into the Andover Shop and see my old friend, Jack Becronis!"

Jack, an ultra-sharp young man with his eye on the ball and his mind on design, was glad to see me, for if there's anything he likes better than the clothing business, it's talking about the clothing business.

"Take a look at this," he said, showing me a magazine picture of a modern, swept-wing American car. "This is what men have been wearing. And this," he turned to a picture of a Volkswagen, "is the trend. Translate that into terms of clothing and you'll see what I mean."

It's the natural look in clothing these days, Becronis asserts, traditional and utilitarian — natural shoulders in the suits, and trim trousers.

* * * *

BECRONIS AND John M. LaJoie Jr. have operated the Andover Shop at 210 Locust Ave. for a year and a half with the avowed aim of giving Long Beach men a store that represents good taste in "what is to be"—and "fad" clothing is ruled out.

"The clothing we carry is of a traditional nature that dates 'way back before the lounge type," Jack said. Noticing my quizzical look, he explained: "The lounge style of clothing was a style which started about 1935, reached its flamboyant peak in the 1940s and then declined.

"You remember the style—it was still around after the war. Men came home from the service and the accent was on heroism, so clothing, too, had the 'heroic look.' Some of the suits had everything but medals on them.

"But today, fashion-conscious men are not looking for the 'heroic look.' Now they are solid citizens, businessmen who have developed a taste for good taste in clothing. That's why the trend is to the traditional."

* * * *

BECRONIS AND LaJoie are a friendly crew, and there's always a chuckle when you stop in to chat. For example, Jack says: "You can tell a lot about people and their personalities from their sizes. The customer who is a 42 long is the greatest guy in the world—a real happy Joe. Why? Because he's not aware of his size or build as being too large or too small, so he's usually not self-conscious at all."

Is 42 long the most popular size across the country? "No—the most popular size is 40 regular. That's the average—and 40 regular is a darn good guy, too!"

Then the conversation drifted around to wives who shop with or for their husands.

* * * *

"WE DON'T have much of that here in Long Beach," Jack said. "However we do have many women shoppers in our San Marino store. There we get a lot of the 'gift store' business. Wives buy mostly furnishings—socks, underwear and pajamas. Why? Because they patronize stores in shopping centers and streets where women travel more. Gift shops in hotel lobbies get a lot of this kind of business. But in our Long Beach store we essentially are downtown—we get businessmen who come in to try on suits. Wives can't try on suits for men—they have to do that themselves. So, our store is a place for businessmen to drop in to talk and to see what's new in the world of suits."

There's a lot of experience behind the light-hearted witticism of Jack Becronis. A native of Pasadena, he has been in the clothing business since he was graduated from USC in 1951. He went to work for Phelps-Terkel in Los Angeles and Pasadena, and while there he met LaJoie, who had come to California from Minneapolis, where he worked for Hubert White. That's how they got together. Their San Marino store is now six years old and their next store will be in downtown Los Angeles.

* * * *

ALWAYS, THE partners' preoccupation has been with good taste, and the Andover Shop itself mirrors this. The facade is Williamsburg type Early American, complete with paned window and Dutch-style half doors. Inside the motif is carried through with appropriate colonial decor.

You have to force yourself to leave when talking to Becronis, for his language is sprightly and his knowledge of fashion is endless. But I stuck my head out the top half of the Dutch door and made sure that the boss was nowhere in sight. Then I opened the bottom half, waved goodbye to Jack, crawled out and went on back to work.

Paris in Couture Spotlight

By JOYCE KENT

Intimate facts about the haute couture of Paris are related in the recently publisher "Paris a la Mode" by Celia Bertin, young French author and winner of the Prix Renaudot in 1953.

Written in story form, rather than the textbook style one is accustomed to on the subject of fashion, it proves as interesting to the woman who enjoys fine clothing as it does to the student of fashion design.

* * * *

IN ADDITION to making more understandable the world of high fashion, it instills in the reader a strong desire to one day own a true Paris design!

Published by Harper and Brothers and translated from the French by Marjorie Deans (illustrations by Mariel Deans), "Paris a la Mode" exposes the haute couture as a true fine art and as an important part of the economy of France.

Along with couture collections presented each spring and fall, the book explains how many of today's designers also show "Boutique" collections in a more moderate price range. Another important facet of the Paris fashion industry, the selling of "toiles"—patterns of the models cut in linen — to foreign buyers also is explored.

Particularly interesting are Miss Bertin's interviews with seamstresses, models, saleswomen and the great couturiers themselves.

* * * *

ACCORDING to "Paris a la Mode," Schiaparelli "opened the first couturier botique, where an eccentric young Englishman burst into tears when he recognized a stuffed polar bear which had been shot by his grandfather and dyed pink by Dali." Mme. Vionnet told Miss Bertin, "It was I who got rid of corsets. At Doucet's in 1907, I presented mannequins for the first time with bare feet and sandals, and in their own skins." Of Dior, today's undisputed leader of haute couture, the author says, "he is one of those rare, grown-up people who seem as detached as children."

Perfume as an important sideline to Paris fashion is seen in the chapters on many of the great fashion houses—Dior, Chanel, Schiaparelli, Lanvin and Jean Patou. (Incidentally, the House of Patou is introducing its newest fragrance, Lasso, here in September.)

Table centerpiece at a surprise shower given by Mrs. Margaret Fletcher, 2782 Cedar Ave., was a large golden wedding ring, backed with pink tulle and flowers.

Wedding party members entertained by Miss Barnett at luncheon at Welch's, were: Mrs. Wayne Packer; Misses Neal, Crosby, Marilyn Lortscher, Emily Dennis, Judy Johnson, Sylvia Vaughn, Margot Robertson, and Judy Rupert.

Today, Mrs. Fred Barnett will be shower hostess in the gardens of her 3911 Rose Ave. home.

Lloyd Vaughans Observe Silver Year at Parties

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd J. Vaughan, 3820 Cedar Ave., have been celebrating their silver anniversary this past week. They said their vows in this city 25 years ago, and have resided here ever since, except during the war years, when Vaughan served as a Colonel with the Air Force in Europe and Japan, and with General Curtis LeMay at SAC headquarters in Omaha, Neb.

Vaughan's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. George Hove, were dinner guests at their 2320 Rutgers Ave. home. Guests were friends of many years, and included Pom Whaef bridge club members, and numerous guests at the 25 years ago wedding.

The hosts were assisted by their son, Roger, and the Vaughans' daughters, Linda and Sharon. Surprise visitors were Mrs. Bruce Woods and her two-year-old son, Paul, bearing a white orchid for Mrs. Vaughan. Mrs. Woods was flower girl at the Vaughans' wedding.

A pink and silver "money tree," laden with silver dollars, was presented to the honorees.

On Aug. 20, actual wedding date, a group of friends, including the Foster Strongs, Leslie Mayes, Jim Sidfords, Lewellyn Phillips, R. J. Kirkpatricks, Lucy Lovell, and the J. Roscoe Howells, who were the Vaughans' wedding attendants, hosted a surprise buffet dinner party at the Howells' home for 60 friends. Ginger blossoms, pink hibiscus and stephanotis were table decor.

Our Children

Prepare Your Old-Age Activity While Young

By ANGELO PATRI

Growing old is an inevitable result of once being young. Some of us do not accept the fact at all and consequently are unhappy when it falls upon us. Some of us know full well that age and its characteristics are coming but we make no preparation for it. The end result of this, lack of acceptance and preparation is a miserable old age. Having to stop active work and having nothing to do with our minds or our hands is tragic.

THIS NEED not be. Age can be a happy time provided one has something he wants to think about, or wants to do. This requires preparation and youth is the time to begin that essential activity of mind and hand. Each of us from childhood on has certain abilities, certain gifts, tastes and tendancies apart from the essential life work. One or more of these qualities or abilities should be cultivated from youth onward as insurance against the time when the "grasshopper becomes a burden."

Nature offers a various choice. The stars, animals, plants, fish, whatnots of the fields. Gardening, propagating plants, hybridizing them; wood carving, carpentry, cabinet making; writing and reading; collecting from buttons to jewels; paint, sculpting; sewing from making aprons to embroidering vestments. Truly "the world is so full of a number of things we all should be happy as kings."

But this provision for a far-off time makes no sense to children and youth so we make no mention of it. We quietly see that each child cultivates some one gift, some one interest that he will fall back on when his work-a-day time is over. That is why parents should stress music as an inner source to strengthen the spirit for the stresses of the future. Anybody who can play an intrument has that essential insurance against hopelessness in old age.

TOO, THIS second vocation does not wait to the day age sets in but serves then and there its purpose of spiritual release. Too many people including the children of today are suffering from tensions and the best way to relieve them is to have this resource, this bit of activity that acts as a haven for the troubled mind and weary body. And make no mistake, youth knows that weariness and needs that release.

Help the children to cultivate an inner resource. It pays its way in immediate rewards and insures happiness in time to come.

Children profit by a little self-examination. Dr. Patri advises a self-measuring chart which a child can make for himself. Leaflet P-13, "Self-Measuring Chart," is a chart to work with. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to him, care this paper, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

Worry Clinic

Maladjustment Can Cause Unhappiness in Marriage

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Case V-372: Milly B., aged 28, is the indifferent wife of Terry.

"Dr. Crane, I never did like housework," she protested in tears.

"And even after our first baby was born, I wanted to work and hire a woman to look after the house.

"But Terry insisted I stay home and be a housewife. Then he bought this little place out in the country.

"Well, I never was a country lover, so I hated it. But I was pregnant with our second baby, so I tried to put up with things.

"And Terry likes to read. I don't. So we had little in common. We have drifted farther apart. I can see that he is unhappy and ready to leave.

"But I don't know what to do to stop it. We just aren't compatible but our three children make it very complicated."

EVERY SUCCESSFUL wife soon learns that she must be an actress in her own home.

For she must feign ardor on many occasions to keep from deflating her husband's ego.

Most American males have absorbed an erroneous notion that women are very passionate creatures.

So when their wives show little fervor and often act indifferent, it wounds the male ego.

Deflated in his own pride, he then feels bitter and ugly. So he subconsciously decides to whittle down his wife's ego to an even lower stage than his own.

Thus, he scolds and finds fault and yells at the children and becomes a nagging husband.

"Nagging" usually is linked with wives. But there are literally millions of nagging husbands, too.

They find fault and indulge in biting sarcasm and affront their wives in public.

Such men often are victims of a sexual inferiority complex, regardless of whether they are 29 or 49.

But they probably are more numerous after 45, when they are panicky about slipping into a permanent platonic state.

So smart wives must learn the facts about the male sex ego and then become actresses. Feign ardor and you'll soon have a happy, devoted husband again.

That will not only be a great boon for you but a double blessing for your children.

FOR MILLIONS of youngsters are scolded and "bawled out" unmercifully when the real cause for the ill will of their dad is maladjustment which lies in the erotic realm.

Men and women are born with marked differences in their two major hungers, namely, the gastric and erotic.

Women have recognized this difference since the days of Adam and Eve. And wives even have tantalized their mates with delicious viands so their husbands would go far beyond the 3,500-calorie input.

But men also have much greater erotic hunger than women, though wives largely have ignored this vital fact.

So send for my booklet "Sex Problems in Marriage," enclosing a stamped return envelope, plus 20 cents. Insure a happy home, especially for your children's sake.

LaVern H. Brinkman

CHEF OF THE WEEK

La Vern Brinkman Is Fan of Bouillabaisse

By MILDRED K. FLANARY
Independent, Press-Telegram Home Economics Editor

He majored in science — minored in "math," but taught "phyzz-ed." Then, to lend even more variety, Chef of the Week LaVern (Vern) H. Brinkman became Long Beach manager of New York Life Insurance Co.

A Wisconsinite by birth, Brinkman attended Eau Claire College, but received his degrees from Wisconsin U. He was known for his athletic prowess at both colleges, being a member of their football and basketball teams. He captained the football team at Eau Claire.

Following graduation, he taught and coached in schools at Stanley, Wis., for two years. Then, still single, and with an eye for adventure, a relative succeeded in luring him to Coos Bay, Ore., where he taught and coached for another two years.

IT WAS WHILE summer-schooling at UC, Berkeley, that he met Williard E. Givens, superintendent of Oakland schools, and more recently secretary of NEA, Washington, D. C. This friendship led to his transferring bag-'n-baggage to Oakland and a teaching position in Roosevelt High School.

His interest in insurance and investment was born when he read, re-read and re-re-read his life insurance policy with an eventual understanding. He rather liked the idea of having mastered the legal aspects of the document, so after two years at Roosevelt, he resigned and joined the New York Life Insurance Co. at Oakland.

AS A GOLFER, he's what is known as a "hacker." But his love of that game is surpassed only by his pleasure at deep sea fishing—duck hunting and rooting at football games. A regular guy at most things, he isn't inclined domestically and not much of a cook. You'll like his New Orleans Bouillabaisse, however.

NEW ORLEANS BOUILLABAISSE

- ½ cup oil
- 1 cup butter or margarine
- 2 chopped onions
- 2 diced green peppers
- 2 cloves of garlic
- 2 No. 2 cans solid pack tomatoes
- 1 6-ounce can tomato paste
- 2 8-ounce cans tomato sauce
- 1 bay leaf
- 1 tsp. paprika
- 2 tsp. salt
- Freshly ground pepper
- 6 peppercorns
- 1 cup sauterne wine
- ½ cup sherry wine
- 1 tablespoon grated orange rind
- 2 small lobster tails
- 1 pound frozen fish fillets
- 1 pound scallops
- 1 pound frozen shrimp
- 1 pound cooked crab meat
- 1 pint canned oysters
- 1 pint raw clams
- 2 tblsp. chopped parsley

Put oil, butter, onions, green pepper and crushed garlic in large, heavy kettle. Cook until onion is soft and yellow. Add tomatoes, tomato paste, tomato sauce and seasoning. Stir in wines and orange rind. Cover and simmer 1 hour. Meanwhile, cook lobster tails in boiling water to cover, until tender-about 15 minutes; cool and remove the shell. Cut fish filets in 2-inch squares. Layer fish and shell fish in large kettle. Pour sauce over the top. Cover and simmer 20 minutes.

MOLLY MAYFIELD

You Are Years Too Late

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

I'm at my wit's end. I've been married 29 years. The past 15 years have been quite a trial. My husband met a married woman. He drank himself out of two businesses because of her. She loves to drink, too. I have found them together quite a few times. Always I get a good excuse for it.

When he doesn't see her for a couple of weeks he is a nice man. He always has been good to our children. We never do anything together but he hunts this other woman up to be with her. He says she is fun to be with. He is free to live with her if he wants to. He always says he wouldn't, though, because she wouldn't suit him as a wife. BEWILDERED.

DEAR BEWILDERED:

Whatever answer I give is going to be about 14 years too late. You've let him get away with this shoddy scheme so long that it's going to be difficult to get tough about it now. You never should have permitted it—even separated, if necessary.

But your apparent tolerance (which I think was soft-headedness in this case) encouraged him to philander.

You can still try reading him the riot act, but he'll have a quick answer: "Why did you let me get away with it for so long? You couldn't have cared very much." That's why I'm afraid the advice is too late.—M. M.

* * * *

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

I am a wife and mother of four wonderful children. We recently moved to a new state because of my health.

We owe several bills and we got behind moving out here, especially on the car payments. The finance company stored the car until we could make up the payment.

My husband and I talked about me working, so I found a job working nights.

But every night when I start dressing for work, he fusses at me to quit. I would like to give my employer a notice, a week at least. My husband thinks I just ought to quit and not say anything.

Now my husband is saying that he's going to lose his job if I don't stop working because his boss doesn't believe in women working outside the home. Should I believe this? Should I give in and quit or just try to bear the fussing and work anyway?

DEAR MRS. L. R. C.:

I think this is a situation that calls for soft talk, even if you have to bite your tongue to keep from saying something harsh. Your husband's masculine pride is what is troubling him. He feels that your going to work is an admission that he's a failure as a provider and that's what makes him so snappish and unreasonable.

So why not tell him that you sure hate working, that his job would have been plenty to live on if YOUR health hadn't fouled everything up? Tell him that's why you feel guilty and want to help support the family. Assume all the blame. Make him feel like a million dollars. I'll bet his attitude will change in a flash. And I don't think there's anything to that talk about his boss. That was just hubby's way of bringing pressure to bear—by using the boss as an excuse.—M. M.

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

I have grown up, or at least reached, the age of 16, and in all that time I have as yet had no fun.

I have done extremely well at school. I am the antithesis of the modern teenager. If he is too wild, I am too careful. If he is not interested enough in world affairs, I am too much so. In short, whatever the modern teenager has done, I haven't done, and what he hasn't done I have done.

Is there any way that this one-track life of mine can be split up into a sensible balance between two integrated roads? Is there a way to prevent this lonely, creeping paralysis? Or should I concentrate on intellectual pursuits, becoming perhaps a brilliant chemist or physicist?

In the words of our modern immortal singer: "I have had too much!" A. K. R.

DEAR A. K. R.:

Ah, wilderness! The splendid melancholy of youth! I remember how it was, long ago, and I can smile at the recollection now, whereas I sighed dismally at the future then.

Of course, you can combine fun and seriousness, and you will do so. I realize that 16 is a very old age, but I think you will survive it. Who knows you may live long enough to enjoy second childhood, which I am now doing! —M. M.

Distribution Is Opponent

West opened the ace of clubs and continued the suit. Eventually South lost one club, one diamond, one heart and two trumps and was down 500.

Not a tremendous penalty but an unnecessary one and North and South have asked me to discuss the bidding and assess the blame for the loss.

North feels that South should have opened three spades or merely bid three spades after East's double of the three-club bid. In that case the North and South loss would have been 100 points only.

South feels that North should have let him play two spades, in which instance North and South would have shown a profit.

I have no criticism of either a one-spade or a three-spade opening with the South hand. I can't condemn his jump to four spades either, although I would have bid three spades only. South only had 11 high-card points and except for his one ace they all were represented by queens and jacks.

I also would definitely have dropped the bidding at two spades if I had held the North cards, but again I cannot condemn North. He was void in spades and it was possible that hearts or clubs would work out as a better contract. Still, when my partner rebids a suit that I am void of I always pull in my horns as far as possible.

Finally, North and South should not be too greatly upset. Move the ten of spades over to the East hand and the king of hearts over to the West hand and South will romp home with his four-spade contract.

Mrs. Ewart Ends Pacific Cruise

Newly returned from a six-week cruise of the South Pacific aboard the SS Mariposa is Mrs. Grace J. Ewart of 118 Pomona Ave.

A highlight of the trip for Mrs. Ewart, owner of a dancing school here, was a study of the dances in the various Islands visited.

She found the Tahitian dancing fast, but not particularly graceful, while the dances of the Mauris, original inhabitants of New Zealand, were very beautiful. Fiji dances proved fascinating to the instructor, since most of the dances are done from a sitting position, and constitute little more than arm movements.

Samoa, she believes, is the most primitive and beautiful of the Islands, and she was completely captivated by the Koala bears in Australia. Rounding out her trip was a visit in the Hawaiian Islands.

Navy's Long Beach Home Ashore

By James Allen

"SERVICE to the Fleet."

This simple phrase sums up the complex mission of Long Beach Naval Station, a highly important Navy activity with an annual operating allotment of more than five million dollars. It is a "Navy home ashore" for thousands of crewmen of the Pacific Fleet.

Since the station was established in 1946, it has performed a growing number and variety of services to men and ships of the Pacific Fleet.

In addition to its primary mission, the station gives logistic support to other Naval activities and stations.

Commanded by Capt. Robert S. Clark, Long Beach Naval Station is a component of the U.S. Naval Base, Los Angeles, headquarters of which are on the station.

IT IS DIVIDED into a number of departments or sections, each of which performs a particular type of service or supports a particular Naval activity. Naval units of friendly foreign nations also are accommodated.

The following military-type services are provided:

Pilot, tug and refuse service and delivery of water and fuel.

Anchorages and buoy and pier-side berthing, excluding ships berthing at Long Beach Naval Shipyard.

Naval communications.

Medical care for Navy families.

Furnishing facilities for a Naval Accounts Disbursing Office, Red Cross, Navy Relief, units of the Mine Force, Naval Reserve Training Center and Harbor Defense Unit, plus some facilities for the Naval Ordnance Test Station, Inyokern.

Maintenance and operation of nearly 2,000 units of housing for enlisted men and their families—at three locations in Long Beach and one in San Pedro.

Operation of the Naval Receiving Station, where transient personnel are housed and processed for transfer to other commands or separation from the service.

ONE OF THE most vital departments of the Naval Station is the medical department, which operates the dispensary in six buildings covering an area equal to a city block.

It offers comprehensive services to forces afloat and ashore, to active an inactive reservists and to dependents of active and retired Navy and Marine Corps personnel in this area.

The pharmacy compounds an average of more than 4,600 prescriptions a month. In the dependents' clinic, nearly 7,000 wives and children of servicemen were treated in a recent one-month period by five doctors, nine nurses and four Waves. The eye clinic performed nearly 1,000 refractions in the period. More than 700 children were cared for in the nearby nursery while their mothers were seeing the doctor.

THE DISPENSARY has a men's sick ward, which admits sailors and Marines who are not seriously ill. It also cares for emergency cases and patients who are awaiting transfer to Corona Naval Hospital. The dispensary has five ambulances. Two doctors, a nurse and three hospitalmen are on duty every night.

The dental department cares for dental needs of more than 25,000 crewmen of Long Beach-based ships, plus about 9,000 retired and Fleet Reserve personnel. The staff has been averaging 3,800 sittings a month.

The Port Control Office makes arrangements for a ship arriving at the station. The office readies a berth for the vessel, provides tugs and a pilot, and helps out with any problems the ship may have.

PORT CONTROL arranges for ceremonies to welcome home Fleet units which have been overseas — a service which is particularly appreciated by the returning men.

The office also supports Naval and other military facilities on offshore islands, such as San Clemente. A boat provides transportation for Naval ships and security launches for harbor patrol.

The communication department gives call and delivery service of plain language and classified-message traffic to all Naval activities in this area. Ship-to-shore radio and visual traffic also is handled, as well as telephone service.

The supply department operates a large, well-equipped galley and mess hall which accommodates personnel from the station, nearby activities, transient personnel and men from ships under repair in Long Beach Naval Shipyard.

THE DEPARTMENT'S clothing and small stores divisions issues clothing to men who are unable to buy uniforms and other articles aboard their ships. It serves the station and other shore activties.

Approximately 20,000 Navy personnel pass through the Receiving Station annually. The facility arranges for transportation of men and dependents and co-operates with the Red Cross in assisting others who face emergencies or hardship.

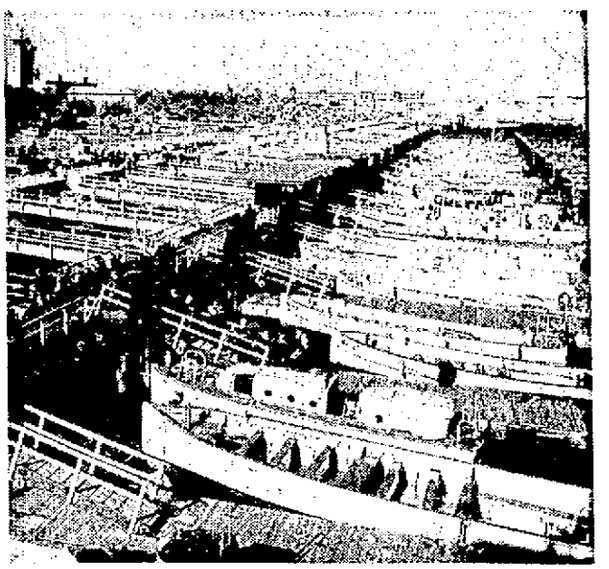

The Special Services Division offers a large and well-equipped gym, handball courts, squash and badminton courts and a swimming pool. An archery range is being established. Equipment for many sports can be checked out for use away from the station.

Special services seeks the best and latest movies for showing in the station theater and arranges periodic special programs. Tickets are distributed for TV shows, plays, sports contests and other events. Athletic tournaments provide competition

Exploring California's Verdant Wine Lands

Vine-covered pergola, overlooking a broad expanse of California vineyard at Cucamonga, offers the traveler of the wine lands shade and rest.

Keeping the history of gallons of wine aging in huge storage tanks requires constant checkup. These are at Guasti in San Bernardino Valley.

By Caroline Coleman

FOLLOWING the footsteps of sandaled padres, Gold Rush nabobs, and earnest pioneers, thousands of eager travelers are ever striking out to explore the verdant wonderland where the wines of California are grown. There, they will find, as they have in other years, that the sprawling wine land is imbued with all the timeless charm and romance associated with wine growing throughout the world.

The excursion, along fine, new highways, is an easy one with some sunlit part of the wine land readily accessible from almost any point in the state, particularly in the Southland where the harvest has started. For the vineyards, stretching from the Mexican border almost to Oregon, extend into 47 of California's 58 counties. Here, on a half-million bright acres, are grown almost 90 per cent of all the wine produced in the nation and about 85 per cent of all consumed.

THE FIRST WINE grower in what is now California was Father Junipero Serra who, in 1769, planted a vineyard at his Mission San Diego near the Mexican border. In the abundant California sunshine and friendly soil, the vines flourished, yielding bountiful harvests for making the mission's sacramental wines. As the yearly bounty continued the wine grown by the Franciscan padres also enhanced their simple table fare, added warmth to the hospitality extended wayfarers, and was used as a medicament for the sick. Vineyards, supplying wines for the sacrament, marked the spread of Spanish missions through the region and the trail of the vine through much of California still roughly approximates the trail of missions.

For many years, however, Los Angeles was the undisputed wine-growing center of the state, until it was found that grapes also would flourish in California's central valleys and in her north coastal counties.

Among the aristocratic grape varieties now flourishing in California's vineyards are the Pinot Chardonnay, Pinot Blanc, Pinot Noir, Cabernet Sauvignon, Johannisberger Riesling, Traminer, and California's own Zinfandel. Here, too, grows the Palomino for fine sherry, the Tinta Cao and Tinta Madeira for distinguished port. Each of the varieties, with its own special flavor and aroma, makes a distinctive wine and adds a brilliance to California's kaleidoscopic wine spectrum.

GRAPES ARE now being harvested from the California vineyards with shears or stubby knives and taken immediately to the winery where they are tested and examined to be sure their quality is good. They are then crushed and the juice along with the skins is drawn into redwood or concrete vats for fermentation.

Careful watch is kept over the fermentation for by this important process—the same required in making bread, vitamin drugs, and cheese—the fresh grape juice is preserved as wine. Yeast enzymes, responsible for the fermentation action in the crushed fruit, convert the natural grape sugar into approximately equal parts of alcohol and carbon dioxide gas which escapes. In autumn, the murmur of the ferment in vats can be heard through the lofty wineries as the ruby-colored crush becomes flecked with foam.

After fermentation the wine is drawn into oak or redwood casks for aging. Since the temperature must be kept cool and even, some wineries stow their casks of aging wine in tunnels dug with pick and shovel long ago while others use built-in cooling devices. In the cellar chill, whether above or below ground, the air is sweet and pungent with maturing wine and mellow wood.

For a helpful boost along his way, the prospective wine land traveler may write the Wine Institute, 717 Market St., San Francisco 3, Calif. Route maps, tour schedules, and other information designed to facilitate a holiday excursion can be obtained on all of the state's eight great wine districts.

LARGEST OF the eight districts, in area, is Southern California which actually embraces three smaller but distinct districts—Los Angeles County, the Cucamonga-Etiwanda-Ontario-Guasti region, and the environs of San Diego.

The San Diego area is the oldest of the wine growing regions for it was here, near the "Mother of Missions," that Father Junipero Serra planted the first vines for wine. South of the city, itself, and across the border is the Mexican town of Tijuana with its Sunday bullfights, and slightly north of the city is the posh resort suburb of La Jolla with its majestic sweep of palm-fringed beach. Wine grape growing in the San Diego area is now centered mostly around Escondido in a beautiful sheltered valley on U. S. Hwy. 395, inland from La Jolla.

Continuing northward along the route of Hwy. 395, the traveler drives into the Cucamonga-Etiwanda-Ontario-Guasti district where the lofty San Bernardino mountains rise abruptly from the vineyards. U. S. Hwys. 60 and 70, well-traveled routes from Long Beach to Palm Springs and the Joshua Tree forests, course through this land of citrus groves and vineyards, any part of which is only an hour or two away from the booming southern metropolis.

AS THE TRAVELER, pursuing the trail of the vine, veers from this eastward route and swings to the north again through the great valley heart of the state, acres of vineyards unfold—vast bubbly green seas parted only by ribbons of smooth highway or occasional clumps of white oaks and eucalyptus.

On these interior plains, between the coastal mountain ranges and the Sierra Nevada, are the Fresno-San Joaquin Valley District, and farther north, the Escalon-Modesto District, joining the Lodi-Sacramento District in the Sacramento Valley. U. S.

Nobody Steals Their Thunder

By Harry Fulton

WHEN THE 18,000-ton tanker Robert Wietert made a round-trip cruise to Mazatlan, Mexico, recently, two Long Beach sea scouts went along for the ride.

Denny Hamann and Ronnie Elmore, both 17, had the run of the ship and were given every chance to learn as much as possible about the operation of the 269-foot vessel. Furthermore, all their expenses were paid on the 15-day cruise.

Denny, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Hamann, and Ronnie, whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. Frank Elmore Jr., actually won their trip. It was their reward for being selected as the outstanding members of the Sea Explorer Squadron of the Long Beach Area Council, Boy Scouts of America.

WHEN MOST PEOPLE think about scouting, they only think in terms of Boy Scout activities which are confined to land areas. However, sea scouting has been a part of the Boy Scout program in this area for the past 30 years, and the Sea Explorer program is open to all boys 14 and older who have the basic desire to learn about ships and explore the sea.

Denny and Ronnie, who both hold an able seaman rating, are only two of 364 boys who get their Sea Explorer training at the $25,000 Sea Scout Base, located on 250-feet of waterfront property, overlooking the Long Beach skyline, on Pier A, Long Beach Harbor.

Their ship, The Volunteer, a 40-foot motor sailer, is just one of 14 vessels which make up the Sea Explorer Base fleet. The base also has a sail loft, 12 lockers and the headquarters building, which includes meeting rooms, a galley and a club room with fireplace which is used as an auxiliary meeting room.

AS PART OF the Boy Scout program, the sea scouting activity of course is aided by funds contributed to the Community Chest. Local organizations also assist, however, by sponsoring the individual ships.

The Volunteer, for example, is sponsored by the Men's Club of the First Congregational Church. Various groups of the Latter Day Saints Church sponsor three ships—the Lehi, Mormon and Maroni—and other ships are backed by the following groups: Mafolo, Long Beach Lions Club; Argo, Elks Club 888; Alamitos, the Alamitos Bay Post, American Legion; Marlin, the Isaac Walton League; Neptune, Exchange Club of Long Beach; Sea Lion, Lakewood Elks 1885; Viking, Belmont Shore Lions Club; La Pirata, St. Thomas of Canterbury Church, Lakewood; The Spartan, Los Altos Community Congregational Church, and the Flying Dutchman, East Side Christian Church.

Roger T. Huffman of the Procter & Gamble Co. now serves as general chairman of the local Sea Explorer program. He is assisted by a nine-member planning committee and an advisory committee which includes both Capt. Robert S. Clark, commandant of the U. S. Naval Station here, and Capt. John Rountree, commandant of the 11th Coast Guard District.

SKIPPERS AND MATES of all the ships are adults who donate their time to the scouting program. They represent many occupations, but they share a common love—of boys and the sea.

These men supervise the operation of the various ships, but it is the boys themselves who do the work.

Learning how to splice a hauser, a group of Sea Explorer Scouts works aboard Navy LSM 455 which recently took boys on a 2-day cruise. Navy, Coast Guard aid Scouts.

First Mate Edwin Lawler and crew of Sea Explorer vessel Neptune, sponsored by the Long Beach Exchange Club, hold ship's meeting in forward cabin of 40-foot launch.

Ships of Navy provide background as personnel of the Sea Explorer base conduct their annual squadron review, held each April, just before start of annual cruising season.

Dan McGrew's 'Uncle'

By Olive Breed

THE world still owes much enjoyment to Robert W. Service, who at 20 staked his literary claim in the frozen Yukon. During its wildest days he brought out such nuggets as "The Shooting of Dan McGrew," "The Cremation of Sam McGee," and many others in his "Songs of a Sourdough."

Because his books have made millions for him, today at 83, Robert Service, "father" of Dangerous Dan McGrew, has a permanent home in Monaco and can take a daily dip in the warm Mediterranean. Last year he was an honored guest at the Rainier wedding.

Famed poet Robert Service is 83, lives in Monaco and visits with Grace, Rainier.

But Peter Service, Robert's 76-year-old brother, would not trade the Southland for Monaco, or Long Beach for Monte Carlo. He makes this his second home for five months of the year.

With a delightful chuckle, Peter recalls how the first Service book got into print.

"MY BROTHER sent a bundle of those poems to Father, in Scotland, with a $100 check to cover the cost of printing." Peter's laugh was infectious. "Father was a canny banker, wise to the ways of a dollar, and was thrown into a panic for fear Robert's writing poetry would jeopardize his job in a bank at White Horse, Yukon Territory.

"Father grumbled, 'I don't know anything about publishing, and I couldn't care less.' I had gone with Father to pick up the mail, and remember that we were passing a Methodist publishing house. Father paused. The outside of the manuscript read, "Songs of a Sourdough," not very much like Methodist hymns, but we went in and laid the sheets on a table behind which some men were talking. I knew the typesetter, for he often entertained our church groups with his readings.

"While Father and the manager were talking, somehow this fellow got hold of some of the poems. He started to read 'The Shooting of Dan McDrew' right there, and before he got through all work had stopped and everyone gathered around.

Poet's brother, Peter, is 76, visits Long Beach frequently. Here he poses with his grandchildren.

"'We'll publish them,' the manager said, handing Robert's check back to Father.

"But Father was very Scottish, and couldn't change his mind easily. All my life I had heard him say, 'Not one in a million ever made money out of poetry.' Now, going down the street, he placed his arm across my shoulders and repeated those words."

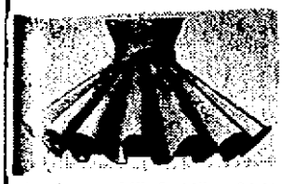

AT THIS point Peter had been so engrossed in talking of a time almost a lifespan in the past, and a place halfway round the world, that he had to shake himself into the happy present.

"My brother still is constantly writing," he went on, "but his writing today is very different from the virile product of the gold rush years. It is that of a man who cares a great deal about people. He cannot abstain from writing. It is his lifeblood, and reason for living."

Peter speaks with great understanding and feeling for poetry. "But I haven't my brother's genius for expression," he modestly says to any suggestion that he put down some of his colorful stories. He is approached almost daily by someone who wishes to discuss his brother. He obliges with:

"Although Robert is 83, he keeps a fixed schedule of a swim, a walk, and a poem a day. He wants it that way every day he lives."

Globe-Trotting Is His

Percy Steidley, who's been about everywhere, is shown beside bronze Daibutsu (Great Buddha) on Japan visit.

By Vera Williams

EVER SEE an entirely happy person? A man who is doing exactly what he wants to do?

Meet Percy Lee Steidley, who on Sept. 18 will be 71 years old, a retired printer and enthusiastic globe-trotter.

In the past seven years, Percy has traveled 117,619 miles. He has seen every place in the world he wants to see except Mexico City, and he will go there next.

He has traveled by rickshaw in Hong Kong, he has ridden elephants in Ceylon and camels in Egypt.

PERCY'S WANDERLUST began, he thinks, when as a boy he stood on the cindery tracks at his home town of South McAlester, Indian Territory (now eastern Oklahoma), and watched the trains snort through on their way to Kansas City, St. Louis and Dallas.

When he was 17, the boy began going with the trains—he rode the rods under freight trains, in box cars, on the tops of Pullmans.

Three years before, he had begun his printing career, as a printer's devil on the News-Capital, a weekly paper. His salary, he recalls, was $2 for a 54-hour week.

THEN HE GRADUATED to setting type by hand at the cases, and pulling an old Washington hand press, now fortunately obsolete.

"My mother had been a schoolteacher in the Ozarks," says Percy. "She noticed that printers always had work—maybe they didn't make much money but they always could get a job. I started 57 years ago, and I haven't been out of work a day since when I wanted to work."

In 1921 he came to Long Beach, started on the Press, and stayed on the Press, the Press-Telegram and the Independent, Press-Telegram for 31 years.

HE SERVED as president of the Typographical Union, president of the Central Labor Council, he is active in Masonic groups and the Eastern Star, and he served several terms as press chairman for the California Grand Chapter Eastern Star.

In 1950 Percy began traveling again. On a three-month trip he flew to New York, took the Queen Elizabeth to England, and toured England, Holland, Belgium and France, with stays in London, Amsterdam, Brussels and Paris.

He came home, worked 11 months, officially retired, and then in October 1952 started out again, this time on a four-month trip around the world. He sailed on the President Polk and saw Honolulu, Japan, Hong Kong, Manila, Singapore, Colombo, Bombay, Pakistan, Egypt and Italy. Returning to New York in January 1953 he went to Washington to watch Eisenhower's first inaugural parade, and then he went to Key West, Fla.

IN OCTOBER 1953 he took a cargo ship to South and Central America, visiting among other places Brazil, Venezuela, Uruguay, Argentina, Chile, Peru, Colombia, San Salvador and Guatemala. He visited the West

Hobby

Indies and got home the day after Christmas.

Percy stayed home for a while, and then in May 1955 he took the SS United States from New York to England. He made an overland tour of England, Scotland, Wales, the channel island of Jersey, then he went to France, Germany, Switzerland, Austria, Jugoslavia, Syria, Lebanon, Jordan, Israel, Greece, Turkey and Portugal.

Last February he left San Francisco on the SS Orsova of the Orient Line, and set out to see the places he had missed before. He saw Suva in the Fiji Islands, he took a 16-day tour of New Zealand, a 13-day tour of Australia. He made a 4,400-mile trip from Australia to South Africa, with a stop at Durban, and he went around the Cape of Good Hope to Capetown. Next, 4,460 miles to Las Palmas in the Canary Islands, then London, Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Holland and home on the Queen Elizabeth.

HOW CAN A PRINTER do all this traveling? Seeing the world costs folding money, doesn't it?

"Well, yes," says Percy, "I travel middle class—not really top but not the bottom, either. In foreign countries I stay in middle class hotels or in the homes of the natives, if I can. I like to travel by motor bus—that way you get to see the country and the people.

"I don't speak any language but English, but I'm pretty good at sign language."

How does he finance his travels?

"I bought war bonds, and when they matured I saved the money. . . . I live in an apartment in a cottage at 345 E. 8th St. I do my own cooking. I don't drink or smoke or play the horses. . . . I have my printer's pension, Social Security and a little income on the side. My monthly intake is larger than my monthly outgo. I have a car, not a new one, but it runs. I like my way of life just fine."

"Take things easy. Don't get excited. Speak your own language first. Don't buy more stuff than you will need, don't take stuff you'll never unpack until after you get home. Don't go down alleys looking for bargains. Don't exchange money on the street—go to reputable, authorized places."

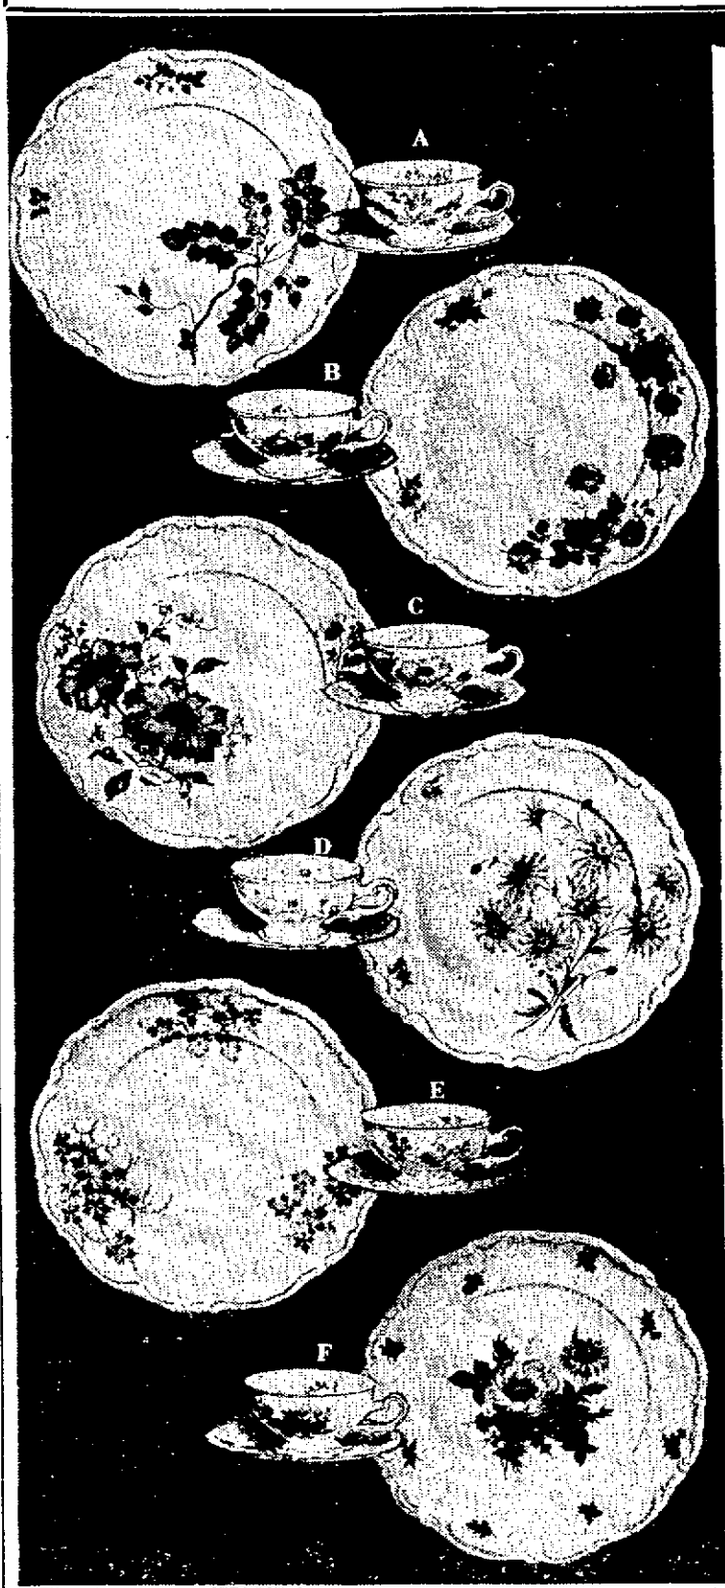

How about clothes?

"You can go around the world," says Percy, "with two suits, a sports outfit, raincoat or topcoat, a hat, Nylon shirts and Nylon underwear, two pairs of shoes."

Percy Steidley traveled 117,619 miles in 7 years.

RESORTS AND TRAVEL

Around the World With

DELAPLANE

"We plan an air trip to Sydney, Australia. Is there a stop-over on the way down at the Great Barrier Reef?"

NO, THE best way to get to the reef resorts is from Sydney. There's air service and a couple of hotels. You can make the reservations in Sydney and they tell me this is really great. Australian friends like a place called Surfer's Paradise."

IF YOU WANT a stop-over like [illegible] don't you make it at Nadi [illegible]ort in Fiji? Both QANTAS and Pan American make a fuel stop there. Take a taxi to a fine tropical resort half-way between Nadi and Suva—called Korolevu.

Very comfortable native cottages. Good food for Fiji. Coco palms on the beach. Another great trip is the four-day Blue Lagoon cruise down to a little group of almost untouched islands.

The last price I had on this was $100 which included everything. Make your plans so that you get there at the right time. The yacht sails every Monday.

YOU MIGHT WRITE TEAL at Suva, Fiji, and get their upcoming time table. Their one flying boat makes one-day hops down to Tonga islands. And every three weeks goes over to Tahiti. You can get off at Apia in Samoa on one of the most colorful of the South Seas islands. Then pick up the TEAL plane on its return three days later.

Not many hotels. The one I like is Aggie Grey's.

"You mentioned a new insect repellent but our druggist doesn't know it..."

THE U. S. Department of Agriculture says the new diathtoluamide is the best discovery yet. It is sold under several trade names. One of them is "OFF!"

Supposed to be non-greasy, pleasant odor.

"We have a few days to stop off in Ireland when we come back from Europe. Could you suggest a place?"

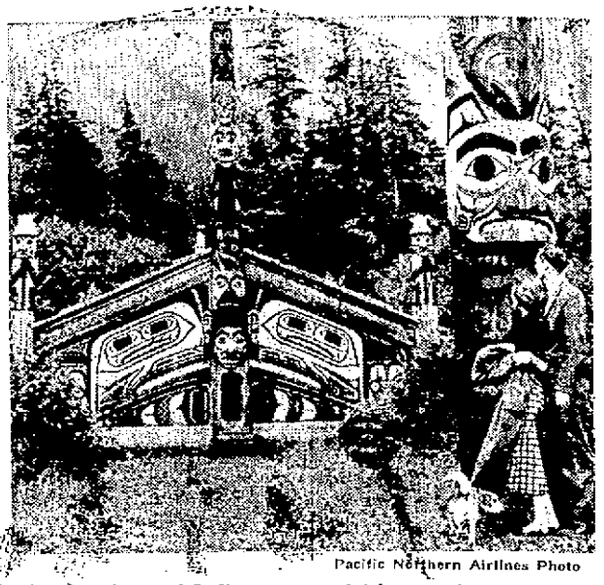

I LIKED Ashford Castle about 30 miles north of Galway and about six hours drive from Shannon Airport. Moats and towers and a lake and good food. I don't think they are open all year though. So it depends on what time you are in Ireland.

If they are closed for the season, drive down the coast to the Butler Arms at Waterville. This hotel is run by the same family.

"I understand that you can send gifts worth less than $10 from overseas and they enter duty-free. But does this come off your $500 duty-free exemption on what you bring in?"

NO, ANY GIFTS like this still leave you free to bring in $500 worth of other things. If it is more than $10 and you want to get it in without duty you have to declare it as "purchases not with the passenger." Then it comes off your $500.

Your mailed questions will be answered (no phone calls). Send stamped and addressed envelope to Stan Delaplane, Southland Magazine, Independent, Press-Telegram, Sixth and Pine, Long Beach 12, Calif.

Land of the Totem Poles

By John Ronson

HIGHLIGHT of any trip to Alaska is a visit to one of several Ketchikan area routes of Pacific Northern Airlines where Indian totem poles may be found grouped in their original settings. An ideal time for such a trip is in the late summer and early fall through the month of October when the weather and scenery are at their best.

One such city is Ketchikan, where one may view the totems and a ceremonial house at Totem-Bight, a few miles north of town; see the Saxman Indian Village, just south of town; or walk to the city park in the center of Ketchikan. Early examples of Indian totems and carvings are also on display in the Territorial Museum in Juneau. Other areas include Sitka and Wrangell, also in Southeastern Alaska.

CARVED OF CEDAR, totem poles among the Indians of Alaska were symbolic of each clan. Largely heraldic, and related to native mythology as well as actual happenings, the totem pole was the perpetuation of the tribal past and virtually the native Book of Chronicles.

Contrary to belief, the totem was not an idol. It had no religious significance and was based on tribal pride becoming an expression of totemic possession and the histories of one particular clan. The various symbols were the exclusive property-marks of clans and families, jealously guarded and proudly displayed on houses, canoes, garments and household possessions.

The totem poles, in all their brilliant colors, symbolized victories, family history, defeat of rivals, and even unpaid debts. The figures depicted on totem poles embodied legends, phenomena, and the wild life of the region. The figure story begins at the top of the pole and reads downward.

THERE WERE SIX different types of totem poles and they ranged from a few feet to 80 feet in height. The house pillar and the mortuary or "grave" poles, topped with the crest of the family of the dead person, were the principal ones. Others are heraldic, memorial, ridicule and potlatch poles.

The ridicule or "shame" pole was erected by a rival chief before the house of a chief who broke his word or behaved in a similar dishonorable manner. The threat that a "shame" pole might be erected was usually enough to make the delinquent chief accede to the other's terms, for no chief ever felt that he could afford the shame brought by such an act.

THE MAKING OF a totem pole was a large project. Selecting and cutting a perfect large red-cedar tree, then hollowing it out by fire, transporting it overland or by sea for often considerable distances, carving and finally erecting sometimes required years. Totems are of relatively late origin, those poles now standing were all made since 1860 and some even after 1890.

The direct inter-relation of the clan system enables other clan members often to be able to read totem poles because the story carved thereon may depict their own stories as well as those of the original owners.

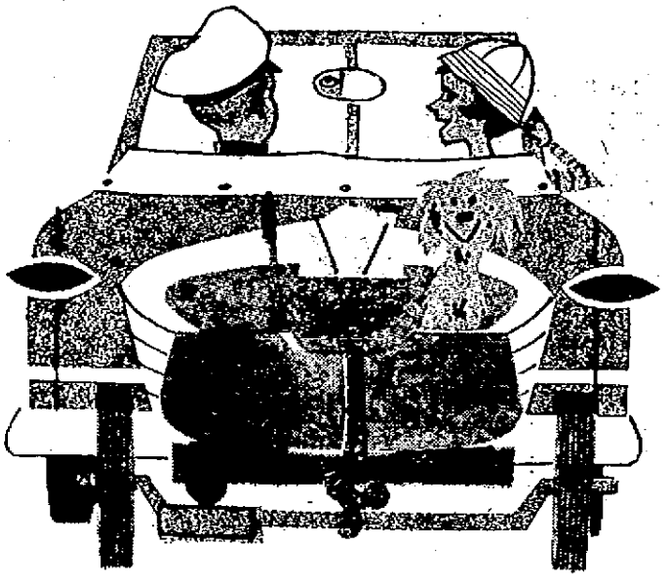

THE CARVINGS on the totems include animals, people, and supernatural beings and often a figure was included because the man who used the totem was the first person to see that particular figure—as in the sailing ship on the pole in Ketchikan Park.

For further information on Southeastern Alaska and how to get there, contact any PNA travel agent or write Pacific Northern Airlines, 1223 4th Ave., Seattle, Wash.

Clint (Cheyenne) Walker and Virginia Mayo in a scene from Warner Bros.' "Fifteen Bullets From Fort Dobbs."

HOLLYWOOD

Cheyenne Wows Utah

By Betty DeWeese

BIGGEST CURRENT tourist attraction in Kanab, Utah, city of 1,500 people, has not been the Indian cliff dwellings that surround it, nor the spectacular scenery of the area.

It has been Clint Walker, the 6-foot-6-inch, 235-pound star of the highly-rated "Cheyenne" television series who came here for his first starring role in a feature-length film, Warner Bros.' "Fifteen Bullets from Fort Dobbs."

Ever since word spread that Walker was coming to Kanab, tourists have been changing their vacation plans to include a drive here for a look-see at the man who is probably the most popular western star in the nation today.

THE KANAB Chamber of Commerce figures that during the average week 4,000 tourists drove through this small Mormon city, known as "Utah's Little Hollywood" — because so many pictures have been filmed around this country. But with the arrival of the "Fifteen Bullets from Fort Dobbs" company, the number of tourists almost doubled.

If you keep a watch, you'll usually see a crowd of mothers with their youngsters hovered around a tall, dark-haired, muscular chap dressed in western clothes, signing autographs by the dozen. That's Clint (Cheyenne) Walker.

And if you are looking for the dads you'll find them busy seeking autographs from blonde and lovely Virginia Mayo, Clint's co-star and the prettiest scenery to ever stroll down the main stem of Kanab.

LOCAL POLICE had to work extra duty to keep the traffic moving. And the highway patrol set up a special parking arrangement whereby tourists following the company out to its various locations would not jam up the roads.

As for Walker, the whole ballyhoo is the most fascinating thing to happen to him since he was discovered two years ago for the role of "Cheyenne."

"Don't Steal Their Thunder," is a basic fundamental of scouting. "Train 'Em, Trust 'Em, Let 'Em Lead." That's the theory followed at the Sea Explorer Base.

The young men select their own crew leaders and assistant crew leaders and through them manage their own ships, and under the direction of adults they learn sea lore, boat handling, marlinspike seamanship, rigging, ground tackle, piloting, navigation and similar subjects associated with the sea.

THE CRUISING season for local sea scouts starts May 1 and ends Sept. 30 each year, and the highlight of every year is the annual squadron review held just before the cruising season begins.

All ships and crews are made ready for the big event, and the Waddington Trophy is awarded the ship scoring the highest in efficiency of both personnel and gear.

Winner of the trophy this year was The Volunteer, whose skipper is Harry E. Graves. Since the first of the year, The Volunteer has held 28 crew meetings, 26 work parties and sponsored 16 special events. In addition, the ship has gone on nine weekend cruises to the Boy Scout base on Catalina Island.

Officials of the local Sea Explorer base train the boys, they trust them and they let them lead.

And they let them have fun!

NO MONEY DOWN — UP TO 3 YEARS TO PAY
ON WARDS HOME IMPROVEMENT PLAN

With living and dining often merged into a single area, harmonized furniture—with some pieces serving dual purposes—is an answer; the idea is exemplified in this collection by Basic-Witz. Each individually-styled piece is designed to go with every other piece.

Harmonized Furniture Dresses Up Merged Areas

By Alicia Kay Smith

FURNITURE, these days, must suit our new ways of living, and it must fit the new houses and apartments we're living in. Consider, for example, the effect on home furnishings of just two changes: the almost total disappearance of the separate dining room, and the even more complete vanishing of any form of household help.

With living and dining merged into a single area, furniture for both must be closely harmonized, and some pieces must serve dual purposes. And with no household help available, women everywhere do their own housework. Simultaneously, they're involved in more activities outside the home than ever before; and the result is a need for furnishings that can be cared for with a minimum of effort.

Such changes in living patterns are the inspiration for a new group of correlated furniture for living, dining and bedrooms. The "Innovation" group, designed by Sanford Wallack and manufactured by Basic-Witz, has been specifically tailored to the needs of today's homes and today's families.

ALL PIECES ARE relatively low and small in scale, with a "light" look, in keeping with today's generally smaller room sizes and lower ceilings. Low-backed sofas and chairs fit a common decorating problem—the necessity of placing furniture in front of a picture window or wall of glass. Every type of case piece can serve several uses, and each looks equally at home in any room.

The upholstery fabrics are protected by a new process which repels dust and dirt and resists both water and oil stains.

BOAT TALK

Democracy Afloat

By Bob Ruskauff

NOTHING factious intended, but pleasure boating has taken a whale of a jump from aristocracy to almost full-scale democracy, since J. P. Morgan (the elder, I believe) delivered a classic statement.

As the tale goes, a reporter stopped the old gentleman as he was departing a Senate investigating quiz) and asked what should it cost to operate a yacht. Mr. Morgan snapped:

"Young man, anyone who has to ask can't afford to."

THAT COMMENTARY probably slowed the whole movement by 20 years. But no longer.

TODAY, BOATING is rated the second biggest recreational and sports activity in the nation with more than 11 million devotees who consider it their main avocation.

The area about Long Beach and environs is a vital and important part of the national picture. If there were more protected waterways to use in these thirsty parts, the whole thing would be vastly bigger. However, even as we stand, look at the action:

Of three main local spots where boaters find enjoyment (apart from the broad Pacific) —in Harbor Master Tommy McInturff's estimates—2,100 boats per week use Alamitos Bay; 1,300 per week, the Marine Stadium and approximately 2,800 weekly take out from, or deploy about, the Magnolia Ave. landing.

Lawrence W. (Larry) McDowell, for years one of the boating clan's cagiest predicted-log race contenders with power yachts (his family grew up with boating), and presently director of the marine department of the Alamitos Bay Marina, points out the Marina status:

IN BASIN 1 (of four proposed and engineered, but no further definite action to date) there are 344 boats of from 16 to 80 feet length in the slips. That's the maximum available. There is today a waiting list of more than 800.

So, by the time Basin 2 is ready and filled, those waiting will probably be three times that number.

Added, nearby and also bulging with boats, is the greater Los Angeles Harbor area and the "gold coast" headquarters Newport-Balboa.

Recreational boating today has basic things in its favor to insure a continuing boom here and everywhere.

1. You can buy a boat, either sail or with power, which will both haul more—and sleep more —than the family car, for less than the family car cost. You can also go as high as the moon.

2. As a recreational thing, even in racing, boating is a family activity. So pursued, it can be more economical than most.

ANENT WHICH, there is the so-true slogan of the Outboard Boating Club of Long Beach: "the family that plays together, stays together."

In the sailing end, there are some 1,000 children (more than adults) in the Alamitos Bay Yacht Club membership, combined with its junior affiliate, the Leeway Sailing Club.

3. Boaters can get off the highway most of the weekend, though a sound warning is to have a good, reasonably-priced place on the waterfront to store your small boat, if you live a few miles inland. Insurance-wise or any-wise, it's a good precaution.

Today's highway hazards, in fact, probably did more to spirit all-American participation in recreational boating, particularly since War II, than Mr. Morgan's caustic commentary could ever have delayed it.

BOAT HOOKS: what to see today—the L.B. Jaycee-Los Angeles Speedboat Assn. outboard regatta at Marine Stadium, from noon on; Long Beach Yacht Club's small boat invitational regatta at Alamitos Bay, from the strand, this afternoon. The "World Series" of one of boating's divisions will begin Monday at San Diego when the five-race Silver Star (North American) championships for 21-foot Star sloops for 1957 gets under way. Long Beach hosted the event in 1933, with Edwin Arthur (Two-Round Eddie) Fink defending.

Room That's a Reflection of You

Individuality is reflected in the bedroom of Mr. and Mrs. George Lake. A corner fireplace is one of luxuries of this interesting and restful retreat.

By Eileen Ball

YOUR OWN TASTE and individuality—your idiosyncrasies and particular fancies can give your bedroom an originality that sets it quite apart from the rest of the house. Everything about it should proclaim that this is Your room—to do with as you, and you alone, wish!

Your bedroom, to be sure, may be modern, colonial, French provincial—or even a brave mixture of any or all of these styles. But one thing it must be: and that is a haven for you, a place where you can go for privacy and for personal withdrawal (more important than ever in today's "open-plan" house). This should be the one room in the whole house where you can go all-out—just being you!

WHAT FUN, THEN, it can be to decorate a room that need make no overtures to what guests or the rest of the family might prefer. The redhead who has always harbored a longing for pink can have as rosy a haven as paintbrush and fabric permit!

Perhaps the rest of the house may be sedately conservative, blending backgrounds with the family's Victorian heirlooms. Why says you can't toss caution to the winds and go completely modern in the bedroom? Here's your chance to change pace, to feel wonderfully detached by the contrast.

Remember, the same things hold true for the small fry. No insistence on baby blue color scheme, please, for the little lad who hankers loudly for red and white stripes! And, parents, try to swallow your urge to bedeck sister's room in organdy ruffles when, clearly, she'd rather have denim bedspreads and a place to exhibit her bottle cap or seashell collection!

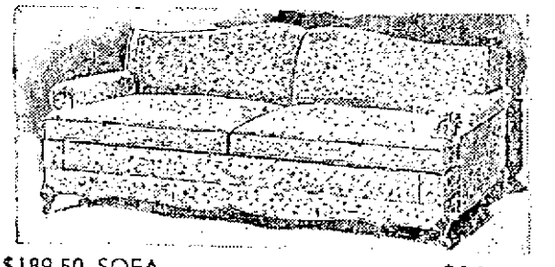

ANOTHER POINT to consider is that a bedroom need not be a "bed" room, period. Nowadays, there is an ever-growing trend to make this part of the house embrace other functions. Many parents provide space for comfortable chairs and reading lights—handy for those occasions when partying teenagers "bump" the older folks from the living room area of the house.

Two charming examples of what well-decorated bedrooms might look like for two young ladies are to be found in the Clarence Miller home. Younger daughter, Mindy, has a delightful "little girl" room that is just as exuberant and lighthearted as its occupant. Because Mindy favors clear pastels, her room was given a happy treatment of yellow, pink, turquoise and white. Panels of cotton in these colors make the sill-length draperies. White background wallpaper scattered with dollar-size polka dots in these pretty tones decorates the ceiling. Companion paper in a whimsical fairy tale motif decorates one wall. Center of attraction, of course, is the pale yellow four poster bed with its white cotton canopy, and its white heirloom spread. Standing at the foot of the bed are two old-fashioned school desks painted bright yellow. No wonder Mindy is so happy with her own little haven!

MINDY'S TEENAGE sister, Diane, has a room that is youthfully sophisticated with its grey and deep pink color combination. "Hot pink" is the color of the cotton carpet, and the walls are painted charcoal for dramatic contrast. The obvious attraction of the room is the charcoal-background mural wallpaper that is used on the wall. Depicted in pale gray, pink, coral and turquoise are abstract, hand-brushed outlines of a camel caravan composed of tall, exotically eyelashed figures of camels that appear to be sauntering across the wall. Against this unique and somewhat startling background stands Diane's bed—a complete circle spread with dove-gray chenille.

As carefree as any little girl's bedroom should be, this happy area is Mindy Miller's very own domain.

Sons of Dr. and Mrs. Benjamin Feldman share a large, L-shaped bedroom in which space is provided for study and hobbies. Beds are set into recesses.

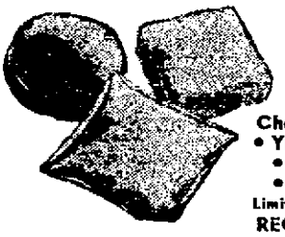

have a large room, two walls of which are brick painted a soft yellow-green. A cool color scheme of blue and lime sets a somewhat sophisticated note for traditional and antique furniture. Mrs. Lake enjoys a cherry-wood desk that stands at one end of the room near the pleasant open fireplace of brick. Adjacent to the desk is a comfortable lounge chair. Desk, chair and fireplace provide the Lakes with an intimate, cozy and comfortable nook in which to "hide-away" when a good book, some letter writing or simply the plain need for solitude presents itself.

Diane Miller is a teenager who enjoys "young sophisticate" room. Note whimsical camel mural, round bed.

THE TWO SONS of Dr. and Mrs. Benjamin Feldman share a huge L-shaped room that embraces sufficient footage for the boys to have plenty of room for studying, for pursuing hobbies and entertaining overnight guests. There has been much reliance on built-in drawer and cupboard compartments to keep confusion and clutter at absolute minimum. Built-in beds that eliminate the chore of moving them for cleaning. Each boy's bed is set in an alcove. These offsets for the beds create a sense of privacy that would, otherwise, be at minimum in such a multi-purpose room.

Keeping Kitchen Steals the Show

Family activities of Colonial days were centered in an area of the home called "keeping kitchen." Modern version features the House of the Week.

By Andrew C. Lang

Associated Press Staff Writer

MODERN version of the "keeping kitchen" of colonial days is one of the high spots of this three-bedroom, two and a-half bath ranch house, designated as HW-64 in The House of The Week Series.

They called it the "keeping kitchen" in those days because it was the center of much of the family's activities—because, in effect, it helped to keep the family together. But you don't have to go back to the colonial era to remember when the kitchen was an "active" room, more than just a place to prepare meals. It occupied that same role not too many years ago, probably when you were a child.

In designing a delightful adaptation of the "keeping kitchen," Alan Frazer has turned back the clock. It has the bigness, the brightness and the airiness of the old-time kitchen, plus the convenience and the work-saving traffic pattern of a well-planned kitchen of today.

Notice the way the range in the island counter is just a few steps from the wall oven on one wall, the refrigerator at the side wall and the sink at the rear. This "work triangle" is recommended by kitchen experts for maximum efficiency with the least effort.

THE SNACK BAR side of the island counter is adjacent to the dinette to make that corner of the room a comfortable, inviting area for adults and children alike. There are three windows looking out to the rear and two looking out to the large patio.

The charm of this kitchen is further enhanced by a barbecue fireplace for grilling, a practical adjunct to family get-togethers indoors. The hood over the range helps to give a contemporary look to this "old time" room, and there are cabinets built in under the counter and snack top for convenient storage.

A 29-FOOT LIVING AREA incorporates the living and dining rooms of HW-64, with the bay at the front setting the rooms apart effectively without need for room dividers. A flagstone fireplace wall and a wide hearth high light the living room. The barbecue in the kitchen backs up to this, so that one chimney takes care of both.

In the alcove to the right of the fireplace there is space for TV and Hi-Fi. Behind this alcove is a wood trellis wall through which the gallery and patio may be viewed, adding to the feeling of openness. When the weather permits the sliding glass doors to be opened, the indoor and outdoor spaces combine for a pleasing effect. Even when the glass doors are closed, the patio may be seen through the center hall from the front door.

THE BEDROOM WING has two baths. One has a twin washbowl vanitory and is easily accessible from two bedrooms or from the foyer or hall or patio. The other, for the master bedroom, is a stall-shower bathroom. The two bedrooms at the rear share a closet wall, with a sliding door closet for each room. The master bedroom has a walk-in closet, with over 30 square feet of space. And you can get to the bedroom wing from either the front door or patio without going through a single room.

MOVING OVER to the other side of the house, we find an excellent space arrangement behind the garage. Since the lavatory also is in this section, with a door to the rear, young children can go in and out without tracking mud or other dirt through any of the rooms.

The architect suggests a horizontal heater-air conditioning unit in the attic, under the eaves, if gas is available. If the furnace is oil-fired, an 8-foot by 10-foot excavation could be made, with the balance of the area under the house left as air space.

SHOULD A FULL basement be desired, the plan calls for a 25-foot recreation room, a three-way fireplace and a built-in bar. A deep closet is provided near the fireplace for the storage of toys and games. An areaway at the back makes it possible to have three big windows for plenty of light and ventilation. The basement stairs are conveniently placed for entry to the lower level from the rear door.

There are 1,552 square feet of living space in HW-64, not including the garage and patio. The overall dimensions, which include the garage, are 73 feet by 32 feet 6 inches. A handsome, wide chimney adds to the smart, homelike exterior of this interesting house.

By taking the HW-64 study plan to a contractor, estimates on the basic plan and two alternate plans, may be obtained. These will help determine which plan best suits current needs—presupposing that present family requirements permit a choice. With children in the family, one of the alternates would be preferred.

To obtain plans, address Building Editor, Independent, Press-Telegram, 6th & Pine, Long Beach 12, Calif., enclose 55 cents and request House of the Week, Study Plan, Design HW-64.

Havana's Prado

The Old World charm of Havana, Cuba's gracious and fascinating capital, is crystallized in a walk along the Prado, Havana's main street. For most Americans, whose stay in Cuba is limited to two or three days, the Prado remains their most impressive experience in the Spanish-flavored island.

Within 11 blocks, the tourist can see the national capital, shops and stores filled with bargains, outdoor cafes, theaters, a casino, and one of the ancient fortresses guarding the town.

The Prado begins at the national capitol, an artistic triumph containing valuable paintings and statues. Diagonally across the street is Central Park, and three blocks away is the world-famous Sevilla Biltmore Hotel which retains the Old World flavor of the Prado.

At the end of the Prado is another park and the Punta Fortress, began in the year 1589 to help defend the Cuban capital. Some of the ancient walls, moat, and cannon can still be seen.

What's Next for Georgia?

By Ellen Saunders

WHEN Georgia Atton, 1851 E. 64th St., was barely two years old, she climbed aboard a merry-go-round and fell in love with horses.

Now she's 14 and has been swept into a whirl of activity as a dancer, singer, instrumentalist, painter and sketcher; but she still finds time to collect statuettes of horses.

Georgia has been delighting audiences with her singing and dancing since she was three years old and has appeared on as many as 100 benefits shows in one year. Tap and ballet have been supplanted in recent years by an intense interest in the hula. "Actually I'm a Polynesian dancer," says Georgia, "because I also perform Tahitian, Samoan and Filipino dances."

She has mastered all the instruments native dancers use in interpreting their music, including the split bamboo, feathered and bottle gourds and stones (the Hawaiian version of castanets). Georgia varies her program by singing in Hawaiian, accompanying herself on the ukulele. These latter accomplishments she acquired through long hours of listening to her extensive collection of Hawaiian records.

IN HER MOST recent television appearances she walked off with the top prize on "Rocket to Stardom" and won first place on a week-day show on the Al Jarvis program. Native Polynesian dancers have been so impressed with her skill that she has been invited to become an associate member of the Society of Polynesian Dancers of California.

On school days the green-eyed, 5-foot-10 dancer who rates wolf whistles at Camp Pendleton, lays aside the ukulele for the violin. She's a member of both the Alt City Junior High School Orchestra and the Jordan High group. "It's my favorite instrument," she explains, admitting that she also plays the accordion, guitar, Tahitian drums and "a little piano."

COSTUME DESIGNING has intrigued Georgia since the days when she sketched elaborate wardrobes for her dolls. Only nowadays it's a new costume for a dance routine which demands her attention.

Georgia Atton has so many activities, it's hard to name a favorite. Dancing Polynesian style is one of them.

"Mother does the sewing," she confesses.

She works with equal ease in the medium of pencil sketching, water colors and chalk drawings. Horses are her favorite subject and she has exhibited her drawings along with her collection, in hobby shows for the past four years.

FOR RELAXATION, Georgia ice skates, swims, rides horse back and readies her collection of statuettes for another exhibit. There are 300 of these horses, gathered over a 10-year period. There are ivory horses from the Orient; horses of bone, ceramic, metal and bronze. There are tiny plastic horses one-half inch in height standing beside fur and plush covered animals two feet tall. And since Georgia has just discovered what fun modeling is, there are a few clay horses of her own creation.

What's next for Georgia?

"I might decide to become an actress," she says a bit dreamily, gazing at the six pinups of Yul Brynner that decorate her bedroom walls. Since photogenic Georgia has already won two local beauty contests, it just could be!

Hwy. 99 cuts through this flat, fertile wine land, intersecting other highways snaking off, 50 miles or so, through the Sierra foothills into Yosemite, Kings Canyon, and Sequoia National Parks. Other wine lands include those eastward across the Bay Bridge from San Francisco, on the peninsula south of San Francisco, north of San Francisco in the Sonoma-Mendocino County area, and farther northward in the Ukiah area.

Boron, Glamour Stuff of Jet Age

By Jack Quigg
Associated Press Writer

A LITTLE-KNOWN element from the shimmering dry lake beds of California's deserts is emerging as the glamour stuff of the jet age.

It is boron, which you already use in more ways than you think, and which will play an ever larger role in your life in the future.

It's the key ingredient of new superfuels which some day may take man to the moon and beyond. It already has added new speed to fighters and bombers and missiles in America's arsenal.

Scientists say they are on the threshhold of research programs that should open numberless uses for boron compounds in such diverse fields as medicine, atomic energy development, agriculture, food processing.

But the big push today, a push backed by undisclosed millions of government dollars, is for perfection of high energy fuels. Half a dozen big chemical firms, scores of smaller ones and many universities are working on aspects of fuel problems.

What is boron?

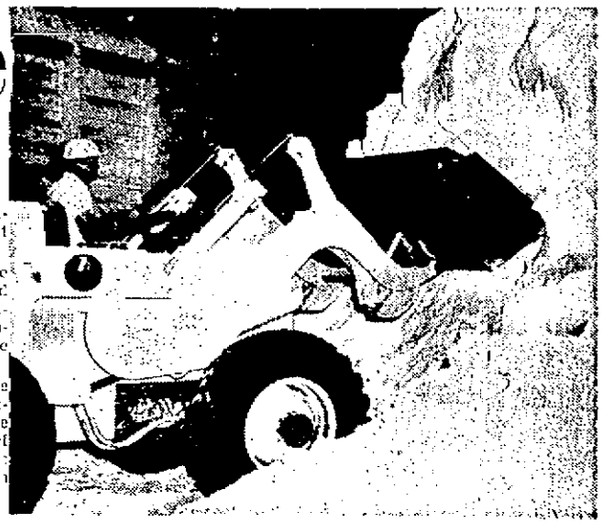

PURE BORON is a gray, extremely hard non-metallic element first isolated in France in 1808. It is found in the pure state only as a laboratory curiosity. In nature, it is usually found as borax—sodium tetraborate—a crystalline white salt with an alkaline taste.

The salt is mined from lake beds where it had been carried by rainwaters draining over millions of years from ranges rimming Death Valley and the Mojave Desert.

Under these glistening white expanses, where summer temperatures sometimes hit 130, the stuff lies in beds hundreds of feet thick . . . beds that contain 95 per cent of the world's known supply . . . enough to supply many generations.

Since the days when it was hauled out by the famed 20-

Flapjacks—or pancakes, if you prefer—appeal to the entire family. They may be served plain, with butter and syrup, or converted into specialties.

Eight Ways to Doll Up Flapjacks

By Mildred K. Flanary
Independent, Press-Telegram Home Economics Editor

TRADITIONALLY the most-asked-for item on the morning menu, the flapjack has emerged from the breakfast nook to don glamorous garments for luncheon, dinner, party or midnight snack.

The Fairy Godmother is you. With a wave of your spoon and a package of flapjack and waffle mix you have the main ingredient for many wonderfully versatile dishes. Cinderella, despite all the time she spent at the hearth, couldn't reproduce the taste or texture of today's flapjack and waffle mix.

The Prince Charming in your household will delight in these recipes, too. All the men like plain flapjacks served for breakfast with warm syrup and melted butter or in a dolled-up fashion for luncheon or Sunday supper.

Eight Flapjack Recipes

Make according to directions on box of flapjack mix. The simpler type requires only the addition of milk.

Cinnamon Flapjacks: Add two teaspoons cinnamon to regular mix recipe. Bake according to directions. Roll while hot. Fill with sour cream.

Apple Flapjacks: Peel 1 tart juicy apple. Slice thin and add to regular mix recipe.

Blueberry Flapjacks: Add ½ cup well drained, fresh or canned blueberries.

Pineapple Flapjacks: Add 1 cup of drained crushed pineapple to thicker than usual mix recipe. Serve with butter and brown sugar.

Corn Flapjacks: Add ½ cup corn meal to regular mix recipe.

Cottage Cheese Flapjacks: Add 1 cup cottage cheese put through sieve. When baked, spread with jelly, roll up and sprinkle with confectioner's sugar.

Cheese Flapjacks: Add 1 cup of grated process-type American cheese to regular mix recipe.

Flapjack Hints

Don't turn a flapjack after it has been cooked on both sides.

Don't stand waiting, turner in hand, until the last air bubble has broken and all the flapjack's important airiness is gone.

Don't try to improve on ready-mixes by additions of your own. You're only making a simple job harder.

Rub the hot griddle frequently with salt tied firmly in a piece of cloth. The griddle will be freed of bits of extra batter and the flapjacks will be less likely to stick.

On a gas range the griddle is hot enough when a small piece of paper will brown. Lower the heat and start baking.

On an electric range, pre-heat the griddle four minutes, lower the heat and start baking.

Don't lift the edge of a flapjack to peek under and check the browning process.

Grease griddle with piece of bacon or rub over with cut turnip. (That is, if your griddle is the type that requires greasing.)

Fricassee of Rabbit

Skin and cut into pieces: A rabbit.
Dredge it with: Seasoned flour.
Melt in a skillet: 4 tablespoons butter or drippings.
Add: ¼ cup chopped onions
1 cup cut-up mushrooms

Remove the onions and mushrooms before sauteing the rabbit in the drippings until it is lightly browned. Pour over it:
1½ cups stock or dry wine—a piece of lemon rind—10 peppercorns—2 sprigs parsley—2 ribs celery with leaves.

Cover the pot closely. Simmer the meat until it is done, for 1 hour or more, but do not boil it at any time. Ten minutes before you remove the rabbit from the pot add the mushrooms and onions. Thicken the drippings with flour to make gravy. Season if necessary.

HEAVENLY HAMBURGERS . . . BARBECUED

A good hamburger is hard to beat. It makes the meal a success, tastewise, healthwise and economywise. Meat Protein with added benefits from iron, for good red blood, is found in hamburger, in the same amount equal to any meat at any price.

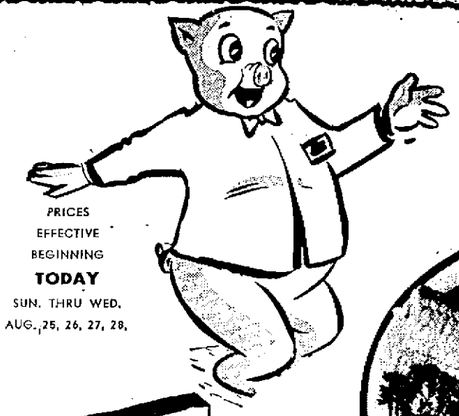

1 lb. Ground Beef
1 Teaspoon Salt
2 Tablespoons Minced Onions
¼ Teaspoon Pepper

Shape into 4 large or 6 small patties. With one tablespoon hot fat, brown patties on both sides. For a really delicious sauce combine the followings:

1 Cup Catsup
1 Onion—sliced
½ Teaspoon Dry Mustard
¾ Cup Vinegar
1 Tablespoon Granulated Sugar

Pour sauce over patties, cover, simmer 20 minutes. Serves 4 or 6. Serve on toasted hamburger buns or English muffins.

WHAT YOUR NAME MEANS

DEAR MISS RULE: We would greatly appreciate the brief genealogy of the name BOGEN.—F.B.B., Long Beach.

DEAR F.B.B.: The chronicle of the German surname BOGEN goes back to the occupation of stonemason in the Middle Ages. Centuries ago stonemasons constructed arches and vaulted ceilings formed of arched stones. The surname was once Bogener which gives us a word picture of the "arch maker." The Bogen family were granted a coat-of-arms in the famous city of Rothenburg, Bavaria. It was a black arch across the center of a golden shield.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please give the history and meaning of the name JEFFCOTT.—MRS. M. F., Long Beach.

DEAR MRS. M.F.: JEFFCOTT is now an English surname but it was acquired from the French given-name Geoffroy. This name came from the Teutonic "Wald-Frid" meaning "governor-peace" or figuratively speaking "peaceful governor." Geoffroy became Jeffrey in England, and was abbreviated to Jeff. The suffix "-cock" meaning "proud as a rooster" was added as a pet name. Jeff-cock was registered as a family name in the 1200s, and was later changed to Jeffcott. Looking over old London marriage records, I found Agnes Jefcott who was married there in 1616. The Jeffcott coat-of-arms has three blue crescents on an ermine covered shield.

DEAR MISS RULE: I am interested in the name GARD.—MRS. L. B., Corona del Mar.

DEAR MRS. L.B.: From ancient archives I find that GARD, from the French surname DU GARD meant "of the garden." The "Du" was effaced by descendants. Delineation of Du Gard gives a word-name portraiture of an ancester whose flowers grew in such profusion that he was spoken of as "the man of the garden." This family originated in Picardy, northern France. Their coat-of-arms had three silver jars on a blue shield, perhaps portraying watering pots which the garden owner used.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please inform me about the name COCHRAN.—K.R.C., San Mateo, Calif.

DEAR K.R.C.: The COCHRANS are an old family of Thomond, Ireland: Their ancestor was named Cogaran meaning "confidant," one who is confided in. Cogaran was the confidential, right hand satellite of an 11th century Irish king. His descendants took the name MacCogarain, then Coghran and then Cochran during the medieval centuries. There is a Scotch family with the same name who are believed descended from the same ancestry.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please give the meaning, genealogy and coat-of-arms of my name DORE.—J.D., Long Beach.

DEAR J.D.: DORE is a French surname with the illuminative title of "golden." Dore was applied to a goldsmith who fashioned beautiful jewelry and objects of art out of the precious golden metal. The Dore coat-of-arms was granted in Lorraine in 1718, a gold lion on a blue shield.

DEAR MISS RULE: We would like to hear about the surname NELSON:—I.N., D.N. and V., Long Beach.

DEAR I.N., D.N. and V.: The source of NELSON was the Scandinavian given-name Nial which meant "the champion." It was introduced in England by the Vikings who established settlements in Britain in the 9th century. "Nial's Son" became the surname Nelson in England, Norway and Sweden. It was spelled Nielssen in Denmark. Most Nelsons in America have Swedish or Norwegian ancestry. However John and Thomas Nelson who had English forebears were early Pennsylvania residents in 1741. The Nelson coat-of-arms granted in Berkshire, England, in 1576 had six alternating vertical red and silver stripes covering the shield.

DEAR MISS RULE: I wish you would check on the German name KAHL. The family came from Schleswig-Holstein Province after the Civil War.—D.K., Long Beach.

DEAR D.K.: The early German name KAHL is a memorial and a personal description of your progenitor whose nickname you carry as a surname today, for it is deciphered as "shaved head" or "bald head." The Kahl coat-of-arms was granted in Prussia in 1786 and is a black wild boars head on a silver shield.

Send your names to La Reina Rule in care of Southland Magazine, Independent Press-Telegram, 6th & Pine, Long Beach 12, Calif., for analysis and brief genealogy, for publication in this column.

Oystermen Come Back

By B. P. Welles

GOOD TIMES are back for the California oyster industry, a business that once boomed and then waned. And the very growth that doomed the industry in the San Francisco Bay region around the turn of the century is now creating the demand for this vitamin-rich product in the expanding population centers. This and improvements in the culture of oysters.

In 1870 when transcontinental railroads spanned the United States to the West Coast carloads of Eastern oyster "seeds" (tiny oysters are called seeds) were shipped and spread out in south San Francisco Bay. They supported a good market until the turn of the century when the waters became polluted, some say, due to the increase in population and heavy manufacturing that was coming into the region.

CALIFORNIA MARINE biologists in 1929 began new experiments with rapidly growing oyster "seeds" from Japan. The experiments were successful. Drake's Bay, Tomales Bay and Morro Bay were the three leading areas developed and, until the last World War, Drake's Bay in northern California, ranked first in production. Since that time, Morro Bay oyster beds along the central California Coast are taking the lead. Oyster culture has not developed commercially in the bays of Southern California.

Dr. H. G. Orcutt, marine biologist for the California Department of Fish and Game at Stanford University, says there is an increase in both state and privately owned waters planted to oysters since 1932 when only 3,271 acres of tidelands were under cultivation. The present figure, is 14,000 acres being developed.

Four kinds of oysters are grown in bays along the California coast. The small Olympic oysters grow naturally in Tomales and Humbolt Bays, but these tasty bivalves do not grow abundantly enough for commercial use.

THREE OTHER species are imported and cultivated. One of these is the Eastern oyster. These are shipped alive and full grown from the Atlantic Coast. Planted and cultivated in Tomales Bay, they are used fresh daily for the markets of San Francisco.

The third species is imported from the southern waters of Japan and is called the Kumamoto by the Japanese. In this country it is called the Pacific oyster. When the tiny "seeds" are hardy enough to make the long trip across the ocean they are imported in crates and are transplanted in the coastal waters of California, Oregon and Washington. This species thrives best in the colder temperatures of the bays of northern California and in Puget Sound. The Pacific oyster, which grows to be three inches long within 12 to 14 months when they are ready for harvesting, are particularly good in cocktails.

The fourth species is the Giant Pacific oyster. "This," Dr. Orcutt, points out," is the principal product of California's new oyster boom, for these oysters are getting extensive cultivation in state and private lands."

LARVA OF THE Giant Pacific oysters are produced in great quantities several hundred miles north of Tokyo. Japanese

SOUTHLAND'S SHORT SHORT STORY

The Silhouette

By Lorna Callahan

Illustrated by H. Parker Markle

I GUESS all of us at Independent-Pix were surprised when Barry Sylvester showed up on location. As a humble script-girl, I'm not supposed to have an opinion. But it was my guess that Universe Studios hadn't picked up his option.

Of course you remember Barry Sylvester, better known as The Silhouette. Pretty expensive one, too, according to my roommate, Flo Gardner. Flo is secretary to Cy Prentiss, president of Universe. She's been in on a few of the battles—I mean conferences — brought on by Barry's delaying production. Barry had the idea that a movie star had to be temperamental to prove he was a movie star. And he insisted on having doubles for any scene where there was the slightest element of danger. His Silhouette, you know.

Be that as it may, here was Barry now, dressed in a flat felt hat and fringed buckskins. He had the lead role of wagonmaster in our budget epic, "River Crossing." In the story the water is so high the river can't be forded. So, for safety's sake, the wagons are chained together and drawn across by rope. Of course, someone has to swim the raging current with a tow rope to start the first wagon across. According to my script that someone was Gar Langtry, wagonmaster.

I REFRAINED from smiling. Last picture Barry had done for Universe was "Hit the Canvas," saga of a rich boy turned pugilist. Flo told me that Barry's own son, Skip, had been on the set while the picture was being made. The idea had its amusing aspects. You know how kids look up to their dads and try to make heroes out of them. Isn't a man made that their dad can't lick, etcetera. I wonder what Skip thought, seeing his dad so careful about getting hurt, and using a double in every possible scene? Of course I know that the company didn't want The Silhouette spoiled either. It had brought quite a few million into their coffers. But it did seem that Barry could have taken a few punches just to prove that he was a man at heart. Thinking about it now, I was hoping that Skip had understood about The Silhouette business, and didn't think, as I did, that Barry Sylvester was just a trifle yellow. You see, Skip died soon after the picture's release. There was some kind of accident while on a hiking trip in the mountains with his Boy Scout Troop.

Anyway, Barry was in luck coming to Independent-Pix. His Silhouette was safe with us. We had Curly St. John, best stunt man in the business. He's a little hard to get along with, but he can be counted on in the hazards. He'd swim that "raging current" for Barry, which just happened to BE raging, being swollen from the melting mountain snows above us.

HAL SIMON, our director, scheduled the river-crossing scene first, although in the picture it comes toward the climax, after which the wagon train runs into hostile Indians. Everybody took their places. There was the scene of the horses being unhitched and driven into the water to swim to the opposite shore. The current was pretty swift and the animals were carried arc-like down the stream before they could struggle out on the other side. Hal Simon had the camera crew grind out extra footage on the scene. It would stretch the budget, but it was pretty realistic stuff, and a swell build-up for the hazard the wagonmaster would have to face. In the script, the wagonmaster is disliked by the emigrants who feel that he is inefficient and taking them a round-about way. This is his chance to prove his worth.

Barry, up to the hairline in makeup which gave The Silhouette glamor-plus, took the tow line and tied it around his waist. Then, in that masterful way he always effected right up to but not including the "sock" scene, he plunged into the tumultous water.

"CUT," YELLED Hal Simon. He motioned to Curly St. John to take over.

But Barry Sylvester didn't come out of the water. He kept on going, battling the swift current. It caught him and spun him against the rocks.

"Roll 'em," shouted Hal Simon, waving Curly St. John back. "Keep 'em rolling," he repeated as Barry was buffeted downstream.

Curly St. John was not happy. But nobody was worried about Curly's frame of mind. All eyes were on Barry Sylvester. He was in trouble unless he beat that current!

HE MADE IT! All of us, except maybe Curly, grudgingly admitted that this was big. We didn't know how he did it, but it was big. When he got back to our side of the river, his lips were swollen, there was a gash on his cheek, and his nose was puffed all out of proportion. He looked like anything but The Silhouette.

Curly St. John faced him with folded arms and a sneer on his thin lips. "Aren't you taking the part too serious, Sylvester?"

Barry Sylvester studied him, no smile on his face as the water dripped from his sodden figure. "Come again?"

Curly's anger piled up. "I'm the guy that's paid to take the falls. You're paid to stay pretty."

MY HEART DID a flip. Would this bring on a flare-up of the old Sylvester temperament? If he walked off the set Hal Simon would be in a real bind. On his budget, he couldn't afford too waste even today's scenes.

"Maybe I'm tired of being pretty," Barry said. And with

"Maybe I'm tired of being pretty," Barry said. And with that his fist shot out and connected with Curley's chin.

Oystermen Stage a Comeback

oystermen set out millions of old oyster shells for the new oysters to attach themselves to as they swim about searching for a clean hard object on which to settle. Oystermen here use plywood or lath clutches for the larva to cling to. After arriving in California waters they are spread out on sandy bottoms of the bay where they grow until harvest time.

According to Dr. Orcutt, oyster culture is similar to agriculture in that the "seeds" are planted and the growing crop of oysters is cultivated and ripened for harvest. This is called "aquaculture" and the oyster grower is called an "aquaculturist."

"Aquaculture is very tricky," Dr. Orcutt explains, "the acquacultrist must know his business. The oysterman, like the farmer, faces problems in producing his crop. An example is that the oyster grower plants his "seeds" on lands exposed at low tide. These bottom lands must be firm enough to prevent loss of growing mollusks. The Giant Pacific oysters cultivated along the California Coast thrive in mud flats after attaching themselves to the clutches. These mud flats, however, are too soft for the smaller Olympic oyster to grow in.

Oystermen harvest their crop in a tidelands area of California. Industry is booming again in this state.

"During the period of cultivation the oystermen must watch the beds continually. Strong currents or wave action will pile oysters in rows, or will wash them away," Dr. Orcutt says. "Slit sometimes will pile up and ruin an entire crop. Winter and spring rains wash top soil from nearby farm lands."

STILL ANOTHER problem in oyster growing is a marine algae which looks like moss. When the weather is warm the algae spreads over the oyster beds forming a thick carpet. Decomposition of the bottom layers of this covering produces a concentration of waste which kills oysters. Marine biologists work contantly with oystermen to combat this threat, comparable to soil farmers working to combat weeds.

Other pests which are harmful to oyster beds before harvest time are the oyster drills. These are snails that cause thousands of dollars in damage to beds along parts of the Pacific Coast, but so far have not obtained a foothold in California oyster beds. These snails drill through the oyster's shell and suck out the tender meat. Every crate of "seeds" is carefully inspected by the State Fish and Game Dept. for these pests.

The bat ray, a large fish with powerful jaws which crushes the oyster shell, eating the meat, shell and all, is another pest. Oystermen put lath fences about the beds to fend off this attacker.

Starfish are found on oyster beds in California bays, but the damage they do is slight, and oystermen have little concern over them.

Oyster culture is important to California's growing cities and towns for oysters have fine nutritional qualities. They are rich in proteins, vitamins and such elements as iodine, iron, copper, cobalt, phosphorous and manganese, all essential elements to human diet.

Horseless Carriage 'Hot Rods'

By Jo Hindman

RESTORING an old car renews boyishness in grown men. Their ladies approve the idea, and the kids, too.

Buying a vintage model in Stutz, Stearns Knight, Ford, Overland, and other makes of yesteryear, sleuthing for obsolete parts, or having them retooled, refurbishing the chassis from brass lamp to running board, then actually testing the renovated antique on cross-country trips, provides exhilaration that faces no end and includes enthusiasts, both old and young. You see, the oddest things keep happening.

Clem Heiser of Inglewood, who owns a 1910 Overland touring car, received a telephone call from a stranger, a harried club press chairman, who had traced him through the Horseless Carriage Club of the U.S.A., of which Heiser is a member. A vintage model car was needed as a prop in a publicity stunt advertising a benefit dance. Would Heiser oblige?

SLIPPING into duster and goggles, Heiser drove his 47-year-old car through heavy traffic to the academy where schoolgirls and one matron, dressed in gay-nineties plumage, waited with a press photographer. Heiser went all the way with the gag, even to posing with a tire pump beside a perfectly sound rear tire.

Indicative of the interest of Long Beach residents in ancient vintage autos was the show held on Pine Ave. last winter.

Outfitting old cars with the spirally rubber casings of earlier years has burgeoned into an interesting sideline for the tire industry which keeps the horseless carriage trade supplied. An exceptionally popular tread is the "alphabet," or ABC-XYZ pattern, cast from old tire moulds.

The Heisers and other old-car enthusiasts are invited to participate in Fourth of July parades, festivals, centennials, fiestas and celebrations of all sorts. Mrs. Heiser maintains a wardrobe of old-time finery in keeping with the gay proceedings.

WOMENFOLK find hilarious pleasure in loading themselves into modern cars to shop around for old-fashioned clothing. Rummage sales and second hand stores provide the mutton-sleeve fashions that match the years in which their old-time cars were rolled out of the machine shop.

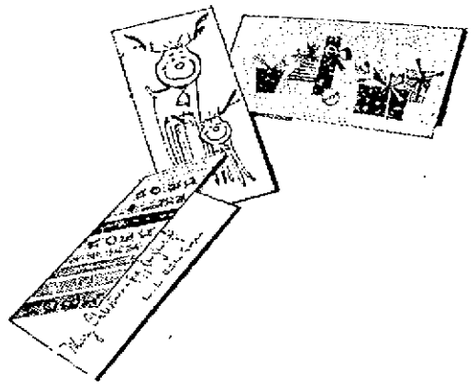

Immaculately maintained and cherished and running better than they ever did in their previous car-life, the colorful old jitneys are taken to swap meets where owners avidly trade parts, such as bulb horns and windshield straps.

Average cost of authentically restoring an old car is approximately $1,000, including unpriced owner-labor, after which the machine possesses resale value in the eyes of acquisitive specialists. One gentleman collects only pre-1915 Fords, owns five of them, and "can't see" any other make. Authenticity is a deciding factor in capturing prizes, and antique car owners conduct painstaking research before adding accessories or parts to their old cars.

CROSSCOUNTRY trips are eagerly awaited by the horseless carriage set. Outfitted in costumes, wearing badge identification both on themselves and their cars, the caravaners gaily set off for destinations hundreds of miles from home, excursions that take several days to complete.

That's the zest of owning a quaint old hot rod. Younger years are summoned back and return a man's youth along with the old car.

mule teams, boron had until the last few years a steady but unspectacular career in industry.

TO HOUSEWIVES, it was most familiar as a disinfectant, boric acid, and as a cleanser. But it also became a vital ingredient in glass, fertilizers, pesticides, soil sterilants.

Then, with the crash program to develop long-range missiles, came the need for a fuel to power them. The military singled it out as the element most likely to succeed in "Project Zip"—designed to speed high energy fuel research.

Why boron?

Importantly, it is light, the fifth lightest element. And it will combine with hydrogen, the lightest thing of all.

Scientists put it this way: Hydrogen would be the perfect fuel, as it produces the maximum energy per pound. But pure hydrogen is impractical, dangerous and expensive.

Of the other light elements in good supply, boron is the most practical.

TODAY, AFTER intensive research, the military is experimenting with a variety of liquid and solid propellents involving various boron-hydrogen and boron-carbon-hydrogen compounds.

The best are stable, easy to handle and non-toxic—all vital factors.

The best develop an energy of close to 30,000 British thermal units per pound, compared to pure hydrogen's 52,000. By comparison, kerosene yields only 18,500 BTU.

Already one firm, Olin Mathieson Chemical Corp., has announced a boron fuel it says will send a jet bomber 40 per cent farther without refueling.

And the Midwest Research Institute in Kansas City says it has developed a boron fuel, under contract with the Callery Chemical Co. and the Navy, that can extend the altitude of aircraft from a current ceiling of 60,000 feet to 90,000. In stage rockets, says the institute, it could propel a missile hundreds of miles beyond the earth.

FABULOUSLY EXPENSIVE now, the fuel is not yet in quantity production. The time of mass production is not far off, however.

Thus far such so-called exotic fuels have been used almost exclusively in laboratories. When they finally start pushing space craft, experts envision a bright green flame exuding a poisonous exhaust of solid white boron compounds. Testing will, of course, be done over non-populated areas.

The heat will be so intense that new substances must be found to withstand it. One such is still another compound that takes advantage of boron's extremely high melting point. Known in the field as "cermet," this stuff is a combination of metals and ceramics that appears to have great possibilities as a heat resistor.

ANOTHER NEW USE is as an additive to gasoline. Companies using it claim it makes engines run smoother, that it inhibits corrosion and keeps engines cleaner, that it ups the octane rating and helps prevent knocking.

What's ahead for boron in non-military fields?

Here are a few uses—some already in the experimental stage, others in the future:

As atomic reactor shields. A quarter-inch-thick layer of plastic and boron absorbs neutrons as effectively as eight feet of concrete. It has, however, a high replacement rate.

As an ingredient of longer-lasting fire bricks.

With silicon in solar batteries, to convert the sun's rays into electricity.

TO PREVENT FRUIT spoilage. Sprayed into orange crates, it is attracted by the moisture of fruit bruised in shipping, and chemically seals the bruise, preventing spoilage.

To use in cancer treatment. Certain compounds are attracted by tumors and, when bombarded with neutrons, yield bursts of great energy that penetrate only for the thickness of a cell or two, killing malignant cells but not harming healthy ones.

As fungicides, lubricants, herbicides, disinfectants, metal hardeners and defoliants. As a defoliant, for instance, it strips leaves from cotton plants, enabling mechanical pickers to do a cleaner job.

As an abrasive. New compounds rival the diamond in hardness and are much cheaper.

..PASCAL CAPTURES THE RED BALLOON..

One of the year's most beautiful and enchanting books, for both adults and children, is "The Red Balloon" Doubleday, $2.95). Retold in brilliantly reproduced pictures and text from the movie by the same title (an Academy Award winner), the story is about little Pascal, a French boy, who captures a red balloon, loses it, and who, when he finds it also finds a true and loyal friend. The author is Pascal's father, Albert Lamorisse.

ONE OF THE OLDEST of the arts of man is brought to life in "Better Homes & Gardens Flower Arranging" (Meredith Pub. Co., price not given, a beautiful new book with more than 200 photographs, 120 of which are in full color. With each photograph is a step-by-step "what and why" explanation of the arrangement, with suggestions to the amateur. All the rules for making fine flower arrangements are here, too—elements in design in arrangements, basic shapes to follow, and the three styles of flower arranging.

"QUEEN OF FRANCE" by Andre Castelot, translated by Denise Folliot (Harper) is a biography of Marie Antoinette who died on the guillotine after the French Republic was formed. Historically, little can be found wrong with the story, a great deal of careful research apparently having gone into the work. But it is clumsily written, from the over-long sentences to the maze of names that fill the book. It is doubtful to this reviewer that should an educated Frenchmen of those days return to read the book he could keep everything straight. Also, statements by the author regarding the charm and brillance of the Queen are not borne out in what the author presents as evidence. And if the unfortunate wife of Louis VI went to the scaffold misunderstood by the populace, so it would seem the readers of her latest biography also will be filled with lack of understanding when the guillotine falls at the end of the last chapter.

"THE BEST of Ralph Waldo Trine" (Bobbs-Merrill, $3.75): "Within yourself lies the cause of whatever enters into your life," believes Mr. Trine. "To come into the full realization of your own awakened interior powers is to be able to condition your life in exact accord with what you would have it." Trine preceded — and he may outlast— the current school of self-help "philosophers." His book contains the full text of his "In Tune With the Infinite," plus selections from nine more of his books, ending with his Creed of the Open Road.

"THE ITALIAN NAVY IN WORLD WAR II" (U. S. Naval Institute, Annapolis, $5.75): An American admiral and an Italian naval historian combine talents to make possible this book which points up that the Italian Navy was handicapped not only by lack of air support and radar, but by lack of stockpiling, particularly fuel. Comdr. Marc' Antonio Bragadin relates the history of the Italian Navy in the Mediterranean and Adm. Robert B. Carney, U. S. Navy (ret.) in the foreword points out that the cordial relationship between the U. S. and Italian Navies has aided Allied security and NATO.

THE INVASION of Paris, watched through the bewildered eyes of a young girl in a convent school is told in "Not Yet . . ." a novel by Tereska Torres (Crown, $3). She realizes the emptiness of plans, the emptiness of words, the emptiness and uselessness of war itself. The author, who was born in Paris, fled ahead of the Germans, and served in the French army for five years, part of the time as a liaison officer to the British and American forces. She writes in French and her work is translated into English by her husband, Meyer Levin.

IN THE DAYS of the dinosaurs, vast volcanic upheavals under shallow seas formed the chain of islands known as the West Indies. Perhaps the most enchanting of these green jewels set in the turquoise sea is Martinique.

Beautiful as it is, Martinique's history has been shadowed by slavery and stained with blood. Most landowners are of pure French blood, but the population largely is a new race—Creole with traces of French, Spanish, Negro, Indian and Chinese.

These people of mixed breeds love music and dancing, they love their majestic mountain Pelee towering over them. And they have dark and mysterious Haitian superstitions.

From this land of love and hate and pride and voodooism, Edison Marshall has spun a powerful novel, "The Inevitable Hour" (Putnam's, $3.95). Skillfully he has intertwined the lives of Atlas, the last of the Caribs;; Clio, a golden native girl; Joan De Legle, daughter of a plantation owner in whose veins flows the blood of French kings, and Paul Barteau, son of the plantation foreman, barred from the woman he loves by the caste system of the island.

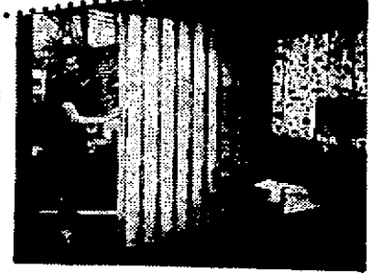

"GAS, AIR AND SPRING Guns of the World" by W. H. B. Smith (Military Service Pub. Co., Harrisburg, Pa., $7.50): More and more interest is being shown in precision pellet gun shooting since range facilities can be set up where rifle shooting is difficult or forbidden, This veritable encyclopedia gives all the details of pellet shooting; in fact, it deals with all high power, high precision air and gas arms — weapons which at short range are said to often equal or even excel the accuracy of some powder cartridge arms. The text is augmented by a wealth of photos, operational drawings and specifications.

TWO HUNDRED significant poems culled from the more than 2,000 Carroll Dewilton Scott has written in his life appear in "California Nature Poems" (Hillcrest, 131 W. Washington St., San Diego, $5.) For 45 years as a trained and experienced naturalist, Scott has traveled and studied the land he loves best, and he has written of it with sensitivity and a good feeling for words. The book is bound in rich maroon, embossed, and gold-stamped.

PAPERBACK ORIGINALS (never before published in book form) that look like good reading: "High Vacuum," a story of space and time by Charles Eric Maine (Ballantine, 35c); "The Deep South Says Never," a no-punches-pulled story of the fight against integration, by John Bartlow Martin (Ballantine, 35c); "The Man from Yesterday," a novel of western outlaws by John S. Daniels (Signet, 25c); "On Love, the Family and the God Life," by Plutarch, translated by Moses Hadas (Mentor, 50c); "This Is the West," life, lore and legend of Western United States, edited by Robert West Howard (Signet, 35c).

Outstanding Private Schools

FOR ONCE in their lives 125 boys and girls will return to school with a gleeful rush. They are the elementary school pupils enrolled at Country Day School and they are looking forward to the use of the school's new 40-foot open air pool when the new term begins Sept. 9. They will have many hours swimming but the new pool was really constructed for teaching something of value while making learning a pleasant experience. Classes in swimming and water safety will become a regular part of the physical education program during the warmer months of the term.

Three new classrooms have been completed for the new pupils from Long Beach, Santa Ana and Garden Grove will then be able to benefit by the experience of attending school in a lovely rural setting where the neighboring farmer and his crops as well as the care of the school's farm animals are a regular part of busy days with the highly regarded Three R's. The kindergarten will continue with the never ending wonder when the little red hen gets up off her nest and marches forth with a new crop of fuzzy chicks.

Two new regulation school buses have been added to accommodate the increased enrollment.

HOBBY HORSE NURSERY, 1710 Redondo Ave., in operation 5 years, has built up a full program for children aged 2 through 5 years. The nursery features French lessons, dancing taught by Audrey Share, music appreciation and many other activities pleasing to youngsters.

The modern building was designed especially for a nursery and the large, well equipped playground has all the facilities to keep children happily occupied. The large experienced staff is headed by Mrs. Ina Cunningham, director. Reservations should be made now for the kindergarten class which starts Sept. 9 by calling HE 4-2015.

PROGRESS SCHOOL, 647 Locust Ave., enters its 24th year with the opening of school Sept. 16. A complete academic course is offered for normal and superior mentalities, from primary grades through high school. A testing program is maintained whereby the individual's needs are analyzed and special instruction given to build a balanced personality. Emphasis is placed on instruction in the basic skills and development of good study habits. Classes in typing begin with the sixth grade and a basic commercial course is available in the high school. A speech program is offered beginning with primary grades, with special speech correction work given when needed. A special reading program is maintained, emphasizing vocabulary development, comprehension and speed in reading.

that his fist shot out and connected with Curly's chin.

Hal Simon and the camera crew came running. "Break it up," Hal shouted. "The make-up department's gonna have a tough enough time patching you up as it is."

BARRY GOT UP from the ground and helped Curly to his feet. "That one was for my son," he said, by way of apology. "From now on I'll stick to the script."

Curly didn't get it. But I did. I watched Barry Sylvester turn his eyes to the skies and kind of smiled. And do you know something? Puffed and misshapen as it was, I never saw a better-looking Silhouette. In my book it was perfect. And if Skip was watching, don't you think he thought so, too?

among ships and station departments.

OTHER FACILITIES at the station include a wellstocked library with a listening room for record fans and a hobby shop for Naval personnel and their families. "Sea 'n Shore," the enlisted men's recreation center, emphasizes family programs.

One of the busiest activities is the Information and Education Office, headquarters of an off-duty educational program which provides correspondence courses and testing.

The Navy Motion Picture Exchange issues an average of 75 new motion picture prints to ships daily. The exchange operates seven days a week, including holidays.

The Public Works Department provides cranes, gangways and other equipment, steam and electricity for the station and ships at piers, and motorized transportation. The department administers the Navy housing program.

THE STATION provides one service which probably is not appreciated by some men of the Fleet—a brig for confinement of prisoners from vessels and other commands which lack suitable facilities. The brig warden and sentries are U.S. Marines.

Capt. Clark said:

"Long Beach Naval Station is the Navy home ashore for the men in the Pacific Fleet who are based here—that is, their home in the military sense. Of course, we cannot lose sight of the important fact that their real shore home or community is the city of Long Beach or other nearby communities. This is where most of the married officers and enlisted men live. The Long Beach people really understand the Navy and in their hospitable way seem to carry out effectively an unwritten or unofficial mission of 'support for the Fleet.' I might add that the shore-based Naval personnel here at the station also feel right at home in the Long Beach community."

A New Camelia Is Born

Camellia enthusiasts have hailed "Buddha" as "one of the few truly great camellias." It's an AACS choice.

By Walter Finch

"BUDDHA," termed by leading camellia enthusiasts "one of the few truly great camellias," is the All-America Camellia Selection for 1958, with a special recommendation for its culture in milder areas of the United States.

Originated in China, Buddha brings an international flavor to the extensive three-year competitive trials conducted by All-America Camellia Selections, Inc., the independent non-profit organization of America's leading hybridizers and nurserymen. AACS pretests new camellia varieties prior to introduction, and awards, recommends and publicizes new varieties of sufficiently high standards, according to their general or sectional adaptation and perfection, as found in the AACS test gardens, and encourages only the introduction of camellias of quality and distinction.

This unusually vigorous variety, a cross between the Camellia reticulata, "Early Peach Bloom," and the species, C. Pitardii, is a new and distinct camellia of the hybrid reticulata group. Unlike blooms of C. japonica varieties, flowers of Buddha undergo transformations in form from first opening until maturity. Each petal of the unusually large blossoms of phlox pink color, emphasized with contrasting veins of Tyrian rose, gradually increases in size and becomes more arched inward and curved as the blooms develop, thus giving Buddha flowers amazing size and depth. At maturity, the flowers average from 4¾ to 6½ inches in diameter and from 2½ to 3 inches in depth.

Buddha blooms in mid-season, usually during February and March, producing flowers freely on the tips of each branch. The abundance of these huge, exotic, warm pink blossoms silhouetted against the large, glossy, green foliage, veined in customary C. reticulata style, is a strikingly vivid sight. Blooms possess remarkable substance and satiny texture and are exceptionally long lasting and excellent for arrangements.

Under favorable conditions, the strong vigorous upright plant will develop into a small tree and should be given adequate space. It may, of course, be restricted by judicious pruning. The best growing conditions provide partial shade in a location that will permit freedom of growth, but magnificent specimen blooms also are obtained from plants grown under glass.

Buddha may be expected to perform well anywhere that the usual C. reticulatas may be grown successfully. It thrives out of doors in all frost-free sections of the United States but should be given at least partial protection in other areas. Where freezes or frosts may affect plant growth or blossoms, the degree of protection required will vary with localized conditions.

REPORTS FROM individuals who have grown Buddha for a number of years indicate a special adaptability to West Coast conditions, notably in the area from San Diego to San Francisco. In and around Los Angeles and throughout Southern California, plants and blooms of Buddha truly are superb, making the variety a "must have" for experts, enthusiasts and, in particular, for the multitude of home owners who desire merely to enjoy the splendor and perfection of this very beautiful new camellia.

Unless frost-free seasons are the rule rather than the exception, Buddha should not be planted out of doors without due consideration of this factor and the caution that the variety necessarily must be classified as relatively tender on the basis of present data. Protection may take the form of some type of lath house or similar device, and no protection may be necessary in mild areas. Gardeners with glass houses will find Buddha responds readily to growth under green house conditions.

The C. reticulata may be one of the oldest species known to man, and few were available in North America until 1918. Buddha is the first hybrid reticulata seedling to emerge victorious from tests conducted by All-America Camellia Selections, Inc., and is being introduced this year for the first time, selected as representative of the newest and finest camellias of the world, worthy of recognition as an All-America Award Winner, with a special recommendation for milder areas of the U. S.

ASIDE FROM the sheer beauty of this exciting new AACS variety, camellia lovers will find romantic interest in the not-yet-fully-developed story of how the Chinese succeeded in confining the C. reticulata species within the enclosed grounds of their ancient Temple Gardens, tended largely by Buddhist priests, safe from the searching eyes of the western world. Perhaps the future will unfold this remarkable tale in its entirety and reveal also what stroke of good fortune led to crossing the species C. reticulata with the species C. Pitardii, a union which produced the exquisitely beautiful bloom that sets Buddha apart as one of the truly distinctive creations in the camellia world.

Plants of this new All-America camellia will be available through leading nurserymen in quantity and within the reach of all.

It's Time Now to Plant Dichondra

Beauty of dichondra lawns is undisputed. If planted now, progress will be best.

By Joe Littlefield

SOME FOLK feel that the time to plant dichondra is in the fall season, when grass lawns are renovated, and new lawns are put in. There's nothing wrong with planting dichondra in the fall season, except that it takes many months for it to grow together. In fact, it may take eight months for a fall planted dichondra lawn to grow together.

Dichondra lawn planted now, whether from seeds or from flats, grows fast, and should get a good tochold before cold weather sets in. The lawn may not be grown altogether, but it will be fairly well established.

There are two ways to get a dichondra lawn. One is to plant it in bare soil, other is to put it in an established grass lawn. Naturally, you'll have a pure dichondra lawn if planted in bare soil rather than in a lawn. That is, you will if you keep out the weeds! It'll take several years for dichondra to become well established in a grass lawn.

DICHONDRA TURF is available in flats, approximately 17 inches square. The turf is cut up in squares and planted. At this time of year, the squares should be no smaller than inch and a half by inch and a half. Plant them in rows spaced eight inches apart from middle of one square to middle of the next square. Rows should be eight inches apart. This suggested square size of dichondra and spacing requires approximately 25 flats of dichondra for each thousand square foot area. Five sacks of weed free manure should be evenly spread over same given area. Thereafter lawn should be kept moist till it has grown together, or until the rains come.

If seed sowing is preferred, sow one pound per thousand square feet. Spread evenly five sacks of steer manure over same given area. Manure keeps soil from crusting and drying out quickly, and maintains an even moisture content. There's just enough food value action to encourage dichondra to grow evenly.

BECAUSE WEATHER is hot and continues so for another month and a half or more, it isn't necessary to sow grass in the dichondra. However, if pets or children run over the newly planted dichondra lawn, and track dirt into the house, then it may be necessary to sow grass seed in order to cover the soil while the dichondra is growing together.

If the dichondra lawn isn't put in till fall season, then by all means, grass seed should be sown in with it, because dichondra grows slowly in cold weather. Grass furnishes the green covering and acts as a protection for the slow growing dichondra.

NEWLY PLANTED dichondra lawns may be kept pure by periodic weeding. "Periodic weeding" doesn't mean to weed when the mood strikes you. It means to weed when you discover weeds. Luckily so far, we have been able to keep our 15-year-old dichondra lawn clean of weeds. We spend about six hours a year keeping weeds out of approximately 12 hundred square foot lawn. Soon as we spot a weed, a handkerchief drops over it, like a target marker for a bomber. We hot foot it to the front porch and pick up a screw driver or spike sprinkler. With murder in mind, we gleefully root out the weed.

Where weeds are a mess in an established dichondra lawn, you can gradually crowd them out by mowing the lawn close and often. "Close" means to practically scalp the lawn, but without doing so. Cut close without injuring the lawn. Continue mowing close every five days from March through October. Feed about every two months with a dichondra food, and keep lawn moist. Weeds blossom in sun, whereas dichondra flowers in shade. Close mowing clips off flowers so they don't set seeds. Because dichondra continues to multiply from flowers to seed, and weeds do not, eventually dichondra crowds back the weeds! Several gardeners have had good success in following this method of crowding back weeds in dichondra lawns. But it requires patience and follow-through.

New Robot Gardener Makes Gardening Fun

Three-Way Garden Aid

Caring for a lawn or garden can be fun with the new Robot Gardener, a trisected chamber which attaches to any garden hose or sprinkler. The chamber holds bullet-like cartridges of fertilizer, weed killer or insecticide, enough to care for more than 2,000 square feet of lawn. All that remains to be done is to turn on the water and direct the hose; automatically and scientifically the lawn is fertilized the weeds and crabgrass killed and insects destroyed. For information regarding Robot Gardener Kit, write Dept. LA, Leeds Chemical Products Co., 112 E. Walton St., Chicago, Ill.

Gardening Tips

GARDEN TIPS for the week . . . During the summer, lawns should be thoroughly soaked. A light sprinkling is almost worse than no water at all.

Vine-like plants now growing vigorously should be thoroughly trellised to prevent their becoming topheavy. They may also require some thinning out.

Zinnias, which flower quickly, can still be grown from seed. They are excellent for cut flowers as well as in the outdoor garden.

In Southern California, we seem to get the best sweet peas if we plant them around the end of August.

If you really want prize sweet peas, it is best to prepare the sweet pea bed, two to three weeks before you plant them, in the following manner: Dig a trench at least two feet deep and 18 inches wide. Place a generous amount of good, clean cow manure in the bottom of the trench; then add a layer of soil and mix the two thoroughly. Add another layer of humus unless you prefer using decomposed leaf mold or compost (these are equally as good) and fill the remainder of the trench with soil. Again mix thoroughly and water down. Let it remain until you're ready to plant. It helps, too, to add just bone meal about a half pail full to a row 20 to 25 feet long.

Lucille Ball and Desi Arnaz cut a few capers in a scene from the first of their new TV programs.

TELEVISION

Desi, Lucy Prepare New Show

By Bob Thomas
Associated Press Staff Writer

IT WAS BACK in Oct. 15, 1951 that a television show named "I Love Lucy" hit the air for the first time. It played its last performance Monday night, June 24, this year.

Thus ended the greatest success story in television history.

For six full seasons, the Lucille Ball-Desi Arnaz show took the No. 1 spot in virtually every audience poll, bowing only a handful of times to the $64,000. NBC has thrown nearly everything possible against CBS's "Lucy," but never could make a dent on the ratings.

Now Lucy and Desi are quitting their weekly show.

STARS HAVE BEEN known to quit at the top in sports, but almost never in show business. Actors seem always to yearn for another show, another audience.

"Lucy and I are not quitting like Rocky Marciano and Gene Tunney," Desi explained. "We just aren't going to fight every Monday night. We'll fight five times a year."

For the 1957-58 season, they are making six one-hour shows. They will still be Lucy and Ricky Ricardo, and Vivian Vance and Bill Frawley will play Ethel and Fred Mertz. The shows begin in late October or early November.

BUT THE STORIES will be broadened to fit the one-hour scope. There will be more musical numbers and guest stars. The first show also stars Ann Sothern, Rudy Vallee, Cesar Romero and Hedda Hopper.

Desi denied the new schedule meant a slowdown in work for the stars.

"Each show is the equivalent of a feature-length movie," he said. "I'm working harder on them than I did before. The stories have to be well blocked out; they take 10 weeks to prepare.

"It takes a couple of weeks to cast and prepare sets, then two weeks or more to rehearse. We shoot most of it in one night, but then it takes four to six weeks to cut and score the music.

TWENTY WEEKS for one show! But it's worth it. When we did our first show, it was like an exciting New York opening up at 6:30 p.m. and the laughs at the end were as big as those at the start. We've never done better work."

Desi said he wanted to make the move to the hour show a year ago, but his sponsors prevailed upon him to stay on Monday night another season. This year he won, despite network pressure and sponsor coolness to his $330,000 price tag per show.

Desi won out, as he generally does.

The whole history of "I Love Lucy" is one of persistence. After he returned from the army, Desi found his film career dwindled to nothing. He organized a rhumba band with moderate success. But the band business kept him on the road most of the time while Lucille was making pictures in Hollywood. Their marriage was close to the rocks.

THEY TRIED TO sell producers on the idea of their working together, but it was no luck. No one could imagine the glamorous redhead (her comedy talent had been little exploited in films) and the Cuban drum-beater as a team.

To show the skeptics, they whipped up a vaudeville act that was a broad satire on their actual life together. They played it around the country and at London's Palladium to delighted audiences.

Desi returned to sell the idea of a TV marriage. Buyers were reluctant, but he persisted. The show went on the air just three months after the birth of their first child, Lucy Desiree.

It was a hit from the start. The peak came when Desiderio Alberto Arnaz IV was born Jan. 19, 1955, the same night that Lucy had a baby boy on the TV show. The audience rating hit an all-time high.

I ASKED DESI how the show has managed to stay on top of the heap.

"I think there are several reasons," he reflected. "For one thing, we've always tried to come up with new approaches, so people won't get tired of seeing us do the same old things.

"We've got real people on our show. They live like normal human beings; the audience can identify itself with them. The situations may get pretty wacky, but they start on a logical premise.

"We've got a show with four underdogs. None is an underdog; one week Lucy will get the worst of it, the next week it might be Ricky, the next time Fred or Ethel.

"We've always had a clean show and never offended anyone. We won't get a laugh out of someone because he has a speech impediment or a physical defect."

THEN HE ADDED: "One of the big reasons for the show's success is this girl (Lucy). Whether it's a prat fall or a love scene, she is the greatest."

How does Lucy like the hour show?

"It's a whale of a lot of work," she said, "but its real exciting, too. I'm enjoying it, especially since I get three or four weeks off between shows to spend with the children. Not Desi; he works like a dog. I just hope this show doesn't kill him."

Which proves that millionaires can be sentimental.

Second Guessing in Full Swing

By the Shutterbug

Getting natural action from this group at Long Beach surfside was no problem, even for man with 3 cameras.

THE traditional pastime of second-guessing is probably in full swing now as returning camera fans view their vacation picture results. It's no different at my house for, despite all the advice I dish out, a couple of items were neglected and as a result there are picture losses that can't be duplicated.

Before any important family photo event, a holiday excursion or a vacation, the cardinal rule is: Check your camera and, if possible, run some film through as a test.

That's what I failed to do with my movie camera. Now I'm unhappy, to put it mildly, as the first three rolls back show large amounts of blank footage on each. It indicates a possible faulty shutter operation but you can be sure it goes back to my camera shop along with the film. Let an expert find the exact trouble and fix it.

I AM GLAD, though, that I overruled my wife by taking a second and a third camera along. I wouldn't go anywhere without a small camera for black-and-white snapshots. The third camera is for color slides, as you might have guessed, except in my case I've gone overboard for stereo so most everything is in three dimensions as well as color.

While the other cameras proved a good backstop in those spots where the movie camera went blank, they brought trouble in another direction. There were times when sightseeing with three children and three cameras was almost impossible. On occasions, it led to open rebellion as my subjects refused to cooperate by the time it got around to the third camera.

GOING OVER my pictures now, I feel that I didn't get enough general views and locality names to set the scene for various places we visited. It's a mistake to pass that first billboard, sign or over-all view without a picture because you feel you'll come to something better. Why not stop and take a picture merely for insurance and if you come to something better, take that, too.

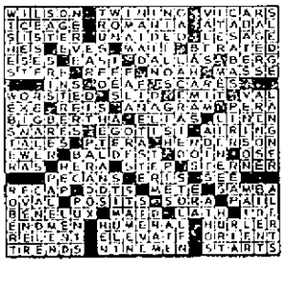

It's a mistake also to put off taking pictures of people and places because "you have so much time to do it later!" I see now that so many of the people who made our vacation so enjoyable and many of the places we visited and stayed never did get photographed after all. If I could retrace my steps, they'd be snapped on the very first go-round.

I'd also start an earlier, more earnest campaign to infect my wife and oldest daughter with the photography virus. It would take a great weight off my mind ... and shoulders ... if each one would relieve me of a camera and I could concentrate solely on the third dimension.

MEMBERS OF the Long Beach Camera Guild will have an outing today at the mountain cabin of Hazel and Stanley Vosper, which is located in the Moonridge Estates, Big Bear Lake, opposite Moonridge Golf Course.

Feed Pets for Fitness

By Eleanor Avery Price

PET FEEDING today would appear to be no problem, what with the variety of foods for animals offered in grocery and pet stores.

Each pet, however, is an individual, and each owner must be guided by experience acquired from experimenting, with assistance, if necessary, from someone qualified to offer suggestions such as a veterinarian who knows that dietary requirements vary. For example, an active or nervous breed of dog needs 25 to 50 per cent more calorie intake than a calmer dog. Also, an older dog needs more protein than a younger one, and a growing puppy often seems bottomless at mealtime!

Cats usually are wise enough to eat just what their bodies require. Dogs, however, may overeat and even consume spoiled food if it is available. A fat dog is subject to a host of ills, has less pep and is likely to die young, hence the great need to feed dogs carefully.

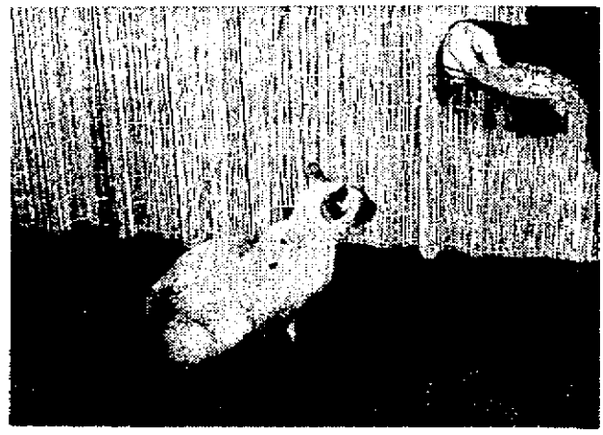

IT IS OFTEN SAID that meat is a dog's (and a cat's) natural food, since his ancestors lived on game they caught hunting. It should be remembered that animals in their wild state were more active and they also were wise enough to eat mineral-rich organs, grains and other foods in the animals' digestive tracts and so could balance their own diets.

Meat alone does not contain all the minerals and vitamins needed, nor enough carbohydrates and fat. Some commercially prepared foods provide all the food essentials, but to be on the safe side, supplementary foods such as meat scraps, bacon-drippings, liver, heart, broth, broiled fish (no bones), cottage cheese, milk, soft-boiled eggs, cooked carrots and string beans, tomatoes, breakfast cereals and baby foods may be offered the cat and dog, along with vitamins, if such foods appear to agree with the pet.

IF YOU USE a prepared food, select one that makes your pet grow best, offer it regularly and follow the directions. In some instances the labels on dog food suggest self-feeding of dry food instead of mixing a certain amount with water or other liquid. This is an easy and often excellent way to feed a dog, but remember that some dogs will over-eat if not watched. Also, if the dog is one that does not drink much water, his food should always be offered moistened, otherwise serious intestinal disorders may result. On the other hand, if the dog drinks a great deal of water, his drinking container should be removed a little while before mealtime so that he will eat the proper amount of food without bloating.

Kittens and puppies should start out with four meals daily. By the time the pet is six to eight months of age, meals should be reduced to two. If the dish isn't cleaned up within a reasonable time, pick it up and offer fresh food at the next regular feeding time. Don't fret if the pet skips an occasional meal and don't give in if it holds out for favorite foods.

Guide the pet with firmness to a proper diet that isn't constantly undergoing radical changes.

Cats are wise creatures, eat just what their bodies require, but hold out at times for favorite morsels.

HOW TO Plan a Workshop In Your Garage

IF YOU'RE PINCHED for space, garage can make room for work corner as well as auto. Compactness comes from using multi-purpose power tool that stores along wall. Large tool chest rolls on casters out of the corner. Next to it is folding workbench.

AN 8X16-FOOT EXTENSION to the garage provides ample space for most workshop needs. In addition, there's small room at one end for storing garden tools, outdoor equipment. Most maintenance and woodworking projects are handled right in the alcove itself. But major tools are given easy mobility with retractable casters. There is small-tool storage along one wall.

VIVIAN LAIRD HILL

Let's Have Swordfish

WHEN THEY stroll into Vivian Laird's Supper Club for the first time and see what an elegant, spacious place it is, people sometimes remark: "Brother, I'll bet the prices are high here!"

Well, sir, they couldn't be more wrong.

One of the amazing things about Vivian Laird's, located at 1st St. and Alamitos Ave., is the fact that excellent complete dinners are priced as low as $2.25. Among the entrees at that price are eastern scallops, chicken a la king, filet of sole and grilled swordfish steak. They are accompanied by ALL of the following:

Soup du jour, large tossed green salad with choice of dressing, choice of potatoes, fresh hot rolls, choice of beverage and choice of pie, ice cream, sherbet or sundae for dessert.

Among the many other selections on this complete dinner are fried shrimp, $2.50; shrimp or lobster newburg, $2.75; delectable shrimp curry with rice, $2.50; pan fried chicken, $2.50; top sirloin, $3.75, and lamb chops, $3.75.

Among the a la carte items (served with salad, potato, rolls and beverage) are the following: prime rib au jus, $3.50; charcoal-broiled filet mignon, $4.50; New York cut, $4.50, and top sirloin, $3.50. The very finest grade of eastern prime beef is featured.

ANOTHER FEATURE of the supper club is the private banquet room which overlooks the great main room. It can be closed off for parties or left open, permitting its guests to enjoy the highly danceable music of Reed Williams and his orchestra. The banquet room is available for groups from 25 to 100.

Pianist Marya Genay is currently the spotlighted entertainer in the Jungle Room, one of the Supper Club's three cocktail lounges.

Vivian Laird Hill, owner of the restaurant, never makes a cover or minimum charge. Dinners are served daily from 6 p.m. to 2 a.m., Sundays from 5 p.m. on. —TEDD THOMEY.

HOT HORS D'OEUVERS SERVED

I was ashamed to always be so tired!

I ALWAYS felt simply "run down." People were thinking of me as a "spoil-sport." I didn't know why until my doctor put me wise. He told me that I acted like a man much older than myself . . . and explained why I felt "tired" . . . why my youthful vigor was slipping away . . . why my wife and family were beginning to think of me as a worn-out man.

He told me how a vitamin-mineral deficiency in my diet could bring on these symptoms—rob me of the joys of living . . . and suggested that I supplement my diet with pep-building vitamins and minerals. Thousands of others had found new energy, new youth, new happiness by adding these essential factors to their diet.

Well, I put off doing anything about my condition—until one day I read the Vitasafe ad in a magazine, offering a 30-day FREE supply of high-potency Vitasafe C.F. Capsules! I figured I had nothing to lose, so I mailed the coupon. When my free supply arrived, I began taking one Capsule a day. In a short time, I began to feel like a new man! My pep and vigor came back. I continued with the wonderful Vitasafe Plan—and I felt stronger—younger—more energetic!

Today, no one thinks of me as a "worn-out old man." I've got pep and energy to burn, and I have fun like a fellow half my age! And you may too! Why don't you take advantage of this sensational free offer to see for yourself whether you too can again feel peppy and full of life! Accept this no risk offer as I did.

POTENCY AND PURITY GUARANTEED

There is no mystery to vitamin potency. As you probably know, the U. S. Government strictly controls each vitamin manufacturer and requires the exact quantity of each vitamin and mineral to be clearly stated on the label. This means that the purity of each ingredient, and the sanitary conditions of manufacture are carefully controlled for your protection! And it means that when you use VITASAFE C.F. CAPSULES you can be sure you're getting exactly what the label states . . . and that you're getting pure ingredients whose beneficial effects have been proven time and time again!

HOW THE VITASAFE PLAN OPERATES TO SAVE YOU MONEY

When you receive your free 30-day supply of vitamins, you are under no obligation to buy anything. With your vitamins you will also receive a handy postcard. If after taking your free Vitasafe capsules for three weeks you are not satisfied in every way, simply return the postcard and that will end the matter. Otherwise, it's up to us—you don't have to do a thing—and we will see that you get your monthly supplies of vitamins on time for as long as you wish, at the low, money-saving price of only $2.78 per month.

WHY WE WANT YOU TO TRY A 30-DAY SUPPLY—FREE!

We offer you this 30-day free trial of valuable VITASAFE C.F. CAPSULES for just one reason. So many persons have already tried them with such astounding results . . . so many people have written in telling us how much better they felt after only a short trial . . . that we are absolutely convinced that you, too, may experience the same feeling of health and well-being after a similar trial. In fact, we're so convinced that we're willing to back up our convictions with our own money. You don't spend a penny for the vitamins! All the cost and all the risk are ours. A month's supply of similar vitamin capsules would ordinarily cost $5.00 retail.

How to Have More Fun This Summer

There's no fun like the fun of going places in a brand new car, or a bright, late-model used car. The complete C.I.T. Time Purchase Plan makes it easy for you to drive the car you want now, while you pay for it out of current income. And you get all these extra protections and services, too:

The Best Car Insurance Service Offered Anywhere

Your car is insured against collision, fire, theft and many other causes of loss. And, in case of an accident, you don't have to shop for bids. Repairs can be made expertly by the man who knows your car best—your own car dealer. In addition, if your car should break down on the road, you are reimbursed for towing and roadside service—up to $10.

These protections also apply when you, or any relative living with you, use a borrowed passenger car.

Plus these Personal Protections and Services

First, your credit is established wherever you drive, so that if you should have an emergency car repair anywhere on the road, you simply request any of our offices to pay the bill. You repay in convenient monthly instalments when you return home.

Then, you get life insurance coverage, and while this policy is in effect, your family will own your car outright, without further payments, in the event of your death. In addition to credit life benefits, you get added insurance that will pay $1000 to your family if you lose your life in a traffic accident. Greater benefits may be paid if you should lose your life, or sight, or limbs in certain other kinds of traffic or travel accidents.

What's more, you get a bail bond certificate that provides you with bail bond up to $5,000 if you, or a member of your family, are arrested on traffic accident charges.

The Most Sensible Way to Buy

All of these protections* are yours when you buy your car on the complete C.I.T. Plan. And, anywhere you drive in the U. S. or Canada, there's one of C.I.T.'s 465 offices nearby, ready to give you immediate action and assistance on these protections.

Don't wait any longer. This week select the car you want to drive. Then ask your dealer to finance it on the complete C.I.T. Plan. In a few minutes, he'll make all the arrangements. And you'll protect your family, yourself and your car with the plan that helps you enjoy carefree driving.

Universal C.I.T. Credit Corporation. One Park Avenue, New York 16, New York. In Canada: Canadian Acceptance Corporation Ltd., Toronto.

CLAD IN COVERALLS, the author indulges in his favorite hobby. Here he tinkers with a Jaguar motor.

I'll always remember...

The car that stole my girl

by DAVE GARROWAY

Let me tell you about this Rolls-Royce . . .

During the past 20-odd years I have spent a great deal of my time tinkering with ancient automobiles and enjoying every second of it. In all I've owned 28 such cars, including a Duesenberg, an Auburn, a Bugatti, a Cord, a Jaguar and several Rolls-Royces. Just in the past 18 months I've spent two hours a day rebuilding the motor of one car.

And how did I get into this habit, or hobby? It started with an unlikely emotion — jealousy. Back in 1931, when I went to University City High School in St. Louis, I developed a violent crush on a certain blonde. Ice-cream sodas, movies, school dances — nothing was too good for her, provided it didn't cost more than 50 cents. After three weeks of this, I decided the time had come to ask the lady to become my steady.

I waited for her at the school door. As she came toward me, her smile was radiant. But to my horror, that smile wasn't for me. She tossed me a casual, "Hi, Dave!" and went right by; went to an ancient robin's-egg-blue Rolls-Royce at the curb with a 20-year-old man at the wheel. When my girl drove off with him, I felt outraged.

Right then I decided that if it took such cars to win a girl like that blonde, by heaven, someday I'd make enough money to buy them myself. Years later I could. And one day in a North Side Chicago garage, I found that same blue Rolls-Royce! I had to spend $1,000 on parts to rebuild it, but it was worth it. Did I feel some special satisfaction in getting the car once owned by my rival? No. I had practically forgotten about him and the blonde. My ardor had been transferred to cars.

That is what my hobby has taught me. Learn to get outside yourself. When something gnaws at you, try to find some absorbing interest. It can be as inexpensive as collecting sea shells or as rewarding as becoming an expert gardener. An outside interest is the best medicine for inside trouble. ■

On Parade

ON THE COVER today is a young lady with a purpose. Her name is Gloria Howard and she's a professional model (vital statistics: 5' 8", 33 — 22 — 34). She was photographed for PARADE at the beach — primarily to lead your attention to our special beauty feature on pp. 16-17.

If you're a woman, you know what sun, water and wind can do to Gloria's skin. Our article will help you counter those same effects on your skin and face the fall with confidence.

If you're a man, take note: Gloria posed for all the photos in the article.

FOR THE SECOND TIME in a dozen years a recipe has gotten past Home Economics Director Demetria Taylor and appeared with an error. Date: June 30. Recipe: Strawberry Glaze Cheesecake. Error: The ingredients included cream, but the directions failed to say it should be whipped and folded in as the last step in preparation. To all baffled, puzzled or angry readers who wrote, wired or called in — our apologies.

THE BUILDING BELOW is a hospital in Benson, Ariz., near Tucson. The man in the wheel chair isn't a patient, though — he's Dr. James Hesser, and he runs the place. For his unusual story, see pp. 12-13.

ARE THOSE CONTESTS RIGGED?

by LLOYD SHEARER
Parade West Coast correspondent

LONG BEACH, CALIF.

This is the season of beauty contests. Next week the Miss America crown will be fought out in Atlantic City; meanwhile, echoes of the recent Miss Universe contest still are being heard. Hard on the confusion here when Mrs. Leona Ennis nearly won the Miss U.S.A. title, Mary Callie Hill of Baltimore sued Mrs. Ennis and the sponsors of the Miss Maryland contest for $30,000. She claimed they had "fraudulently concealed" the fact of Mrs. Ennis' marriage and thus done her (Mary) out of her place in the Miss Universe contest. All of this gives rise to the question: Are beauty contests rigged? PARADE asked seven hopefuls in the Miss Universe set-to; herewith, their answers.

LYLA LEE MORAN, Miss New Hampshire: "Yes, small-town contests usually are rigged in favor of local girls. You can enter a small contest and lose, then go into a larger one and beat the same girl who beat you earlier."

ANNE MARIE STUDNESS, Miss North Dakota: "It all depends on the contest judges. They're the ones who decide everything. My experience is that they're honest."

GERTI DAUB, Miss Germany: "I don't know how it is in the United States, but back home it is strictly honest. At least I like to think so — I was judged the winner there."

SANITA PELKEY, Miss New York: "Of course a lot of contests are fixed. I've been in some where far from the prettiest girl won. These usually are just local contests."

ROSALIE CULP, Miss Pennsylvania: "No, the contests are not fixed. I've been in many of them, including the Miss America contest, and they're always strictly on the level. Of course, the gripers make all sorts of excuses."

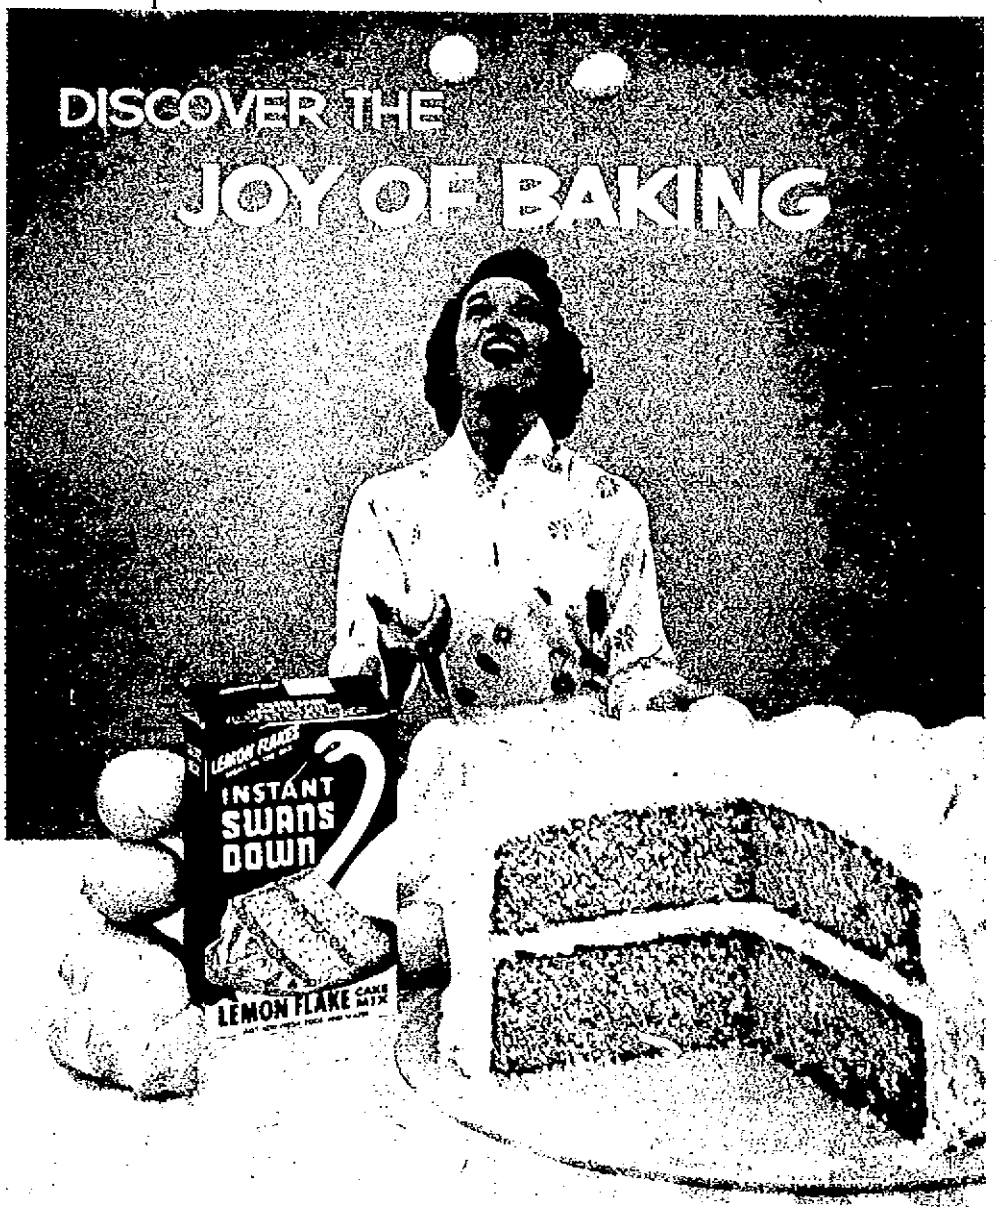

Some lovely contestants give varied answers to a timely PARADE question

FAYE RAY, Miss Miami Beach: "The big contests are OK, but in the little ones all sorts of pressures can be used. This means the prettiest girls sometimes lose out."

HANNERL MELCHER, Miss Austria: "Most of the judges are too old. We need more young judges. The Miss Universe contest was honest — but some judges were blind."

FORMER PRESIDENTS Hoover and Truman (above) receive typically distorted handling in the Great Soviet Encyclopaedia: it calls Hoover "a plotter," Truman "an imperialist."

AMERICAN LEGIONNAIRES (left) have fun at a recent convention. Ignoring such open gayety, the Red encyclopedia calls the Legion "militarized . . . a kind of secret police."

WHAT IVAN

Russia's man-in-the-street now gets 'facts' on the

by WILLIAM BENTON

Publisher, Encyclopaedia Britannica

AFTER WORLD WAR I, former President Herbert Hoover organized "espionage, political and military diversions and plots against the Soviet government" when he headed the American Relief Administration to feed starving Europeans.

Former President Truman is an important member of the American Legion, and the Legion is "one of the largest militarized Fascist organizations in the U.S. . . . The whole country is covered by Legion posts. These are a kind of secret police and strike-breaker units."

Earl Browder, deposed U.S. Communist leader, is an "agent of American imperialism."

These three typical distortions are drawn from the latest word picture — or caricature — of the United States which the Kremlin is trying to project to 800,000,000 people. They appear in the new edition of the Great Soviet Encyclopaedia, whose long (85,000 words) and long-awaited article on the U.S. is astonishing, impressive — and dangerous.

The Great Soviet Encyclopaedia is Communism's most authoritative single source of general information. Officials, teachers, journalists, scholars and propagandists lean on it heavily. Although "Ivan," Russia's man-in-the-street, may never pick up a copy, his opinion of the U.S. and its people will be vastly influenced by it. The "news" Ivan reads, the speeches he hears, the lessons he learns about America will be based on this fabric of facts, unfacts and misfacts.

Here is the long-range Soviet "party line" toward us. Short-range Red tactics may zigzag from week to week; the make-up of the party presidium may shift dramatically. But in this article Soviet attitudes are frozen for years to come — perhaps for decades.

And the article cannot be dismissed simply as a pack of lies. The editors and authors package truth and falsehood together astutely. They cite figures from well-respected sources. They present the U.S. in a form that will surely seem convincing — behind the Iron Curtain — to present-day readers and, unhappily, to coming Communist generations as well.

During a visit to Moscow in 1955 I met the top officials of the Encyclopaedia. They didn't want to talk about their forthcoming article on the U.S. They said it wasn't ready, that it would appear in Volume 39. In return for my offer of a set of the Encyclopaedia Britannica, they offered to send me their first 33 volumes, plus new volumes as they came off the presses.

He Sees Us As Strong . . .

Recently Volume 39 arrived. With a translator's help I analyzed the article on the U.S. It runs to 97 pages of type, with seven maps, 24 tables of statistics and 83 pictures. It is shorter than the article on the U.S.S.R. in the Encyclopaedia Britannica. It is shorter — and less friendly — than the article on the U.S. in the first edition of the Soviet Encyclopaedia, published years ago during wartime.

Over the past decade I've studied world-wide Communist propaganda as it steadily predicted calamity and catastrophe for the U.S. economy. Thus to me the most surprising quality of this article is the impression it conveys of America's strength. "Industry in the U.S. is highly mechanized and automatic machinery is being rapidly developed," say the Soviet contributors. "New techniques constantly are being perfected and applied."

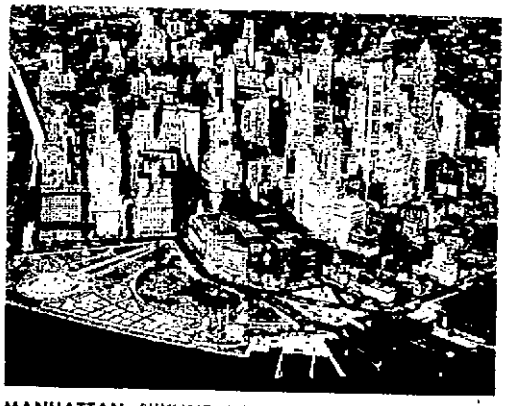

With its own people, the Kremlin doesn't intend to underestimate America's physical strength. Page after page portrays the formidable magnitude of America's economic accomplishments.

Photographs depict Manhattan skyscrapers, Chicago's lakefront, shots of New Orleans, San Francisco, Fargo. There are glimpses of giant dams, Texas oil derricks, an oil refinery at Baton Rouge, ore conveyors, a king-sized stamping press, an Anaconda copper smelter. Also reproduced is a photograph of buildings at the Oak Ridge atomic installation.

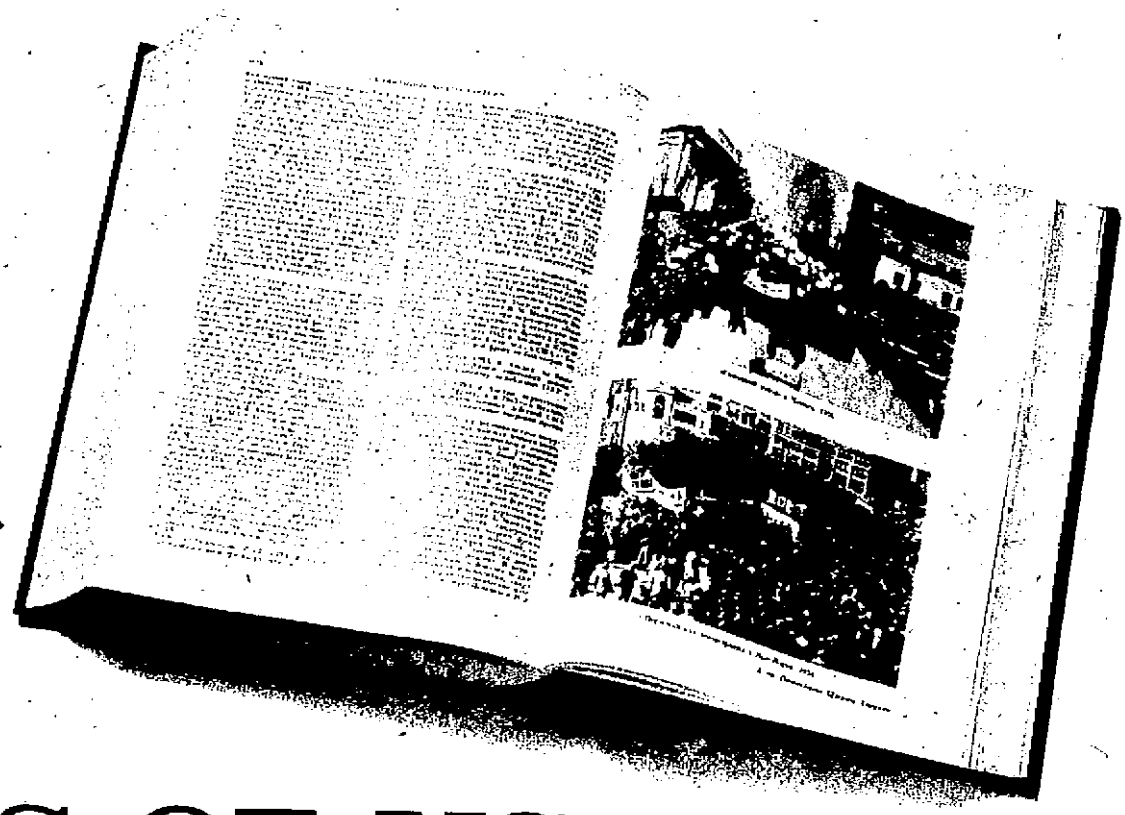

In preparing the material that will, indirectly, influence hundreds of millions of people, the editors and writers draw a sharp distinction between the American people and the "monopoly capitalists" they claim control our government. They wrap their factual descriptions in two gargantuan falsehoods: 1) that ordinary Americans are impoverished victims of the rich, and 2) that our system can continue to expand only by aggressive war.

The editors, in fact, seemed to feel sorry for me because Encyclopaedia Britannica doesn't have what they choose to call a "world view." Britannica obviously is guilty of "cosmopolitanism."

What is this "world view" of theirs? It is the attempt to apply the Marxist-Leninist philosophy to explain past and present, and to predict the future. It preaches that under the Soviet "dictatorship of the proletariat" a new world order is inevitable, through victorious struggle against "capitalist and bourgeois classes." It teaches that "true democracy" can exist only under Communism, that Western forms of self-government merely mask capitalist control of the masses through "bourgeois" systems of law, ethics and religion. It teaches that the happiness of present generations, and all individual rights, must be sacrificed — that any means are justified to achieve Communist ends.

MANHATTAN SKYLINE (above) illustrates the encyclopedia's section on U.S. cities. Such photos apparently are designed to impress Ivan with American economic strength.

"IMPOVERISHED WORKERS" are a favorite theme of the encyclopedia. The photos at right show depression scenes of 25 years ago; book implies such things still are common.

. . . He Sees Us As Weak

The "world view" splits the world into two camps. The capitalist camp is led by the U.S. — reactionary, decadent, disintegrating, doomed by the irresistible march of history, as they write it. The second camp, led by the U.S.S.R. ("the fatherland of all the workers") is the only hope for world peace and what they call "harmonious cooperation." The Hungarians and Poles, among others, have found this harmony a rugged experience.

This interpretation, of course, is scarcely new. It is the standard Communist fare. The typical Ivan has been exposed to it, directly and indirectly, for years. But, using it as a basis of thinking, the article's writers and editors come up with these new and monstrous distortions of the U.S. and its past:

- The U.S. Constitution as promulgated in 1789 was "the legislation of bourgeois dictatorship over the popular masses."
- Woodrow Wilson, during his Presidency, revealed himself "a servant of big monopolies." His 14 Points for peace after World War I were an "imperialist peace plan."
- The Harding, Coolidge and Hoover administrations led in "the policy of restoring German militarism."
- In World War II the Second Front was opened only when it became evident "the Soviet Army was capable of liberating Europe and occupying all Germany."
- The Truman Doctrine marked the start of U.S. imperialism in the Middle East, while at home reactionary measures were being taken against the working class.
- By "intervention in the Korean civil war," U.S. reactionary circles tried to promote expansionist plans in China. But U.S. armed forces suffered military defeat, and had to agree to an armistice.

Communism's "world view" also dramatizes unsolved problems Americans freely admit, and aims at issues which divide Americans and tend to alienate us from our friends. Here are some ways the Encyclopaedia claims we fail to practice what we preach:

- In many states, "considerable masses of citizens, particularly Negroes" are denied voting rights.
- Although the U.S. Supreme Court ruled that segregation of school children is unconstitutional, in many Southern states the decision is ignored or opposed.
- In U.S. schools, "there were not enough teachers and every year their number was being reduced."
- Postwar U.S. budgets show a "vast proportion of taxpayers' money spent on defense." Huge public debt and inflation, the Reds say, result from "militarization of the country's economy."

The Soviet leaders set out to hide from their citizens that Americans are steadily making our country a better place for all its inhabitants. Any such admission would puncture "the world view."

As the Reds see them, what are the conditions of American life today? Here are two samples:

- Sixty-two per cent of all families have incomes below the minimum standard of living.
- During the period 1945-1953, "there was an absolute and relative impoverishment of the working class."

When Russians hear or read such gross misstatements, they often believe them. This is possible only because of the isolated condition of the Russian people. Their "world view" thus is a form of impaired vision. Yet I know from my own visits to Moscow that the average Ivan hates neither America nor Americans; he may have a warped picture of it, but he wants to know about it and usually is willing to listen.

Let's Take the Initiative

For the past dozen years — first as Assistant Secretary of State, when I launched the Voice of America in the Russian language, then as U.S. Senator from Connecticut, when I proposed a "Marshall Plan of Ideas" — I have contended that we Americans have far more to gain than to lose in seeking greater contact with the Russian people.

For our own security, we need to seize the initiative, to take advantage of every conceivable opportunity to help the Russian people learn more about America.

I have advocated bold, large-scale American action along several lines. Some steps can be taken without delay. Here are three examples:

AUTHOR BENTON looks up from the hefty, well-illustrated Soviet encyclopedia. The former Senator and Assistant Secretary of State visited Moscow headquarters, where the 460-man encyclopedia staff works, on a 1955 trip to Russia.

Three ways to tell Russians the truth

1) Broadcasts and telecasts. President Eisenhower, Sen. Lyndon Johnson and Soviet Minister Anastas Mikoyan have spoken favorably about regular exchange of broadcast interviews along the pattern of the recent Khrushchev interview.

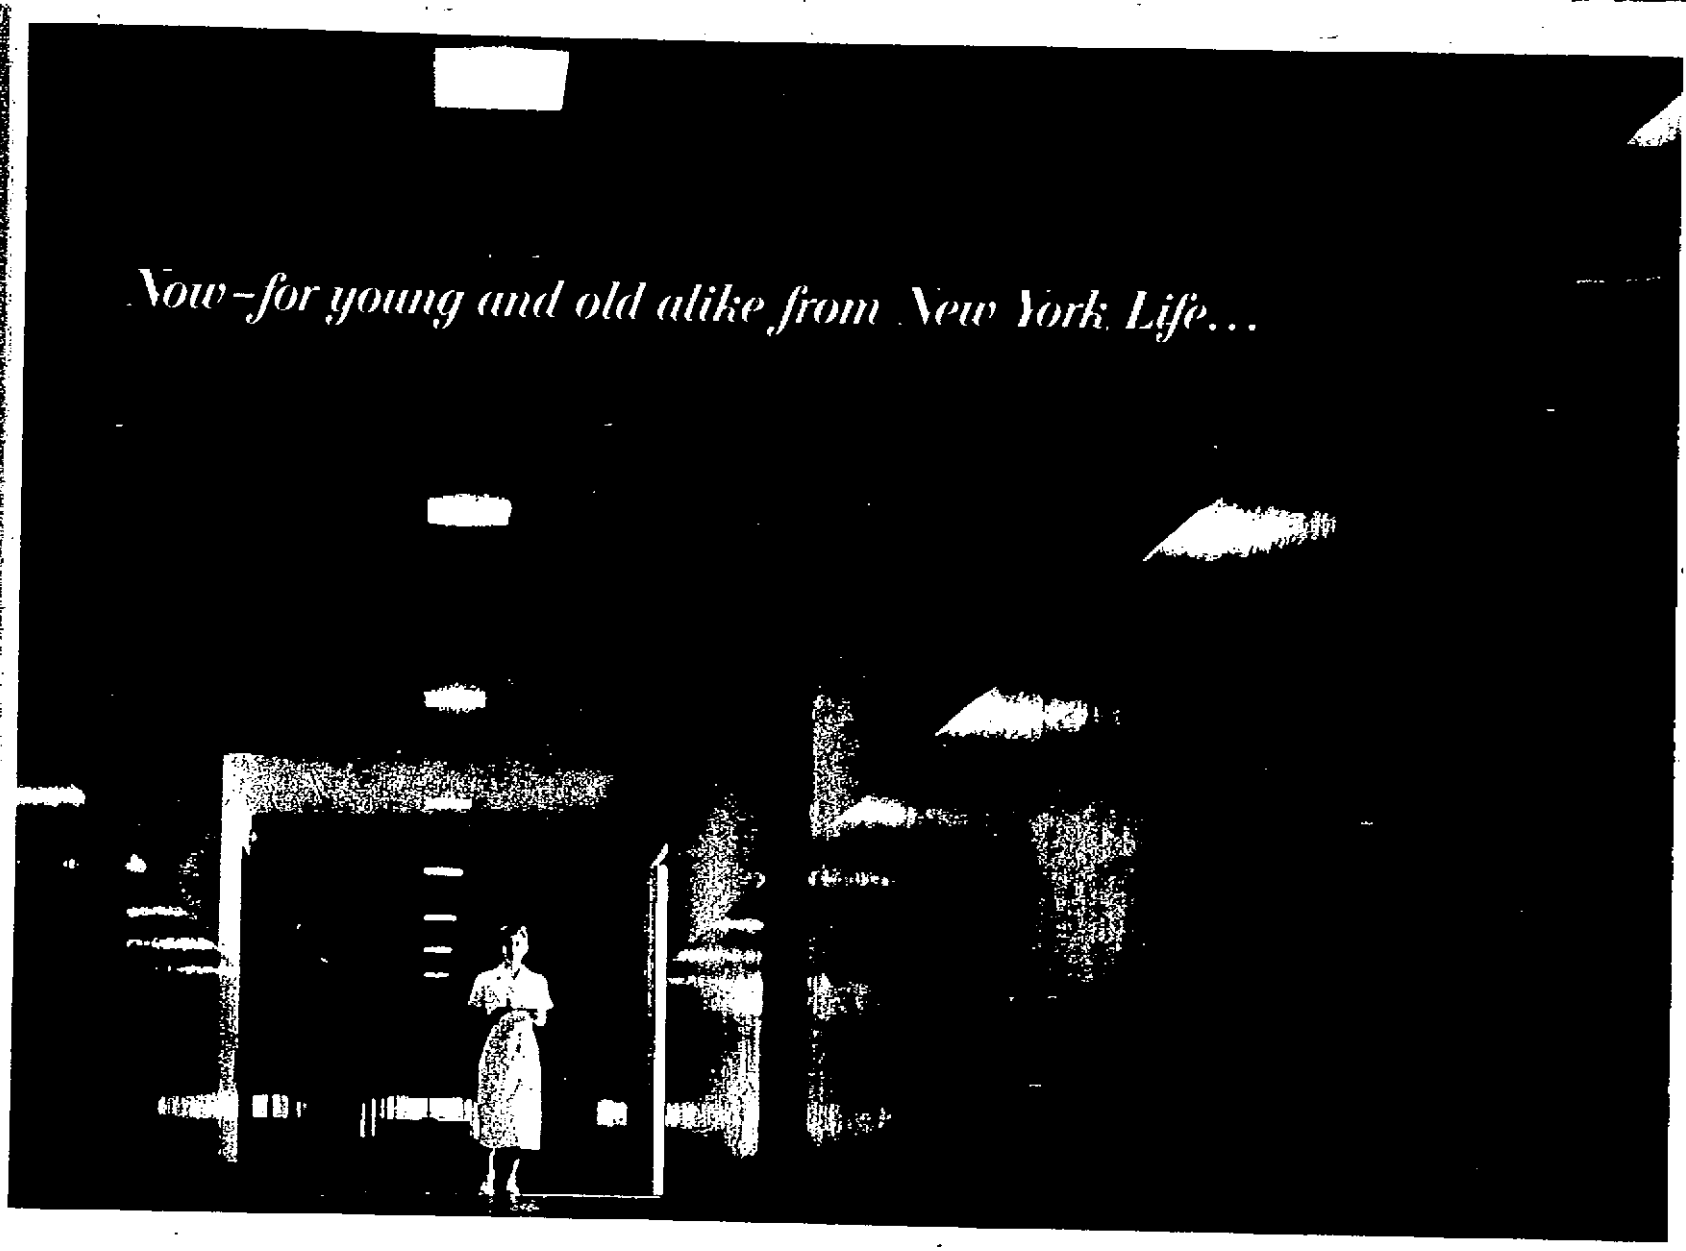

In fact, I think it would be to our advantage to permit the Soviets to build and operate a transmitter near one of our major cities in return for our right to build and operate one, unjammed, near Moscow or Leningrad.

2) Tourism. Old-fashioned tourist rubbernecking could correct some of the worst distortions. No tourist seeing our supermarkets, our traffic jams of late-model cars, our miles upon miles of neat, comfortable homes could swallow the "impoverishment" idea again. I am not confident the Kremlin will permit more than a handful of Russians to visit the U.S., but we should make the offer.

3) Exchange of students and specialists. We may have much to learn as well as teach. Our scientists say the best Soviet physicists and mathematicians are as good as our best. Exchange groups of physicians, astronomers, construction engineers, lithographers, bankers and bakers are long overdue. Even if we were to learn far less technically than our counterparts—and we would—the mutual exchange of information and viewpoints would outweigh that disadvantage.

Today the skilled propagandists of the Soviet Union claim that America maintains the Iron Curtain. They point to our long refusal to let correspondents in Red China, our stiff immigration practices.

The Great Soviet Encyclopaedia is designed to give pro-Communist answers to all questions. We must seek ways to substitute facts. The Soviets have lifted their Iron Curtain a hesitant fraction. Let us welcome the chance to see — and be seen — without the distortion lens of an artificial "world view." ■

USING PICTURES, Arizona's doctor on wheels, James M. Hesser, shows a little girl what German measles "spots" look like. His slow, sympathetic drawl and down-to-earth approach, often with graphic material, win patients over.

MEET AN AMAZING MAN...

The doctor who lives in a wheel chair

BENSON, ARIZ.

On March 1, 1950, Dr. James Mathews Hesser was summoned to treat victims of a highway accident. En route, his car spun out of control and flipped over. His spinal cord was severed. He would never walk again.

But seven months later, the burly physician (a onetime star wrestler at Oklahoma A. & M.) returned to full medical practice — in a wheel chair. Since then, Dr. Hesser (now 50) has worked a grinding 14-to-16-hour-a-day schedule. Last year

IN JUST ONE DAY...YOUR HANDS CAN TELL YOU'VE CHANGED TO NEW PINK LIQUID VEL!

Makes quick work of dishes and pans ...yet no 'detergent burn' to hands!

VEL is the trade-mark of the Colgate-Palmolive Co.

The very first time you touch the dishwater you'll notice the wonderful difference Vel makes. No "slippery" alkali feeling because unlike washday detergents, Vel contains no harsh alkalis to roughen, redden skin. Vel's active ingredient is 100% grease-cutter. No powder, no other liquid is so fast, so economical yet so liquid-pink-mild. It's MarVELous!

NO "DETERGENT BURN!" PROOF: When washday detergents hit water their strong alkalis—meant for clothes—produce heat. The thermometer shows that new lotion-pink liquid Vel doesn't produce heat . . . can't "burn" your hands! It's 100% free of alkalis!

BEFORE SURGERY, Dr. Hesser (r.) gives anesthesia. Handicap or no, he makes his nurses toe the mark.

alone, he performed 200 major operations and treated no less than 30 office patients a day. He is the only doctor within a radius of 50 square miles.

When Dr. Hesser returned to the 20-bed, brown-adobe hospital he owns here, people of Benson (pop. 1,000) and the surrounding ranch country wondered whether a doctor on wheels still could do his job. Dr. Hesser recalls: "The father of the first baby I delivered stayed to watch the whole thing — just to see if his wife would get the proper care from a guy in a wheel chair."

That father left the hospital amazed. More than 100 other couples since have learned the extent of the Benson doctor's skill in the delivery room.

Dr. Hesser's chief assistant is his wife (since February, 1956), Nellie. Ten years ago she came to work at the hospital as a nurse. Today her work schedule is just about as hectic as her husband's.

Reflects the devoted Mrs. Hesser: "Sometimes I think that a doctor who is handicapped can be of more help to people than one who isn't. At least it seems that way with Jim." ■

BETWEEN PATIENTS, Dr. Hesser finds time to pursue a hobby — cooking. Here, he digs into one of his meat pies as Mrs. Hesser beams appreciatively.

TOMORROW'S WEAPON: General White explains supersonic antiaircraft missile to PARADE's Jack Anderson. White replaced Gen. Nathan Twining when latter became chairman of Joint Chiefs.

EXCLUSIVE interview with our new Air Force chief...

Will missiles replace

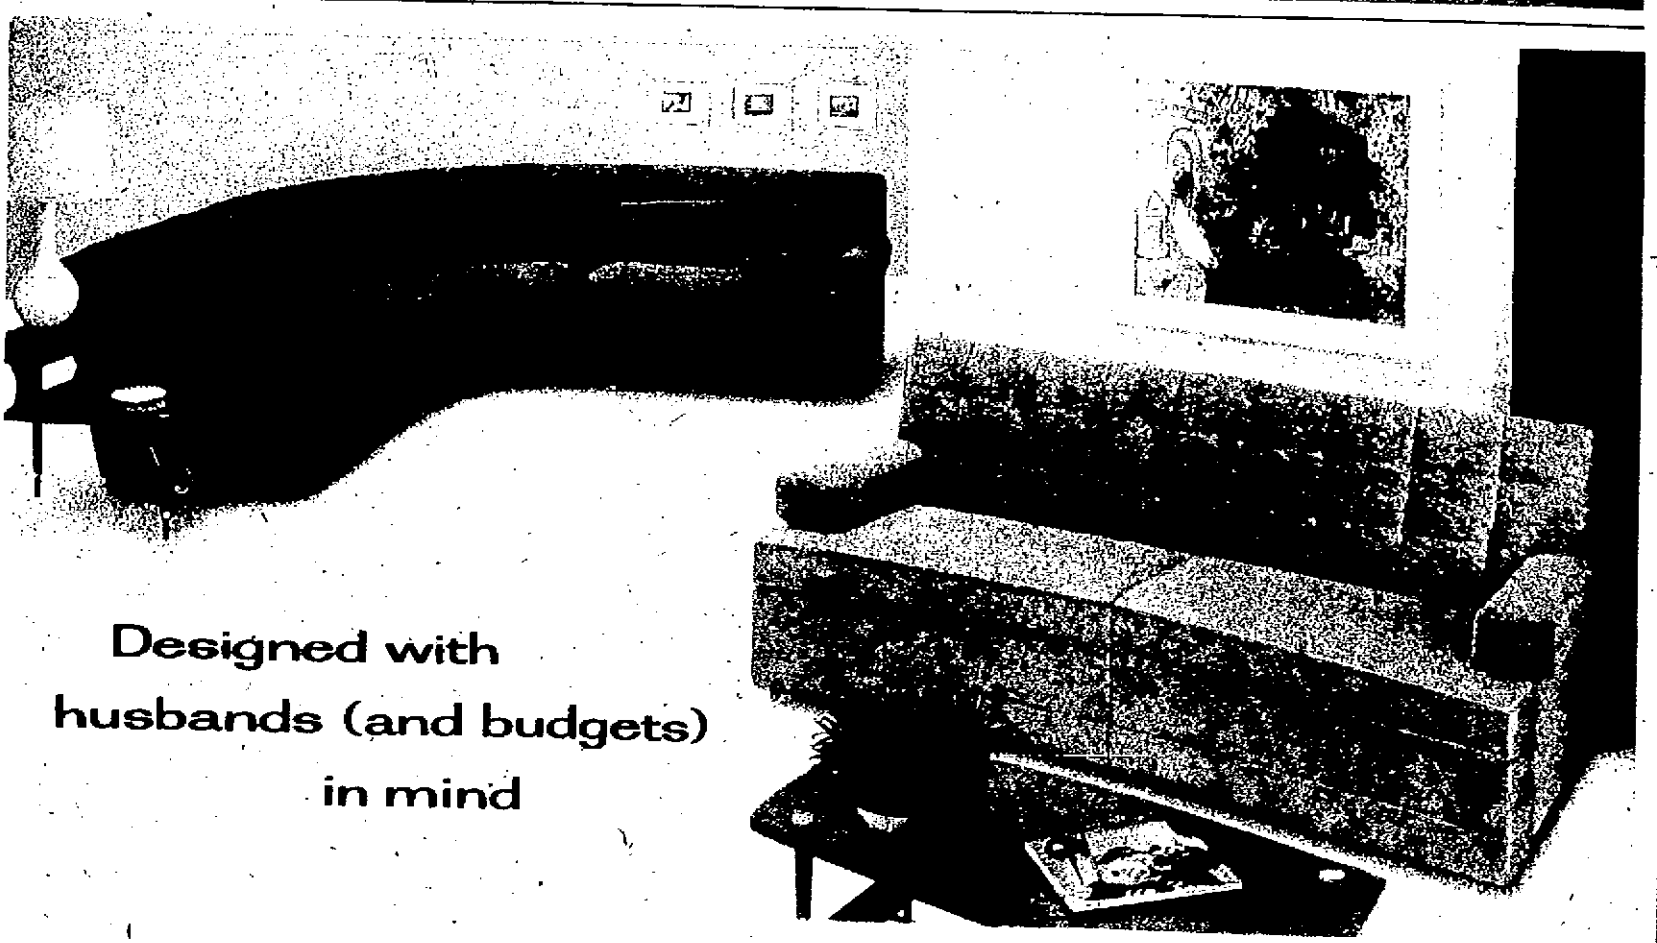

Gen. Thomas White predicts the future of aerial warfare

When President Eisenhower chose a new Air Force chief of staff recently, he selected the service's foremost expert on aerial strategy and the Air Force of the future, Gen. Thomas D. White. White, 56, has served a seven-year apprenticeship as a top Pentagon planner, helped to supervise the development of new and deadly missiles and their gradual introduction into the Air Force arsenal.

Here, in an exclusive interview with PARADE, General White gives his views of the future Air Force, the kind of war it will be prepared for tomorrow — and where it stands today:

Q General White, do you expect guided missiles to replace airplanes as our main military weapon?

A Guided missiles never will replace manned aircraft completely. In the immediate future, they will augment manned aircraft, and ultimately they will take over many operations. But there always will be operational tasks, such as reconnaissance, assessment and precision attacks, that can best be done by manned weapons. We never can develop a "black box" that will replace the human brain airplanes?

in situations that require reasoning ability.

Q Is it true guided-missile units already are replacing fighter-bomber squadrons? Will missiles take over our tactical air arm?

A Our Matador surface-to-surface missile units now are stationed overseas, along with manned aircraft. And we are planning the development of advanced missiles in the 200-1,500 mile range. All these will take over a part of our tactical air tasks eventually.

Q Will antiaircraft missiles become a substitute for interceptor planes?

A Interceptor missiles will first complement and ultimately replace short- and medium-range manned interceptors. The Bomarc, soon to be in operation, will be the first air-defense missile with the range of an interceptor plane and the higher performance of a missile. Combining this with Bomarc's very high rate of fire and quick response gives us a weapon several times more effective than any other available.

Q Will we need intercontinental bombers after the intercontinental missiles are perfected?

A The need naturally will be somewhat reduced. But the first missiles will lack the high degree of accuracy manned weapons now have. The Snark intercontinental missile soon will be operational. The Rascal soon will be available to permit our B-47s to hit targets without penetrating heavy inner defenses. But for some targets, manned bombers will be superior for a long time.

Q What role will the airplane play in the guided-missile age?

A It will continue to be important — for air transportation, supply, "small war" troop support, reconnaissance, patrol. But our future manned aircraft will not all be planes as we know them. They will be manned rockets and space craft.

Q Only 30 years ago, the Army considered the cavalry more important than the Air Force. Is there a similar clique today in the Air Force that would obstruct the advance of the missile?

A To this question I must answer an emphatic No. Despite propaganda, the Air Force has the most progressive missile program of any of the services. But we cannot risk national security by replacing our proven weapons with unproven ones prematurely.

Q Do you believe the three services should continue to share in missile planning and production? Or would it be more efficient to consolidate under one service?

A Each service should manage the development, production and employment of weapons required to accomplish its missions. This is as true for missiles as for any weapon.

Q Has the Army developed a better intermediate missile than the Air Force?

NEW BOMARC interceptor missile heads aloft in Florida test. The Air Force considers this the "hottest" missile yet developed in the U. S.

A It still is too early to tell. But in either case I do not expect their differences will be great.

Q Are Russian missile scientists equal to our own in technology?

A Russia always has had very competent scientific talent. Their recent advancements indicate excellent ability. Their missile technology now should be equal to our own.

Q Which country do you think will develop the first intercontinental missile?

A We believe Russia has made considerable progress, furnishing an increasing threat to the U.S. and the free world. But I would like to emphasize that our basic objective is to create weapons systems which, because of their capability to deliver nuclear firepower, represent a continuing deterrent to would-be aggressors. Thus it is not of overpowering significance which country obtains the first ICBM.

Q Which country is ahead in developing intermediate and shorter-range missiles?

A The Soviet program now appears to be sufficient to attain an arsenal of operational missiles for various purposes. We should recognize the emphasis they must be placing on missiles.

Q Are you satisfied with our missile progress?

A I am very satisfied with the technical progress of our missile programs and feel we are providing for the development of high-performance, quality weapons systems for the future.

Q Do you think we should spend more money on missile research?

A Yes. If we are to assure ourselves of continuing supremacy, an increase in funds may deserve consideration.

Q What can the public do to help win the missile race?

A It should realize the high cost of these new weapons and their importance to national security. It should give maximum support to expenditures for their development. ■

SUMMER-TIME LIVING is easy, as you can gather from this picture of the beauty on today's PARADE cover. But the aftereffects of a suntan — no matter how hard you worked to acquire it — give every woman a problem or two.

GLOWING LOOK still can be achieved with a paling after-summer tan — if proper care is taken. And a beautiful silk evening dress (the gown above is designed by Sophie for Saks Fifth Avenue) deserves a silken skin.

A new 'moisturizing' program will revive summer-baked skin ... for your Autumn Beauty

by GRACE de MUN

Each year, the advent of fall brings with it a problem for every woman: How do I leave behind the effects of a summer in the sun — and do it gracefully? I feel like a million, but sun, wind and water have left my skin dry. My hair has lost its bounce, my hands and feet need smoothing, the pale-pink lipstick that glowed so gloriously with my suntan now looks dim and faded.

There's just one answer: Try a new "moisturizing" beauty program that includes all of you — from head to toe.

The first step in the project — to restore satin-smoothness to your body skin — is to take baths with the added touch of bath oil or essence. (Baths are gentler on summer-dry skin than brisk showers.) And use an after-bath body balm, rubbing the creaminess in. To avoid drying your skin, use talc sparingly.

To give your complexion an after-summer silkening and sparkle, try a creamy liquid cleanser; it's penetrating and practically greaseless. It removes deep-down grime, even old suntan lotion accumulated in pores. Apply it with circular strokes and then tissue off; you'll be amazed at the amount of dirt it takes with it. A liquid moisturizing preparation before making up leaves a velvety-smooth look.

Go to sleep with "nourishment" on your skin — a thorough lubrication with one of the new liquid-thin preparations, wonderfully lightweight but rich in good things for the complexion. (Some now contain bee jelly, humectants, estrogens or flower pollen — plus many softening agents.)

BEAUTY AIDS now are available in so many new and exciting preparations that the selection of a completely "liquid" assortment should offer no difficulties: there's at least one that's been developed for each beauty need.

Your make-up? When the bronze begins to fade, create your own make-up color for each day of your dwindling tan. Mix the colors yourself — as a painter would.

To blend a foundation shade, lighten your deeper summer shade with a few drops of your paler winter shade; blend thoroughly in the palm of your hand with your finger and apply.

To blend face powder: On tissue paper, pour some of your lighter powder on some of the darker shade (use small amounts; you may want a lighter shade the next day), then fan the powders out with a spatula; press and spread. Repeat until all the little streaks are blended in.

Use a new transitional lipstick shade — burnt or coppery red. Be careful of the blued deep-rose colors until you're back to your natural skin tone; they're inclined to look muddy with a tan.

Lots of lotion for hands and feet — and elbows, too — is a "must." Whenever you think of it, rub some on; it removes dead, dry skin, helps restore smoothness.

And most important of all, don't neglect your hair. Get yourself a good haircut for that new permanent (salon- or home-style) you'll undoubtedly need. It will eliminate all dried, split, bleached ends and make it more manageable under new hats.

Luster can be restored to the hair with a rich shampoo and after-shampoo conditioner. Hot air and summer sun strip the hair shafts and make them dull and brittle. But rubbed into the hair and rinsed out with warm water, a good conditioner acts as a "filler" and restores the body necessary to give hair bounce and pliability.

Try a Rinse

Tone down sun bleaching with a rinse; a blue or slate-colored rinse tempers bleaching beautifully. One effective liquid color rinse now on the market has a built-in conditioner. It comes in a plastic squeeze bottle, sprays on, colors and conditions in five minutes.

All in all, girls, you'll want every bit of "moisturizing" you can take. And with the new liquid preparations now available for your beauty program, it's easy to give that healthy after-summer glow a sparkling autumn polish. ■

How to use your

PANEL DISCUSSION on the proper use of leisure time is conducted by Hope Bennett (at table). Members of the group (clockwise): Lenore Karstad, Phyllis Gustafson, John Olson, Richard Solberg, Kenneth Kuhn, Chuck Hammerberg, Jane Westberg, Pamela Bennett and Tim Hay.

spare time

Everyone, these days, is concerned about what to do with leisure time. And everyone is especially concerned about what teenagers do with it — including you and you and you.

Recently I attended a panel discussion on this subject in Chicago. It was held at an international youth conference sponsored by the Augustana Luther League (a religious organization dedicated to bringing about a better Christian world).

Approximately 5,000 delegates from this country and 15 other nations — all between 14 and 21 — attended the four-day conference, and their views on leisure time (only one of the topics debated) are worth noting. So much so, that I decided to conduct a panel discussion myself while there, with just a few of the representatives at the meeting.

First, let's find out exactly what "leisure time" is. Mr. Webster (the dictionary) says: Leisure is "freedom from necessary occupation."

And, to go a little further: What do we do with this freedom? Perhaps this is where our panel can help.

Jane Westberg (16), of Chicago, says: "I don't believe there's any such thing as leisure time. You have to be doing something all the time."

A West Orange, N.J., delegate, Phyllis Gustafson (16), thinks she averages an hour each afternoon and two evenings a week. Her idea of leisure includes Luther League, choir, parties.

Pamela Bennett (16), of Chicago, spoke up: "I like to use my leisure to swim, play tennis and write poetry."

Well, do you agree? Should your leisure be spent constructively, doing something?

One of our panelists doesn't. She believes that even talking can be a favorite pastime — "especially among us girls. There doesn't have to be any positive result. We may be just cutting up, but it's relaxing."

But almost everyone agreed with Ardith Linn of Elliott, Iowa, who thinks leisure is the "time to choose what you want to do most."

There never was any question of what you could do with free time. The list is endless: movies, TV, radio, record playing, extracurricular school activities (athletics, dramatics, glee club, orchestra, cheer-leading), reading, even phone calls.

A Range of Opinions

The question really is: What should you do with leisure time?

John Olson (20) of Glendale, Calif., believes that "what will please God should come first. Time equals life," he says, "and when you waste time, you waste life."

At this point in the discussion, one girl asked if just riding in a car up and down the main street was a proper use of leisure.

Cruising around, John answered, is better than parking for a couple of hours.

Surprisingly, little mention was made of dating. But Tim Hay, of Minneapolis, raised a laugh with: "I go steady — every day and week ends. My leisure time is gone right there."

JANE WESTBERG, of Chicago, is a busy, conscientious Luther League leader. "Leisure time," she says, "would drive me nuts."

KENNETH KUHN, of Vancouver, puts it this way: "My choice is not between homework and TV but homework and Luther League."

PHYLLIS GUSTAFSON, of New Jersey, says she has many hours of leisure time — partly because "I get my homework done first."

RICHARD SOLBERG, of New York, emphasizes that time belongs to God: "As stewards of time, we should use it well."

PAMELA BENNETT, of Chicago, doesn't always agree with the other panel members. She favors "leisurely" use of leisure time.

CHUCK HAMMERBERG, of Denver, thinks the "complexities of life" (studies, dating, eating and sleeping) cut down on spare time.

Everyone needs some free time— time to think and plan is important

John broke in here with the comment that many teenagers date on Friday and Saturday nights and then use the excuse of homework for missing important things.

And Nancy Huffman (18), of New York City, agrees. She adds, though, that she has to plan in order to get any leisure.

Kenneth Kuhn, of Vancouver, B.C., chimed in here: "I take so much time choosing what to do with my leisure time that I don't have any!"

Nancy figures she spends about eight hours a week in extracurricular school activities (she was president of the student council last year, belongs to clubs, takes part in athletics) and social work. All of these things Nancy enjoys, but she doesn't class them as leisure.

"I get my homework out of the way first [she's a B-plus student], and I'm in bed by 10 p.m. [her own choice]. But my leisure [at least three-quarters of an hour a day] is spent lying on my bed daydreaming and listening to music. I really feel that I couldn't live without some time all to myself.

"As a matter of fact," she continues, "I like to talk to myself. One part of me says one thing, another says something else. I solve lots of problems this way. To me, leisure time — my kind — is as necessary as work or organized social life."

I suspect Nancy has the right idea. Time to oneself, time to while away, time to think — or not to think — is important to all of us.

"But nobody can tell you how much time to spend looking out the window or lying on your bed," says Joseph Prendergast, executive director of the National Recreation Association.

"Like Nancy," he says, "everyone needs some absolutely free time. But recreation is the creative way to spend leisure. It can be developing new skills, meeting new people or learning new things.

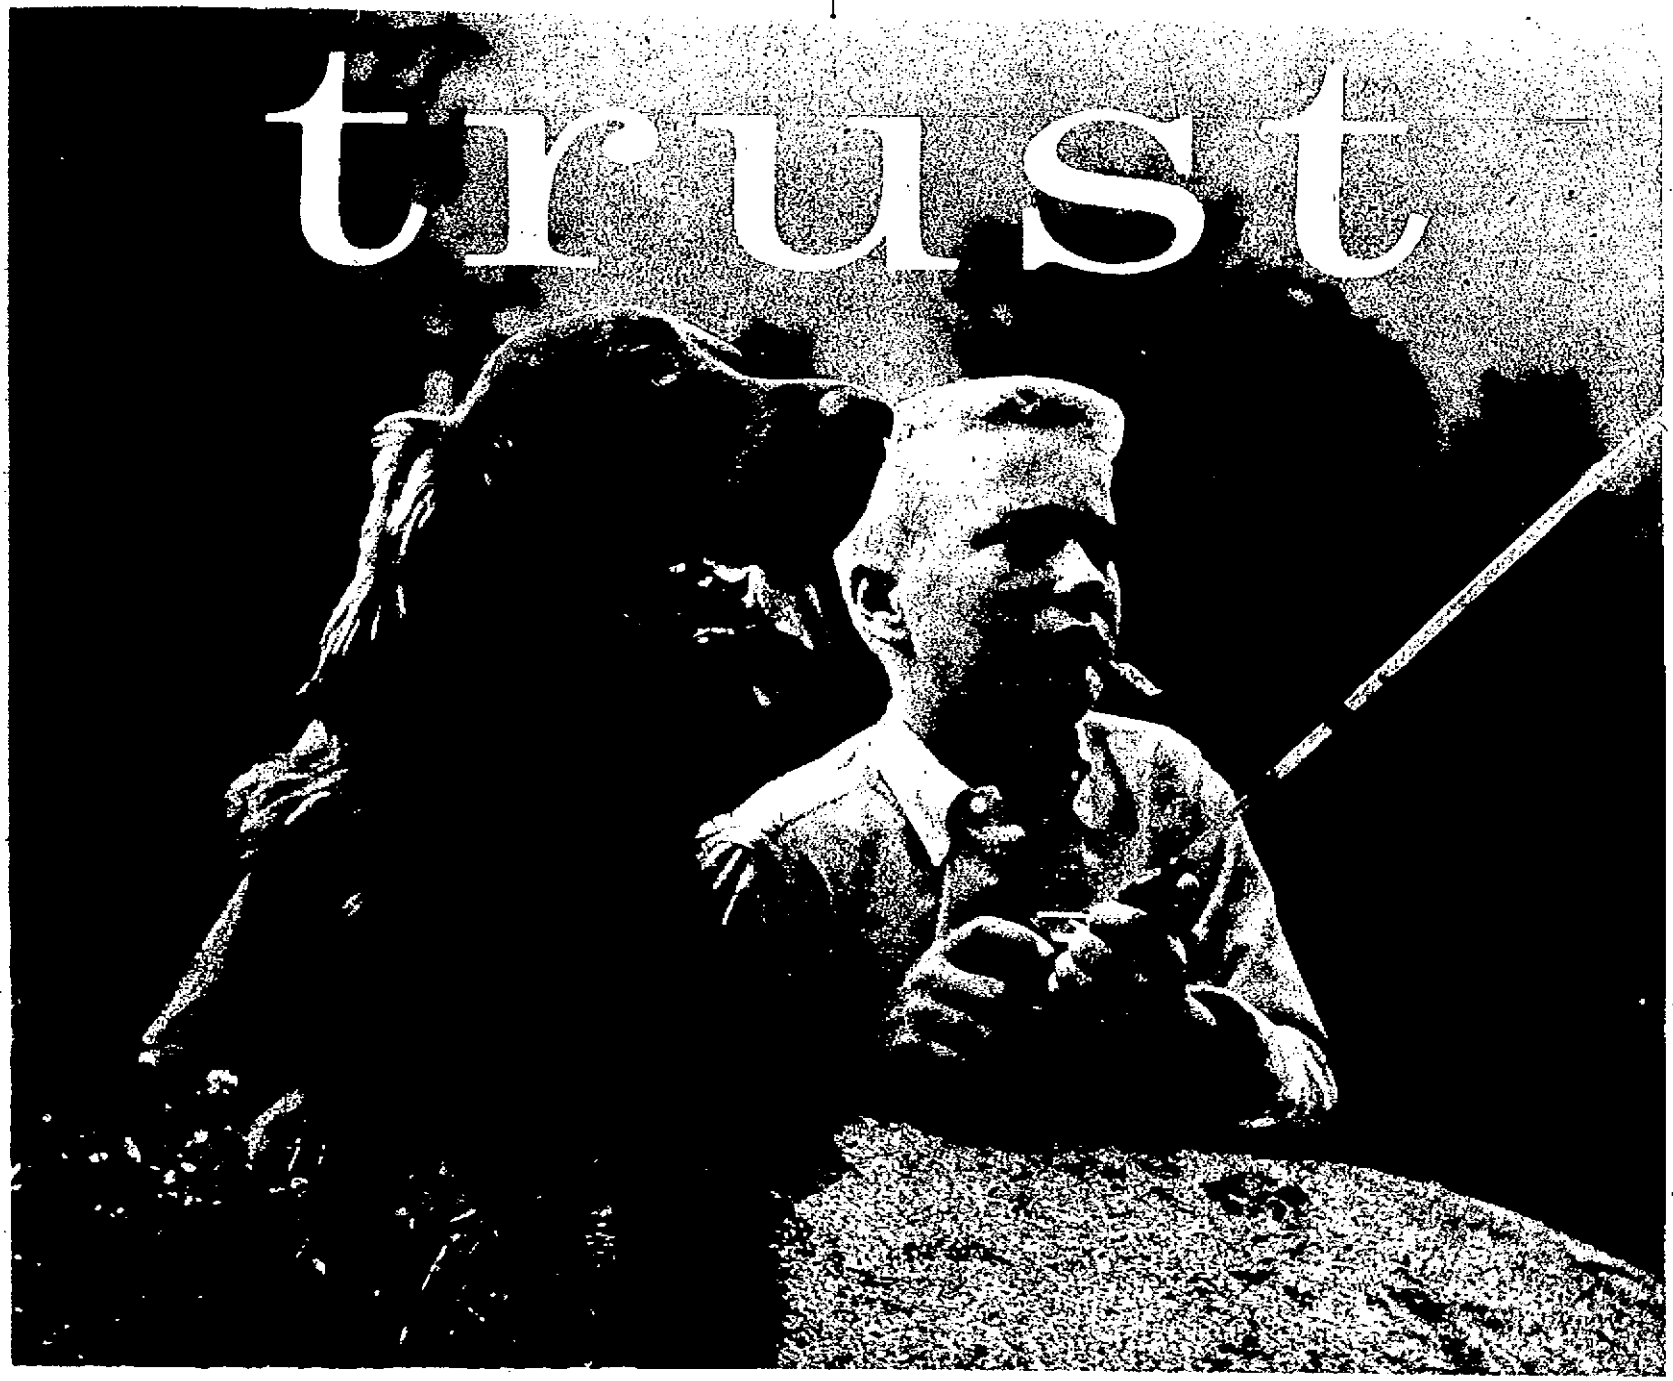

Budget Those Hours

"Teenagers, today, have more leisure time than any generation before them. As adults they'll have still more. Machines are doing more and more of the work people used to do.

"But if you learn to budget your time," Mr. Prendergast concludes, "you'll find you get a bigger bang out of life, and run less risk of feeling empty or shallow."

PROFILE TO PROFILE, Elvis Presley embraces current leading lady Jennifer Holden.

ELVIS MARCHES ON . . .

All this—and money, too

HOLLYWOOD.

The photo above illustrates the latest step in the development of Elvis Presley as a screen personality. From a jukebox sensation with sideburns he has become — at 22, and in just three pictures — a Great Lover. In the recent Loving You he was kissed by three different females. The upcoming Jailhouse Rock has him bussing blonde starlet Jennifer Holden (above).

Like most beginning actors, Elvis finds his leading ladies attractive offscreen as well as on. Some have reciprocated — but not Miss Holden, who is 20. "I'm sorry, but Elvis just doesn't send me," she says. "I guess I'm too old for him."

Still, a kiss is a kiss. And Elvis is doing all right in other ways. Though none of his films has been exactly a critical success, Love Me Tender (the first) has grossed $4 million and the others may well match it. Elvis now receives $250,000 a picture — plus 50 per cent of the net profits. He has two music-publishing companies (which in turn own six songs he sings in Jailhouse Rock). In the past year he has made eight records whose sales topped a million each. Currently he supports a traveling group of 15 aides, secretaries, cousins and friends — and owns two motorcycles and seven cars (including five Cadillacs).

Where, people here ask, will it end? ■

Allstate takes the red tape and high cost out of automobile insurance

Customer savings of more than 20% are commonplace

Founded by Sears,
Allstate pioneered a new approach to insurance that has won nearly four million friends

Allstate has replaced the horse-and-buggy selling methods dear to the insurance business with the big volume, low-overhead, quality-for-less merchandising concept pioneered by Sears. Boiled down, it's this simple:

Cut red tape in paying claims . . . print policies in large type and plain language so you know what you're buying . . . make it easy to buy insurance in a relaxed manner.

How much can you save?

Allstate policyholders save different amounts, depending on different risk conditions and on the state where they live. The most common saving is 22% (some policyholders save as much as 38%) from rates charged by most other companies.

How can Allstate do it?

Nearly $1 in every $4 spent with most companies goes to pay selling costs instead of to buy protection. By using modern selling methods to reduce selling costs, Allstate is able to offer lower rates, better value.

Allstate cuts red tape to pay claims faster

Cutting the red tape.
Allstate has more than 3,950 full-time claims expediters in the United States and Canada. Help is always as near as the nearest phone. Allstate's claims experts have the authority to pay claims "on the spot" without any red-tape delays for home office approval.

Easy-to-understand policies.
Allstate prints policies in readable-size type, in understandable language. Illustrations help spell everything out so you know exactly what you're buying.

You don't need glasses to read an Allstate policy

Buy the relaxed, low-pressure way. You can buy Allstate insurance over the counter in a Sears store, or at an Allstate Insurance Center. If you prefer, an Allstater will call at your home. Look for the Allstate listing in the Yellow Pages of your phone book. In every case, you get the help of a professional, licensed Agent.

Today, with automobile insurance costs rising, wouldn't it be wise for you to compare values? Remember, until you have the Allstate facts, you don't have all the facts about auto insurance.

You can buy over the counter at Sears, at Allstate Insurance Centers, or in your own home

This modern kind of automobile insurance brings these surprising benefits:

1. Allstate may save you up to 38%.
2. Allstate cuts red tape to pay claims faster.
3. An Allstate policy is easy to read and understand.
4. Allstate makes it easy for you to buy the convenient low-pressure way.

What's your hospitality IQ?

by ELSA BRANDEN

WHEN thoughtless dinner guests come late, do you tell them off?

The art of hospitality means a lot more than knowing about knives and forks or just being convivial. Knowing how to make guests feel "at home" often calls for tact, patience and the wisdom of Solomon. Do you rate as the perfect host or hostess? Take the quiz below and find out. (You may get an idea of how you fare as a guest, too.)

1 You're throwing a dinner party for friends of mixed tastes. Some like music, art and books; others prefer baseball and gin rummy. Is it a good idea to invite guests of such different interests and backgrounds?

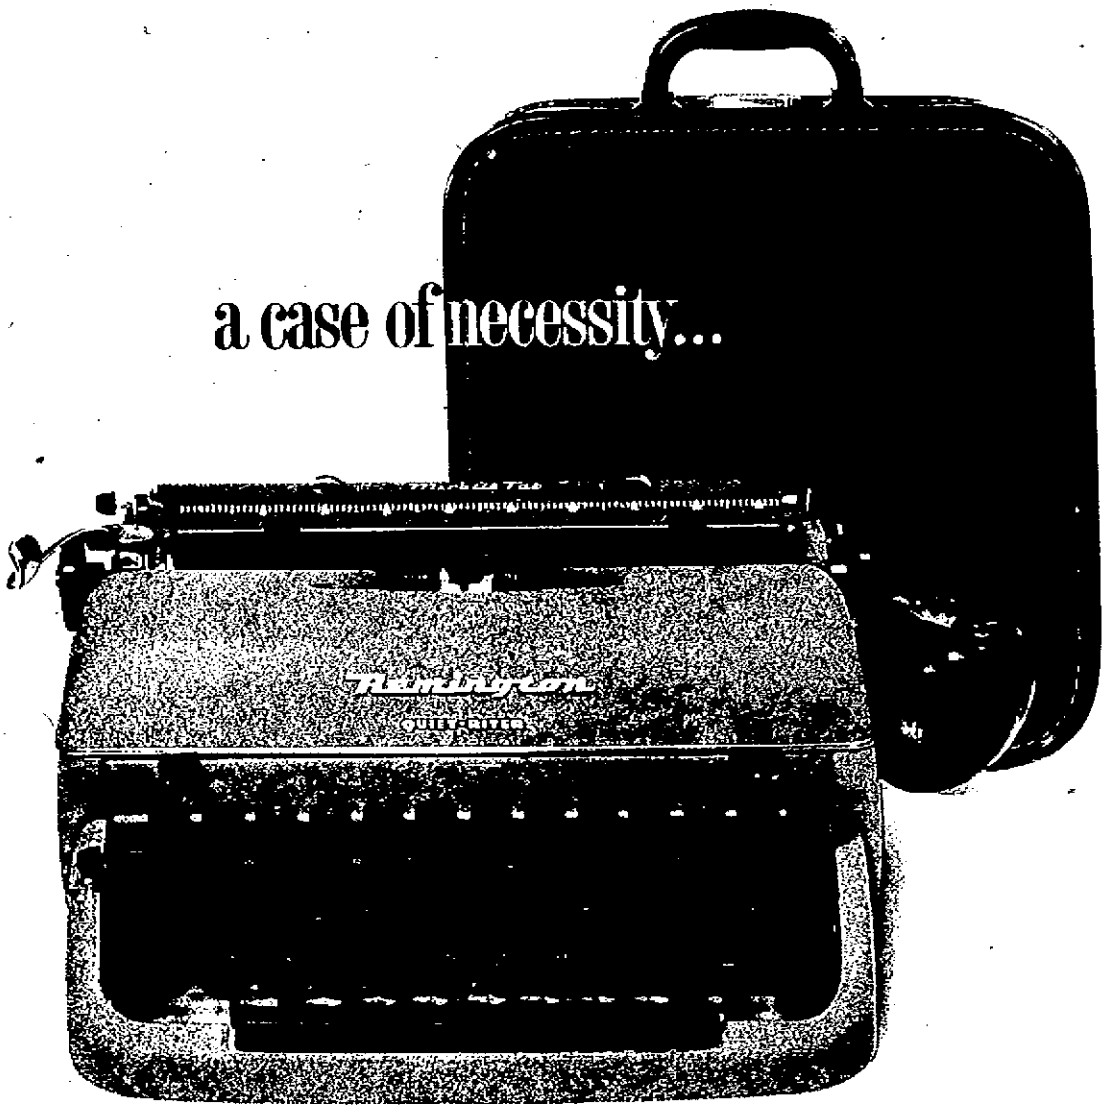

2 Your husband (or wife) makes a remark that annoys you. Before you know it, you're having a family tiff. You should: a) ask your guests to decide who is right; b) retreat, letting your spouse "save face" before your friends; c) pass the whole thing off as a joke.

3 A careless chain smoker burns a hole in your best antimacassar. You should: a) pass over the incident lightly; b) let him know how you feel, so that he will be more careful in the future; c) accept his offer to replace it.

4 After greeting your guests and introducing everyone, you should: a) take a back seat and let your guests do all the talking; b) lead the conversation.

5 One of your guests is a shy young lady who sits forlornly by herself. You should: a) keep her company for a while; b) draw her into the group in spite of herself; c) leave her alone to get over it.

6 Believing in some kind of planned entertainment, your wisest course is to: a) show home movies of your summer trip; b) play records on your hi-fi set; c) urge your guests to take part in some parlor game or watch television; d) make various suggestions, but drop them if they do not meet with general enthusiasm.

7 Two of your good friends have quarreled, and you are anxious to see them reconciled. Before inviting them to your home, you decide: a) not to interfere between them; b) to bring them together as if by a chance meeting; c) to consult them first, making sure they are willing to meet each other.

8 You've announced an informal party. However, as host and hostess, you feel you should: a) "dress up" for the occasion; b) play down your appearance, dressing simply.

9 One of your guests is disagreeable and argumentative, antagonizing everyone. You should: a) ignore him, hoping the others will, too; b) steer the conversation into other channels; c) attempt to put him in his place.

10 Your dinner party starts at 7. Everyone is more or less punctual, except one couple who arrive at the tail end of the meal. You should: a) reprimand them; b) accept their rudeness with good grace.

11 The dessert is so terrific that a guest asks for the recipe. You'd like to keep it a secret, so you: a) politely refuse; b) write it out grudgingly; c) give the wrong ingredients or measurements; d) promise it for later, then conveniently "forget about it."

12 One of your guests brings a gift; another arrives empty-handed. You should: a) make a fuss over the gift at the risk of causing discomfort to the other person; b) open the gift and express your appreciation unobtrusively, following it up with a "thank-you" note next day; c) express thanks and leave the gift unopened until later.

13 Your party is in a public restaurant. The food and service are disappointing. You should: a) voice your criticism in front of your guests; b) make the best of a bad bargain.

14 An old friend blows into town, calls you for a place to stay. You have no room, so you: a) explain your predicament and suggest a good hotel; b) offer your own bedroom while you take the living-room couch for the night; c) keep your bedroom and offer the couch.

15 Your child starts acting up in company. You should: a) scold him and order him to his room; b)apologize for him and let it go at that, postponing punishment until later; c) throw up your hands and hope for the best.

ANSWERS

1 No. Guests with widely divergent interests usually grope for small talk, wind up tense and uncomfortable.

2 b) Discretion is the better part of valor. Forcing guests to witness a family spat makes them wish they were with anyone but you.

3 a) Maintaining poise in the face of small mishaps marks you a social hero.

4 b) Do it deftly— but don't monopolize the conversation.

5 b) Encourage her to take part in festivities — perhaps by asking her help in passing refreshments. She'll soon be no longer outside looking in.

6 d) Just because you like to play cards, charades, scrabble or watch TV, is no reason to inflict it upon visitors against their wishes.

7 c) This is the safest way; otherwise, you might run into an awkward situation which could result in three people's not being on speaking terms.

8 b) Don't try to outmatch your guests in the clothing department — especially by such sandbagging tactics as the "come as you are" invitation. It's bad manners to be too conspicuous in dress, anyway.

9 b) Try to steer the conversation into less controversial channels. If that fails, try luring this pesty caller into a quiet corner where he won't bother other guests.

10 b) Be gracious, even if it hurts. But make a mental note not to ask them again, or else set the dinner hour much earlier for them than for the others.

11 d) The "forgotten" promise is the tactful way out of the situation. Of course, if your guest keeps insisting, you'll have to come across.

12 b) The donor of a gift likes to receive some gesture of appreciation; on the other hand, avoid being overeffusive. A situation like this should be handled with extreme tact so that the giftless caller is spared embarrassment.

13 b) Your objections will only embarrass your guests.

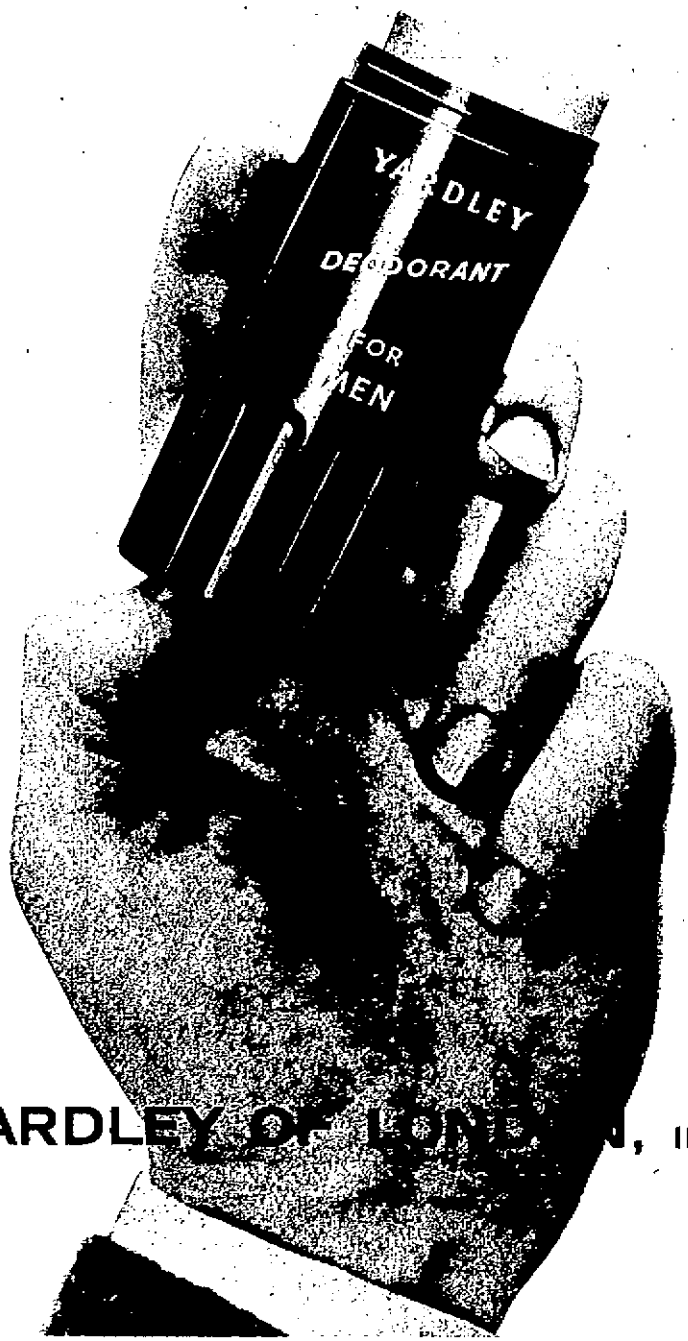

14 a) You might suggest that an advance notice of your friend's next visit might make it possible for you to make better arrangements.

15 b) If your guests have children of their own, they will understand the situation and readily accept it. Even if they haven't, they will treat it as a common, all-too-familiar incident.

SCORING: Allow one point for each correct answer. A score of 8 is average. If you score between 9 and 12 you have the makings of a social leader; 13 or more, the polish and suavity of an English butler. Anything below 5 gives your wife (or husband) the right to call you coarse and vulgar — even though you say you're just unpretentious. But don't fight about it, folks — especially in front of your guests. ■

Teen-Agers Are Good Drivers Juvenile Expert Says

By HARRY FULTON

The traffic division director of the Long Beach Juvenile Bureau Saturday described most teen-agers between 16 and 18 as "good drivers" and appealed to the public to stop identifying them with reckless driving.

Juvenile Officer C. E. Richie, who has directed the juvenile traffic division here for the past six years, declared that the 16-18 year olds are "not guilty" of the public impression that all teen-agers are reckless drivers.

"Police records indicate that youths between 16 and 18 are relatively careful drivers," said Richie. "Reckless driving is prevalent in the age group 18-25, but we should give these younger drivers the credit they deserve."

To emphasize the outstanding record of safety compiled here by juvenile drivers, Richie pointed out that in the past year and one-half not a single traffic death has been caused by a youth between 16 and 18.

In that same period of time, adults have slaughtered 74 persons on the local highways.

"WE SHOULD TAKE a more positive approach with this teen-age group," said Richie. "For years we have been including these youngsters in a 16-25 age bracket and telling them what stinkers they are as drivers. That's like beating a mule over the head when it balks. It's not going to get us anywhere. It just stirs up a feeling of resentment in younger people against adults.

"I have a lot of faith in these youngsters. We should recognize them as good drivers and allow them to take pride in their accomplishments. If we do this, they will be much more cooperative with law enforcement authorities as they grow older."

James B. Worsham, manager of the Long Beach Safety Council, said national safety records also indicate that 16-18 year olds are careful drivers.

"One thing these juveniles need is a pat on the back occasionally instead of wholesale condemnation for what an older group does," he said.

RICHIE, THE JUVENILE TRAFFIC OFFICER, twice each week holds interviews with 16-18 year olds who have been issued citations for traffic violations. Parents are required to appear with their offspring, and they receive a briefing as to parental responsibility while the young drivers are warned of possible loss of driving privileges and advised in the ways of safe driving.

These juvenile traffic division interrogations are held each Wednesday and Friday from 2 to 7 p.m. at the City Health Center. They are informal and strictly private.

In most instances, Officer Richie is able to straighten out the juvenile offender without having to send the young driver to juvenile court. With parental consent—and most parents give it readily—he is able to suspend a youngster's license for a short period of time, and this time is used as a period of concentration on the value of safe driving. Serious traffic offenses and habitual offenders are referred to juvenile court for action, however.

Richie is warm in his praise of the driver education programs now being conducted in schools at the high school level, and he regards his work as a continuation of this program. He also feels that drag strip operations, such as the one conducted by the Lions Club on 223rd St. just east of Alameda Blvd., provide a useful service by permitting youngsters to "get speed out of their system" with a maximum of safety.

LAST YEAR 3,830 16-18 year-old drivers were issued citations in Long Beach. Speeding was the biggest cause, with 1,126 cases reported. Drivers license violations came next, 958, and then came defective mufflers, 660; defective lights, 578; signal violations, 470; no license, 243; boulevard stop violations, 228. Of the total speeding violations, only 180 cases involved "speed contests," so often associated with juveniles. Violations at night exceeded those by day by almost 3 to 1, and boys outnumbered girls as traffic offenders by about 16-1.

Richie believes that one important reason why drivers in the 18-25 year group have such bad records is because they are not given credit for good driving conduct when they are 16-18 years old.

When they turn 18 and graduate from high school, they break away from close parental supervision, he observes; they are suddenly treated like adults, and they are unjustly lumped into a driving group with a bad reputation.

"The incentive to be careful drivers just isn't there," said Richie. "You get the impression that a teen-ager is something to avoid, whereas 95 per cent of them are darned good kids. It's folly to condemn them."

PENTAGON ADMITS HUGE WASTE

SOME WITHOUT PASSPORTS

Ranks of Youths Split in China

LONDON (AP)—A split in the ranks of 41 Americans visiting Red China was reported by the British news agency Reuters Saturday. It said the delegation which went to Peiping from the Moscow youth festival had broken up into leftists and rightists, with some of the group remaining neutral.

The break erupted shortly after the Americans pulled into the Peiping railroad station after an eight-day trip from Moscow.

Shelby Tucker, 22-year-old former Yale student from Pass Christian, Miss., said it happened when he and other so-called rightists refused to turn over their passports to the Chinese.

Tucker, who said he made the trip to Peiping to "balance out the lunatic fringe" among the Americans, told Reuters the Chinese made less fuss about their refusal than the American leftists.

* * * *

HE SAID THE Chinese were willing to let the rightists off the train but said they would look at the passports when the group reached their hotel.

But, said Tucker, the leftists attempted to force the dissenters to hand over the passports and later subjected them to what he called "a struggle and criticism meeting."

The Reuters dispatch quoted one of the neutrals in the group as saying relations between the opposing factions were "pretty strained." The neutral quoted one of the leftists, identified as Jerry Fiderer of Brooklyn, as having told the group, "Let's not criticize the Communist Party in the presence of foreigners" and the rightists. Delegates from 11 other nations are making the tour.

U.S. Expert, 2 Kings in Syria Huddle

ISTANBUL, Turkey (UP)—U.S. diplomatic troubleshooter Loy Henderson Saturday began conferring with Syria's worried neighbors on ways to counter the Syrian drift into the Soviet orbit.

Henderson, a Middle Eastern affairs expert and former U. S. ambassador to Iran, rushed directly from his plane to meetings with Turkish officials.

Later he conferred here with Kings Feisal of Iraq and Hussein of Jordan, both of whom preceded him to Turkey.

Turkish sources said Henderson's discussions with Turkish leaders also would be concerned with how far developments in Syria could be expected to go and what threat they posed to Middle Eastern security.

* * * *

TURKEY, A NATO and Baghdad Pact member already flanked by Russia and Red Bulgaria, feared it would be enclosed on three sides by potentially hostile nations if the Communist coup in the Syrian army extended to the Syrian political system.

More Russians were flying to Damascus, the Syrian capital, where press dispatches Friday said thousands of Soviet technicians had been pouring into the country during the last eight months.

Twenty-seven Russian civilians, including wives and children, stopped over in Athens Saturday en route to Damascus from Sofia, Bulgaria. The Athens press described the men as "Russian experts."

In Moscow, the Soviet press continued to stir troubled waters. A Tass News Agency report from Washington accused the United States of plotting forceful intervention in Syria.

Profs Prove You Can't Fool Bats With Blindfolds

MADISON, Wis. (UP) — Two University of Wisconsin scientists learned Saturday you can't fool a bat with a blindfold.

H. C. Muller and J. T. Ehlen Jr. took 484 bats, 25 of them wearing blindfolds, from their home in an abandoned mine and released them five to 25 miles away.

The blindfolded bats returned to the mine just as fast as their unhandicapped brethren, at speeds up to 19 miles an hour, the scientists said.

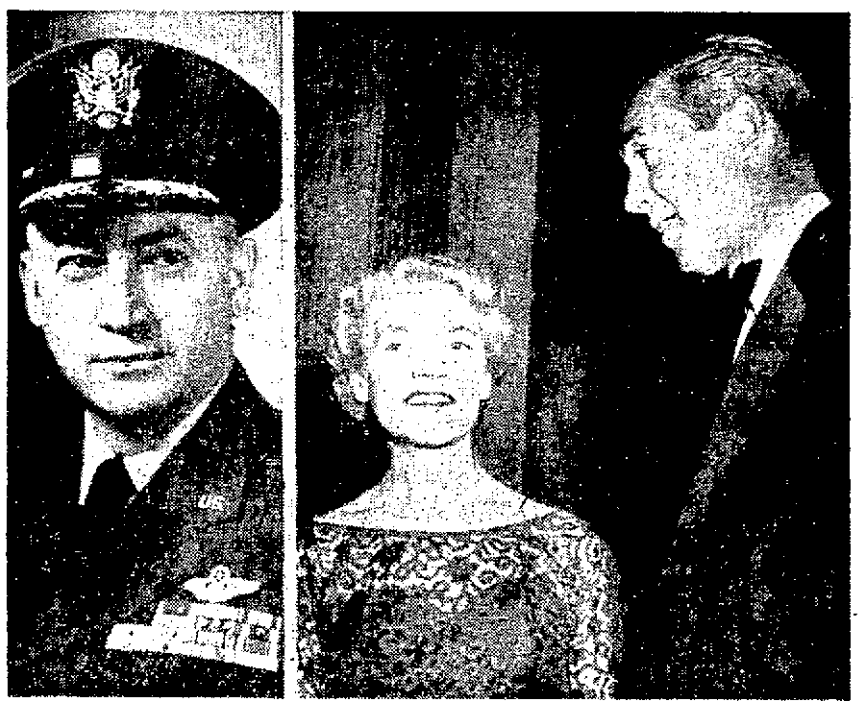

L.A.C. Says: Is It Typical?

The Moscow Radio told the Russian people that the Confidential magazine libel trial was typical of the morals of the American people. The announcer described Confidential and told of how its operatives peeked in windows and through keyholes to report on the way American movie stars and other prominent people spent their lives. It was entertaining listening to the Russians, who usually hear only of the five-year plans and Communist doctrines.

We may discount what the Russians say. But it is disgusting to realize a large part of the world feels much the same about us. It is disturbing to realize so many Americans seem to find such rotten literature

'Lies' on Stewart Scored

PRINCIPALS IN PROMOTION ROW

Sen. Margaret Chase Smith (R-Maine), shown with actor James Stewart in 1955, has accused Air Force Lt. Gen. Emmett O'Donnell Jr. (left) of misrepresentation and "extensive false testimony" in an effort to promote Stewart to reserve brigadier general in the Air Force. The accusations appeared Saturday in the Congressional Record.—(AP Wirephoto)

Solon Blasts at General in Nomination of Actor

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Margaret Chase Smith (R-Maine) Saturday accused Air Force Lt. Gen. Emmett O'Donnell Jr. of "extensive false testimony" in his effort to win approval of a reserve general's star for movie actor Jimmy Stewart.

The only woman senator also charged that O'Donnell had tried to strike from the Senate Armed Services hearing record "this false testimony." The committee blocked Stewart's promotion from colonel to brigadier general, mostly because of Mrs. Smith's efforts.

O'Donnell told a reporter Mrs. Smith's statement caught him "completely cold" and he would not want to comment until he had studied it. However, the general added that he certainly had not intentionally given any false testimony.

* * * *

AS FOR THE senator's charge that he tried to strike his testimony from the record, O'Donnell said the committee sent him the record for correction as is customary in such congressional proceedings. He said there were a few minor errors which he corrected and which he said almost always crop up in several hours of off-the-cuff testimony.

O'Donnell said he did not seek to change "one iota" of his basic testimony.

Mrs. Smith's sharp blasts at O'Donnell appeared in the Congressional Record. The Senate Friday confirmed nine reserve generals but not Stewart or another man blocked in committee.

* * * *

SENATOR Smith said she was inserting in the record the same statement she made at the closed-door committee session because "the member of the committee who opposed me in this matter expressed his feeling that fairness to all parties concerned required that my statement to the committee should be printed and made public."

Panel Claims Miller Tried to Join Reds

WASHINGTON (UP)—The House Committee on Un-American Activities charged Saturday that playwright Arthur Miller, husband of blonde film star Marilyn Monroe, applied for Communist Party membership in 1943.

Miller immediately denied it.

He accused the House group of attempting to influence a court now considering his appeal from a contempt of Congress conviction initiated by the same committee.

The committee published in an official report a photostatic copy of an application for membership by "A. Miller, 18 Schermerhorn St., Brooklyn, N. Y., writer." The committee said A. Miller was the playwright and that he lived at that address during part of World War II.

Miller, in a statement issued through his attorney, said he had never filed an application and that the committee's document is "either a forgery or was done unknown to me."

The photostatic copy released by the committee was not signed and had no space for the applicant's signature.

"The committee has brought forth one more rehash of the material gone into at my public hearing," Miller said.

"I testified then and I repeat it now—that I never filed an application for membership in the Communist Party in 1943 or at any other time."

Multi-Million Pile-Up of Excess Arms

Report Confirms Charges Made by McClellan Probe

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Defense Department acknowledged Saturday that millions of dollars worth of unneeded supplies and equipment were allowed to pile up in northeast air command bases, and that some of the material went to waste.

It said corrective action has been taken by both Air Force and Army commanders, and a special Pentagon policy is being developed for the handling of surplus supplies in remote areas.

The department's statement was issued by Perkins McGuire, assistant secretary of defense for supply and logistics. It was in response to a report by Chairman McClellan (D-Ark) of the Senate Investigations Subcommittee Friday night that the Senate group was investigating evidence of waste and mismanagement at air bases in Newfoundland, Labrador and Greenland.

* * * *

McGUIRE SAID military investigators had confirmed the subcommittee's charges of supply irregularities. He said more than six million dollars worth of excess supplies had been returned to the United States from Harmon Air Force Base, Newfoundland, leaving 14 million dollars worth still to be sent back.

McClellan said still more supplies worth "many millions of dollars" were being salvaged at the various bases.

McGuire, commenting on one incident cited by McClellan, said personnel of the 823rd Aviation Engineer Battalion, an Army unit operating with the Air Force, "buried about $33,000 worth of scrap, used and unused parts, or supplies and equipment."

* * * *

"THESE HAVE BEEN recovered and returned to the supply system, with resultant loss estimated at about $6,300," Perkins said.

McClellan said the "personnel" involved was an unidentified warrant officer.

McGuire said Pentagon investigators underscored "procedures, circumstances and conditions" which led to mismanagement and improper disposal

CHURCH CONVERTING PUB

Saints Welcomed Now Into Garden of Allah

The Garden of Allah moved a step in that direction Saturday. It was purchased by the First Baptist Church of Seal Beach for $40,000.

The Church plans, of course, some changes in the structure, which will reopen about September with an entire new cast.

For example, the bandstand upon which PeeWee Hunt once blared through "When the Saints Come Marching In" will be converted to a choir loft, and the saints may come marching in, after all.

In converting the Garden of Allah into Allah's garden, the Rev. Mr. Guy Newton, pastor of the purchasing church, has run into a unique problem.

The First Baptist Church now owns a first class bar. Horseshoe type, with all sorts of modern fine kitchen fixtures, a new cork ceiling and some rugs.

"We appreciate that," the pastor said, "they'll come in handy."

Past patrons of the Garden will never recognize the place, the Rev. Mr. Newton says. The entire interior will be changed into an auditorium and Sunday School classrooms.

The First Baptist Church of Seal Beach, its pastor reveals, is used to "converting" its home.

"Our present site in Seal Beach was once occupied by a place of gambling and prostitution," he reports.

"It's for sale," Mr. Newton announced Friday. "Fellow has already offered us $1,000 for it, but we think it might be worth more."

In all, the Garden of Allah covers four lots on Pacific Coast Highway in Seal Beach, and it has been the scene of some alleged gambling, some alleged dancing and some alleged music.

Bopsters and beboppers, Dixielanders and dime-a-dancers have pounded its dance floor in the past 15 years. In recent years the Garden of Allah declined noticeably as an Orange County "hot spot" and owner after owner failed to restore its appeal to night-clubbers.

Molders Strike Ends

OAKLAND (UP)—The Molders Union and the General Metal Corp. Saturday reached a tentative agreement to end the strike that has idled 800 workers since July 30. It includes 12 to 16½ cents hourly wage increase for the first year and nine to 12 cents for the second year and is retroactive to July 29.

Climber, Leg Hurt, Caught on Icy Ledge

LONGMIRE, Mt. Rainier National Park, Wash. (AP)—A hiker en route to the summit of Mt. Rainier, slipped over the icy lip of a crevasse Saturday and lay trapped on a ledge about 12 feet below the surface of a glacier.

The hiker, George Sainsbury, of Bremerton, was believed to have suffered a broken leg.

Word of the accident was brought here hours later by one of his hiking companions, Arnold Bloomer, also of Bremerton.

An eight-man rescue party led by Bloomer set out for the site on Kautz Glacier at about the 8,000-foot level. Another team left several hours later.

Church Forbids Catholics in 3 States to Work or Shop Sundays

PORTLAND, Ore. (UP)—Roman Catholics are forbidden to work, conduct business or go shopping on Sundays in Oregon, Idaho and Montana.

The restriction, issued in a pastoral letter from Archbishop Edward D. Howard, becomes effective Sept. 1, the day the letter is to be read at masses in all churches throughout the three-state province.

* * * *

A PASTORAL letter, directed to the clergy and members, is binding in conscience for Catholics and violations become a matter for confession, church officials said.

Archbishop Howard's letter was made public here Saturday by the chancery office. It was signed by the archbishop as head of the province and by Bishops Joseph M. Gilmore of Helena, William J. Condon of Great Falls, James J. Byrne of Boise and Francis P. Leipzig of Baker, Ore.

ARCHBISHOP HOWARD
He Issued Order

"Sunday," the pastoral letter says, "is our weekly commemoration of the resurrection of Christ. . . ." and it adds that the church commands for Sunday observance: "First, assisting at holy mass; second, abstaining from unnecessary servile work."

The only exceptions to the ban will be for "business services which are so necessary for the common good that they may be rendered legitimately on Sundays." Even then, the pastoral letter continues, those working must have an opportunity to attend mass.

* * * *

BUSINESSMEN MAY not consider what the effect of competition may be.

The letter asks:

"Since others conduct businesses on Sunday and thereby in our competitive economy put Catholic businessmen at a disadvantage, may not these latter do business also on Sunday?"

And it answers:

"They may not."

so entertaining. It is claimed the magazine has over 3 million readers. Certainly the American people have been given great quantities of the dirt through their newspapers.

It is not only Confidential that impresses other people with our lack of morals. They remember the great television show put on by Senator Kefauver when he went from city to city disclosing the terrible gangster control of some of those cities. Because of those disclosures some of our best-known national characters left the country to live in Mexico. There were few prosecutions because it would have embarrassed too many public officials who had allowed the hoodlums to operate in their cities.

Only a week ago it was disclosed that a fourth of the liquor consumed in this country was sold by bootleggers. Men in high places were found to be stealing taxpayers' money through freeway contracts in Pennsylvania. We are loud in telling other people of this country being a nation where equality for all is assured. But our Congress is deadlocked over a bill to give such rights to colored people.

At the same time the Senate hearing is disclosing how labor racketeers pass out union charters as they would cigars. Some of the charters are given to the worst criminal element in the nation. Union leaders are proven to have used union funds to finance race horse stables. Swanky homes are purchased for leaders with union funds and those same leaders use union funds for personal investments.

We may pass over what Moscow says about us. But we cannot escape the fact that we have given good reason for asking if this is typical of the American people. We know it is not typical of average Americans. But they are responsible for it because of their apathy. They are more interested in reading of scandals than they are in voting. They fail to demand decency in government.

None of this rottenness could exist if the American people took enough interest to make their wishes known by telling their public officials—and then enforcing their wishes at the ballot box. It may not be typical of the morals of the American people—but it is definitely typical of their apathy where such conditions prevail.—L.A.C.

Sees Lies in Stewart Reserve Nomination

11 of the proposed reserve generals.

Symington, after reading Sen. Smith's statement which was not delivered on the Senate floor, said "the matter has been decided for the time being but Chairman Russell (D-Ga.) noted that both men were passed over without prejudice."

In her statement, Sen. Smith said the Air Force record on the nominations included "repeated and direct misrepresentations . . . extensive false testimony on these nominations . . . attempts to make a wholesale rewriting of the transcript of the hearings before it was printed."

* * * *

SHE SAID Gen. O'Donnell, chief of Air Force personnel, gave false testimony about the reserve record of Stewart and J. B. Montgomery.

"Later Gen. O'Donnell sought to have stricken from the printed record this false testimony that he had given," she said.

"The worst two cases of the 11 nominations are those of Col. Montgomery and Col. Stewart," she said.

The woman senator said O'Donnell testified that Stewart was competent to serve as "deputy director of operations of the Strategic Air Command—literally the No. 3 job in SAC importance if war comes."

She said Stewart, until nominated for general, has participated in only nine days of reserve training during 11 years and that he was not qualified to fly any Air Force plane at that time.

* * * *

"STEWART'S normal civilian pursuit is that of motion picture actor," she continued. "Obviously he can't maintain his proficiency for deputy director of operations of the Strategic Air Command by being a motion picture actor."

She said that "past national presidents of the Reserve Officers Assn. have complained bitterly to me that the Stewart nomination was destructive to the morale of the Air Force reserve."

Pentagon Discloses Big Waste

of surplus supplies. Among the causes cited were:

1. Large quantities of parts and equipment were apparently abandoned at the northeast air bases after World War II. When these bases were re-established and built up during the Korean war the new supplies got mixed up with the old.

2. "A major construction program was started at various airbases in Newfoundland and Greenland immediately after the start of the Korean conflict, when Communist intentions were unknown."

3. "Tours of duty for personnel are relatively short, one year to 18 months. This has created a problem in the continuity of effort." Some units were inadequately staffed with supply specialists.

4. Inadequate facilities "resulted in supplies and material being stored in exposed or open areas where severe weather conditions in winter months caused rapid deterioration and obliterated marks in some cases."

5. "Improper computation of requirements, requisitioning and inventory control . . . contributed to the spare parts excesses."

"These conditions created a supply problem that continued to become more critical even though as early as 1953 steps were taken by commanders to reduce known supply excesses," McGuire said.

McGuire said the investigation is continuing.

ing with the leftists in the group included Dan O'Connell, a Chicago copywriter; Joanne Grant, a reporter, also from Chicago; Ed Hochman of New York, and Robert Cohen of Los Angeles, now living in Paris.

Tucker, one of eight Americans at the Moscow festival who were called fascists by the Soviet press, was said by Reuters to have become unpopular with some others in the delegation.

He told the news agency he decided to ignore a State Department ban on travel in Red China and go with the delegation "in an attempt to paint a more favorable picture of America than some others who in Moscow and China have done little but criticize their homeland."

* * * *

THE STATE Department now is permitting 24 American newsmen to go to China on a trial basis.

The United States took the final step Saturday for entry into the mainland by the newsmen but the Chinese Communist government still was keeping its doors closed.

Reuters reported that the Chinese had extended the visit of the youths until after Oct. 1 so that they may see the National Day parade in Peiping.

THE AMERICANS spent their first full day in Peiping seeing the sights and discussing the best route for their tour of China. Their expenses are being paid by the All-China Federation of Democratic Youth.

Sees Safer Driving but More Cars

CHICAGO (U.P.) — More than double the current number of vehicles on the nation's highways will swarm over the auto lanes in 1975, a safety expert predicted Saturday night, but the "traffic toll will be smaller than it is now."

Paul Jones, director of public information for the National Safety Council, made his predictions at a dinner of the Central Motor Freight Assn. of Illinois.

Jones' optimistic preview was based on the hope that traffic safety would "develop faster than traffic volume in the next 20 years."

He is confident that a combination of better and safer roads, increased traffic enforcement, driver education, stricter licensing laws and mounting public concern over the traffic toll will avert he "highway jam a lot of people see by 1975, or sooner."

"But not unless America — every segment of it—faces up to the fact that it is confronted with a real emergency in the traffic situation," Jones said.

Nab Policeman on Drunk Charge

NEW YORK (U.P.) — A policeman was arrested Saturday on a charge of being drunk while driving a "paddy wagon" carrying two prisoners to jail.

The patrol wagon driven by Francis Lyons, 29, collided with an automobile driven by Catherine Leary. She was uninjured, but a passenger, Margaret Quinn, was treated for a hand injury.

Lyons was suspended from the police force.

YOUTHS DON'T WANT WAR

Japanese Solon Sees No Rearmament Prospect

Japan has "no prospect" of moving toward rearmament, Dr. Junzo Sasamori, chairman of the foreign affairs committee of the Japanese Diet, said here Saturday.

Dr. Sasamori said most Diet members still favor the clause in the Japanese constitution written during the American occupation, forbidding rearming.

However, Dr. Sasamori said, it is probable that all American ground troops now in Japan will return home by 1960 at the latest, in accordance with a goal set a year ago. Some Air Force units are expected to remain beyond that time.

* * * *

"MOST OF the younger generation (in Japan) do not want to fight against any country," Dr. Sasamori said.

He said many Japanese now appear to want either their own police force or a United Nations police force as a defense unit.

"Of course the high ideal is a federal world government," he said, adding that he subscribes to that ideal himself.

DR. JUNZO SASAMORI

DR. SASAMORI said there has been little change in the strong pro-Western feeling in his country at the beginning of the year, but that the leftist Socialist Party constantly tries to stir the Japanese people against the United States.

"There are some extremists that make trouble all the time," Dr. Sasamori said.

He said Japanese cabinet members and many Diet members "know they must co-operate with the United States—that they cannot live alone economically, politically or educationally."

Dr. Sasamori is here in an "exchange of courtesies" and in an official capacity as president of the All-Japanese Students' Kendo Federation.

HE HEADS a group of 13 members of the All-Japan University Student Kendo Federation who crossed bamboo "swords" in the ancient warfare art Saturday with members of the United States Kendo Federation in Long Beach State College gymnasium.

Dr. Sasamori and his coaching staff are guests here of Dr. Gordon Warner, assistant professor in the college's division of education and psychology.

Dr. Warner was the first Caucasian to earn a degree in the difficult Kendo art, in Japan in 1937-38. He is advisor to the Long Beach Kendo Club, co-sponsors of the meet with the Kendo Federation of the U.S.

Missing Man in Collision of 2 Navy Ships Identified

The Navy Saturday identified a man missing and presumed dead after the collision between two Navy transports 180 miles west of San Diego Friday morning as L. D. Penniston, of Argyle, Wisc.

A Long Beach man, D. R. Schwab, a fireman, of 1237 Missoula Pl., was injured slightly.

The Navy said Penniston was standing watch in the port engine room of the 2,130-ton high-speed transport Wantuck when it was struck by the 10,765-ton attack transport Lenawee during a convoy exercise.

THE ENGINE ROOM was flooded after the collision and Penniston is believed to have drowned.

Other crewmen in the engine room injured were F. P. Helton, a fireman apprentice of Los Angeles and L. E. Pluard, a chief machinists mate.

The injured men were transferred to the Lenawee, which is proceeding under its own power to Pearl Harbor. The Wantuck, under tow of the submarine rescue vessel Florikan, was due in San Diego Saturday night.

Miss England in Love, Wants to Stay in U.S.

Homesick Miss England, who couldn't get back to the shores of Britain soon enough, has reversed her field.

Blond, blue-eyed Sonia Hamilton flew back to London Saturday, her head giddy—but not from the altitude.

From Cloud 9 she announced that she plans to return to the United States "for good."

"I left my heart back there," explained the girl who won third place in the recent Miss Universe Beauty Pageant.

* * * *

HER CHANGE of attitude was further explained to London newsmen with the statement, "I have fallen in love with someone in Los Angeles."

The someone remains a mystery.

Asked to reveal the man's identity, Miss Hamilton, a 5-7, 136-pound model, replied:

"I had better not say anything at the moment."

Immediately after the Miss Universe finals in the Municipal Auditorium, Miss England told reporters that "I just want to go home."

Her hostess here, Mrs. Leona Mealey, says that Miss Hamilton "talked as if she never wanted to come back to the United States."

"She had a boy friend in England," Mrs. Mealey said Saturday. "He wrote her several times during the pageant. I don't know how serious it was, though."

* * * *

MRS. MEALEY said Miss Hamilton left for Los Angeles the day after the pageant ended.

"If she fell in love, it must have been during the last few days she was in Southern California," the pageant hostess remarked.

Mrs. Mealey said that when Miss Hamilton left Long Beach, she said she had a five-week modeling engagement to fulfill in Germany for the Mecca Modeling agency of England.

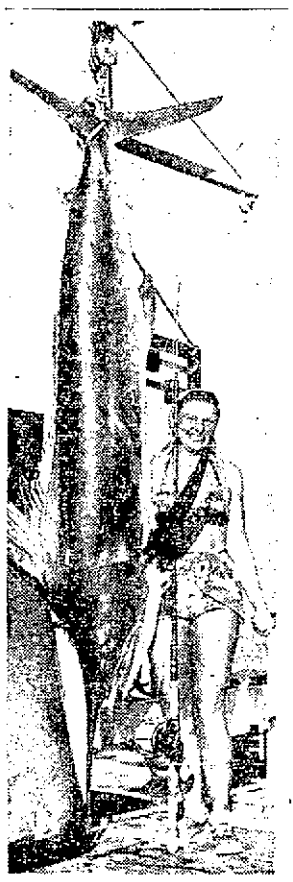

Neither Mrs. Mealey nor pageant producer Oscar Meinhardt had any idea Saturday who Miss England's heart throb might be.

Prop Mishap Delays Liberte

SOUTHAMPTON, England (AP) — The French luxury liner Liberte snarled a steel cable around one of her propellers Saturday night and was forced to postpone her departure for New York.

The 51,839-ton liner freed itself after several frantic hours, but then eased out into open water to anchor like a wounded giant. After daybreak divers will go down to inspect the ship for possible damage.

The mishap took place in the narrow waterway leading from the English Channel to the inland harbor at Southampton. It was almost the exact spot where the Liberte went aground in 1950.

BIG CATCH

Mrs. Dolores Morgan battled this 190-pound marlin to a standstill from a 16-foot outboard boat Saturday off 14-mile banks. The fish fought for nearly 3½ hours. Now Mrs. Morgan, of 5440 Ocean Blvd., wants to give it to orphanage or other charitable institution, for food purposes.—(Staff)

Negro Home Shot Up, Cross Burned

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Three shotgun blasts were fired into a Negro cafe owner's home and a crude 12-foot cross set afire on a nearby hill here Friday night.

Police said they were unable to find out the reason for the incident.

The shotgun blasts were fired into the bedroom of James Cole, 44. No one was in the house at the time. Two windows were broken by the pellets.

A Negro woman, Mrs. Gertrude Blackman, was quoted as saying she was across the street and saw the shotgun fired from a moving car which continued up a side road where the cross was burning.

The cross was on a high ridge overlooking a valley in North Montgomery which is predominantly a Negro residential area. It burned for about 15 minutes before police officers arrived and extinguished it.

L.B. Skin Divers to Yugoslavia for World Spearfishing Matches

Three Long Beach skin divers will take off from International Airport soon after midnight tonight, winging their way over the top of the world to Yugoslavia where they will challenge the Russians and 24 other nations for the world's spearfishing championship.

Aboard the big Scandinavian airlines system plane will be Jim Christiansen, 31, of 135 Covina Ave.; Lee Jamison, 35, of 2707 Knoxville Ave.; and Bob Weaver, 26, of 4748 Pimenta Ave., Lakewood. They are members of the Long Beach Neptunes, national skin diving squad.

The squad will compete Sept. 8 for the international championship at the island of Lussinpiccolo, Yugoslavia. The divers will go to Italy first to outfit. They plan to arrive in Yugoslavia a week early so they may become accustomed to underwater hunting in the deep clear depths of the Adriatic Sea.

The Independent, Press-Telegram will have on-the-spot coverage of the "underwater Olympics." Bob Wells, staff writer and an experienced skin diver, will be at Lussinpiccolo to cable first-hand coverage as the Neptunes square off against the Russians and the equally formidable Italians, French, Spanish, Germans and other European teams.

Little is known about the Russian team. It is believed the Soviet divers may be frogmen from the Red Fleet, comrades of the divers who supposedly met and bested the English diver-spy, Cmdr. Lionel (Buster) Crabbe, in battle under the keel of a Soviet cruiser in a British harbor.

BOB WELLS
Will Cover Event

Whoever wins the international title will have to dive deep. It is expected the spearmen will hunt at depths of 60 to 100 feet. No aqualungs or breathing devices are permitted; the divers must get their air at the surface and carry it in their lungs to the depths.

Fellow members of the Neptunes have been conducting a fund drive to furnish transportation for their squad. They are still $200 short of their goal. The rest of the money necessary to send the squad to Yugoslavia will be borrowed, but contributions are still being accepted by Bill Hogan at the Underwater Sports Shop, 5914 E. 2nd St.

Whoopers Are Thriving

WASHINGTON (UP) — The Fish and Wildlife Service said Saturday the world's only captive whooping crane chicks are "eating like pigs and growing like weeds" in their home in the New Orleans zoo.

The fledglings are doing so well, it said, that aviculturist George Scott, who has been caring for them since before they were hatched last May, has returned to his job at the Bronx Zoo in New York.

The chicks still have no names. They are known only as "No. 1" and "No. 2." They are almost as large as their parents, Crip and Josephone.

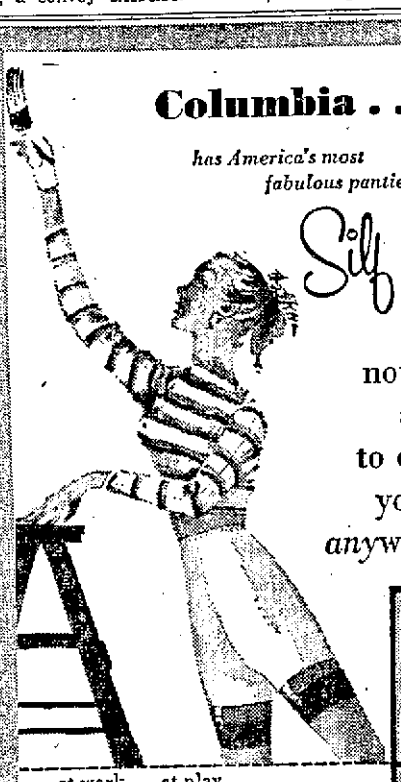

Santa Anan Killed in Auto Accident

Lock the Door--Freeway Coming!

FOR FORTY YEARS, Mrs. Jim D. Hubbert has lived on the land where her present home—10038 Beverly St., Bellflower—stands. Now, plans for the Artesia Freeway indicate she may have to move. Mrs. Hubbert is unworried, though. "At least," she says, "that old eucalyptus stump in the front will finally have to come up."—(Staff Photo)

THIS ULTRA-MODERN, $45,000 home is one of those which may have to make way for the Artesia Freeway if the proposed route is approved. Built by Gerald Adler, 43-year-old contractor, the home is at 9946 Beverly St., Bellflower. His lament, like many others, — "Why couldn't they build the freeway somewhere else?"—(Staff Photo)

New Homes, Church in Route Path

By PETE HANN

The day Nellie Hubbert bought the Model T, she piled Dad and the children into it and drove for miles through the sweet-smelling countryside.

She didn't even need a license.

That was in 1923, six years after she and Jim moved onto the one-acre lot in Bellflower.

Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Hubbert still live on part of that lot.

Today is it 10038 Beverly St., and the dirty white frame house is, in Mrs. Hubbert's words, "about the worst-looking home on the street."

And now, almost 34 years after that thrilling first trip, descendants of that ludicrous, tenacious old Ford threaten to turn the Hubberts out of their home.

No. 10038 Beverly St. is in the path of the proposed Artesia Freeway.

* * * *

"I COULD HARDLY BELIEVE the news when I heard it," said Mrs. Hubbert, now a nimble 78. "It seemed there were lots better places to put a freeway."

Hundreds of others along the 7.6-mile, 30-million-dollar route thought so, too.

Doctors and gardeners, housewives and midwives, middlemen and poets, all hastened to suggest other routes. They raged and ranted.

At a public hearing, the State Department of Highways engineers stood by their chosen ground. They explained it on the basis of cost and directness.

Some of the people involved, like Mrs. Hubbert, bowed to what they considered was the inevitable.

The engineers said it would be seven years before building began. They promised a fair price for the houses affected. And anyway, the freeways were badly needed, weren't they?

"I'm not going to lose any sleep over it," said Mrs. Hubbert flatly. Neither are lots of others.

* * * *

BUT GERALD ADLER, 43-year-old contractor, can't pass it off so lightly.

He and his wife and five children live in a $45,000 house at 9946 Beverly St. They moved in last March. Their home represents 16 years of hard work to them.

A serious, earnest man, Adler spoke quietly, almost dispassionately about the house he built "from the ground up in a year."

"Before this, the six of us lived in a three-room bungalow on this lot," he said.

"Yes, I know we need the freeway and they'll buy our house from us—but there are some things you can't duplicate. I will never be able to achieve this again."

The prospect of tearing down a newly erected building doesn't worry Richard L. Williams, lumber store owner.

"In fact, either way they do it will help me," said Williams. "If it runs slap through the center they buy me out. If it runs right past, I get a wonderful advertising site."

* * * *

FREEWAY PLANNERS drafted double trouble for Williams.

They may take his frame store at 17149 Lakewood Blvd., Bellflower, and the new two-story store next door at 17159 Lakewood, that is still only a skeleton.

Although he wishes someone "had stopped me spending $40,000 on a building, which will come out of the taxpayers' pockets," Williams is philosophical.

"I will try to buy near here if they take the store. And anyway I'll probably get to use the new place for about 15 years."

* * * *

SELLING "CONDEMNED" property on the route is a problem. Mrs. O. E. Hudson knows.

Her house at 9561 Beverly St., Bellflower, has been listed since May. It ought to be worth about $30,000. Now, no one is sure.

"We had several inquiries before the freeway was mentioned, but none since," said Mrs. Hudson.

"Why couldn't they have taken a poorer section than this?" she wanted to know. "Some of those streets south of here are not even paved."

Freeways? Pah! "I will go several miles to stay off one myself," said Mrs. Hudson.

* * * *

MRS. CHARLES ZANTEE lives in a recently-built house at 3319 E. 67th St., Long Beach. Like scores of others in new homes, she feels angry and bewildered.

"Why here" she asks, "where it splits the town, tears our new homes, and separates us from schools to the north?"

"We thought this would be a fine place to rear children—and now this." And a final exasperated note: "We just finished putting the fencing in."

* * * *

WHEN THE PLANNERS got to Long Beach Blvd. and Artesia St., they faced an unpleasant decision. Preserve the church—or save the school?

Starr King Community United Presbyterian Church will go. Its neat white exterior and velvet-green lawn will fall to a steam shovel's jaws.

Rev. L. Roy Lash, the pastor, appealed to the engineers. "It would be a tragic thing if this church went out of business," he said.

"It is the only traditional church in this area."

But Starr King Church, hundreds of homes and dozens of business are almost certainly doomed.

Roads are the arteries of the nation, and someone must bleed a little. This is the price of progress.

Mr. Ford's rickety old flivver has come a long way since 1923.

AN UNHAPPY CHOICE faced Artesia Freeway engineers at Long Beach Blvd. and Artesia St. Which should they save—a church or a school? Their decision means that Starr King Community United Presbyterian Church will probably be pulled down. The pastor, Rev. L. Roy Lash, has appealed on the grounds that his is the only "traditional" church in the area. It was built in 1955.—(Staff)

ARTESIA FREEWAY PLANNERS scheduled double trouble for Richard L. Williams. Owner of a lumber yard and paint store at 17149 Lakewood Blvd., Bellflower, he has just begun a new building adjoining it, when plans were released. They indicate both buildings will be taken. But under Williams' eye, construction goes on.—(Staff Photo)

JUDGE TELLS GIRL:

Fight Juvenile Crime---or Else

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—A 17-year-old girl who pleaded guilty to stealing a record player from a department store was sentenced by Municipal Judge Henry Esteva Saturday to work out a program to combat juvenile delinquency within 10 days or go to jail.

"You come up with a program to stop this juvenile delinquency in 10 days or you'll serve 30 days in jail," Esteva told brown-haired Ginger Buckley of St. Petersburg.

However, the judge gave no such alternative to Frank Atkins, 18, who pleaded guilty along with Miss Buckley to the same offense. Atkins got a mandatory 30 days.

Souvenirs Sent U.N. Norwegians

OSLO (AP)—A large consignment of souvenirs such as miniature Viking ships and dolls in Norwegian costume has been shipped to the Norwegians serving with U.N. forces in the Gaza Strip. The army's welfare corps explained that Norwegian troops often visit contingents from other countries and need gifts to bring to the party.

'Miss Back' Wins Without Showing Face

TOKYO (AP)—The judges never saw here face, but they voted 21-year-old Kumiko Honma the prettiest and rosiest of them all. She was named "Miss Back" in the annual Water Sprite Festival at suburban Asakusa.

Before donning their bathing suits, the 32 girls downed half a pint of sake to give their skins a rosy glow.

DOCTORS' RESEARCH PRESENTS NEW EVIDENCE ON THE CAUSE OF EMOTIONAL DISTURBANCE
(Article in Southland Magazine, Independent, Press-Telegram)
Call for Above Informative Article and Research Literature

Vitamins—Newest Clue to Solving Mental Health Riddle

Emotional and mental disturbance may be the result of nutritional deficiency rather than of psychological origin. This conclusion is based on the result of years of intensive research, conducted in the laboratories of Kalash Vitamin Corporation, Pasadena. The Project has been under the personal supervision of W. C. Kalash, B.Sc., augmented by a Medical Doctor (M.D.) and scientists.

Effective in Controlled University Tests!

University research offers further evidence of the relationship between certain emotional upsets and nutritional replacement. For use in these studies, Kalash laboratories developed K-54, nutritional replacement, containing 54 substances in the broad spectrum of possible dietary deficiency.

K-54
FOR EMOTIONAL FATIGUE RESULTING FROM STRESS AND STRAIN

Today, K-54 is used extensively for the alleviation of frequent periods of depression, anxiety, and fear (where there is no organic or functional cause). Remember, K-54 is composed entirely of vitamins and minerals in a scientific formulation. It has no relationship with the so-called tranquilizers which act only in a palliative manner on the symptoms rather than attack the underlying cause.

You May Need K-54 for Better Emotional Health

Why go on being irritable, unhappy and depressed if yours is one of those cases that can be relieved by nutritional replacements. How wonderful it would be to improve your emotional health . . . to better enjoy life to its fullest with natural emotional serenity.
Don't let another day go by without trying K-54. It holds so much promise, you owe it to yourself to see what this nutritional replacement can do for you.

Water Lapping 1½-Ft. Below Top of Drydock Spurs Subsidence Work

Assembly Panel to Survey Sinkage in Six Weeks

The lapping of water 18 inches below the top of drydock No. 1, Long Beach Naval Shipyard, will underscore the urgency of subsidence remedial measures to a State Legislature interim study committee due here in six weeks.

Various other exhibits of the sea's encroachment on the shipyard will also demonstrate the timely nature of three protective developments—one under construction, one partially approved and one hoped for—at the yards.

The south end entrance of drydock No. 1, some 300 yards from the center of the subsidence bowl here, has 8½ feet of freeboard at low tide and 18 inches at maximum high tide. The dock was 14 feet above sea level when built in 1943.

* * * *

BULWARKING THE YARDS is a 28 million dollar undertaking. About 6 million dollars was spent between 1950-56. Now under construction is a $7,900,000 job known as increment No. 1. Its shape now is 250 feet of 16-foot high cyclopean concrete wall extending from Harbor Dept. property to Pier 1. It is about one-third complete.

It will be built to "elevation 10" or high enough so that at maximum predicted subsidence in 1970 there will be 3½ feet of freeboard at drydock No. 1 at high tide, ranging to 6 feet at Pier 4.

Congress has approved only 1½ million of the requested $5,600,000 for increment No. 2. Its approval, according to a Congressional committee which visited here last May, will hinge on joint city and state measures to halt subsidence.

If city and state leap that hurdle they may look hopefully to increment No. 3, an $8,100,000 parcel of work to render the shipyards safe from the half-foot per year sinkage. Drydock No. 1 is sinking at the rate of 9 inches per year.

A summarization of the current status of shipyard sinkage was provided Saturday by Capt. Charles H. Neel, public works officer for the shipyard, and his assistant, Capt. R. R. Gentry.

* * * *

CAPT. NEEL pointed out that the locomotive crane tracks of Pier 4 are under several inches of water at high tide. A huge gate keeps out the sea and the pier's operation is restricted to those hours when the tide is at maximum 5 feet and falling. He said this creates extra expense because of non-standard work hours demanded and, naturally, means operation at less than full efficiency.

Capt. Neel revealed that the yard's concrete pier is actually threatened by floating as a result of subsidence. The 1100-foot-long, 155-foot-wide, 28-foot-thick colossus would float with hydrostatic pressure of 22 pounds per square inch on its bottom. That pressure reached 20.46 pounds and concrete had to be added to the bottom and siphons along the perimeter to ward off the threat of floating.

The phenomenon occurred because of subsidence which lowered ground, thereby raising the underground water table.

Sinkage of land, rising water table and horizontal movement are the three dilemmas posed by subsidence.

* * * *

CAPT. GENTRY SAID Pier 4 would have to be abandoned within two or three years, lacking remedial construction.

An interim committee to study subsidence was named by the Legislature last May on the basis of Bill No. 4163 introduced by Assemblymen William Grant and Herbert Klocksiem. The committee is scheduled to visit here Oct. 4.

Gov. Goodwin Knight recently signed a bill enabling the city to join forces with other oil producers here in repressurization efforts in the Wilmington oil fields.

FACING NORTH toward Long Beach Naval Shipyard from Pier 4, the half-foot per year sinkage of the pier is demonstrated by several inches of high tide water kept out of the yard by the steel gate and sandbags, during the current high tides. Naval officials say the pier will have to be abandoned in two or three years, lacking remedial construction now pending study.—(Official U.S. Navy Photo)

WATER STILL RUNNING

Beauty Dead Near Tub

SANTA MONICA (UP)—Police Saturday investigated the mysterious death of the beautiful blond ex-wife of a millionaire hotel man who was found dead beside the bathtub in her swank apartment.

Clad in a dressing gown, the body of Mrs. Jo Wilson Osborne, 26, a former local beauty contest winner and divorced wife of hotelman Fred Osborne, 28, was found Friday by the owner of the apartment house.

The water in the bathtub was running, the bathroom door was locked and the apartment doors all were bolted from the inside, Detective Carter Kocher reported. The woman apparently had fallen while preparing to bathe.

* * * *

THE BODY WAS LYING face down with a cut and a small amount of blood on the lower lip and on the floor where the face was lying, Kocher said. There also was a bruise on Mrs. Osborne's right elbow where it had struck the floor, and she had bitten her tongue, he added.

A preliminary coroner's examination failed to reveal the cause of death and further, microscopic examination was to be conducted, the coroner's office said.

Police quoted Mrs. Osborne's sister, Marjorie Anne Wiard, as saying the dead woman had been "in a very depressed state of mind for about three weeks and was getting worse," although she had not been under a doctor's care. She had been under treatment about a year ago for a nervous condition, Kocher said.

* * * *

APARTMENT OWNER Robert Holbrook said he investigated Mrs. Osborne's apartment after receiving complaints from other tenants that there was no hot water.

He said he ascertained that the water was running in her apartment but received no answer to his knock and was unable to enter with a pass key because all the doors were bolted inside. He told Kocher he opened a bathroom window, saw the woman lying on the floor and called police.

A doctor called to the scene said she had been dead for about 18 hours, Kocher said.

Mrs. Osborne, who was divorced about a year ago from Osborne, was publicity director for a hotel here, police said.

Mary Martin Thrown From Horse, Injured

SAN FRANCISCO (UP)—Stage star Mary Martin suffered painful bruises Saturday when a posed publicity shot went awry and almost resulted in "a horse on her."

Miss Martin was riding with co-star John Raitt on the horse as he galloped along a treadmill in rehearsal for her opening here next week in "Annie Get Your Gun."

While photographers were shooting pictures, the horse, named Cloud, suddenly fell, throwing Miss Martin to the floor of the stage. Only quick action by the handlers, including trainer Ben Johnson, kept the horse from falling on Miss Martin.

A spokesman for the company said that the accident took place because Miss Martin, "a daredevil from Texas," insisted on riding the horse without guide wires to keep him in place on the treadmill.

Chores Too Varied, Firefighters Complain

DONCASTER, England (UP)—Local firemen complained this week that the fire brigade equipment and manpower is being used for just about everything but fire fighting.

Among the jobs: Transporting race cards, taking cash boxes to and from turnstiles, taking cash to the bank, transporting trestles and tables, hauling fodder for racehorses, patrolling the race course, and transporting "welfare food," school meals and workers' wages.

30,000 Youths Stage Religious Rally

ROME (AP) — About 30,000 youths from 84 countries marched with lighted torches through the ancient streets of Rome Saturday night, opening a rally to spread Christianity in the labor movement.

The world assembly of the Young Christian Workers, a Roman Catholic-sponsored youth organization, began with a holy hour of prayer and penance in the 18 churches.

Hanging of Young Bride Probed

HUNTINGTON PARK (UP) — Crime laboratory experts and fingerprint experts were examining fingerprints and fingernail scrapings Saturday in an effort to explain the death by hanging of a 20-year-old bride, Mrs. Marie J. Keebe.

Pending outcome of the investigation, her husband of six months, James, 34, is in jail on a booking of suspicion of murder.

An autopsy disclosed no bruises, said Detective H. S. Arnett. The woman's body, found by her husband, was clad in a blue nightgown, her right wrist was tied to her waist with a necktie and her left wrist was bound to her body with a belt. Another belt had been used as a noose, fastened to an overhead beam.

Keeble told officers he found the body Friday when he returned home from looking for work. The room was locked and he gained entrance through a window, he said.

Arnett said the death could be suicide or homicide.

Should Religion Rule Adoptions?

Love Counts Most, Some Say in Poll

By JACK McDONALD

A few days ago a Baltimore couple watched helplessly as the 2-year-old boy they had reared since infancy was taken by the state and placed in a new home—because he had been born into a religion different from theirs.

It was the second such case to attain national headlines in recent months and in Long Beach it provoked plenty of opinions on adoption practices.

"It doesn't matter what the religion is in a home where the child is given happiness and the right sort of upbringing," said Mrs. Jerry Standard, 318 W. 9th St., a housewife.

"The only way it possibly could matter to the child is if someone else makes an issue of it later, confusing him."

* * * *

MRS. DONNA KOHN, 1444 Chestnut St., head cashier in a sportswear store, felt much the same way.

"A child has to be where it's loved," she said. "They (the Baltimore couple) raised him, and they obviously loved him. The boy should never have been taken from them."

Mrs. Kohn added she thought the Florida courts had ruled rightly in a recent case there, by refusing to allow a little girl to be taken from foster parents of one faith and returned to Massachusetts where the law is similar to that of Maryland.

W. C. Jorstad, 2711 Magnolia St., apartment house owner, disagreed.

"I think the foster parents should be of the same religion as the child they adopt," he said. "Some religions are very strict, and from youngest childhood they instill their own ways of life into a child. It's confusing to a child to suddenly find himself in a different background."

* * * *

MRS. ODA TVEIT, housewife of 4645 Marloma Dr., Rolling Hills noted that "the same God is the Creator of all children."

"The child should be in the home where he gets the best of care," she said. "And people that do as much for a child as the Baltimore couple did, should have the happiness a child brings."

Mrs. Tveit's daughter, Mrs. Elsie Lundgye, of Ventura, felt the same. "I don't think religion has anything to do with it," she said.

The housewives got more support from Miss Jewell Winchell, 537 Ocean Blvd.

"After all," she said, "a child doesn't know one religion from another. It's up to the parents or whoever brings them up to see that they are lead good lives."

* * * *

CHARLES ROBINSON, retired baker of 339 W. Anaheim St., thought the adoption agencies had a big responsibility in the matter.

"They should wherever possible follow the parents' wishes in placing a child. The child himself can't know what's best for him."

Robinson noted that the "religion phase" of adoption has kept several persons he knows from adopting children. "They are afraid they will harm the child in some way, bringing him up in a different religion than the one he was born in."

* * * *

THE CHANCES of children being placed in foster homes, then uprooted because of religious difference, are smaller in California than in some other states.

California has no law making it mandatory that foster parents take only children of their own religion. But the state does recognize the dangers of transplanting immature minds from one culture to another suddenly.

Bureau of Adoptions personnel carefully interview each mother who wants her child placed in a foster home.

* * * *

THE STATE makes sure she knows what religion the foster parents profess. In the event the foster parents' religion is different from the real parents', the bureau obtains the real parents' permission for the placement.

The system has worked very well, according to Jean Selden, supervising social case worker in the Adoption Bureau's Long Beach branch.

"We recognize that the natural parent has a right, when he or she makes plans for the future of the child through adoption," Miss Selden said. "We simply handle each case very carefully."

Divorce Planned by French Envoy

WASHINGTON (AP) — A French embassy spokesman said Saturday ambassador and Mrs. Herve Alphand are getting a divorce in France by mutual consent and that he could give no reason for the action.

Alphand is due to return to his post here next Friday. He and his wife left last month for a vacation in France. They had been in Washington since he was assigned here last September.

'Silk Stockings' Film 'Anti-Russ'---Pravda

MOSCOW (AP) — Komsomolskaya Pravda said Saturday Hollywood movie producers are trying to cause the British people to hate the Soviet people.

The organ of the Communist Youth League cited the Hollywood film "Silk Stockings," now playing in London. The film, said the Soviet paper, pictures the Russians as devoid of human feelings.

Lutherans End Meet on 'Partnership' Note

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—With a call for Lutherans to join in a solemn "partnership of work and witness," the Lutheran World Federation Saturday ended a 10-day assembly that scrutinized the broad sweep of church thought and action.

Adjournment came after assembly delegates voted to commend to the 50 million Lutherans they represent a 3,400-word statement of principles—expressing Lutheran thinking on a variety of church and global questions.

Shortly before retiring President Bishop Hanns Lilje of Germany declared the session ended, delegates bowed in recitation of the Lord's Prayer and joined in a Lutheran hymn.

In a final expression of fellowship, the federation today will present a massive rally and service in front of the state capitol in St. Paul before an expected audience of between 50,000 and 100,000.

Thousands of Lutheran young people, including overseas delegates clad in national costumes, paraded through the Minneapolis loop Saturday in observance of the federation's youth day.

The statement placed before the Assembly Saturday, Bishop Lilje said, is intended to stimulate Lutheran thinking by serving as "an instrument for exchange between Lutheran congregations throughout the world."

'NEVER' DID IT

'Last' Lottery Ticket Wins $22,000 Pot

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP)—For years S. A. Powell bought a five shilling (55-cent) ticket in the weekly lottery and wrote "now" on every ticket. Then the 45-year-old draftsman vowed to give up his weekly gamble and bought one last ticket—labeling it "never." He won first prize of 10,000 pounds ($22,400).

CONTENTED THIEF

None Like Someone Else's Home

TRENTON (AP)—There's no place like home, even if it isn't yours.

So, apparently, believes a thief police in nearby Ewing Township are looking for. Mrs. Francis Harman reported the thief entered her home on Nursery Rd. sometime during the night and made himself at home by:

Cooking himself a dinner.

Going upstairs to shower and shave with Mr. Harman's razor.

Leaving his old clothes and changing into Mr. Harman's tuxedo. Taking Mr. Harman's clarinet and a floral centerpiece and then leaving.

The Harmans were out at the time.

Perjury Rap Eyed on Hoffa

WASHINGTON (AP) — Justice Department officials will be asked to study, for possible perjury prosecution, Teamster leader James R. Hoffa's testimony that he failed to recall his many dealings with racketeers.

Chairman McClellan (D-Ark) of the Senate Rackets Committee, disclosing this Saturday at a news conference, conceded that it would be difficult to prove Hoffa lied when he pleaded memory failure.

But he said many of Hoffa's mental blanks were almost too much for any reasonable man to believe.

• • • •

"THEREFORE," he said, "I am going to send this (Hoffa) transcript to the Justice Department to pursue that phase of it."

In response to a reporter's question, McClellan declined to say flatly that he thought the man seemingly headed for presidency of the Teamsters Union lied during his four-day stay on the witness stand.

However, he did say: "There are some strong circumstances here that indicate he may not have been telling the truth when he said he couldn't recall."

The bouncy teamster's most frequent memory breakdowns during the hearings occurred during questioning about his secret relations with the New York labor terrorist, Johnny Dio.

• • • •

ONE QUESTION that caused Hoffa particular memory difficulty was whether Dio ever sent him some tiny microphones in 1953 to eavesdrop on testimony before secret grand jury proceedings in Detroit concerning Hoffa.

Hoffa said he did not believe this was ever done, but he could not say positively.

In other developments on the rackets investigation, McClellan announced that:

• • • •

THE COMMITTEE probably won't hold further hearings until about Oct. 1 but that it is possible there will be a "brief series of hearings before that date."

The committee is not gearing its schedule to affect the Teamsters' election Sept. 30, when Hoffa will be seeking the presidency. "Whatever hearings we have will not be related to the (Teamsters) convention," McClellan said.

Looking beyond the Teamsters, the next big union international the Committee will investigate probably will be the United Auto Workers. That will be in connection with a long strike at the Kohler Co. plant in Kohler, Wis. Other international unions he said, are involved in that, too.

On 'Mission,' Smashes Up Liquor Store

DENVER (UP) — A 40-year-old veteran of World War II who said he had a "mission from God" knocked out the plate glass window of a liquor store here Saturday, and then proceeded to smash hundreds of bottles of spirits.

"It should have been done a long time ago," said Jesse Virgil Joyce, arrested while a river of liquor ran out the front door of the Argonaut Wine and Liquor Co.

Police booked Joyce for investigation of burglary and jailed him.

• • • •

AFTER GAINING entry to the store, Joyce hurled bottles of whiskey, wine, gin, vodka and other liquors at shelves laden with still more bottles.

The stench was so great that workmen cleaning up had to take frequent breaks. The fire department was called to stand by in case of an explosion.

Police said Joyce admitted having spent eight years in a veterans mental hospital at Las Animas, Colo.

Witnesses Sect Asks Trujillo to End Religion Ban

BALTIMORE (AP) — Thirty-three thousand of Jehovah's Witnesses, attending a district assembly at Memorial Stadium, Saturday unanimously adopted a lengthy resolution asking that the Dominican Republic lift its ban against the religious movement's activities there.

The resolution, addressed "to his excellency, Generalissimo Rafael Leonidas Trujillo," president of the Caribbean republic, also blamed the Roman Catholic Church for assisting in its action against the sect.

"If you persist in persecuting these followers of Jesus Christ," it said, "you will find that you will have to kill off all of them in your land to silence them and put them out of action."

The gallery, located just east of Seal Beach Pier, will be open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. today to display the youngsters' art work. The gallery is sponsored by Artists League of Seal Beach.

• • • •

Livestock Sold

WESTERHAM, England (AP)—Sir Winston Churchill sold the last of his livestock Saturday. He cleared off 140 pigs at auction for 4,160 pounds ($11,670).

The 82-year-old former prime minister decided earlier this year to give up his venture as a gentleman farmer.

ONLY FEW YEARS AWAY

Secret of Life Near Disclosure

MOSCOW (AP) — Science was pictured Saturday as being on the verge of cracking the secret of how life began.

Two American scientists at an international symposium on the age-old mystery said the solution is only a matter of years away.

The scientists seek to duplicate in the laboratory what they say the forces of nature did at the beginning of time. They want to create a living thing in a test tube.

"Don't expect to see a little boy or little girl crawl out of a test tube," said one of them. The created life, he said, will be some microscopic matter which somehow has been given the impetus of the living.

S. L. Miller, a Columbia University biochemist who was one of nine Americans at the symposium, looked optimistically at the progress being made.

"I believe we will see life created in the laboratory within our lifetime," he said.

* * * *

ANOTHER AMERICAN, Melvin Calvin of the University of California in Berkeley, had this to say:

"Many things can interrupt. Discovery could be thousands of years away. But I do not believe that. I would say life under laboratory conditions is a few dozen years ahead—three dozen years."

A. I. Oparin, the Soviet Union's foremost academician and chief arranger of the symposium, said "we make progress week by week."

The symposium opened last Monday when scientists from 17 nations gathered in Moscow's trade union meeting hall. It closed Saturday.

"The meeting has been fruitful in several details," said Linus Pauling, the Nobel prize-winning chemist from the California Institute of Technology at Pasadena.

"Nothing startlingly new was brought out here in Moscow," he said. "All major findings discussed were known but technical progress was made.

"It's amazing how closely scientists in their work all over the world parallel each other."

But one California scientist who asked not to be identified differed in one respect. He said:

"Soviet scientists would like all of us to believe that only their political doctrine, mental approach and lack of religious beliefs are capable of creating a climate wherein the origin of life can be discovered.

"Most of us do not agree and we find great pleasure and consolation in the reading lists and references given at the end of all Soviet scientific papers. Invariably the sources are nearly half American in addition to numerous British sources."

* * * *

CALVIN SAID that the Soviet scientists, who appeared to average 15 years older than the Americans, are heavily emphasizing studies of life.

"They seem to have been ordered to a crash program on the subject," he said.

"They tell me they can get very quick translations of foreign texts and papers while sometimes we have to wait up to six months to get English translations from Russian."

Oparin's latest book on the origin of life was translated and published in London a year after it was published in Russian. It is the most recent of 12 highly detailed reviews on discoveries and theories.

Before the conference opened, Oparin said the scientists had not expected to come up with any answers to the secret of life. But he said the symposium would add to man's knowledge.

Oparin emphasized that scientists must co-operate to find the solution to life's secret. The answer, he said, "cannot be supplied by one man, one country or one type of scientist."

The visiting scientists headed for Leningrad after the conference closed to see Soviet scientific institutions. The Americans are expected to reach home by Wednesday.

British Plan New Series of H-Bomb Tests

LONDON (AP) — Britain Saturday night was reported planning a new series of hydrogen bomb tests in the Central Pacific early next year with Prime Minister Macmillan looking on.

The Sunday Pictorial carried the story by its diplomatic correspondent. It gave no attribution. Government officials were not available for comment.

"The new tests will be aimed at the development of a hydrogen warhead for the new 5,000-mile ballistic missile which Britain is developing," the newspaper said.

Six Rescued in Costly Yacht Fire

ATLANTIC CITY (AP) — Six persons were rescued after they leaped from a blazing yacht into the Atlantic Ocean about three miles off shore here Saturday.

Two dogs were also saved after the 65-foot Tara III of New York City caught fire.

Rescued by other craft and in good shape were the owner of the Tara, Roy Chalk, an attorney of New York City; and his wife; Chalk's sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Murray Greenberg of New York City; Capt. J. N. Phipps, of Lake Worth, Fla., skipper of the Tara; and the Tara's cook, John J. Royal of Washington, D. C.

When efforts to put the fire out proved futile Chalk shouted for aid just before he and the others jumped into the ocean.

The Tara was still burning two hours after the rescue. Thousands watched the fire from the boardwalk here. Chalk said he valued the yacht at $200,000. It was expected to be a total loss.

Tunisia Hangs Five

TUNIS (AP) — Five convicted murderers were hanged Saturday in Bardo Prison.

Two of those executed, Chedly and Abdelkader Belgaroui, were implicated in the 1953 slaying of Hadi Chaker, a member of the neo-Destour party headed by President Habib Bourguiba.

Economic Pact

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — Indonesian Premier Djuanda and Yugoslav Vice President Svetozar Vukmanovic said in a joint communique Saturday that Indonesia and Yugoslavia will continue economic co-operation.

Vukmanovic is on a state visit to Jakarta.

Plans Move to North for Negroes

ATLANTA (AP)—A plan that could result in resettlement of Negro families from Georgia into the better residential areas of the North and West will be offered to the Legislature in January.

Rep. A. A. Fowler Jr. of Douglas County said he will offer a bill to create a state real estate commission that would be empowered to send agents north to quietly buy up property.

This property would be leased "at very attractive terms" or sold to "carefully screened, worthy and qualified" citizens or former citizens of Georgia.

Fowler, an eight-year member of the Georgia Legislature and a political independent, said he does not consider his plan as "hate legislation." Rather, he said, it might show the residents of good white neighborhoods in the North that the very thing the South opposes—racial integration — "could happen to them."

Belts Banned After Youth Fatally Beaten

MINEOLA, N. Y. (UP)—Nassau County police banned the wearing of flashy metal-studded belts today after a teen-aged boy was beaten to death with one.

The belts, a favorite attire of teen-aged delinquents in this Long Island county, are garrison-type straps bearing names and designs in sharp metal studs.

Richard Tunstall, 15, died after a beating with one of the belts, police said. Joseph Trentacosta, 14, was charged with beating Tunstall so severely that two operations for a fractured skull could not save him.

Broadway Store Denies Unfair Labor Charges

LOS ANGELES (CNS)—The Broadway Department Store Saturday denied charges of unfair labor practices filed by Retail Clerks Union Local 777.

The complaint was presented to the National Labor Relations Board Friday and alleged the store "intimidated and coerced" employes and "interfered" with their right to organize.

A Broadway spokesman said:

"While we have not seen a copy of the union charges, we have been informed orally of the document's contents. The Broadway has not committed any unfair labor practices of any kind.

"The filing of these so-called charges is nothing more than a request to the National Labor Relations Board to make an investigation. We are confident that the NLRB will find no basis for the issuance of a complaint, and will dismiss the charge."

MAINLY ON THE PLAIN

Blame der Texans for Sport Car Fad

Next time you pull up in traffic behind a sports car you may notice a small sign on it reading "Made in der Black Forest by der Elves."

If you think that's silly, don't blame der Black Forest and don't blame der Elves.

Blame der Texans.

It was Texas pride that started a fad which has plastered Southern California cars with similar signs. The fad is on the way to becoming a full-scale craze.

* * * *

IT STARTED a few years back, after workers at a Dallas Ford plant began turning out their product equipped with windshield stickers reading, "Made in Texas by Texans."

Soon Volkswagens here were sporting the elves' label, and stickers on Renaults testified they were "Made in France by Frogs."

Then came "Made in Russia by Spies," "Made in Spain Mainly in the Plain," "Made in Italy by Tenors," and "Made in Brazil by Nuts."

* * * *

NICK PASTOR, South Gate imported car dealer, boosted the fad along. He and his employes wrote a few labels of their own. "Made on the Moon by Lunatics," "Made on Mulholland Drive Last Night."

Pastor began turning the stickers out by the bushel. He estimates he has given away more than 3,000 so far.

* * * *

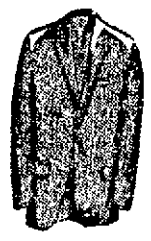

THERE ARE TWO dozen different labels available now. They include: "Made Quickly by Rabbits," "Made in London by Gentlemen's Gentlemen," "Made in West Germany by Cowboys," and "Made in Madrid by Bullfighters."

In addition to the "made" labels, there are: "Contains No Artificial Preservatives," "Don't Squash Me! I Eat Harmful Insects," "Mercedes Benz But Doesn't Break," and "Hillman Minx Stole from Rabbits."

There is even a sticker for the guy who objects to all this foolishness — "Help Stamp Out Sports Cars."

Morning Ban on Liquor Urged

COLOMBO, Ceylon (AP) — A special government commission has decided that prohibition would work in Ceylon only in the morning. It reported that a total ban on alcohol could not be carried out in the present "psychological and economic climate" of Ceylon. But the commission recommended banning sales of liquor in the morning.

$1.6 BILLION JACKPOT

Calif. Tax Total Tops U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The poor taxpayer, who gets whopped whichever way he turns, was slugged for a record 14½ billion dollars in state taxes during the fiscal year that ended June 30.

This was in addition to the 39 billion dollars he paid Uncle Sam in direct income taxes, plus a still undetermined amount in local levies.

California led the 48 states in tax collections with $1,637,000,000. New York was next with $1,440,000,000. The next ranking states, considerably down the line, were Pennsylvania with 905 million dollars and Michigan wth 771 million.

State taxes are a gold mine of revenue that produces a bigger yield each year. A census bureau report shows the 1957 fiscal year figure was 8 per cent higher than a year ago, about 50 per cent higher than five years ago and about 370 per cent higher than 15 years.

Across the nation the 14½ billion dollar total works out to $86.75 per person. Per capita rates in the various states, however, range from $145.13 in Nevada to 51.96 in New Jersey.

* * * *

THE CENSUS BUREAU warned against drawing too many conclusions from the difference in per capita rates because the states differ greatly in the scope and intensity of their public services.

All but four states — Delaware, Kansas, Nebraska and South Dakota—showed a greater tax harvest in fiscal 1957 than in the previous year.

The biggest increase in dollars was in Pennsylvania, up 203 million or 29 per cent. Much of this was due to a three per cent sales tax which became effective in March, 1956 and succeeded a one per cent sales tax which had expired the previous August.

Virginia showed the biggest percentage gain—39½ per cent, from 227 million in 1956 to 316 million in fiscal 1957.

* * * *

SALES TAXES and taxes on gross receipts totaled almost 3½ billion dollars during the year—about 25 per cent of the total although found in only 33 of the 48 states.

Gasoline taxes produced $2,821,000,000, alcohol taxes 568 million dollars and tobacco taxes 553 million.

Individual income taxes grossed the various states $1,563,000,000 and corporation taxes brought in another 984 million. License plates and drivers licenses accounted for $1,336,000,000.

State property taxes totaled 480 million dollars, and would have been much greater if this source hadn't been almost entirely relinquished to local governments.

Proposed Naming Protested

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Republicans Saturday were reported protesting vigorously to President Eisenhower against the prospective appointment of Robert McKinney, New Mexico publisher, as U. S. representative to the new international atomic energy agency.

EISENHOWER apparently has decided to appoint McKinney, a supporter of Adlai E. Stevenson's 1956 bid for the presidency, as a gesture toward bipartisanship in the interanational field.

Democrats have been complaining that while they are asked to support the Administration's foreign policies they have had no representation in top level jobs since the death of Sen. Walter F. George of Georgia.

THE WORD that Eisenhower was considering McKinney stirred up something of a hornet's nest among Republicans in the Senate, which will have to confirm any appointment to the post. These members think the ought to go to a deserving Republican.

The decision to name McKinney apparently was made at the White House without consulting either Senate Republican Leader Knowland of California or his deputy, Sen. Dirksen of Illinois.

9-Year-Old Girl to Be a Mother

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—A girl of doll-playing age is scheduled to become a mother in October.

Hospital authorities have revealed only that she is a Negro and that she is nine years old. Another Negro girl gave birth by caesarian section to a 6-pound, 4-ounce girl on her 11th birthday last Saturday.

Dr. Eva Dodge attended the birth last Saturday as well as the birth of the mother 11 years ago.

'Ghost' of McCarthy May Cost GOP Votes

MADISON, Wis. (UP) — The late Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy has become the hottest issue in Wisconsin's special senatorial election next Tuesday and his "ghost" may cost the Republicans votes.

Republican Walter Kohler, three-times governor of the state, is still the favorite to whip Democrat William Proxmire, just as he did in two gubernatorial races.

But the entrance of two "McCarthyite" candidates after last month's primary election threatened to cut "Eisenhower Republican" Kohler's vote total.

As a result, Democrats appeared to have one of their best chances in years to elect the first Wisconsin democratic senator since 1932.

Despite the "back door" appearance of the McCarthy issue, a light vote was forecast for Tuesday. Experts said the total might even fall below the primary turnout, when only 460,552 out of 2,300,000 eligible voters cast ballots and seven Republicans out-polled two Democrats, 317,332 to 143,220.

* * * *

UNTIL THE ENTRANCE of "McCarthyite" candidates Howard Boyle and Douglas Wheaton, McCarthy appeared to be the forgotten man in the struggle for his empty Senate seat.

Neither Kohler nor Proxmire had made an issue of McCarthy's communist-hunting methods and views.

The Republican and Democratic candidates were old political foes. Kohler, 53, beat Proxmire, 41, by a whopping 408,000 margin in the 1952 gubernatorial election, but by only 35,411 in 1954.

WORLD NEWS BRIEFS

Ike Flies Plane for Few Minutes

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP) — President Eisenhower, once a licensed pilot, took over the controls of his two-engined plane in the air Saturday and flew it briefly. He apparently is the first American President to pilot an aircraft.

Col. William G. Draper—the man who sat alongside while Eisenhower flew the plane as co-pilot—reported later that the President "does a real job of flying." Draper, Eisenhower's Air Force aide and regular pilot, told newsmen the 66-year-old President had the controls for only a few of the 23 minutes it took to fly from Washington to Gettysburg airport. Draper handled the plane the rest of the way.

Eisenhower had a pilot's license for a time during the years between the two world wars. He let it lapse, however, and so far as is known had not actually flown a plane for several years until Saturday.

Bodies of 3 Sisters Found

DIXON, Ill. (AP) — Muddy volunteers Saturday dug the bodies of three small sisters from the rain-drenched dirt in an abandoned quarry. The Gurnsey girls—Nancy, 10; Ruthie, 9; and Theresa, 8—apparently had been trapped by an earth slide while at play.

Coroner Robert Preston said a pathologist determined that Nancy died of suffocation and her sisters of injuries—Ruthie of a skull fracture and Theresa of a fractured neck. Workers theorized the sisters were buried alive after they had descended into the quarry to play or that they were caught in an earth slide when they started to climb the steep slope of the pit.

Hunt Bombs Dropped by Plane

MERIDIAN, Miss. (AP)—A crippled Air Force transport plane dropped 17 cases of explosives near Meridian Saturday so it could make an emergency landing at Key Field here. Twelve rockets and three barrels of naplam were recovered. Air and ground parties searched for the rest.

The Air Force warned that although the bombs were not fused, they should be considered as dangerous. Air Force officials believed the bombs probably went deeply into the ground and would be hard to find.

Detroit Presses Roar

DETROIT (AP) — Newspaper presses roared in Detroit's three major dailies Saturday for the first time in a week.

James R. Hoffa, Midwest teamsters boss who flew in Friday night after testifying before the Senate Rackets Committee in Washington, helped effect settlement of a papers-closing labor dispute that erupted between mailers and publishers last Saturday. Settlement capped an all-night negotiating session. The Evening News and Times published Saturday editions and the morning Free Press joined them in issuing Sunday papers.

Falls 30 Feet, Bumps Head

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — An eight-month-old boy only had a bump on the head Saturday to show for his 30-foot fall from a second floor porch to the ground.

The mother, Mrs. Nellie Baggett, said she was washing clothes in her apartment when the youngster, William David, crawled to the porch from the living room. He was released from a hospital after an examination showed his only injury was the bump on the head.

Marine Makes Fatal Error

HONOLULU (AP) — Marine 1st Lieut. Aaron E. Haynes, 22, of Dallas, Texas, was shot and killed early Saturday when he entered a wrong apartment in a naval housing area and apparently was mistaken for a prowler.

A Marine Corps spokesman said Haynes was shot three times by a pistol fired by Marine Capt. Robert V. Morton. The spokesman said the two men were not acquainted. Haynes is survived by his wife and an infant child here.

IKE'S LOSSES HEAVY

Congress Leaving Hot Issues for '58

WASHINGTON (AP) — The first session of the Democratic-controlled 85th Congress may adjourn next week, leaving in its wake hot issues for the 1958 congressional election.

The session's record is summed up in what President Eisenhower got and didn't get, with emphasis on the latter.

The President stressed at his Wednesday news conference that he was "greatly disappointed." But he didn't blame the Democrats specifically, a fact taken note of by Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas and Speaker Sam Rayburn who blame White House indecision and members of the President's own party.

* * * *

THE RECORD shows that Republicans and Democrats joined more frequently than not to hand Eisenhower defeats, along with the few victories he won.

Johnson, in a Senate speech this week, defended Congress' record and accused Eisenhower of playing 1958 politics prematurely. Rayburn, another Texan, chimed in that the President might have fared better if he had been more decisive.

"I can't go along with a man who says one thing today and another tomorrow," Rayburn commented.

It is no secret at the Capitol that far-seeing politicians reserve some issues for an election year. They also like to see some buried so deeply they will never see the light of day. The key to this is how the current session acted on Eisenhower's legislative requests.

* * * *

HERE IS A rundown on what happened to a few of his major proposals:

Inflation — Eisenhower was dead set against legislative wage and price controls to help on a so-called tight money inflation. He depended instead policy which made money hard to borrow at low interest rates. A Senate committee aired the administration's policy but reserved action for the future. Inflation is expected to be the dominant election issue unless it tapers off.

School And Construction aid—Killed by House coalition which didn't like the $1,300,000,000 price-tag or the way the money would be allocated to the states. Eisenhower is certain to renew his request when the second session convenes in January.

Minimum Wage—Both House and Senate delayed until next year his request that the $1-an-hour national minimum wage floor be extended to millions more workers. Some Democrats want to increase the wage. Eisenhower is against it.

Civil Rights — Senate and House are expected to pass next week a civil rights bill far narrower than Eisenhower's far-reaching program. It will be a compromise "jury trial" bill reluctantly acceptable to Southern Democrats and confined to voting rights.

Bob Hope Finds Dick Poor Host for Golf

By WALTER T. RIDDER, R. E. LEE AND W. BROOM
(Independent, Press-Telegram Capital Bureau)

WASHINGTON—Vice President Dick Nixon was a poor host when he entertained comedian Bob Hope for an afternoon of golf at the Burning Tree Club.

Not only did the Veep shoot one of his all-time best scores, an 82, but he also collected $4 in golf bets from Hope, who had an 84.

Nixon was a gracious winner, however. "You're a much better golfer than I am," he told the comedian as he pocketed the dough with a grin.

THE VICE PRESIDENT and his wife, Pat, showed off their new $75,000 home in Washington's exclusive Wesley Heights section last week at a reception for the California delegation.

Valuable objects of art, gifts to the Nixons during their goodwill trips to Southeast Asia, Africa and South America were blended among the furnishings.

A big attention-getter was a series of ebony and ivory elephants, the GOP party symbol, arranged on a shelf in descending order of size.

"I don't see any donkeys," said one of the guests.

"No one ever offered me any," shot back Nixon, Republican to the core.

NO ONE IS MORE anxious for Congress to close up shop than Congress itself. The lawmakers are tired of talking and want to take a rest.

So many Congressmen have fled the town, in fact, that a roll call in the House produced only 340 out of the 435 congressmen supposed to be there. This prompted Rep. Craig Hosmer (R-Long Beach) to remark:

"Congress is adjourning—one by one."

* * * *

SEN. BILL KNOWLAND'S office has announced the make-up of a committee in charge of arrangements for his month-long speaking tour of California.

Its members are Worth Brown, Santa Cruz County Republican leader, Robert Barkell of Oakland, John Dinkelspiel, chairman of the San Mateo County central committee, Philip Davis, Los Angeles lawyer, Dr. Frank Lowe, chairman of the San Diego County central committee, and William Moore, Redlands publisher.

* * * *

CALIFORNIA POTPURRI: Friends of both Vice President Nixon and Senator Bill Knowland stoutly declare that there have been no talks between them about the senator's decision to run for the governorship. This, they claim, would make it impossible for the two men to have made a "deal," as Democrats are claiming.

The Demos say Knowland will support Nixon for the presidency in 1960, if the vice president backs him against Gov. Goodie Knight.

* * * *

REP. CLAIRE ENGLE denies he has hitched his candidacy for U. S. Senator to Atty. Gen. Pat Brown's bid for the governorship. Engle says he might run for senator even if Brown refuses to try for the state house. The difference in the two positions, Engle is telling friends, is that if Brown runs for the No. 1 spot, Engle certainly will enter the Senate run. If Brown doesn't, Engle reserves the right to run for re-election in the Second Congressional District.

Democrats in the congressional delegation are becoming increasingly irked at Brown for refusing to commit himself. Several congressmen privately are accusing him of being a stalking horse for the Republicans.

MARCH OF SCIENCE

Virus Cousins Down Increasing Numbers

By FRANK CAREY
(Associated Press Science Reporter)

WASHINGTON (AP)—A worrisome pair of virus cousins is striking more and more Americans down.

They cause a liver disease—viral hepatitis. The late Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy was counted a victim.

One of the cousin viruses strikes at the liver through contaminated food or water. The other hits through transfusions of whole blood or plasma from someone who even unwittingly harbors the dangerous cousin in his bloodstream.

Each infects the liver, bringing fever, nausea, weakness and later jaundice.

As yet there is no quick, sure treatment. But medical research is stepping up efforts to crack this tough problem.

Health officials report the disease is causing more and more sickness. Estimates range from 20,000 to 50,000 cases annually, with up to 1,000 deaths.

One factor is that it may take weeks or months, to recover normal health. Victims must get plenty of rest, follow a careful diet, and foreswear alcohol to avoid further liver damage.

* * * *

ONE TYPE OF VIRUS causes epidemic or infectious hepatitis. It is spread through food or water contaminated with virus eliminated by other humans. Crowding and poor sanitation help it spread insidiously.

Its cousin is known as homologous serum jaundice, or transfusion jaundice. It doesn't cause as many cases of sickness.

But this virus can be carried without harm at all in the blood of apparently normal people. When they donate blood, the virus can flare up in a person receiving the transfusion.

Or this virus from one donor can infect many pints of pooled blood plasma.

Cases of serum jaundice have also been linked with faulty sterilization of hypodermic needles or other instruments.

* * * *

THE RED CROSS refuses to accept as blood donors anyone who is known to have a history of jaundice, or to have been exposed recently to hepatitis.

And, says Dr. Margaret Sloan of the National Research Council, "It is probable that various improvements over the last few years in methods of processing plasma greatly reduce the hazard from pooled plasma."

Shots of gamma globulin can prevent infectious hepatitis if given early enough. But gamma globulin is apparently not able to prevent the transfusion type of the liver ailment.

* * * *

MOST PEOPLE recover from hepatitis after six to eight weeks' illness, but 5 to 15 per cent suffer new attacks or relapses. Physicians say this is generally because they swing back into normal activities too soon.

Hepatitis in the acute or first-flare stage kills 1 to 2 per cent of victims, says Dr. Norman B. McCullough of the U.S. Public Health Service. Another 2 to 5 per cent eventually develop cirrhosis of the liver and die in five to 15 years.

Some physicians have reported promising results from using a combination of hormones and antibiotics.

As yet there has been little luck in producing the hepatitis virus in the laboratory or in animals to learn its nature and a good defense.

It may have to wait upon some new idea or approach, a "brainstorm out of the blue," to solve the problem, Dr. McCullough says.

Red Skelton Prays Hour for Dying Son

FATIMA, Portugal (UPI) — Comedian Red Skelton spent an hour Saturday praying at the Roman Catholic shrine to Our Lady of Fatima for the life of his 9-year-old son, Richard, who is suffering from leukemia.

Skelton said on arrival from Lisbon: "God alone can save my boy's life, as science has done all it can."

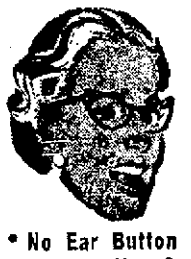

After praying at the Chapel of the Apparitions, he was given a demijohn of Fatima water for his son to drink.

Skelton, who recently toured Europe with Richard and the rest of his family, is now on a business trip with Bo Roose, his business manager.

Legal Quibbles May Harm City's Case

APPARENTLY FEARFUL of testimony that might imply the city's legal liability for subsidence damage, the City Council has voted to place City Atty. Jacobson in full charge of the preparation and presentation of the city's case to the legislative interim committee on subsidence coming here in early October.

When it took this action, the Council called upon the Subsidence Advisory Committee to submit to Jacobson a report on the information it has gathered and any recommendation it might have for the legislative presentation.

The latter action has raised a question as to the status of the advisory committee—a question that should be cleared up at once by the Council. Some have interpreted it as meaning the committee has been discharged.

This committee, composed of representatives of the city, the Shipyard Employes Association and the subsidence committee of the Chamber of Commerce, has worked for months to develop the factual data on subsidence and a draft of proposed legislation to deal with it. It should continue to serve through the legislative hearings, and full use should be made of this group in the preparation and presentation of the city's case to the interim committee.

It may not have been the intent of the Council to deactivate the subsidence advisory committee. But inasmuch as the question has been raised, a vote of confidence in the committee is definitely in order, and this can best be given by appropriate action at Tuesday's meeting to assure its continuance. It would be folly to fail to capitalize to the fullest extent on this committee's work and knowledge.

WHILE CONCERN over the liability question is proper, it should not be allowed to divert the city's effort from the main objective—the arresting of subsidence. It is conceivable that the city's presentation, by attempting to skirt any matters that migh be applied to the question of liability, could become so timid and devious as to prove ineffectual. We must not let ourselves be led into a head in the oil-sands policy that could defeat the primary purpose.

City Atty. Jacobson has warned that the city testimony should avoid any assumptions or suggestions that subsidence has been caused by the extraction of gas, oil and water from the Wilmington field. It is apparently on that basis that the Council decided to place full responsibility for preparation and presentation in his hands.

This appears to put primary emphasis on the legal questions. But it is clear that this is not purely a legal matter. The problem is three-fold in character—political, engineering and legal.

It could best be dealt with as was originally indicated when the advisory committee was appointed, with the City Manager coordinating the preparation and presentation with the advisory committee. Full use should be made of the corps of technical experts hired to develop a feasible engineering plan. And of course the City Attorney should be the consultant and advisor on all legal problems, including that of liability.

THE COUNCIL'S ACTION of last week, however well intended, failed to assure an effective presentation on a matter of vast importance. It left the advisory committee's status in doubt and it indicated a one-sided view of the problem.

The people who suffer through subsidence are not going to be satisfied if the Council takes refuge in legal quibbles. It cannot escape responsibility for producing a positive program for compiling all the pertinent facts on subsidence and presenting them to the Legislature in such a way as to insure appropriate action.

If it fails in that key responsibility, a separate presentation by a citizens group may have to be undertaken. The Council still has time to assure a solid-front approach. Disjointed presentations have done the city no good in past legislative experiences.

Poland, 1957—The Right to Strike

DREW PEARSON

Congress Should Leave in July, Return to Work in the Autumn

WASHINGTON. — More and more sentiment has developed at this session of Congress for the idea of taking a regular recess in the summer and returning in the fall.

One reason is that younger members of Congress with families must have continuity of schooling for their children. They can't have their children away from Washington in the summer when Congress is in session, then have their children going to school in Washington in the fall when Congress is not in session. A Congressman must be with his family, and his children must be in the same school through the school year. As a result, many young Congressmen are talking about quitting—including some of the best young members of the House.

• • • •

ANOTHER factor is that while Congress has been sweating it out in Washington, most of the cabinet has been away.

Sen. Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota recently put the bee on the cabinet for vacationing while Congress labored in Washington.

"I have a rundown on the itineraries of the cabinet members. They are not here. They are enjoying life," said the senator, who comes from a very beautiful vacation state.

"We have before us a mutual security bill, and the cabinet officer (Dulles) in charge of that responsibility is not here. We have farm legislation," continued Humphrey, "and the cabinet member (Benson) in charge of that responsibility is up in the woods communing with nature.

"We have civil rights legislation and the cabinet officer who made such a great demand for it (Brownell) is away seeing Queen Elizabeth. We have legislation to do with power, and the cabinet officer (Seaton) who has this responsibility is in the Pacific.

"This is the most absentee government in history," said the Senator from Minnesota. "In comparison, Eisenhower almost tends to business.

"I predict," said Humphrey, "that after we get out of town, the cabinet will come trooping back when it's nice and cool here and will proceed to put across a lot of things that they wouldn't dare do if Congress was here watching them. When the weather gets good, they'll come back to town with mean ideas. And there won't be anyone to watch them except Drew Pearson."

NOTE—Humphrey's speech had the effect of bringing several cabinet members back to town.

• • • •

IT'S A FAR cry from making munitions and Ivory soap-it-floats to the schools of the nation, but Neil H. McElroy, the new Secretary of Defense, probably knows more about education than national defense.

It happens that McElroy has spent a good many years in an unselfish crusade for education, first as a member of the National Citizens' Commission for the Public Schools, a privately financed group headed by Roy Larsen of Time Magazine, which was trying to stimulate local interest in schools. Later Eisenhower appointed McElroy to be Chairman of the White House Conference on Education which held a big national conference in Washington in December, 1955.

SEN. HUMPHREY
Hits Cabinet Vacations

For the entire year-and-a-half that this White House conference was being planned, McElroy traveled between Cincinnati and Washington, devoting about a third of his time to education, also contributed his own money to the conference.

There were about 40 members on the preparatory committee, representing varied viewpoints and political attitudes. McElroy proved a good leader, came out with final recommendations for federal aid. This led to the drawing up of the Eisenhower school construction bill which has just died such a stealthy death.

DAVID LAWRENCE

Ike's Naturalness, Candor Refreshing

WASHINGTON—There is something refreshing about President Eisenhower's naturalness and candor. He was asked, for instance, at his press conference this week if the record of Congress this year, which he regards as disappointing, might lead to his taking the stump for a Republican Congress next year in a sort of "modified give-'em-hell campaign." His answer was this:

"Well, I think I will just have to pursue what is natural for me. I believe that anyone who does something that is unnatural and artificial for himself is not effective. Now, what I plead for are the programs that I believe to be good for America. And now it happens that I believe the Republicans have a better program than the Democrats and, to that extent, of course, I am going to be partisan, but primarily I am for the program."

LAWRENCE

The reference to a "give-'em-hell campaign" was, of course based on the kind of stump speaking which Harry Truman boasted about in 1948.

There isn't any need to imitate Mr. Truman, for there are dignified ways to deal with a hostile Congress. Mr. Eisenhower, to a remarkable degree, retains the esteem of the American people. He has no selfish interest in government or politics. He is not eligible for a third term. His reward can come only in the satisfaction that he has served the American people faithfully. The President's efforts to conciliate rather than to antagonize Congress have been in conformity with his whole approach to problems of human conflict. For this reason, he has a real oportunity to cary to the American people his case for the enactment of a constructive legislative program.

Mr. Eisenhower needs only to go back to first principles and explain to the country why the American system of government cannot be effective if it is divided in a time of crisis. It is especially dangerous when a lack of responsibility is manifested.

After all, Mr. Eisenhower might well argue that, in the elections of 1956, the nation did place the responsibility for the legislative program in Congress on the Democratic party.

This is an inescapable fact and so simple that every voter who understands the principles of the Constitution can grasp it at once. For the President cannot by himself make the laws nor can he use any force except the force of public opinion to persuade Congress to pass the laws he recommends and is willing to sign.

• • • •

THERE IS a tremendous force in the impromptu remarks Mr. Eisenhower did make at his press conference, especially when he expressed his disappointment at the lack of action by Congress on "a long list of recommendations" that he made last January. He said:

"Of course I am disappointed, because these things that I talk about are not pet projects of my own. I have no particular personal reason—other than that of a concern for all of the United States of America — for wanting them passed, but that reason is governing and controlling with me.

• • • •

"AS A MATTER of fact, it is the only reason I think anyone has a right to occupy the job I do if he does feel that way. And, therefore, for the sake of the United States, I am tremendously disappointed that so many of these bills have not been acted on, and in some cases they not even have held hearings. Now, the details of them, there is no use going into now. They are long things. They apply to everything from the country's finances, the welfare of our people, mutual aid—and right down the line."

Other Presidents, particularly Woodrow Wilson, have expressed in more formal language and style than this, but none more eloquently, the concept of presidential leadership which is fundamental in the American governmental system.

Hosmer Would Quiet GOP Fears, but Lists Some Big 'Ifs'

IT'S A MATTER, says Rep. Craig Hosmer, of getting "mentally prepared."

That's the word from the Long Beach Congressman to Republicans who are steamed up with worry over the prospects of a hot primary fight between Gov. Knight and Sen. Knowland next year, with the GOP gubernatorial nomination as the prize.

EPLEY

Hosmer, in a "special memo" to GOP leaders hereabouts, says that IF they will look on the primary election in its true light—and IF the contenders conduct themselves properly — there need be no harm to the party from a Knight-Knowland duel.

There are some fair-sized "ifs" in Hosmer's proposition.

ANOTHER IF is implied in his definition of a primary: "An election in which only members of a party take part for the purpose of selecting the candidates they all will get behind at the following general election contest with the other party's candidates."

From the party standpoint, it would be fine IF all would get behind the party's nominees after a primary contest. But there's no assurance that will happen in any primary, and if it did, on the Democratic side, Republicans wouldn't get elected in California. If Democrats "all got behind" Democratic candidates, it would be a sad day for the GOP in a state where its well behind in voter registration. But of course, "all" the Democrats never do.

What Rep. Hosmer really means is that Republicans ought all to get behind the nominated Republican candidates after the primary. As a Republican and a good Congressman who always gets a barrel of Democratic votes, he can't possibly want the Democrats to apply the same standards.

Rep. Hosmer, we can be sure, is sending his memo only to Republicans.

THE LOCAL Congressman no doubt expressed the wish of most Republicans when he suggests the need for the contenders carrying on their campaigns in such a way as not to hurt the party's chances in the succeeding general election.

It won't be easy, however, if the Knight-Knowland fight develops. Gov. Knight, in announcing for re-election, took a shot at Sen. Knowland, and probably is thinking up some more things to say about the Senator's purported ambitions to be Governor and President. Knowland has been more restrained, but Knowland isn't openly a candidate as yet.

It would be unusual, indeed, for there to be a hot political contest without the embattled contenders saying some unfavorable things about each other. And that furnishes ammunition for the opposition later on, in case the exchanges of criticism occur between two primary candidates of the same party.

For example Adlai Stevenson and Estes Kefauver were frequently uncomplimentary in their remarks about each other, when both were seeking the 1956 Democratic Presidential nomination. That fall, the Republicans were able to use a lot of those things effectively, with Stevenson and Kefauver paired on the Democratic ticket.

Knight and Knowland may not get bitter enough about each other to drive Republicans into voting for the Democratic candidate in November, but they may weaken the appeal of the GOP primary winner for getting those needed Democratic votes in November.

BUT THAT'S a chance that has to be taken sometimes. As Hosmer says in his memo, the primary is legally established procedure and should be regarded as the "natural way" of doing things.

Even in speeches in which he has deplored the danger of a fight between himself and Knowland, Gov. Knight has declared his firm belief in the principles of the open primary. If Knowland runs, he'll simply be exercising his right under those principles.

Answers Letter Belittling Hoover

TO THE EDITOR:

With regard to the letter by Don Anderson questioning the charity and humanitarianism of former President Herbert Hoover, I would like to tell a brief story.

I hired a man to work on a farm in Artesia in 1951 who had one ear almost eaten away with cancer. He told me that he had had a successful trucking operation in Oklahoma several years before and lost it paying for doctor bills trying to cure the cancer which was affecting not only his ear but also his eyes.

He came to California and got a job on a ranch in Kern County and after being there a year or two the cancer was causing enough trouble that he thought he would lose his sight.

• • • •

ONE DAY the owner of the ranch came out into the field and asked this farm worker if he would like to get his ear taken care of. His reply was yes, so he was told to go to the ranch superintendent, who would give him a letter and instructions to go to San Francisco by train where he would be met and taken to Palo Alto by auto.

The letter was to be presented to a doctor who was the personal physician of the ranch owner. On arrival in Palo Alto he went to a hospital and after examination the cancer was treated, and after several weeks he was home cured with all bills paid by the ranch owner — the Honorable ex-President of the United States, Herbert Hoover.

Demos Sought Hoover Help

TO THE EDITOR:

I wish to ask Don Anderson, who took issue with your Hoover editorial, just who did the most damage to our country—our great humanitarian that was blocked in his efforts to fight the depression, or the successor who was responsible for our being sold out at the Yalta conference.

I notice that Mr. Hoover was always asked by Democratic President to do difficult jobs for charity on an international scale. These were matters with which he was not personally concerned, since he had sufficient funds for his own comfort.

I think Mr. Anderson has made a foot-in-mouth remark.

Puts Inflation Blame on Profits

TO THE EDITOR:

A Mr. Campbell flatly states in a letter to the forum that "the cause of inflation is the unions demanding and getting higher wages."

I claim that excessive corporation profits are to blame for inflation. Here are some facts to back up my claim.

This year U. S. Steel had a net profit of $115 million compared to $104 million for the first quarter of last year. The amazing part is that this $11 million profit increase came about at a time when it was producing and selling less steel than in the first quarter of 1956.

• • • •

GENERAL ELECTRIC reported that its first quarter net profit was up 16 per cent over last year. GE's net income for the first quarter was $64 million compared with $54 million the same period last year.

General Motors had a net profit of $261 million for the first quarter. It paid out dividends of $412 million and, get this, set aside $28 million for managerial bonuses. It also put $119 million into surplus.

Ford profits were up 36 per cent after its net sales passed the $1½ billion mark.

Sure hope there is no earthquake or flood soon. Surely the unions would get blamed for them.

Opposes 'Grove' Dump Proposal

TO THE EDITOR:

A large crowd of irate citizens of Garden Grove were at the city hall this week opposing a dump being opened in the center of a residential and commercial area.

Although there were more people present against than for, the City Council passed the issue. Does this represent public opinion?

All those who spoke in favor seemed to be directly concerned and making a financial gain from operating the dump. Are these people making money more important than our children? There are three schools very close to this site.

• • • •

THE TRAFFIC would be more hazardous than before. And what small boy can stay away from such an "exciting" place as a dump? The hole is dangerous enough, but holes have been filled before without making dumps of them.

We are paying taxes to improve our city. This doesn't seem like much of an improvement.

Why can't we have a public vote? The people don't want to live in "Garbage" Grove.

MRS. DONALD WAGNER
11782 John Ave.,
Garden Grove.

Any Such Thing As 'Clean' Dump

TO THE EDITOR:

According to Garden Grove's City Council, we are destined to become a city with the distinction of having a dump in our front yard. Are we to have the fragrance of orange blossoms or the stench of, and the sight of, a "clean" dump?

Is there such a thing as a clean dump? Can we accept the promises that there will be nothing in this dump to attract insect and especially rodent pests? If there are these pests (which will be impossible to keep out) at the dump, will they stay inside the fence? Will our children stay out?

• • • •

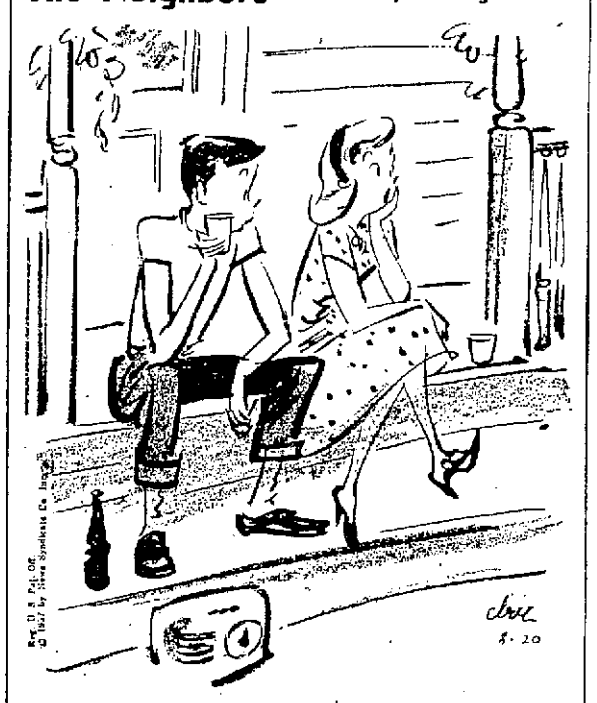

IN SPITE of strong opposition to this move, evidenced by the large number of homeowners and tax-payers present at last night's meeting, the City Council voted for making this site into a public dump. Notwithstanding the fact that there are four public schools in close proximity to this dump, there are commercial establishments dealing in selling food who will suffer when this dump begins operations.

Since our City Council shows such little regard for the wishes and health of our people let us VOTE in men who will have only one master to serve, the people of Garden Grove.

Student's Voice-Controlled Bed Aids Polio Victim

SHE SPEAKS, AND BED MOVES

Post-polio patient Mrs. Barbara Japhat, paralyzed from the neck down, has found new independence with a specially developed control unit which enables her to move her bed up or down by speaking into a microphone. Inventors of the device are Whittier College physics student Bill Morton (center and his physics professor, Dr. David Bender (right)

WHITTIER—The science of physics has solved a big problem for Mrs. Barbara Japhat, 9209 S. Mills St.

She can raise or lower her bed simply by speaking to it.

This is mighty important to Mrs. Japhat, a post-polio patient. The disease left her paralyzed from the neck down.

The bed which moves at the direction of the voice was invented especially for her by a Whittier College physics student, Bill Morton, and his physics professor, Dr. David Bender.

Morton, a member of the junior class, became interested in the project about six months ago while working in a radio-television repair shop. Somemone mentioned the problem of finding a bed that could be maneuvered by the paralyzed woman.

The physics student dabbled with the project for four months. Whenever he became stumped on a question or circuitry or switching, he would query his professor, Dr. Bender.

Finally they came up with a compact control unit hooked up to a pair of microphones. The sound of a voice would maneuver the bed.

When Mrs. Jahpat wants to move the bed up, she makes a steady sound into the mikes. When the sound stops, the bed stops. Then, the next time she makes a sound, the bed moves in the opposite direction.

The discovery has given her a new independence. But she's not content to stop there.

Her next project is to establish a babysitting agency through the aid of special telephones now being developed for her.

2 More Russ Warships in North Sea

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, (UP)—Two more Soviet warships steamed out of the Baltic into the North Sea Saturday on a mystery mission believed aimed at impressing the West with Russia's naval might.

The two Red vessels—the second group of Russian warships to enter Western waters in four days—were the latest model cruiser "Admiral Ushakov" and an unidentified destroyer.

The two Soviet ships sailed through the narrow Skaggerak Strait between Denmark and Norway and passed the Skaw lighthouse into the North Sea shortly after dawn.

The "Admiral Ushakov" is a sister ship of the Soviet cruiser "Mikhail Kutuzov," which only Wednesday sailed out of the Baltic with the destroyer "Bezukoriznennyi," en route to the Mediterranean.

Moscow Radio disclosed earlier this week that the first two Soviet warships were going to Communist Albania on a "courtesy visit." But the destination of the Admiral Ushakov and its attendant destroyer was a mystery.

Some reports said the vessels were following the first two ships into the Mediterranean where they would join other warships which recently arrived from the Black Sea to pose a powerful threat to the U.S. 6th Fleet.

Other reports said the Admiral Ushakov was en route to join the Soviet arctic fleet at Murmansk.

Danish naval observers said the sudden movements of the two big Soviet "Sverdlovsk" destroyers—one of the most powerful warship classes in the world—may have been meant by the Russians as a warning to the West of Red naval power.

The NATO powers will soon begin Baltic naval maneuvers. While it was not thought the Russians would attempt to interfere in these exercises, the psychological effect of the movement of the Russian warships in the area, was seen as a potent reason for their appearance.

The official Soviet navy newspaper "Red Fleet" charged Friday night that western submarines and planes had harassed the Mikhail Kutuzov and the destroyer Bzukoriznennyi constantly during their passage from the Baltic earlier this week.

The report, from a special correspondent with the ships, said British and West German planes flew low over the two Soviet warships while they were passing through the English Channel.

It also charged that Danish submarines tailed the Red ships so closely they were in constant danger of collision.

Planes Full, Tourists Stranded

LONDON (AP) — Several dozen American tourists returning from European vacations were stranded at London Airport Saturday night as three airlines reported fully booked flights to New York.

It was the second day of travel chaos at the airport, and some Americans were getting anxious.

British Overseas Airways Corp., Trans World Airlines and Pan American Airways all reported tourist flights booked to the hilt.

"This is usually a busy season, but there has been an unusual rush of passengers coming to the airport at short notice for flights to New York," an airport official said.

PLANNED FOR NEW MODELS

Device 'Curbs' Car Speed

HAGERSTOWN, Ind. (AP) — An automatic speed control device for motor vehicles has been invented by the blind ex-president of Perfect Circle Corp. here.

Designed by Ralph R. Teetor, 67, who retired last May, the speedostat will enable a driver to select any cruising speed and maintain it without effort.

Teetor, blind since he was 5, got the idea while riding on a turnpike in fast traffic. He worked on it for 13 years in his home workship. Perfect Circle is producing the device and said three car manufacturers plan to include the speedostat as optional equipment on 1958 models.

By using a dial on the dashboard or steering column, the driver chooses the speed he wants.

When the auto reaches the desired speed, a warning back-pressure develops on the accelerator. If the driver wants to momentarily exceed his pre-set limit, he pressed a little harder on the gas pedal and over-rides the back pressure. Relax the extra pressure, and the car returns to the pre-set speed.

When a motorist wants to cruise steadily over long periods he simply attains his pre-set speed and pushes a button recessed in the speed selector. The speedostat takes over, and the driver can remove his foot from the gas pedal while his car moves along at an even rate, automatically compensating for hills.

A touch of the brake pedal releases the device.

Perfect Circle officials say the speedostat's "live" back-pressure on the gas pedal should remind a motorist he is trying to go faster than he intended and thus serve as a safety guard.

SECTION B

YOU never can tell when a little item here is going to raise a big fuss.

And so it did when I reported Nancy Varnier's observation of a sign on the old Brayton Theater which she said read: "Boys Clubs of America Promoting Juvenile Delinquency."

I wrote it as she told it to me, and took the next day off. I missed a barrage of telephone calls that kept poor Anne Barrows, my patient secretary, glued to the instrument all day.

"For heaven's sake," she pleaded, next morning, tell the world that sign out at the Brayton says 'juvenile decency', not delinquency."

I took a run out there, and the word is decency.

FROM Miss Varnier herself comes a note, confessing she and her mother misread the sign on the theater marquee.

"I guess it doesn't pay to look for laughs," she added. "We read them when they aren't there."

Well, she's not the only person who has misread that sign. Evidently, people are so accustomed to seeing the word "delinquency" coupled with juvenile" that they read them that way, regardless.

Mrs. Hibbard Fellows writes that she and her husband both misread the Brayton sign several times. She adds:

"We saw what it really did say about 1 a. m. one morning when we were on our way to the hospital to welcome our third baby."

With their minds, no doubt, on some very decent little juveniles.

ON THE sixth floor at Buffums' there is a display of bird cages and similar equipment.

And the other day a handsome parakeet flew in the window, looked about for a few moments, selected the most elaborate and expensive cage of them all, and flew right in.

The bird, no doubt, was a female.

SEN. Soaper, whose quips appear on the P-T editorial page, suggested the other day that the post office dept. might develop a dry three-cent stamp which can survive a hot day in a shirt pocket.

The item was seen by Ray Hemmerlin, who reported the method is already here without expense to the p. o.

When you purchase stamps in hot weather, he advises, just stroke them across your hair and the reaction of the oil in your hair places a film on the glue which resists body moisture.

A good idea—if you're not baldheaded.

PASSING through our bailiwick last week was Raymond R. Best, who is state supervisor for the federal interior dept.'s Bureau of Land Management, and who told us a story with a familiar ring.

Bro. Best recalled that back in the early days of the century his father owned seven and a half acres of land on Signal Hill. It turned out to be something of a white elephant, and after a few years, when he moved to Seattle, the elder Best exchanged his Signal Hill property for a piece of real estate at Port Angeles, Wash.

The younger Best, who received it as a part of the estate, later sold the Port Angeles property for $4500.

He gets up a sweat when he thinks of what he might sell that seven and a half acres on Signal Hill for if his dad had held onto it.

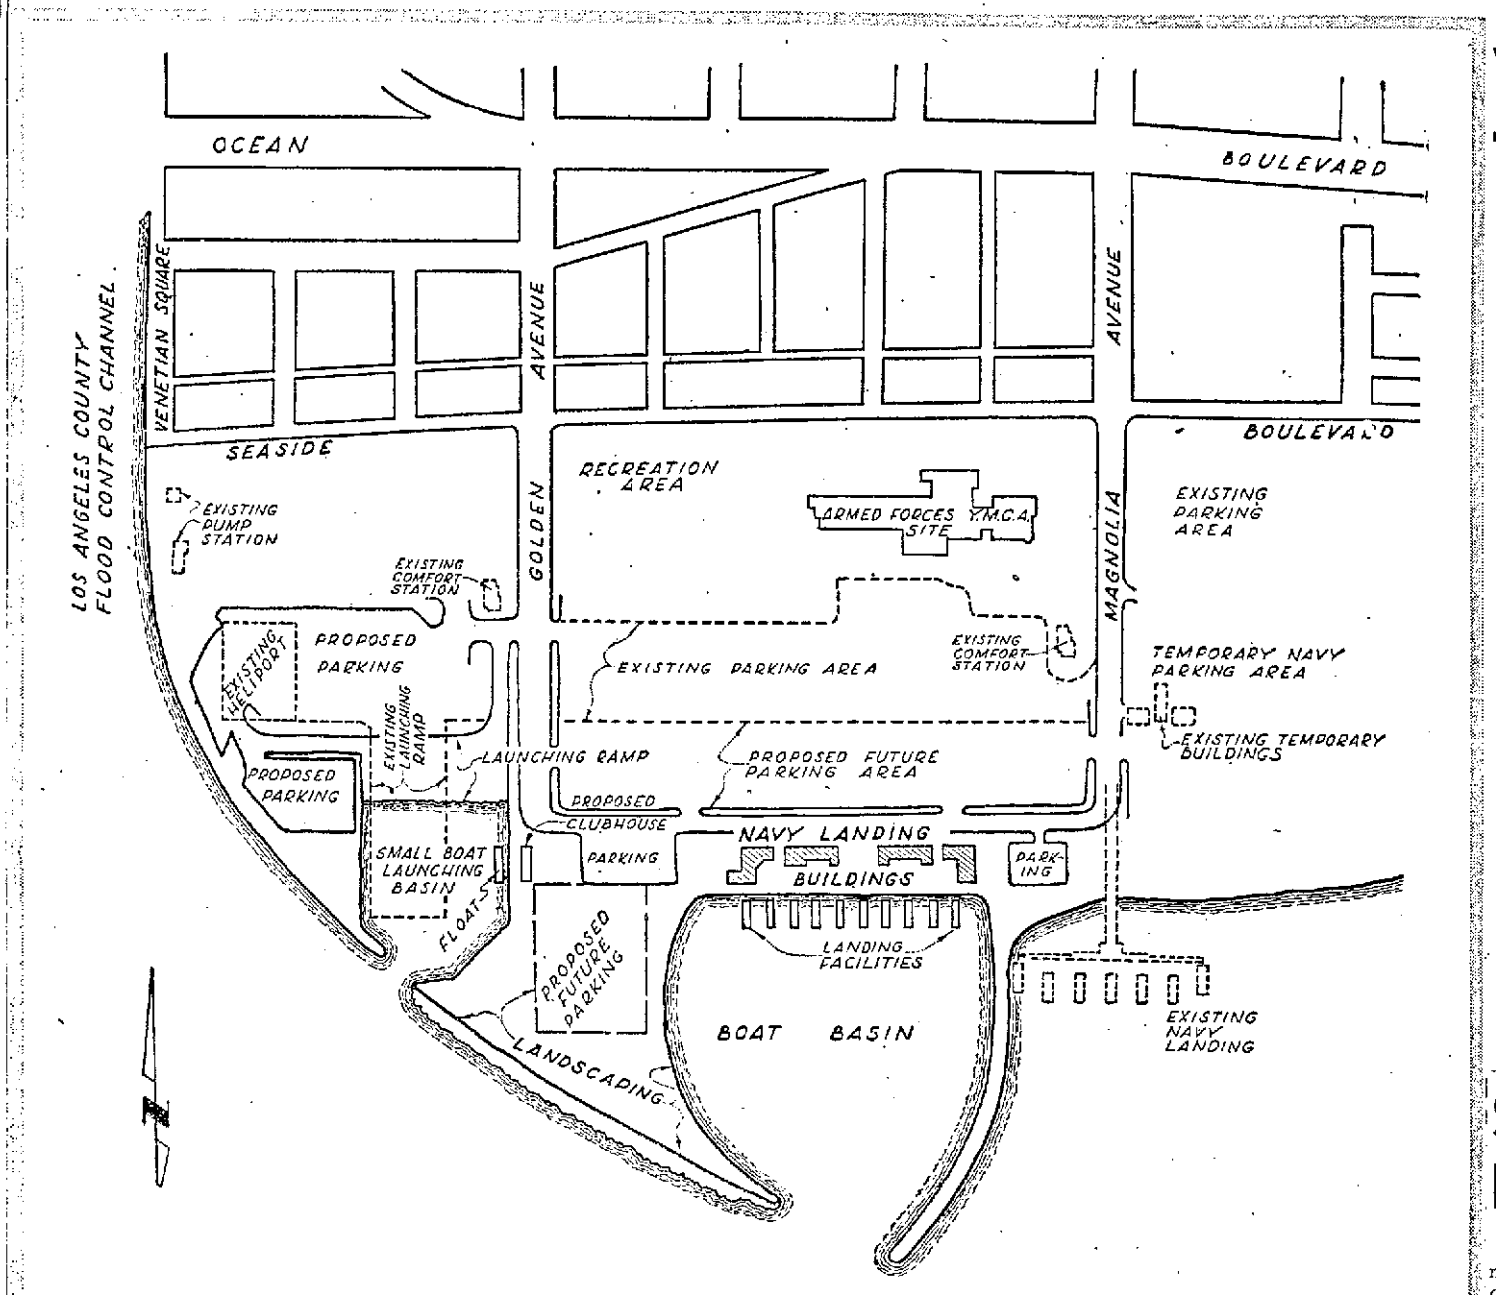

LAST Sunday I had a little discussion here about "jumps" of newspaper stories from one page to another, and how they irritate readers.

Now comes a note from J. Jones, who reads a paper as everybody should.

"I start at the top of the left hand side of the front page and read everything on that page, then I turn to Page 2 and do the same, and so until I have read the complete paper."

That's the ticket!

MAP PRESENTS Features of Proposed Development of West Beach

Work to Clear Way for Navy's Landing

By LEE CRAIG

The long-awaited $5,500,000 development of the city's west beach area—including the new Navy Landing—will begin Wednesday when Pacific Dredging Co. will set up shop off Magnolia Pier in the first phase of the two-year program.

The dredging firm, in a three-month operation, will dump 900,000 cubic yards of fill into the Navy Landing basin, reducing the water dept from a present maximum of 80 feet up to about 15 feet.

Dredging will be conducted right in the middle of the city's most popular water skiing and small boat area. A life guard boat will patrol the region to keep small craft at a safe distance.

SKIERS AND BOATSMEN will probably accept the situation with good grace, however, when they learn of a revision in original plans of the development.

Now, plans call for construction of a new, larger small boat launching ramp, more than double the size of the present facility.

Brainchild of Deputy City Engineer B. E. McCune, the ramp will be 300 feet wide and much more narrow, to obviate problems of boat owners in backing their trailers to the water. Equally important, the ramp will be protected by a "quiet water basin," which will slow silt deposits at the foot of the ramp and eliminate troublesome waves in the launching area.

PARKING SPACE for the boatsmen will be enlarged to about four times its present capacity.

The present ramp will be in operation for about another six months. After that, until completion of the project, facilities will be provided elsewhere by the city.

Second stage of the development, to follow completion of the fill, will include construction of bulkheads and seawalls and bringing the land behind them up to grade. New landing floats will also go in at this time.

In the final phase, land improvements will be made. These include construction of officers' and enlisted men's waiting rooms, restaurant and cafeteria, a shore patrol building, parking lots, landscaping and the new launching ramp.

The Navy's present floats at Magnolia Pier will be used until the entire project is completed in 1959.

Father, Son Hurt in Harbor Mishap

SAN PEDRO (UP)—Col. B. L. Freeman, 45, and his son, Gary, 10, of 100 Strand Ave., Manhattan Beach, suffered minor face cuts early Saturday when their 19-foot cabin cruiser hit the breakwater at San Pedro harbor and capsized.

Freeman and the boy were rescued by the Coast Guard after they had been hurled into the water from their boat, Tatsu Maru. The vessel was towed to Pierpoint Landing to be righted.

CAUSING TRAFFIC PROBLEM

Homemade 'Cars' Spell Trouble

A box, a board, old tricycle wheels and a motor from a lawn mower — they make a dandy homemade car.

But if the driver of such a car is under 16 years old, chances are the vehicle is being operated illegally.

That's on the authority of Juvenile Bureau Superintendent Joseph M. Kennick, who says the "nondescript" vehicles are causing a summer traffic problem.

* * * *

KENNICK SAYS if young drivers of these jerry-built cars persist in running down pedestrians, their parents face criminal complaints not to mention civil liability.

He says complaints will be filed in the city prosecutor's office against these parents for allowing a minor child to operate the cars without a driver's license.

* * * *

"THE FACT that these vehicles were built at home out of odds and ends does not change the fact that these cars are self-powered and their drivers must conform to the state code."

Kennick says that the homemade cars can be operated legally only on private property.

* * * *

HE SUGGESTS that interested youngsters persuade their parents to lease vacant land where a track can be developed and the cars operated without danger to others.

The popularity of the cars increases during the summertime, Kennick says. One surg sign: Thefts of motors from lawnmowers are on the increase, according to the Police Department.

Tourist's Pants, Wallet Stolen

A Missouri tourist enjoying a day at the beach reported the theft of his pants and billfold while he was swimming Saturday.

Edward H. McVey, 28, presently staying in Los Angeles, told police that he had gone swimming, and had left his clothes unguarded. When he returned, only his shirt and shoes remained.

The billfold contained $23 and identification papers.

Suspend Licenses at 3 L.B. Taverns

SACRAMENTO — The State Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control has ordered five-day suspensions of the licenses of three Long Beach bars on charges of selling liquor to minors or permitting them to consume it.

In each case, a 15-day suspension was ordered but the department stayed 10 days of each suspension if no further violations occur.

The suspensions were ordered for the on-sale beer license of Raymond K. Henderson, The Beacon, 5436-40 Atlantic Ave.; Black-Burke, Inc., the Sundown, 6446 Paramount Blvd., and Maurine P. Smith, 5297 E. 2nd St.

REGIONAL POLITICS

Sen. Knowland May Announce Intentions at L.B. Gathering

By THE LOOKOUT

A Republican gathering in Long Beach in mid-September, billed prosaically as the quarterly meeting of the Board of Directors of the California Republican Assembly, is building up in prospect into one of the year's significant political events, bound to attract national attention.

For the main speaker will be U. S. Sen. W. F. Knowland, who will make the major address of his California tour at a Saturday night dinner here and may pick this as the occasion to reveal if he intends to run for Governor of California.

Because of the hot interest in Knowland's appearance, the California Assembly conference is expected to attract unusual attendance, with an exceptionally large representation by the press. Out-of-state writers are expected to augment California's regular corps of political journalists, who of course will be here in full force.

The national interest is heightened by the possibility that Knowland will be a top contender for the GOP presidential nomination in 1960.

* * * *

KNOWLAND WILL speak at a dinner in the Grand Ballroom of the Lafayette Hotel on Sept. 14. The press announcement says he will give a review of the present session of Congress and a discussion of Republican politics in the state and nation. There have been strong hints from Washington that he will declare his future plans some time during his visit here.

Rep. Craig Hosmer of Long Beach is the other major speaker on the conference program. He will address a noon luncheon Saturday. The conference will get underway Friday with registration, there will be unit breakfasts on Saturday, and the board of directors of the Assembly will meet Sunday.

SENATOR KNOWLAND
Governor's Race?

* * * *

THE CALIFORNIA Republican Assembly is a volunteer organization of Republicans, with units in most areas. Jane Storm and Warren Doherty of Long Beach are on the arrangements committee. Tickets for the Knowland dinner and other events may be obtained from Mrs. W. H. Gillis (HEmlock 5-9926); Doherty (HEmlock 8-6500) or, after 5 p.m., from Mrs. Helen Mozingo (GArfield 5-2416). Reservations for hotel rooms should be made directly with the Lafayette.

FINCH ON SWITCH — Atty. Robert Finch, chairman of the Los Angeles County Republican Central committee, told a San Diego audience yesterday that he is strongly against a proposed movement of Democrats to infiltrate the Republican Party in an attempt to influence the outcome of the 1958 GOP primary.

Finch referred to a recent statement from an AFL union leader that some union members, now registered as Democrats, might re-register as Republicans before the 1958 primary. Many union Democrats are favorable to GOP Gov. Goodwin Knight, who faces a possible battle with U. S. Sen. Knowland for the governorship nomination.

* * * *

REPUBLICANS, Finch said at San Diego, are interested in "full-time, not part-time" union members in the GOP. He claimed the proposed re-registering would be a step to "undermine the traidition of the state and nation in the selection of candidates for public office."

He said he thought both Knight and Knowland ought to discourage the proposed move.

Not all politicos share Finch's views, however. One of the advantages of lively primary contests is that they attract voters to a party. The Republicans, long behind in California voter registration, might garner some permanent registrants among union members if the 1958 switch develops.

Woman Dies; Shot in Holdup

COMPTON—Mrs. Virgie Aiken, 69, died Saturday of a gunshot wound inflicted by a masked bandit who held up her grocery store at 12601 S. Harris St. Friday afternoon.

The bandit, described by customers in the store as "youthful," wore a white towel mask. He escaped with $70, fleeing in an auto with two other youths—one described as "red-headed."

* * * *

THE BANDIT held customers in the store at gunpoint, then went to Mrs. Aiken's living quarters at the rear of the store. Witnesses said they heard the shot soon after.

Mrs. Aiken was taken to Community Medical Building and transferred to General Hospital where she died Saturday morning.

Dear Mac:

We feel that the following interesting facts should be called to your attention. The Independent Press-Telegram has always been among the outstanding newspapers in producing sales for our many home-builder clients, but here are the results of a recent truly phenomenal sales producing campaign.

Garden Grove Sunshine Homes, consisting of 38 homes, sold out in five weeks at an advertising-display cost of $905.25; (or approximately $24.00 per home,) in your newspaper. 89% of the purchasers read the Garden Grove Sunshine Homes advertisements in the Independent Press-Telegram.

We believe that these results were accomplished by presenting the right product. . . advertised in a properly selected media with a strong motivating message, the combination of which produced maximum results at a minimum cost for our client.

Sincerely,

FEELING OF ISOLATION STRONGEST EMOTION

Earth Still Looks Huge Even 19 Miles Up

NEW YORK (UP) — The Air Force doctor who hovered at record levels for 32 hours in a space capsule dangling from a balloon said Saturday the earth looked much larger from 100,000 feet than he had expected.

Maj. David G. Simons, 34, told a news conference that the man in the moon appeared to him just about as clearly etched as when seen from the ground, but the view of the earth was spectacular.

"My strongest emotion during the flight was one of complete isolation in a completely hostile environment," the Air Force doctor said.

"It was a truly inspiring sight. The view left me the impression, not of a small earth as you would expect, but rather of an immense one. I saw the horizon, a perfectly smooth, clean curve, some 400 miles away."

* * * *

SIMONS, head of the space biology branch of the aero-medical laboratory at Holloman Air Force Base, Alamagordo, N. M., came here from Baltimore, Md., where he received the distinguished flying cross for establishing a new balloon altitude record of 102,000 feet.

He came to New York to appear on several television shows. He was accompanied by Col. John Stapp, chief aero-medical officer at Holloman, and Mr. and Mrs. Otto Winzen, heads of the Winzen Research Company, who made the big balloon that carried Simons aloft.

"I never was in doubt that the experiment would succeed," Simons said.

He said thta the experimental flight was just a "nibble" at space flight, but proved that it is psychologically and physically possible for man to exist on the outer edges of the earth's atmosphere.

The ascension was made to study not only the atmospheric conditions 19 miles in the air but also to determine whether pilots would be able to survive flights to that level.

Simons went up from Minnesota and came down in South Dakota. He began his experiment Monday and landed Tuesday.

Diamond-Finder Claimed by Russ

MOSCOW (AP) — Here is the latest Russian invention — "a locating and harvesting machine", for the new Siberian diamond fields.

Moscow radio said the new device has been tested successfully and performs almost automatically, locating and extracting the gems from the earth. Two hundred diamond snatchers are under construction, the broadcast said.

Queen's Kin Dies

LONDAN (UP) — The Hon. Malcolm Bowes-Lyon, great uncle of Queen Elizabeth, died here Friday. He was 83. Bowes-Lyon was the 7th son of the 13th earl of Strathmore. He was a retired lieutenant-colonel.

Ford Rejects Reuther Price-Cut Proposal

DETROIT (AP) — Ford Motor Co. Saturday made unanimous the big three car makers' rejection of Walter Reuther's proposal they cut prices on 1958 models in a union-management move to combat inflation.

Replying to the United Auto Workers' chief, Henry Ford II said the company's pricing policies were not a subject for collective bargaining.

The Ford Motor Co. president agreed with Reuther that inflation is a serious problem but Ford said, "We will not solve the problem with propaganda broadsides."

Ford's refusal to go along with Reuther's plan was based on similar reasons previously offered by General Motors and Chrysler. Neither Ford nor Chrysler, however, suggested, as GM did, that the present three-year contracts be extended two years as a "contribution to economic stability."

Reuther had promised to make unspecified concessions in the union's contract demands next year if the companies cut prices on 1958 models this fall by an average of at least $100.

Ford told Reuther the "rapid increase in wages of automobile workers over the past 10 years —which were negotiated under the duress of your demands — have unquestionably contributed to inflation."

CONFIDENTIAL JITTERS

Stars Cringe Over Disclosures

HOLLYWOOD (UP) — The movie capital's big-name stars had the "Confidential jitters" Saturday as they awaited new courtroom disclosures about tattletales who sold spicy tidbits to the scandal magazine.

The Confidential Magazine criminal libel case enters its fourth week in Superior Court Monday.

So far the names of more than two-score stars have been spread upon the court record and others are expected to be added next week.

* * * *

NAMED TO DATE, either as subjects of racy Confidential stories read to the jury or as being involved in purported escapades, have been:

But as the sensational trial neared a climax, it appeared increasingly unlikely any star would testify.

The husband of one, Corinne Calvet, was quoted by defense attorney Arthur Crowley out of court as having declared his wife would be "blackballed" by the movie industry if she testified a Confidential story about her was true. The French actress, meanwhile, publicly branded the tale as false.

Most of the stars mentioned in testimony so far have remained discreetly quiet.

Four Chinese Spies Sentenced

LONDON (UP)—Red China announced Saturday night four Chinese accused of spying for the United States have been sentenced to prison terms ranging from eight years to life.

Peiping Radio said the four landed in Liaoning Province in 1955 and were captured with a collection of spy equipment ranging from ultraviolet flashlights to pistols and daggers.

Maj. Wang Tsung-Tu, described as "a reactionary military man and agent for 27 years," received the life sentence.

Blaze Encircles Town, 50 Homes Evacuated

PLATTSBURGH, N.Y. (UP)—A raging forest fire almost circled the little village of Altona in Northern New York Saturday night but fire-fighters had established a fire line they hoped would save the community.

About 50 residents of the village, which has a population of 400, had evacuated their homes. Plans to move others were postponed after the fire line was established and the wind died down at nightfall.

The fire, worst in the state in 13 years, had raced to within 3,000 feet of Altona's outskirts before it was halted, at least temporarily.

About 3,500 acres of scrub forest near the Canadian border have been charred since the fire broke out last Monday.

More than 700 weary volunteers were reported fighting the fire during the day.

No injuries have been reported.

Elections Approved

GUATEMALA (UP) — Guatemala's Congress has voted 36-12 to hold congressional elections Oct. 20 and a government majority indicated today the presidential election may be set for the same date.

Ford's New Edsel Line First of 1958 Models

By DAVID J. WILKIE
Associated Press Automotive Editor

DETROIT (AP)—The first 1958 model car will be given its press preview next Tuesday with the presentation of Ford's much-publicized Edsel line. The new line with models at the top and bottom of the medium-price bracket will go on dealer display and sale Sept. 4.

The preview presentation itself will be somewhat elaborate. Working representatives of newspapers, trade publications, radio and television and other organizations have been invited from virtually all sections of the country. They have been invited to bring their wives for whom special entertainment will be provided.

Details of the several new series of Edsel models will be disclosed by the manufacturers on Tuesday. Most of them already are rather widely known, including such innovations as pushbutton controls mounted in the hub of the steering wheel and the large vertical oval in the grille.

Gossip has it also that the Edsel series will have the highest horsepower of any conventional volume production car so far presented. The Edsel Division expects to have 20,000 of the new cars in dealers' hands when they go on sale. The price tag will be announced at that time.

Ford already has disclosed that development of Edsel line cost more than 250 million dollars.

The Edsel division has set up a retailing organization of some 1,200 dealerships. In a relatively few instances the Edsel will be sold by retailers handling some other Ford line. This will be done where it is figured the territory cannot support a single dealership.

After the dealer introduction of the Edsel there will be no additional public presentations for several weeks. However, Buick, broadly redesigned and with a new body shell, will be previewed on Sept. 11. Oldsmobile will come on Oct. 1 and previews of the Chevrolet and Ford cars will be held in mid-October. Their public introduction will be made near the end of October.

The program, of course, means there will be no major shutdowns for model changeovers until mid-September. Meanwhile the car makers are aiming at the production this month of around 521,000 cars. Only a small percentage of these will be 1958 models.

Air suspension, mainly as an optional item, undoubtedly will be the most widely adopted engineering advance to appear in the forthcoming new models. Its cost probably will vary because of numerous types of the system to be offered.

The industry's decision to run out its 1957 model output on a high volume level suggests the manufacturers expect no great difficulty with the outgoing model cleanup. Many retailers disagree with this view.

In round figures the industry will have built 4,300,000 cars during this year's January-August period. Production will be off substantially in September because of the new model changeovers, although gossip has it the General Motors switchovers will be made this year with a minimum of shutdown time.

It is being said that even the drastic restyling by Chevrolet and Pontiac will not be permitted to stretch out the changeover assembly line idleness. Chevrolet obviously is trying to overtake Ford Division which has held first place in production and sales since early in January.

The Ford lead in factory output has been cut down to around 13,000 units.

MEL BURNS SIGNS EDSEL FRANCHISE

Paul W. Pursley, Los Angeles district sales manager for Edsel Division, left, discusses the Edsel sales agreement with Mel Burns, right, who has just been named Edsel dealer for the Long Beach area. The new dealership, known as Doncl Edsel Sales Inc., is located at 2055 American Ave. Burns also handles the Ford automobile at another location in Long Beach.

WORLD OF WHEELS

Mel Burns Awarded Franchise for Edsel

By ART STEPHAN
Independent-Press-Telegram Auto Editor

Now its official. Paul W. Pursley, Los Angeles district sales manager for Ford Motor Company's Edsel Division, last week announced that Mel Burns has been awarded an Edsel sales agreement for Long Beach.

Burns, who has been a Ford dealer in Long Beach since 1946, will handle the Edsel at 2055 American Ave. under the name of Donel Edsel Sales Inc. He will continue to handle the Ford at his present location.

The appointment of Jack Putney as sales manager was announced by Burns.

The announcement of the Long Beach Edsel dealership coincided with similar announcement of Edsel franchises in Southern California. Additional dealers will be appointed as sales agreements are formalized, according to Pursley.

The Edsel line was scheduled to go into production July 15th in six Ford Motor Company assembly plants throughout the nation. Locally the top Corsair and Citation series will be assembled at the Los Angeles Mercury plant No. 2. The Ranger and Pacer series will be built in the Ford assembly plant near San Jose.

Cooties Start Fun in VFW Convention

MIAMI BEACH (UP) — The colorful Military Order of the Cooties Saturday night kicked off fun-making preliminaries of the 58th annual encampment of the Veterans of Foreign Wars with an "everything can happen" parade through this tourist center's swank shopping district.

The organization expected 30,000 members from 10,000 posts will be on hand for first general sessions Monday.

SIMCA FEATURES RECLINING SEATS

Here's a comely lass who takes it easy while enjoying a cigarette, relaxing in the reclining seat of her French Simca. Pearrs Bros. Buick, 17200 Lakewood Blvd., has been named to handle the popular French automobile in the Bellflower area. Ninety miles per hour, effortless handling and 35 miles per gallon of gasoline are claimed for the pride of the French auto industry.

Soviet Finally Frees Anti-Red Visitor

AMSTERDAM (UP) — A Harvard University law graduate who was bitterly attacked by Russian newspapers for preaching Western views at the Moscow youth festival said Saturday he got permission to leave the Soviet Union only one minute before his plane took off.

George Abrams, of Newton, Mass., said before flying home Saturday he was "mighty relieved" when Soviet authorities finally gave him clearance.

Union Panel Blasts Red Chiefs, Aims

WASHINGTON (UP) — The AFL-CIO executive council Saturday issued a general indictment of Russia's two dominant leaders, Communist Party chief Nikita Khrushchev and Marshal George Zhukov and warned the free world to be on guard against their "fundamental aims."

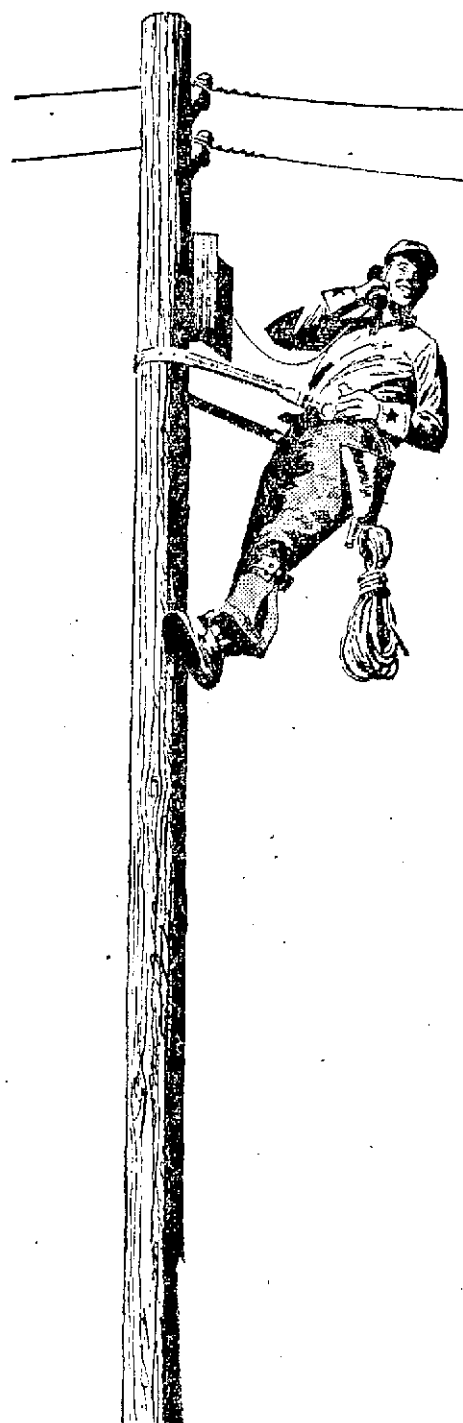

These, the Council said in a special statement, are to concentrate all power in Khrushchev and to dominate the world by remodeling it in the pattern of Soviet despotism.

• • • •

THE COUNCIL described the recent Kremlin purge as merely a struggle within the Communist Party over which ruling clique should succeed the late Josef Stalin. It said that Khrushchev, like Stalin, has learned to camouflage and combine his purges with a seeming relaxation of Soviet domestic and foreign policies.

• • • •

"KHRUSHCHEV and Zhukov, posing as champions of peaceful co-existence, were the primary architects of the savage suppression of the Hungarian people," it said.

U.S. Cardinal Marks 25th Year of Consecration

VATICAN CITY (UP) — Francis Cardinal Spellman, archbishop of New York, Saturday marked the 25th anniversary of his consecration as bishop with a mass on the same altar of St. Peter's where he received the title.

Four other cardinals, bishops, and other dignitaries including two nephews of Pope Pius XII attended the service before the altar of the chair.

Cardinal Spellman flew to Rome Monday expressly to observe the occasion 25 years ago when the Pope, then a cardinal and the vatican secretary of state, consecrated him bishop at the altar which, according to tradition, stands above the tomb of St. Peter.

It Happened Last Night

By Earl Wilson

DEAR DANNY . . .

NEW YORK—People are always asking me, "What are these movie and TV stars really like? Are they a bunch of creeps?"

Let me tell you about Danny Thomas . . .

On Sept. 8, 1943, Danny Thomas, completely unknown to New Yorkers, came here from Chicago by way of Toledo and opened in a night club act at La Martinique.

I reviewed his show next day and wrote a pretty corny but flattering piece. "A Star Is Born," I said.

DANNY THOMAS

Danny became a star of movies and radio in the next 10 years. One night the B. W. and I were in Hollywood for the premiere of Judy Garland's picture, "A Star Is Born."

As we were walking out, Danny Thomas poked me in the ribs.

"I was just thinking about you," he said. "When I opened at La Martinique a long time ago, you wrote a headline, 'A Star Is Born.'

"Anyway," he said, "how about you and B. W. coming out to the house for dinner?"

He followed this up with, "What night can you make it?"

* * * *

I WAS TO CALL HIM next day, but when I didn't he phoned me and we made the date. It was a wonderful evening.

Jerry Lewis came to dinner, too, and we played pool before dinner. After dinner, Liberace, who was just getting known, arrived and played the piano for us for an hour.

Then some more years passed.

Danny Thomas got even bigger. He was about to replace Lucille Ball and Desi Arnaz on TV.

The B. W. and I were in Las Vegas, where he was filming his first new TV show at the Sands. Between shots, Danny spotted me on the sidelines, removed the cigar from his mouth, and rushed over to shake hands, meanwhile asking, "Where's B. W.?"

"At the roulette table," I admitted.

Danny pushed in through the crowd calling, "Hey, B. W.!" Then he said, "You've got to get in the night club scene we're doing.

"Sure," he said, getting to like the idea, "we'll put you down at the ringside just like you were the night I opened at La Martinique a long, long time ago."

* * * *

AND SO WE WENT and sat at the ringside—a couple tables behind was one of my boyhood idols, Hoot Gibson.

Danny had a lot to do, but he remembered us and made frequent references to us when he did his audience warmup.

"It's funny me working for Post Toasties," he said to the crowd. "I was fired by them 12 years ago, for making a joke.

"I was on the air with Fanny Brice. The announcer kept saying how good Post Toasties were, and to be sure to eat them with strawberries and cream.

"I jumped up and said, 'HAY would be good with strawberries and cream.'

"They fired me on the spot. It took them 12 years to forgive me."

Then the TV cameras shot the scene and Peter Lind Hayes—playing the cafe M. C. —introduced me. I stood up and took a real hammy bow.

"Gee, thanks so much for coming over," Danny said afterward. "It was so nice of you to take the time . . ."

Personally, I thought it was real nice of Danny Thomas to ask us to be on his first show on CBS on Oct. 7.

In fact, Danny Thomas, in my opinion, has grown nicer toward his old friends as he has become more famous.

But if they should cut out that ringside scene from that opening program . . . well, just like I was telling you, Danny Thomas is a no-good bum.

WEEKEND WINDUP . . . Katharine Hepburn being helpful to an acquaintance, told him, "I'm sweet to a person once—and this is your day." . . . Milton Berle met teenage singer Frankie Lymon and said, jokingly, "Kid, when I was your age—I was through." . . . Lemuel St. Subber wants to star Dean Martin and Rocky Graziano in a B'way musical. "Viva Madison Av!" . . . A noted singer was so scared of the Confidential trial that he flew off to Europe.

John Barrymore Jr. will make a movie at the Gold Medal-Biograph Studio in the Bronx, where his uncle and aunt, Lionel and Ethel, worked decades ago. . . . Sammy Davis Jr. 'll have a hotel lodge named after him because he says, "I want something named after me that the pigeons cant' get at."

VIVA, SENORITA UNIVERSE!

Beauty of Miss Universe, Gladys Zender of Peru, is dramatized in this new portrait. Cheering Peruvians have proclaimed a national holiday in her honor. Her Highness will tour Chile, Brazil and other lucky South American lands before she returns to the United States in October as the Latin any student would love to study.

Ceylon's Universe Girl Surprised at U.S. Men

By ROBERT LIU

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—For a girl whose father is president of the Bank of Ceylon, Maureen Hingert is remarkably endowed with her own assets, all of them natural.

It's a matter of common knowledge to American movie fans that Miss Hingert (stage name Jana Davi) managed to convert those assets into the title of Miss Ceylon of 1955 and third place that same year in the Miss Universe Contest.

Her large eyes and striking face seem very soft as she says that American men are surprisingly indirect.

"I like a man who's straightforward," she adds.

A cigarette and a glass of punch sharing her slim hands, Maureen crossed her long legs and sketched a picture of the two years that have elapsed since she came to Hollywood.

She has played opposite such leading actors as Jeff Chandler, Van Johnson, Jack Lemon and Mark Stevens. But she still isn't sure she's on the right road.

"I'm allowing my latest movie opposite Mark Stevens decide that for me. If the response is good, I'll remain. If not, I hate to think about it."

* * * *

THE PICTURE is "Gun Fever." She portrays an Indian girl in a triangular love affair.

Maureen was born in Colombo, Ceylon, on Jan. 9, 1937. Her father is of Dutch ancestry and besides heading the Ceylonese bank has extensive tea holdings in Ceylon.

When Maureen was five she entered the Holy Family Convent in Colombo and remained there until she was 18.

Most of her life she has worn the sari, traditional Singhalese and Indian dress. When she came to this country she brought some 80 saris with her, but dresses mostly in western clothes now except when she's longing around her apartment.

A chic 5-foot-6 and 118 pounds, Maureen has dark brown hair and brown eyes. She measures an attractive 36-21-36.

In Ceylon she was a good student in languages, world history and nursing, but it was her study of interpretive dancing that helped her movie career most.

After teaching dancing for a while, Maureen won a role doing a solo dance in the movie "Elephant Walk." That was the start.

* * * *

SHE HAS GIVEN two packed-house performances on classical Indian dances in Los Angeles, and currently is studying modern jazz and flamenco dancing.

The past two years there also have been television appearances in shows like "Hiram Holiday" and "Captain Grief."

(Associated Press Photo.)

MAUREEN HINGERT . . . Likes Straightforward Man

Last year she was selected an envoy to publicize the Miss Universe contest and toured Europe and parts of the Middle East.

"I love to travel and for two whole months it was nothing but that," she recalls.

Language is no barrier for her as a tourist. She speaks English, French, Spanish, Hinddustani and Tamil.

The next logical question is "with all her busy schedule, has she been picking out a mate?"

She swung herself on the stool, squinted her eyes and said:

"Well to be honest I haven't thought much about it—yet."

But pressed, she'll tell you she admires intelligence and good manners, and has found that these are in greater supply among older men.

The crusher comes when she says she doesn't care too much for Hollywood men: They're too affected.

CONFIDENTIALLY SPEAKING

Scandal Trial Circus Without Laughs

By BOB HOUSER

LOS ANGELES—The wide-screen Confidential trial drama in Room 808, Hall of Justice, is a circus without laughs.

The circus came to town after five years of racy press agentry in Confidential and Whisper Magazines about "big names."

Grand jury indictment set the stage. Judge Herbert V. Walker banned laughter by gavel and dictum.

Gravity of the issues combined with the sometimes laughable nature of the Confidential texts in evidence produce, in effect, a reading of modern Hollywood's Arabian Nights uttered to 120 stone-faced witnesses.

Hollywood linen, rendered tattle-tale gray by Confidential treatment to a reading audience of 16 million souls per issue, now is being re-aired to newspaper readers who may not have "preferred the book."

* * * *

THE BUNDLE of scandal has been a revisitation of the "glory" that was Hollywood in the days of filmdom's legendary roster of free and easy livers and lovers. The piece-meal assault on stars' morals and manners has offended the studied, latter-day respectability of the film capital.

It has restored the faint which some portions of the industry feel is "good boxoffice." But film satellites lately accustomed to consideration as normal American citizens are watching the drama of Room 808 with full-whammy stares.

Room 808, Dept. 43, Los Angeles County Superior Court, is an acoustical monster. The high, ornate, once-gold ceiling but now as tarnished as some of the names below, gobbles up the sensational noises without regard to the press battery of 45 newsmen.

The seven-man, five-woman jury and its three women alternates lean forward, cup their ears and finally just tell the judge they are unable to hear certain witnesses.

* * * *

JUDGE WALKER politely asks the witness to speak more slowly and directly into the witness stand microphone.

Unamplified by microphones, words of attorneys at the counsel table are often lost and must be checked by reporters after court recesses.

Almost one-fourth of the press section is occupied by foreign press. London has seven correspondents, representing the Express, Mirror, Herald, Evening Standard, Mail, Telegraph and Sketch. Sitting nearby, one reporter of the "domestic press" said "it sounds like the press gallery in the House of Lords."

France has reporters for France-Dimanche and France-Soir. Italy reads the reports of Messaggero Roma.

The New York Daily News has two correspondents, New York Times has one and the Chicago Tribune and Kansas City Star each has one.

AP, UP, INS and City News Service each has two reporters. Life, Time, Newsweek and Fortnight Magazines are represented. ABC and CBS news have radio reporters and CBS also has television represented. Nine reporters of Los Angeles-Long Beach Metropolitan Area newspapers are seated.

Behind the press section remain 25 seats for spectators and five for witnesses in the trial.

INSIDE THE COURT RAIL are about 22 seats for observing attorneys. Prosecution counsel, Dept. Dist. Atty. William Ritzi and Dept. State Atty. Gen. Clarence Linn; Defense Counsel Arthur J. Crowley and his defendants Fred and Marjorie Meade all sit at the counsel table in front of Judge Walker's bench.

The 15 jurors are in the jury box to Judge Walker's right.

Others are two court reporters who spell each other, the court clerk and the bailiff.

Chief courtroom actor for the prosecution is William Ritzi. He is a soft-spoken, contemplative man in his early 40s who has an almost constant mien of dead-earnestness. He has a shock of hair, freshly combed at the start of the day's session but invariably awry over his forehead at day's recess.

Atty. Crowley matches the intensity of Ritzi but fairly crackles with crispness and authority on his cue to cross-examine or to object. Like Ritzi and Atty. Linn, Crowley is a Sunday school teacher.

BOTH MEN HAVE EARNED friends among newsmen for their cooperation in explaining trial developments.

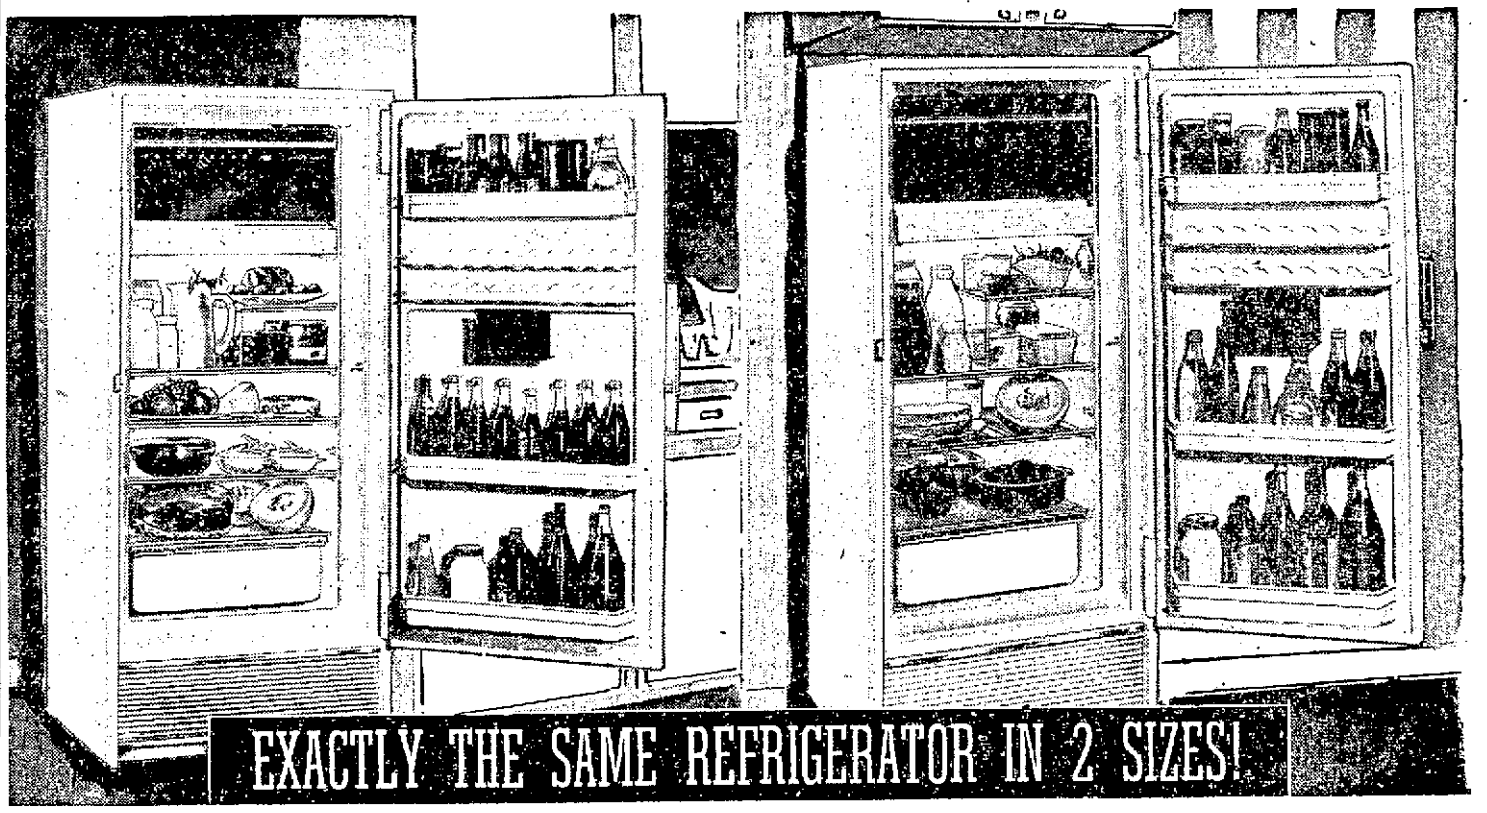

Judge Walker rules his courtroom, and no mistake.

FINAL MEETING TODAY

Fist Fights, Rhubarbs Mark Stars' 11-4 Win

The Hollywood Stars breezed to an 11-4 triumph over Los Angeles at Gilmore Field Saturday in a game that featured a full-blown slugging bee and 10-minute rhubarb in the fifth inning.

The beef began right after winning pitcher Fred Waters walloped his first homer of the season, a 400-foot poke, to put Hollywood in front, 5-4.

Spook Jacobs, the next batter, bunted down the first base line. But as Jacobs neared the base, Angel hurler Tom Lasorda gave him a hefty block that sent the Twinkler sprawling. Jacobs came up fighting. He and Lasorda tangled momentarily and after they were separated, Jacobs wound up trading punches with Los Angeles shortstop Bobby Dolan.

Meanwhile, the rival 200-pound catchers, Pete Naton and Earl Battey, were staging a heavyweight match nearby.

* * * *

WHEN THE UMPIRES and team managers finally got things cooled off, Jacobs was awarded first base for interference. That touched off another verbal flurry as Angel manager Clay Bryant argued with the umpires, but to no avail.

Despite the lengthy and heated debates nobody was ejected from the game, but Glenn Mickens took over for Lasorda on the mound.

The only injury reported was suffered by Battey, who came up with a cut lip.

Before the explosive round was over, the Stars amassed seven runs off Lasorda, Mickens and Bill George. Naton's three-run homer featured the assault.

* * * *

BOTH CLUBS HAD scored in the first round, with the Twinks taking a 2-1 lead on two unearned runs. A walk to Bill Causion and a three-bagger by Naton gave the Stars a 3-1 edge in the second.

Then the Angels' Windy Wade homered off Hollywood's Ben Wade with two aboard in the third inning to put Los Angeles ahead, 4-3. Jim Baumer, however, tied it up in the botton half by swatting his 13th round-tripper over the left field fence.

The two teams meet for the final time this year, and quite likely forever, in a doubleheader today. The Brooklyn Dodgers are expected to move to L.A. next year. Hollywood will start Bennie Daniels (14-7) and Don Rowe (5-4) against the Angels' Johnny Jancse (6-10) and Connie Grob (2-2).

Braves Assault 8 Pitchers

BROOKLYN (AP) — The Milwaukee Braves chased Johnny Podres with a three-homer barrage in the fourth inning and routed seven relief pitchers Saturday to overpower Brooklyn, 13-7.

Holding their 6½-game National League lead over St. Louis and dropping the Brooks 7½ behind, the Braves wrapped it up with two big innings after Nippy Jones, Hank Aaron and Andy Pafko had broken up a scoreless duel with solo home run blasts in the fourth. Aaron's homer was his 37th.

The leaders, winning the key three-game series, 2-1, scored five times in the sixth on five hits to take an 8-2 lead, then broke out with four more in the ninth after Brooklyn's desperate rallies had cut their lead to 8-7.

* * * *

FELIX MANTILLA, filling in for the injured Johnny Logan, applied the clincher with a three-run, ninth inning homer. The blow, Mantilla's third hit, was off Danny McDevitt, eighth pitcher used by the Dodgers as they tied a National League record.

The Braves used Ernie Johnson and Lew Burdette in relief of starter Bob Trowbridge. The victory went to Burdette, who hurled a complete game 6-1 victory Thursday night in the series' opener.

Johnson, an old Dodger relief nemesis, assumed a 3-2 lead from Trowbridge in the fourth inning and pitched steadily until the seventh, when four singles and Duke Snider's 34th home run accounted for four runs and left Milwaukee with a scant one-run lead.

Yanks Score 7 in 5th, Rout Indians

CLEVELAND (AP) — Scoring seven runs in the fifth inning, the New York Yankees trounced the Cleveland Indians, 10-4, before a crowd of 14,506 Saturday.

Three Cleveland runs were knocked in by rookie Joe Caffie, recently brought up from Buffalo, who hit his first major league home run in the seventh inning. Caffie also hit three singles.

Tom Sturdivant, who held a 10-0 lead at one point, posted his 12th victory, but was unable to finish. The Tribe knocked him out with two runs in the ninth.

Mickey Mantle rapped a double in two official times at bat, boosting his average from .375 to .374.

* * * *

ANDY CAREY LED the Yankees' 11-hit attack with four-for-four, a triple and three singles.

The loss was charged to Don Mossie, who was forced to leave the game in the fifth with a pulled back muscle. The bases were loaded and the Yanks led 2-0 when he departed.

The Yankees scored two runs in the first on a single by Hank Bauer, a walk to Gil McDougald, a double by Mantle and a sacrifice fly by Bill Skowron.

TRIBE BUYS VALENTINETTI FROM ANGELS

The Los Angeles Angels Saturday announced the sale of their winningest pitcher, Vito Valentinetti, to the Cleveland Indians.

Bill Heymans, general manager of the Pacific Coast League, said the Indians are giving cash and a player to be named as soon as possible for the 28-year-old right-hander.

Valentinetti won nine games and lost five for Los Angeles this season after his purchase from the Chicago Cubs. Instead of pitching against Hollywood Saturday as scheduled, he boarded an eastbound plane.

Mantle Hikes Mark to .374; Ted Drops to .381

CLEVELAND (UP) — Mickey Mantle moved to within seven points of Ted Williams Saturday in their fight for the American League batting title.

Mantle hiked his average to .374 by collecting one hit — a double—in two at-bats against the Cleveland Indians. He was removed from the lineup in the sixth inning after the Yankees ran up a 9-0 lead.

Williams collected only one hit in four trips against the Chicago White Sox and dropped a point to .381. The Red Sox slugger now has garnered only three hits in his last 18 at-bats.

LeBARON READY

Brodie to Get First Pro Test Against 'Skins Today

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — John Brodie, Stanford passing ace, will get his first quarterbacking test as a pro footballer today in the exhibition meeting of his San Francisco 49ers and the Washington Redskins.

Little Eddie LeBaron, a College of Pacific passing hero who underwent a knee operation after the 1956 National Football League season, is in shape for a full test at quarterback for the Redskins.

Frank Albert, 49er coach, said he plans to start veteran Y. A. Tittle but would give Brodie his chance in the second and fourth quarters. Earl Morrall, former Michigan State Rose Bowl field general, is slated for a third quarter shot.

Joe Perry, San Francisco's veteran fullback, is out with a damaged knee. Albert plans to rotate rookies Larry Barnes of Colorado A&M and Gene Babb of Austin along with Bill Bowman, acquired from the Detroit Lions.

7th Win in Row for Donovan

CHICAGO (AP)—Dick Donovan held the Boston Red Sox to nine hits Saturday and pitched the Chicago White Sox to a 7-1 victory. It was the seventh triumph in succession for the big right-hander and his 15th of the year against three defeats.

Ted Williams, battling Mickey Mantle for the American League batting championship, made one hit in four times at bat as his average sagged to .381. He knocked in the Boston run, however, with a double which followed a two-bagger by Billy Klaus in the fourth inning.

MINNIE MINOSO collected three of Chicago's seven hits and knocked home three runs.

Ike Deock, Boston relief specialist making his second start of the season, was in constant trouble because of his wildness. He walked seven men before being routed in the fourth. Five of the men he walked scored.

Gunderson Wins Ladies Golf Crown

SACRAMENTO (UP)—Joanne Gunderson, a husky 18-year-old from Seattle, Wash., won the 57th National Women's Amateur golf championship Saturday with a convincing 8 and 6 victory over Mrs. Ann Casey Johnstone of Mason City, Iowa.

Neither player could equal women's par of 74 on the 6,368-hole Del Paso Country Club match during the championship finals. But Miss Gunderson, a five-foot seven, 140-pound slugger who belts the ball like a man, was just too strong for the 34-year-old matron from Mason City, particularly from tee to green.

She jumped into a lead on the very first hole of their scheduled 36-hole match by sinking a 20-footer for a birdie and she never was behind in the entire match.

* * * *

FOR THE MORNING 18 holes, Miss Gunderson medaled 77 to a tired 82 turned in by Mrs. Johnstone. In the 12 holes that it took Joanne to close out the match in the afternoon, she was one over par while Mrs. Johnstone was five over.

Miss Gunderson, a freckled-faced, red-blond youngster who hits those tee shots out there 225 to 250 yards, won the coveted National title on her second try.

By winning, she became the second youngest player to capture the big black trophy. Not since 1896, when Beatrix Hoyt won the crown has the title been held by such a youngster.

Stan's Mark to Hit 895

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Stan (The Man) Musial may be back in the St. Louis Cardinals' lineup sooner than expected.

Manager Freddie Hutchinson said Saturday Musial will be used as a pinch-runner in the resumption of a suspended game with the Pirates at Pittsburgh Tuesday night.

Thus Stan's consecutive game streak which ended Friday night after he injured his left shoulder swinging at a pitch the previous evening, will officially be lengthened to 895. Musial missed the first part of the suspended game when it was played several weeks ago.

Prejudice Motive for Guarantee

SEATTLE (AP)—Floyd Patterson denied Saturday he attributed a "white hope" motive to backers of Pete Rademacher's heavyweight title challenge, but reporters who interviewed him said there was no misinterpretation.

The controversy was set off when the Post-Intelligencer published an interview it said Patterson gave 24 hours before Thursday night's bout in which the Negro champion knocked out amateur Rademacher in six rounds.

The newspaper said it withheld the story written by Emmett Watson, until after the fight to avoid any possible race problems here. But it quoted Patterson as saying of the 22 Georgians who raised $250,000 to gain Rademacher's shot at the title:

* * * *

"IN NEW YORK they couldn't have raised $250 for this kind of fight. That money had to be raised someplace where they don't like colored people.

"I definitely feel that's the whole thing back of this fight. If I had been a white fighter they would never have put up any $250,000."

At Shelby, Mont., en route to New York, Patterson told a reporter:

"These things you'll read all the time. I've been quoted as saying worse.

"Even if I did feel that way, I surely wouldn't say anything like that publicly. But what's more, I don't feel that way about it."

* * * *

PATTERSON ALSO said that, as planned before the title match, he will head into the South in two weeks to visit his father-in-law, Matthew Hicks, in Lawton, Okla.

This was in reference to the Watson story which quoted Patterson as saying: "If I beat Rademacher up badly or if I knock him out, then I'm not going near Oklahoma. I won't go farther south than Philadelphia . . . well, no farther south than Washington, D. C."

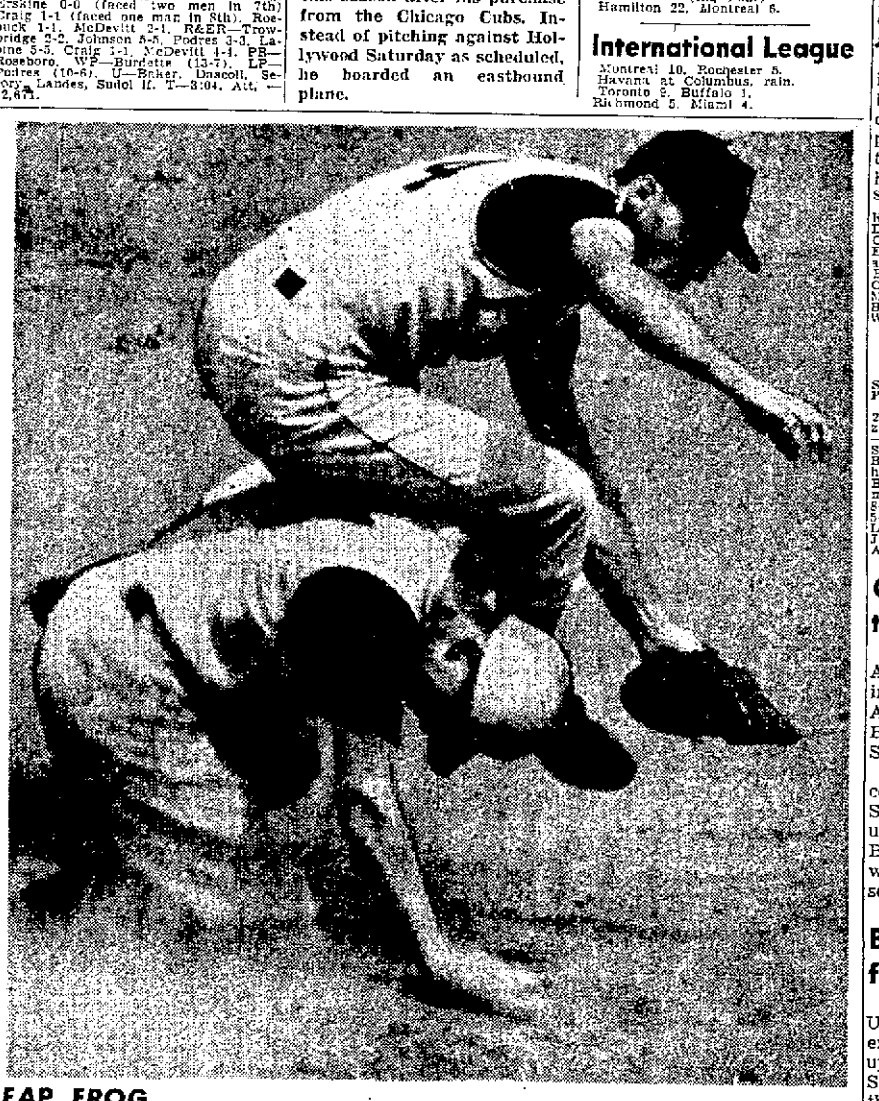

Turning to the future, the champion said he will fight no more this year "for tax reasons"

McLendon Proposes Patterson-Harris Bout

DALLAS (UP)—A world heavyweight championship fight in Dallas between champion Floyd Patterson and Roy Harris of Cut 'N Shoot, Texas, was proposed Saturday by radio executive Gordon McLendon with all profits going to the March of Dimes.

McLendon said he had talked long distance to Seattle with Cus D'Amato, manager of Patterson, who had expressed interest in further discussion of such a proposal.

Del Ennis Turns on Ex-Mates

PHILADELPHIA (UP) — Former Phillie Del Ennis batted in the winning run Saturday as the St. Louis Cardinals came from behind with two in the sixth and then went on to defeat Philadelphia, 5-2, behind Herman Wehmeier.

The Cardinals, leading 3-2, iced the game in the ninth on a Phillie error, a triple by Ken Boyer and a double by Walker Cooper which added two runs and chased loser Curt Simmons.

The Cards opened the scoring in the second when Ennis doubled, took second on an infield out and scored when Cooper's pop to short right fell among three Phils, any of whom could have caught the ball.

Once Over Lightly
by DAVE LEWIS

Best crack of the evening at the Coliseum Friday night was delivered by the gent who said . . . "well, the hometown boys won, but the only trouble is they're all with the Giants.

As you probably know by now, the New York Giants belted the Los Angeles Rams, 24-7.

And instrumental in carving the Giants' impressive victory were six ex-Rams including the likes of Andy Robustelli, Ed Hughes, Harland Svare, Charlie Toogood, Corky Tharp and Ben Agajanian plus former UCLA star, Cliff Livingston.

Livingston accomplished a notable feat in the first 16 minutes of play when he blocked two of Norm Van Brocklin's punts—as many as the Dutchman has had blocked in eight previout seasons of pro ball.

NORM VAN BROCKLIN

The Giants took possession on the Ram 27 and 24-yard lines following the two blocked punts . . . and promptly succeeded in rolling up a 10-point lead.

Leo Nomellini of the 49ers was the first to block a Van Brocklin punt. That was in 1951. The other was blocked by the Redskins last year.

Meanwhile, for a pre-season game, the firing was exceptionally hot and heavy . . . for a very good reason.

As one of the veteran New Yorkers said, "most of us weren't too concerned about the game . . . looking at it as just another exhibition. But the ex-Rams with us wanted to win so badly that they finally got us all fired up like a bunch of college sophomores and it developed into a real war out there. In fact, I feel more bushed now than I did after the championship game with the Bears last year."

THE EX-RAMS NOW WITH THE GIANTS had the time of their lives "jockeying" their former teammates . . . particularly the ones up front—Svare, Robustelli and Toogood.

"They were on my back all night," Van Brocklin chuckled in the dressing room. "They really gave me a rough time. I would have loved to shove the ball down their throats a couple of times so we could talk back, but they didn't give us much of a chance to do that.

"Remember the time I went downfield to block and I was on top of that Giant player so long?

"Well, it was one of the 'ex-Rams.' I told him 'If you say one more word I'll bite your ear off in the next pileup!'

"And, you know, those guys are so darn tough that I'll bet if I had tried to bite an ear off, I'd probably chipped my teeth," he laughed.

While the Giants were marching 81 yards for their third quarter touchdown to make it 17-0, Les Richter of the Rams lost his right shoe and played without it for sequence of plays.

That started the Giants on a new sound track.

"Why don't all you guys take off your shoes and play tootsies. You're playing ball like it," the ex-Rams chorused.

The Giants usually are one of the "quietest" teams in football. As they say in the NFL, "they murder you in utter silence."

But as rookie Jon Arnett pointed out, "after college ball where the teams are yelling constantly and the Notre Dame players actually growl at you for 60 minutes, I expected pro ball to be a bedlam of noise.

"I was surprised though in the All-Star Game at Chicago when the Giants hardly made a sound other than thud of contact when they knocked you down. They just don't holler like most teams. They were very talkative in this game, but only because they were needling the Rams."

MEANWHILE, THE GIANTS IMPRESSED all veteran pro observers with their great defense. Needless to say, they left an indelible impression on the Rams.

"The Giant line had the best pursuit of any line I've ever played against," Van Brocklin declared.

"But we're not discouraged. Even though it may not have looked like it, we played a terrific game in view of what we were up against and the fact that we were a little flat after being up so high for last week's game with the Redskins.

"Our line, for instance, did a great job that was overshadowed only by what probably is the greatest forward wall in the game. The performance of the Ram line would have been enough to beat anyone else in the league, but those Giants just beat our guys down."

Billy Wade, who played much of the second half, maintained that "this year's Rams are still the best offensive group I've yet seen, so you know how great defensively the Giants must be to hold us to seven points."

Billy went on to say that "I've never seen a team react so fast on defense.

ARNETT POINTED OUT THAT HE thought the Giant line was extremely tough in the All-Star game, "but it is so much better now that there's no comparison. I can't imagine any line being any better. Then, too, the defensive backs are tremendous . . . and they have dozens of ways to stop you. I got a real education out there from that bunch of artists," he grinned. "One time they'll trip you, next time block you out, then they'll throw you off balance by holding, pushing or throwing an elbow. I only got free twice all night . . . and both times I was just the decoy. Hughes is a really great defender. You just can't shake him."

Robustelli spoke up and said "of all the Ram alumni on the New York squad, Hughes is the one who could do the Rams the most good. He's so much better than what they have now."

Andy went on to say that "our line strength was the thing that hurt the Rams the most, of course. Our middle linemen in particular completely outclassed the center of the Ram line They couldn't run against us and so we had only to stop their long throws to keep 'em bottled up.

"Once we had that 10-point lead, we were in good shape with our stout defense and time-consuming ground game.

"Yes," Andy admitted, "we expect to have a terrific year if we don't get hurt too bad by injuries. But we'll know more after our big pre-season test next week against the Bears in Dallas."

In the meantime, the Rams head for Portland and a date with the Chicago Cardinals, rated by most observers as the Giants' chief rival in the Eastern Division race.

Blanda's Last Minute Field Goal Ties Colts

CINCINNATI (UP)—George Blanda kicked a 28-yard field goal with 13 seconds left Saturday night to give the Chicago Bears a 24-24 tie in an exhibition professional football game with the Baltimore Colts at the Xavier Stadium.

Blanda's extra-point and field goal kicking climaxed the Bears' uphill battle that saw the Colts build up a 24-14 lead in the last quarter. Then Chicago rallied with a touchdown pass from Zeke Bratkowski to Jim Dooley. Blanda added the extra point and kicked the needed field goal on second down with 15 yards and 13 seconds to go.

Baltimore took a 3-0 first quarter lead on Bert Rechichar's 45-yard field goal. Chicago scored on Rick Casares' one-yard plunge, climaxing an 80-yard push. Baltimore pulled back into the lead as Carl Tassef ran the kickoff back 53 yards. Short plunges put the ball on the seven, where quarterback Francis Davidson found end Jim Mutscheller in the end zone. Steve Myrha's conversion made it 10-7.

* * * *

AFTER A 64-YARD Baltimore march was halted on the two, the Colts came back with a 58-yard drive in the third quarter, climaxed by Johnny Unitas' four-yard pass to halfback Royce Womble. Myrha made it 17-7.

J. C. Caroline of Chicago intercepted a Davidson pass on the 40. Willie Gallimore went 17 yards and Perry Jeter 20 for the touchdown. Blanda's conversioin made it 17-14.

Baltimore moved ahead 24-14 as Davidson found no chance to pass, and, instead ran 59 yards around right end to the four, where Dick Young went over from the one. Myhra converted again.

Bratowski threw a 56-yard pass to Jim Dolley to the Colts' 18 and later found him again, good for eight yards and the score, making it 21-24. That set the stage for Blanda's tying field goal.

95-YARD RUN CALLED BACK

Green Bay Spills Cardinals, 17-14

AUSTIN, Tex. (UP) — The Green Bay Packers snatched a 17-14 victory from the Chicago Cardinals Saturday night, thanks to an offside penalty that cancelled a sensational 95-yard Chicago touchdown run.

The Cardinals led for three quarters before the Packers struck back for their winning TD. Then, in the waning minutes, Chicago's Woodley Lewis returned a kickoff 95 yards only to see it nullified by an offside called against Carl Brettschneider.

Chicago swung a 14-0 halftime lead through a blocked punt and an intercepted pass. The first score came after a six-yard drive that began when halfback Dick Lane intercepted Packer Bart Starr's pass on the Cardinal 34. Lamar McHan completed two passes that went for nine and 27 yards, then went over on a keeper but was called back on a penalty. On the next play McHan passed to Dave Mann in the end zone. Pat Summerall kicked the point.

* * * *

A FEW PLAYS later Packer Dick Deshaine tried to punt out from the 13 but it was blocked by the Cards' Gario DaRe and Leo Sanford recovered on the Packer three. Two plays later Mann toppled over the goal line. Summerall's kick was good.

The Packers began their march early in the third period when Fred Cone made good on a field goal from the 40. Later in the quarter Starr connected with Bill Howton on a 14-yard pass. Then Howard Ferguson went over from the three. Cone's kick was good.

Green Bay went into the lead when Bobby Dillon intercepted a Cardinal pass on the Chicago 22. Babe Parelli and Cone worked the ball to the one-foot line and Paul Hornung sneaked over. Cone booted the goal.

Prout Gains Sixth as Seals Rip Sacs, 10-4

SACRAMENTO (UP)—The San Francisco Seals, who have won 13 of 16 from Sacramento this season, maintained their mastery Saturday night in taking a 10-4 Pacific Coast League victory from the Solons.

Frank Kellert hit his 15th and 16th homers for the Seals and 18-year-old Bill Prout added his sixth pitching win.

San Francisco had to overcome a third-inning 3-1 lead held by the Solons but three runs in the fourth put the Seals ahead to stay. They scored in every inning thereafter but the ninth.

The win left San Francisco 3½ games out front in the PCL race.

Reeling Redlegs Lose, 4-1

PITTSBURGH (UP) — Righthander Ronnie Kline, allowing six hits, led the Pittsburgh Pirates to a 4-1 victory over the reeling Cincinnati Redlegs Saturday.

The Redlegs have lost 29 games and won only 18 since July 3 when they were leading the National League.

Kline, picking up his fifth victory, lost his shutout in the eighth inning when pinch-hitter Ted Kluszewski smashed a double and was replaced by Hal Jeffcoat who scored on Gus Bell's two-bagger. Bell was tagged out trying for third and was forced to leave the game when he suffered a jammed right foot.

Cars driven by Jerry Greth, 23, Tucson, Ariz., and Emory Cook, 29, San Diego, Calif., posted speeds of 160.71 miles per hour in the quarter-mile acceleration run from a standing start.

Greth drove a homemade roadster powered by a Chrysler V-8 engine, while Cook powered a Cook and Bedwell dragster, a home-built machine also with a Chrysler V-8 engine.

DETROIT (AP) — Truman Clevenger, a last-minute starter, broke Washington's three-game losing streak Saturday by pitching the Senators to a 6-3 victory over the Detroit Tigers in a steady drizzle which turned to a heavy downpour in the final inning.

Clevenger, 25-year-old righthander, scattered nine hits in winning his seventh game against four setbacks.

Playing conditions became so bad near the end that the players resembled so many gingerbread men slipping and sliding in the mud.

Catcher Lou Berberet led the Nats with a single and his sixth home run—a 400-foot smash. He scored three runs. Rocky Bridges knocked in Washington's first two runs with a two-out single in the second inning.

Cubs Win on Speake's Belt in Ninth, 4-2

NEW YORK (UP) — Bob Speake's ninth-inning homer with Bobby Morgan on base gave young Dave Hillman and the Chicago Cubs a 4-2 victory over the New York Giants Saturday.

Speake's home run, his 14th, was hit off lefty Johnny Antonelli and followed Morgan's one-out single through third baseman Ray Jablonski. Hillman yielded only seven hits in gaining his fifth triumph of the year. The victory also was the eighth in the last 11 games for the Cubs.

Jablonski drove in the Giants' two runs, with a double off the left field wall in the first inning and with a sacrifice fly following Willie Mays' triple in the fourth. However, Ernie Banks tied the score at 2-2 in the eighth when he hit his 29th homer of the season into the left field stands.

Orioles Nab 15th Victory Over A's, 4-2

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Baltimore Oriole pitchers, practically unhittable so far as the Athletics are concerned, came up with their 15th victory of the season over Kansas City Saturday, taking a 4-2 decision behind the great relief pitching of Hector (Skinny) Brown.

The Orioles picked up a quick three runs off Ned Garver in the first two innings and that was enough although the Athletics, trailing 3-1, filled the bases in the sixth off Ken Lehman with none out.

That was where Brown, the knuckle-balling nemesis of the A's, came into the picture. He gave a base on balls to Hal Smith, forcing in one run, after getting Woody Held on a liner to third baseman Billy Goodman Then he got out without further trouble on popups stroked by Joe DeMaestri and Irv Noren. Brown pitched hitless ball the rest of the way.

20-0 Record Shattered

NEW ORLEANS — A 20-year-old Yankee farmhand who compiled a 20-0 record in the class C Evangaline League made his first start in the class AA Southern Assn. Saturday night and was defeated 12-6.

Young Bob Riesener—who remarked afterward "I was throwing balloons"—gave up nine hits, including two homers and a triple, in the five innings he pitched for the New Orleans Pelicans.

He pitched Alexandria, Va., to a pennant. The Pelicans are in last place.

Sets Swim Mark

SAN FRANCISCO (UP) — Thirteen-year-old Chris Von Saltza of Santa Clara broke the American women's 100-meter backstroke swim record Saturday in the Far Western swimming and diving championships at Fleishhacker pool. Miss Von Saltza had a time of 1:13.4 in the event, two tenths of a second under the mark set a week ago by Carin Cone.

Race to Gardenan

SEDALIA, Mo. (AP) — Johnny Pouelsen, Gardena, Calif., won the feature 50-mile race for big cars at the state fair Saturday.

'GRAND SLAM' FOR BERRA

CLEVELAND (AP)—One of the furnishings of Yogi Berra's new home in New Jersey is a grand piano, which the star catcher of the New York Yankees is trying to master.

He reports some difficulties. "They told me to take it easy at the start and play one note at a time." Yogi says, "and that's the trouble. With these thick fingers, every time I aim for one note, I hit two."

ST. LOUIS (UP) — The St. Louis Hawks basketball team has announced the signing of Slater (Dugie) Martin for his ninth season.

Russ Hockey Tour

TORONTO (UP)—The Canadian Hockey Association Saturday agreed to plans for bringing the Russian national hockey team to Canada for a three-week tour late this fall.

Flanagan Jumps Into Title Scene

ST. PAUL, Minn. (UP)—Del Flanagan pounded out a unanimous 10-round decision over Ralph (Tiger) Jones Saturday to jump back into top contention for a welterweight title fight with champion Carmen Basilio.

Jones, who fought on even terms through the early rounds, wearied and faded in the last three rounds as Flanagan finished in solid command.

Flanagan opened up a small cut over Jones' right eye in the eighth and jabbed relentlessly to victory.

Flanagan, the hometown favorite, weighed 155 pounds, five over his predicted weight. Jones, St. Albans, N.Y., a 29-year-old TV veteran of 38 fights, weighed in at 156 pounds.

The victory virtually assured Flanagan of a title fight.

U.S. Water Ski Crown to L.B. Girl

SAN DIEGO—Vicki Van Hook of Long Beach won the girls' overall competition championship Saturday at the 15th annual American Water Ski Assn. championships.

After winning top honors in the tricks competition and slalom on Friday, she followed up with a second place in Saturday's jumps.

She leaped 63 feet to equal the former meet record which was broken during the day by Sally Morris of McQueeny, who did 67 feet. Miss Van Hook holds the world record of 70 feet set two weeks ago.

The 13-year-old Long Beach Boat and Ski Club member amassed 1,300 points. Miss Morris finished second with 1,076. Janelle Kirtley of Birmingham, Ala., defending champion, finished third.

Mickey Amsbry of the Long Beach club fell and finished 13th in the boy class slalom but had enough other points to get third in the overall judging as he attempted to defend his championship.

Amsbry, 17, who resides at Orange, fell on his second run after 13 participants had made perfect scores on the first run.

Martha Ann Williams, Long Beach, placed 11th in girls' jumping competition.

Chuck Stearns, Bellflower, was second in men's tricks, as the senior competition opened. Wally Albright of Thermal won the event with 1,610 points to Stearns' 1,590. Though no meet records were available, officials said both surpassed the best previous performance in the meet.

Mrs. Ailene Williams of the Long Beach club tied for ninth in the women's slalom. Ronnie Dandliker, Lakewood, placed fourth in boys' overall judging.

Mrs. Leah Marie Atkins of Birmingham, Ala., successfully defended her women's slalom title. Mary Ann Moenert of West Palm Beach, Fla., was second and Nancy Rideout of Winterhaven, Fla., third.

In This Corner with DICK ZEHMS

Preseason football ratings are rolling off the presses as late August breezes (?) whisper of onrushing gridiron titanics.

Francis Wallace, who has been at this dodge with one national magazine for 17 years, has shifted his selections to another this year. He has been something of an institution, so his 1957 national "first 20" is worth passing along.

He picks Oklahoma to win another national crown, followed by Iowa, 2; Baylor, 3; Michigan State, 4; Texas A.&M., 5; Tennessee, 6; Michigan, 7; Minnesota, 8; Navy, 9; Duke, 10; Ohio State, 11; Oregon State, 12; Pittsburgh, 13; Penn State, 14; Auburn, 15; Georgia Tech, 16; Colorado, 17; Rice, 18; Kentucky, 19, and Mississippi, 20.

Iowa's Forest Evashevski is his choice for "coach of the year" because Bud Wilkinson, Oklahoma coach, already has enjoyed that honor.

Tommy Prothro's Beavers of Corvallis are his choice to repeat as Pacific Coast Conference champions. He doesn't see much else of importance on the West Coast. In the Big Ten, he forecasts a tie between the Hawkeyes, who mangled the Beavers in the Rose Bowl last Jan. 1, and the Michigan State Spartans.

These rankings will come as no great shock to the Messrs. H. R. Sanders of UCLA and D. Clark of SC, nor to C. Taylor at Stanford and P. Elliott at California.

BIG WEEK. Long Beacher Bill Wilson, outfielding with the Charleston Senators of the American Association, had himself a robust time fattening up on opposition pitching a week ago.

Big Bill has had trouble untracking himself this year, but finally hit his stride. He went "10 for 28" in one stretch, including a couple of home runs. One of them gave Charleston a 3-2, 10-inning win over St. Paul.

Like Long Beacher Bob Lemon of the Cleveland Indians. Bill has been slowed down by sickness and injuries a good part of this season.

BUSY FUTURE. A hectic winter looms for the baseball map-makers. Franchise shifts by the dozens appear in the offing—a chain reaction to the westward movement of the New York Giants and probably the Brooklyn Dodgers.

The Giant switch to San Francisco and the expected move to Los Angeles by the Dodgers will start the ball rolling. Exit the Seals, the Angels and the Hollywood Stars. They also cast dark shadows across the future of the Sacramento Solons and San Diego Padres.

Jerry Donovan, peppy prexy of the Seals, doesn't take a dim view of the future. He has made the statement in public that the Seal franchise, owned by the Boston Red Sox, will be alive next year, probably in the Pacific Coast League. He thinks there will be one. His view isn't shared by Emil Sick, owner of the Seattle Rainiers. Emil is ready to chuck it all rather than continue in a lower classified circuit composed chiefly of Pacific Northwest teams.

Donovan denies the Giants plan to will the Minneapolis franchise of the American Association to the Red Sox as part of their Golden Gate deal. He has intimated that the Seals might wind up in Salt Lake City, now operating in the Pioneer League.

Sacramento's future is a question mark. Same for L. A. and the Stars, pending final word on the Dodgers. San Diego is reported looking longingly toward the Texas League.

KICKOFF. Long Beach City College's Alumni Athletic Council will rip the lid off what it expects will be a rousing good football season this fall by staging a meeting this Thursday night at the Bank of Belmont Shore recreation hall at 8 o'clock.

George Marmion, the moving spirit in Vike alumni movements, yearns for a big turnout to greet Jim Stangeland, Bill Poore and Martin Hicks, the new Norse grid coaches. They'll say a few encouraging words and show some movies.

The Vikings could be big, really big, this fall.

WHAM! The zing with which the National League official baseball is plunking into the catchers' mitts these days has brought this observation from Duke Snider, Compton's gift to the Brooklyn Dodgers.

"When I first came up to the National League," mused Duke, "the pitchers were throwing a lot of slow and breaking stuff. The last two years the kids have moved in and they just rear back and throw hard. There's been a definite change in the type of pitching you face in this league."

Yeah, Duke, the older one gets the faster the youngsters look!

'DON'T HAVE ANY PLANS'

No Offer From Colts--Parker

DETROIT (AP) — Buddy Parker, former Detroit Lions coach, Saturday night denied that he has made any agreement to take over as head coach of the Baltimore Colts.

"There's nothing to it," Parker said. "The Colts have a good coach in Weeb Ewbank. I haven't talked with the Colt owners or anyone connected with them. I don't have any plans—I'm just taking it easy."

Watson Spoelstra reported in the Detroit News that Parker "has made commitments" to take the Colts' job and "possibly before the end of the 1957 season."

The News said the denials were expected for the sake of Ewbank and the morale of the Colts.

Parker provided the most dramatic resignation in Detroit sports history just two days before the Lions opened their exhibition season when he got up at a "Meet the Lions" banquet and told the 600 assembled guests, the players, newsmen and his bosses that he was quitting.

Browns Register 28-13 Win

AKRON (UP) — The Cleveland Browns took advantage of a weak Pittsburgh Steeler line Saturday night to win a 28-13 exhibition professional football victory watched by 28,000 fans here.

The Ohioans' first score came late in the first half with veteran signal caller Tommy O'Connell going over on a quarterback sneak. It climaxed a 67-yard drive which O'Connell paced by connecting on heaves to Frank Clarke and Pete Brewster.

The Browns' quarterback also figured very much in third quarter scoring. With the ball on their own 11, the Browns scored their second six-pointer in six plays. O'Connell contributed two long pass completions in the series.

* * * *

THE 89-YARD drive was climaxed with a nine-yard run by Preston Carpenter. Six minutes later, an 80-yard drive climaxed by All-American freshman Jim Brown of Syracuse, who sparkled throughout the game. Brown took a short O'Connell pass on a draw play and scampered 45 yards into the end zone.

In the last frame, Cleveland's halfback Junior Wren grabbed a Pittsburgh pass and carried it 45 yards to the end zone.

The Steelers scored twice in the final period.

Cleveland	0	7	14	7	—28
Pittsburgh	0	0	0	13	—13

Cleveland scoring: Touchdowns—O'Connell (2-yd. run), Carpenter (9-yard run), Brown (45-yard pass play), Wren (45-yard pass play). Points after touchdown—Groza 4.

Pittsburgh scoring: Touchdown—Mathews (11-yard pass play), Rogel (2-yard plunge). Point after touchdown—Glick 1.

Ferrarese 4-Hits Pads

SAN DIEGO (UP)—Lefthander Don Ferrarese's four-hit pitching Saturday carried Vancouver to its third straight victory over the San Diego Padres, 3-1, in a Pacific Coast League contest at Lane Field.

It was Ferrarese's third triumph in a row over the Padres, who have managed just two runs and 11 hits in 27 innings against the Baltimore Orioles farm hand.

The hurler, who has an 8-5 record, also collected three of the 11 hits the Mounties mustered off Vic Lombardi and Dick Brodowski.

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—Unseeded George Myerson of Los Angeles beat second-seeded Bert Brown, also of Los Angeles, 6-2, 6-2, 1-6, 2-6, 6-2, Saturday in the semifinals of the 31st annual National Public Parks tennis tournament.

Myerson will meet top-seeded Linn Rockwood of Provo, Utah, for the championship today. Rockwood defeated Bill Parks, No. 5 seeded, of Los Angeles in the semifinal, 6-1, 7-5, 6-3.

In women's singles, Mary Arnold Prentiss, top-seeded, will meet Joan Johnson of Los Angeles for the title.

British Walker Cup Team Surveys Course

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — The British Walker Cup team Saturday got its first shot at Minikahda's 6,500 yard par-71 layout where it will meet America's top amateurs Friday and Saturday.

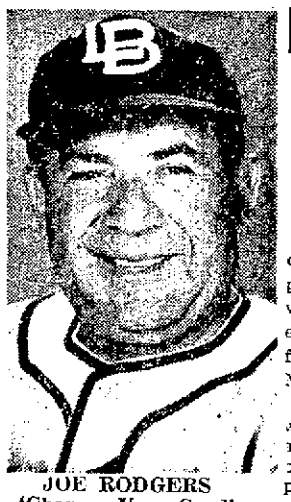

Irishman Joe Carr called the course "a good, fair test" but waggishly referred to "some tricky gnats" on the front nine.

The Britishers flew here from Winnipeg where they took part in the Canadian Amateur Tournament. They plan to play an 18-hole hound each day leading up to the Walker Cup competition.

None of them kept a score Saturday but Carr said he shot "around 73."

'Chances Very Good'

Kuts Leads Russ Over Britain

LONDON (AP) — The great Vladimir Kuts, Russia's double Olympic champion, came back to the cinder tracks Saturday after months of illness and ran the fastest 10,000 meters in the world this year. His time was 29 minutes, 13.2 seconds.

Kuts began with a fast first 1,000 meters in 2:45.8 and for a brief period appeared en route to an attack on his world record of 28:30.4.

However, he began to slow down in the relentless grind of 24 laps and against a stiff wind on the backstretch. He reached the halfway mark in 14:22.2.

Russia defeated Britain's men's track and field team 119-93, while the Russian women won 73-40.

Saturday's winners:

Men—200 meters—Konovalov (USSR), 21.4; 800 meters—Rawson (Brit.) 1:48.8; 110 meter hurdles—Hildreth (Brit.), 14.1; broad jump—Techer (USSR), 24-5; javelin—Kuznetsov (USSR), 271-11/2; discus—Grigalka (USSR), 150-5; pole vault—Bulatiy (USSR), Elliott (Brit.), 15-9½; shotput—Loschilov (USSR), 53-2¼; 4x400 relay—Britain 3:09.4.

New Record Score at Small Bore Meet

CAMP PERRY, Ohio (AP)—Firing a new record score of 6,392 points out of a possible 6,400, John Moschkau of Waterloo, Iowa, Saturday won the National Small Bore Rifle Championship.

The 50-year-old machinist led the field of 585 of the country's finest .22-caliber rifle marksmen for the entire six days of the title run of 16 matches here.

The old record of 6,390 points was set by Mrs. Viola Pollum of Brookville, Pa., in 1955 when she became the only woman ever to hold the national title.

READY FOR FLOYD?

Johansson Eyes Title

GOTHENBURG, Sweden (UP) — Europe's heavyweight champion is "ready" for Floyd Patterson, his manager said here Saturday.

Manager Edwin Ahlquist said his fighter, Sweden's Ingemar Johansson, was hoping for an offer from the world's heavyweight champ.

"We are ready for a fight with Patterson," Ahlquist said. "If we get an offer from America for a fight, we will accept at once.

"I think Ingemar has a good chance to upset Patterson. In any event he will be the fastest boxer that Patterson has ever met," he added.

Hawks Set for Third Title Bid

NEW BEDFORD, Ill. (Special)—The world softball champion Long Beach Nitehawks were scheduled to arrive here early this morning to open defense of their title beginning Monday.

The Nitehawks, who have won this gruelling 10-day tournament the last two years, will battle the Indiana state champions in a first round feature game Monday.

Manager Joe Rodgers and the bulk of his squad left Long Beach by plane Saturday night. Four players—catcher Stan White, infielders Cleo Goyette and Clint Herron and utility man Red Mealrs—motored east by private auto earlier in the week.

* * * *

ROGERS, WHO rates his chances for a third straight title as "very good," was undecided on his opening game starting pitcher. He can choose among Leroy Zimmerman, Jack Randall and Ritchie Stephen.

This trio pitched the Hawks to a sensational season record of 21 wins in 22 outings. The Hawks' only loss came at the hands of an all-star team in 16 innings.

The rest of the Nitehawks squad includes outfielders Bill Hull, Lucky Hamiston and Ted Herder and infielders Larry Silvas and Jimmy Jones.

Sixteen teams are entered in the tourney.

First round pairings:

Today—New Bedford Elites vs. Brownsville, Pa.; Midland, Tex., vs. Gary, Ind.; Dinuba, Calif., vs. Toledo, Ohio; Springfield, Mo., vs. Dayton, Ohio.

Monday—Tulsa, Okla., vs. Arlington, Tex.; Geneseo Ill., vs. McClave, Colo.; Long Beach, Calif., vs. Bremen, Ind.; Davenport, Iowa, vs. Providence, R. I.

DOUBLES FINALS TODAY

Mulloy and Patty, Gibson-Hard Win

BROOKLINE, Mass. (AP) — Australia's Ashley Cooper and Neale Fraser demonstrated their Davis Cup potential Saturday by defeating U. S. team members Vic Seixas and Ham Richardson in the semifinals of the National Doubles tennis tournament.

Cooper and Fraser, back together again as a pair, defeated the third seeded Americans, 6-2, 7-9, 10-8, 7-5 at Longwood.

The Aussies are seeded second here.

In the other men's semi-final, top seeded Gardnar Mulloy and Budge Patty summoned their vast experience and accumulated skills to run through Australians Roy Emerson and Bob Mark, 6-2, 6-4, 6-2.

* * * *

WIMBLEDON champions Althea Gibson and Darlene Hard overpowered Jean Arth of St. Paul, Minn., and Pat Naud of San Mateo, Calif., 6-3, 6-4 in a women's semifinal for the right to meet defending titlists Mrs. Margaret DuPont and Louise Brough today for the crown.

Fraser, bothered by a right knee injury suffered earlier in the year, was particularly outstanding as he showed a powerful service, keen placement sense and unusual agility in his leaping volleys at the net.

The Australian southpaw pitched to the ground in pain trying to return a volley in the 15th game of the third set and clutched his back, but, if anything, he played better after the mishap.

* * * *

IT WAS FRASER'S sparkling recovery of a wicked volley in the 11th game of the final set which set up Cooper for a slam that handcuffed Richardson and provided the vital service break against Seixas.

The 43-year-old Mulloy from Miami and the 34-year-old Parisian resident were so sharp and quick thinking they caused Emerson and Mark, expected to make more of a battle of their match, to falter.

Mulloy and Patty took full advantage of Mark's weakness on shoetop volleys by bombarding him with low skidding shots. Patty and Mulloy served love games in the second and fourth games.

Defending champion Mrs. Midge Buck of Manchester, Mass., won her seventh women's seniors' singles championship by defeating Mrs. Louise Ganzenmuller of Scacliffe, N.Y., 6-3, 6-0.

Savitt Spilled Twice in Nations Cup Play

RYE, N. Y. (AP)—A new idea in international tennis competition got under way here Saturday when the Nations Cup was put up for grabs.

Separate teams representing Eastern and Western U.S., Asia, British Commonwealth, England and South America — Mexico were represented.

Main development was that Dick Savitt went down to defeat twice in one-set matches. Herbie Flam, No. 2 player in the country, beat Savitt, 6-3, and Ramanathan Krishnan of India turned the trick, 7-5.

* * * *

SAVITT IS A temperamental fellow and it is possible he didn't take his matches too seriously. Also, the obvious fact that each match was limited to one set detracted from the calibre of play. A single set really means nothing since some players are fast starters and some slow.

Flam also downed Joaquin Reyes of South America, 6-3. In other singles matches, Sid Schwartz of U. S. East turned back Kosei Kamo of Asia, Japan's top player, 6-3, and Mike Franks, a young U.S. hopeful who was placed on the short-handed South American team, edged Johann Kupferburger of the Commonwealth, 7-5.

In doubles, Whitney Reed of Alameda, California, and Sam Giammalva of Houston, Tex., representing U.S. West, outlasted Reyes and Franks, 11-9, and Krishnan and Kamo crushed Barry MacKay of Dayton, Ohio, and Ron Holmberg of Brooklyn, playing for U.S. East, 6-0.

That left the scores at the end of the first day's play: U.S. West 18, U.S. East 13, Mexico-South America 13, Asia 15, Commonwealth, 4, England 0.

American Trapshoot President Wins Title

VANDALIA, Ohio (AP) — The 58th Grand American Tropshoot ended Saturday with Vic Reinders, University of Wisconsin professor and newly elected president of the American Trapshoot Assn., gaining top honors.

Reinders won the over-all championship—961 out of 1,000 targets—and captured the All-Around title with 386-400. Lela Hall Frank of Los Angeles, absent for nine years, won the over-all women's title with 911-1,000, eight ahead of 17-year-old Helen Thomas of Los Angeles.

Venturi Nabs 5-Shot Lead

MILWAUKEE (UP)—Young Ken Venturi, who claimed he plays to win and "not for money," increased his lead Saturday at the three-quarter mark of the $35,000 Miller Open tournament with a five-under-par 65 for a 54-hole total of 199.

The 26-year-old Venturi socked in six birdies, two of them on the last three holes, to wind up with the best round of the day.

Al Balding, the cigar-smoking pro from Big Winn Inn, Ont., shot a 69 to put him five strokes behind Venturi with a 204 total. Mike Souchak, Grossinger, N. Y., who got a 67 Saturday, was one stroke back of Balding with a 205.

Bunched at 206 were Don Whitt, Alameda, Calif.; Paul Harney, Worcester, Mass.; Sammy Snead and Bob Rosburg.

* * * *

VENTURI, WHO HAS finished in the money 13 of 14 tournaments since turning pro nine months ago, continued to putt brilliantly. He knocked in one 35-footer, a 25-footer and just missed an eagle on the second hole, when his putt rimmed the cup.

Balding, the 33-year-old Canadian pro, had two birdies and played par golf for the remainder, except for a bogey on the 12th.

Snead, the only old pro who could overtake Venturi today, had a 69 and would have been lower but for his continued putting trouble, particularly short ones.

VENTURI, A NATIVE of San Francisco, said he had been erratic with his putter until about a month ago when he made "a couple of adjustments."

Venturi won the St. Paul Open last weekend with a record equaling score and could better the 265 with which Ed Furgol won last year's tournament.

Midget Driver Killed; Parsons Wins 100-Miler

WEST ALLIS, Wis. (UP)—Veteran Johnny Parsons of Van Nuys, Calif., roared past a stalled Pat O'Connor of North Vernon, Ind., Saturday to win a tragedy-marred 100-mile midget auto race here at the Wisconsin State Fair.

Parsons averaged 92.2 m.p.h. O'Connor, who had held almost a lap lead on the mile paved track, stalled on the back stretch of the final lap.

Henry Nykaza, 37, Chicago Heights, Ill., was fatally injured in the 69th mile when his racer blew a rear tire and careened into a wall. He died en route to Milwaukee County General Hospital.

Rodger Ward of Los Angeles, finished second; Lem Sutton of Portland, third; Gene Hartley of Roanoke, Ind., fourth; and Frank Burany of Milwaukee, fifth.

Suggs Leads 'America' Open by 4

KANSAS CITY (UP) — Sharp iron play and an accurate putter gave Georgia veteran Louise Suggs of Sea Island a three-under-par 72 Saturday for a 36-hole total of 146 and a fat four-stroke lead in the $5,000 Heart of America Open.

Miss Suggs, who has won virtually every major title for women in her 10-year-professional career, faltered on only two holes for bogies on the 6,400 yard hilly layout.

With the final 18 holes to play today, Bonnie Randolph, 30-year-old Naples, Fla., pro in her third year on the circuit, moved into second place with 76, one-over-par for a 150 total.

Fay Crocker, Montevideo, Uruguay, a former U. S. Open champion, and Marlene Bauer Hagge, Delray Beach, Calif., 1956 top money winner, were next with 151 totals.

but planned two fights next year.

"If the IBC (International Boxing Club) would agree, I'd like to meet Eddie Machen or Pat McMurtry right after the first of the year."

Mike Jennings of Columbus, Ga., a principal Rademacher financial backer, quickly denied there was any racial issue. So did Pete Gannon, Washington, D. C., who helped negotiate for the bout.

But Watson said there was no question about accuracy of the quotes, and two other reporters backed him up.

"Notes were taken right in front of Patterson," Watson said, "and several questions were repeated to him. He spelled out his feelings clearly."

Jennings, president of Youth Unlimited, the organization that raised the $250,000 Patterson guarantee, said the race question "was never involved in any way."

Gannon said Clarence Hinnant, Negro sparring partner for Rademacher, "sat at the same table with us" during negotiations in Georgia and "there was no color line at all."

SDD needs an aeronautical engineer who might aptly be described as a specialist in the element of choice.
He will be required to evaluate equipment and equipment systems for purposes of incorporation into a major nation-wide system.
The position requires general familiarity with a wide range of technical subjects, including missiles, interceptor aircraft, and electronic systems, with recent specialization in at least one of these.
The ability to think in broad concepts, while retaining mastery of subordinate but complex factors, is also necessary.

THE ELEMENT OF CHOICE

This engineer must be qualified to keep up with advancements in his field, through liaison with other departments and companies.

Bob Kelley Says---

Curly Lambeau studied Waterfield unhappily. They were talking football.

"Bob," Lambeau pleaded. "Do we have to go through that again. I say you were the greatest passer and greatest quarterback ever to come into the NFL."

"Wrong," Waterfield smiled. "Norm Van Brocklin is the greatest passer I've ever seen. And Otto Graham is the greatest all-around quarterback."

Lambeau shrugged. He'd been through this argument before.

When the experts rate the all-timers, they list Sid Luckman, Sammy Baugh, Waterfield and Graham. I am not too sure but what you could safely drop Luckman out of there.

Despite all his accolades, Luckman could not throw with the other three.

In fact, a subject like this always scares me, because I'm afraid someone is going to talk me out of the notion that Waterfield was No. 1 of all time.

There is an extremely strong case for Otto Graham. During his entire career with the Browns, he never failed to win at least a divisional championship in both the All-America Conference and the NFL.

Last year, with Graham gone, the Browns finished out of the money for the first time since their inception. Does this not indicate that Paul Brown's genius might partially be spelled G-R-A-H-A-M?

Of course, it would be equally silly to say Waterfield was not great because he played on only two world championship teams. It's like the joker who wrote that article for Sports Illustrated a few months ago.

By his calculations, Ty Cobb—with a leading lifetime average of .367 over more than 20 years—was not really great because he didn't play for many winning teams.

Ridiculous logic. Just as ridiculous as calling Willie Shoemaker a bum jockey because he finished last in the race. Shoemaker cannot carry a horse, nor could Waterfield or Cobb carry teams.

Still, when you come right down to it, I have to eliminate Luckman, then Baugh, and I am left with Waterfield and Graham as the greatest of all eras.

And old Buck is still No. 1 to me.

WOULD YOU BE afraid of a stocky young man weighing 105 pounds? I doubt it—unless you're a girl weighing 105 pounds.

Yet 105-pound jockey Milo Valenzuela has a good deal of respect, and some fear, from his rival riders. He's the fellow they cater to at parties, the one they butter up constantly, as one would butter up his boss.

Why? Maybe it is because they don't want Valenzuela, probably one of the greatest natural riders of modern days, to give them the worst of it in a race. Milo is a take-chancer, who screams: "Here I come!" And he comes through all right, knocking other horses down, if he must.

"Milo has two bad habits," a fellow rider commented recently. "He's too reckless. He risks everybody's neck. And he likes to hang around honky-tonk joints with honky-tonk people. I wish he'd get some class.

"One of these days," the rider added reflectively. "Valenzuela is going to come busting through on the inside, and some other jock is going to drop his horse down in front, and Milo's going to go through the rail.

"It won't be me, though. How could I sleep at night?"

LEADS 'SHOE' IN TOTAL WINNERS

Hartack Eyes Arcaro's Stakes Mark

WILLIE HARTACK
Smacks of Confidence

CHICAGO (AP) — America's winningest jockey, 24-year-old Bill Hartack, has his sights set on Eddie Arcaro's record of 40 stakes triumphs in one year. He's fewer than 10 away right now.

In the process of overhauling old campaigner Arcaro's mark, Hartack easily could stow away an unprecedented third straight riding championship.

Hartack's 261 winners for the year, including 32 stakes victories, has him well in front of his closest pursuer, Willie Shoemaker, who has 225.

"I think I can crack Arcaro's record," said Hartack. "I've got enough time left, thanks to the good start I got in Florida. What's better, I get good horses to ride in stakes and that's the only way to win them."

If that smacks of confidence, it should.

Master Hartack is 112 pounds of solid confidence, not to mention great riding skill. It was said of the late Georgie Woolf he rode with a clock in his head.

You might say of Hartack he rides with the "hook" in his head.

"I study my opposition thoroughly," explains this remarkable chap, who rode his first official race as recently as Oct. 11, 1952, at tiny Waterford Park, Chester, W. Va.

"Then a study of film patrol movies of other horses in the race gives me a pretty good idea of what we have to beat. I test my horse all the way to the post. I learn a lot about a horse by the feel of the bit in his mouth and the way he strides."

Last year, Hartack led jockeys in all departments with 347 winners, worth a total of $2,343,955, with $1,037,077 accrued in stakes and features.

Hartack and Shoemaker have been feuding for national honors since 1953 when Shoemaker had an all-time high of 485 winners and Hartack was next with 350. In 1954, the Shoe won 380 and Hartack 323. But Hartack passed Willie in 1955, with 417 winners against Shoemaker's 307.

Hartack suffered his worst spill July 10 at Arlington Park. First reports were he had broken his neck. Four days later, taped like a mummy, Bill was back in the saddle winning races.

"That fall scared me a lot," Hartack recounted. "But it also made me mad that I got into a position where I spilled."

COP May Be Surprise of Independent Grids

By Associated Press

Miami and Navy seek a slice of the national football pie while Notre Dame starts the long trek back from its worst season in history. That, in a nutshell, is the outlook for the major independent college teams in the approaching gridiron campaign.

The University of Pittsburgh, a bowl participant for the past two years, figures to be a step below the Hurricanes and Midshipmen on the basis of a murderous schedule. The Panthers open against defending national champion Oklahoma.

For high-powered offensive antics and a few surprises, watch Moose Myers' Tigers from College of the Pacific.

• • • •

COLLEGE OF the Pacific, fourth in total offense a year ago, has lettermen for every position and a line averaging 217 pounds.

Junior Dick Bass ran up 116 yards for each of four games before injured in '56 and still wound up 36th in rushing. Quarterback Tom Flores finished fourth in total offense and eighth in passing. End Farrell Funston was ninth in pass receiving.

At Coral Gables and Annapolis, outstanding records are expected in the event a few "ifs" are resolved favorably.

Quick development of a star-spangled sophomore crop is needed at Miami where only nine of the first 22 players return from the 1956 squad which ranked sixth nationally.

Added incentive has been provided by recent NCAA action lifting a ban on bowl games which was imposed on Miami two years ago for code violations.

• • • •

NAVY'S BIGGEST worry as it enters its 75th year of intercollegiate competition is overconfidence.

Numbering seven starters among the 16 lettermen available, the Middies ended spring practice early because coach Eddie Erdelatz said "we accomplished our mission." Erdelatz called it "the best spring practice we ever had."

The Middies have depth and a line averaging 213 pounds—heaviest in Academy history.

Top ground gainer Ned Oldham is back along with flea-sized fullback Dick Dagampat, who provided the 7-7 tie with Army last year, and quarterback Tom Forrestal who ranked 17th nationally as a passer.

• • • •

SIGNS ARE encouraging at Notre Dame where the only direction is up following a disastrous 2-8 campaign. Coach Terry Brennan is sure the Irish luck will prevent a recurrence of the 33 key injuries which hit the '56 club.

But the schedule is plainly brutal—Purdue, Indiana, Army, Pitt, Navy, Michigan State, Oklahoma, Iowa, Southern California, Southern Methodist. In addition, quarterback Paul Hornung and halfback Jim Morse are gone.

In Brennan's own words:

"We will have more experience than a year ago, but still lack the depth so necessary to play the type of schedule attempted by Notre Dame every year."

Pitt, fresh from its best season since 1938, will field another fine club headed by 222-pound center Charley Brueckman. The record may not prove it, however, after the Panthers run headlong into Oklahoma followed by Oregon, SC, Nebraska, Army, Notre Dame, Syracuse, West Virginia, Penn State and Miami.

Penn State looks better on paper than the '56 Nittany Lions who lost only twice.

At Army, backfield material is plentiful but the line has been shredded by graduations. A major objective will be the Notre Dame game, Oct. 12, in Philadelphia—renewing a series broken off after 1947.

ALHAMBRA UPSET

How Now Wins Crosby Sprint

(Compiled from AP and UP)

How Now, a Texas-bred gelding with a terrific turn of speed, rolled to his fourth victory of the meeting at Del Mar Saturday, winning the 12th running of the $15,000-added Bing Crosby Handicap by a length from the front-running 3-year-old, Jedgar Ruler.

With Ray York aboard, How Now, owned by George C. Newell, Seattle insurance man, swept the six furlongs in 1:09 1/5, fastest time of the meeting and only two-fifths off the track standard set by Colonel Mack and then tied by Prince Khaled last season.

The winner was top weight in the field of nine, packing 122 pounds, and was sent away by the crowd of 18,641 as the lukewarm public choice, paying $7.30 on the front end. Noredski finished third.

• • • •

JEWEL'S REWARD came fast in the final eighth under a whipping ride by Willie Hartack to upset the odds-on favorite, Alhambra, and win the $144,550 Washington Park Futurity by a length and a quarter.

Jewel's Reward, the only supplementary entry in the field of nine, added $92,050 to his earnings for a total of $125,145. It was his second win in eight starts and second stake triumph as well.

Jewel's Reward was a 12-to-1 choice in the field while Alhambra, the heavy favorite of the crowd of 22,195, went off at 3-5.

Jewel's Reward was timed in 1:11 1/5 and paid $26.80. Strong Ruler finished third.

• • • •

RENEGED, another outsider, raced to victory in the 55th running of the Saratoga Handicap, beating Ricci Tavi by a length under a strong ride by Bobby Ussery. C. V. Whitney's Career Boy, showing some improvement, was third. Finishing fifth in the field of 10 was the favored Dedicate under high impost of 127 pounds.

Reneged, earning a purse of $40,000, covered the mile and a quarter in 2:04 3/5 and paid $32.50 to win. He carried only 113 pounds.

BEN LOMOND outgamed Frank A. Piarulli's Vortex to gain a neck decision in the $29,625 Ventnor Turf Handicap at Atlantic City. Anxious Moment was third.

Second choice in the wagering before 32,893 fans, Ben Lomond, coupled with Anxious Moment, returned $7.20 to win. Ben Lomond was timed in 1:43 for the mile and one-sixteenth.

LAUREL BID TO GALLANT MAN

LAUREL, Md. (AP)—Gallant man, 3-year-old owned by Ralph Lowe of Texas, was offered Saturday the first chance to represent the United States in Laurel's International horse race on Nov. 11.

The bid to Gallant Man is the earliest issued by the selection board of turf writers in the six years of the $100,000 mile and a half race on the grass.

The Irish Derby winner, Ballymoss, already has been named for the Laurel International.

Hambletonian Will Be Run in Two Divisions

DU QUOIN, Ill. (UP)—A near record field of 21 top trotters Saturday forced officials to split the Hambletonian Stakes, to be run Tuesday, into two divisions for the first time since the race began in 1926.

The total prize money of $112,000 is second only to the purse of $117,000 in the 1953 Hambletonian when 23 trotters went to the post for the best of three heats.

Under the split set-up, 11 will go in the first division and 10 in the second. Each division will run two heats and the winners will meet in a fifth and final shakedown for the first time in the history of the race.

Shantz to Miss One Turn on Hill

CLEVELAND (UP) — Bobby Shantz of the Yankees suffered no serious injury of his pitching hand when struck by a line drive Friday night and probably will miss only one turn on the mound.

A ball off the bat of Bobby Avila of the Indians hit Shantz on the left hand in the sixth inning, and the three middle fingers puffed up. A splint was placed on the middle finger, but x-rays Saturday showed no fracture. Shantz has won 10 and lost only three games this season.

Military Golf Title

PARRIS ISLAND S.C. (AP)—Lt. Hillmar Robbins of Blytheville Air Force Base, Ark., staged a brilliant rally here Saturday to capture the interservice golf tournament in a playoff with Sp.3c Ray Moore of Ft. Bliss, Tex., after both finished the regulation 72 holes in 290.

Baltimore Recalls Green From Mounties

KANSAS CITY (UP)—The Baltimore Orioles Saturday recalled lefthanded outfielder Lenny Green from their Vancouver farm affiliate and said he would report in time to play in today's doubleheader with the Chicago White Sox.

General Manager Paul Richards of the Orioles also indicated that Baltimore would sign 42-year-old pitcher Paul (Dizzy) Trout, one-time Detroit Tiger star, after Sept. 1, when the rules permit a greater number of men on the roster.

Seek Approval of '58 Mille Miglia Race

BRESCIA, Italy (AP)—Organizers of Italy's hazardous and often tragic Mille Miglia (1,000-mile) open road race Saturday asked government permission to schedule it for next year.

After a meeting the organizers — the Brescia Automobile Club—said they proposed running the race on either the first or second Sunday of next May.

There have been strong press and public demands both in Italy and abroad for abolition of the race which took 13 lives this year.

DOPE CASES

Ban Trainer, 2nd Groom

The California Horse Racing Board has set down two grooms and a trainer—one of them for at least a year—in connection with the stimulation of thoroughbreds in Southern California this summer.

The license of groom L. C. Cornstalk Toole was revoked at the Friday board meeting.

The other penalties were assessed against trainer Willie Wyndle and groom Don White. Wyndle was suspended 90 days, retroactive to Aug. 6, when he was grounded by Del Mar stewards following the stimulation of Rekindled. White was suspended 30 days in connection with the Rekindled doping.

Jockeys' Guild to Honor Alessio

NEW YORK (AP)—The Jockeys' Guild Saturday named John S. Alessio, executive director of the Caliente race track, Tijuana, Mexico, "man of the year" for his efforts in developing a safety helmet.

When a young jockey, Leroy Nelson, fell from a horse at Caliente in 1956 and was killed by a kick in the head, Alessio personally financed development and adoption of a fibreglass helmet. It is now used as standard equipment at most major tracks.

Eddie Arcaro, Guild president, will present the award to Alessio at the organization's annual dinner here Sept. 28.

NASCAR 100-Lapper at Speedway Saturday

Bill McKay has programmed a NASCAR 100-lap national championship late model stock car race at Los Angeles Speedway Saturday evening to highlight a big Labor Day weekend of racing at the Southside strip.

Regional NASCAR executive Coldeway expects more than 30 1956 and 1957 model cars to compete in the chase. They'll be battling for a guaranteed purse of $3,200.

Fishin' Around

By DONNELL CULPEPPER

The Pete Peters family, consisting of Pete; his wife, Neva; a 10-year-old son, Wayne and Jackie, just 4, seems determined to defy all time and space in a fishing marathon that never seems to end. Pete, incidentally, is skipper of the Fisherman II at Pacific Landing.

Pete is the type of man who occasionally hires another skipper to run his boat so that he can take a day off from the seven-day-a-week grind that all skippers face at this busy time of the year. So, what does Pete do on that day off? He travels half way to San Francisco to fish for salmon; or he speeds down to the Colorado River to fish for bass. He may even go to Irvine Lake to catch a few crappie.

And what does he do as skipper of the Fisherman II? He'll stay out there for 24 hours, provided his passengers are willing. There seems to be no end to his energy.

Neva, Pete's wife, probably has just as much energy. She runs the galley on the Fisherman II and, between making hamburgers and fresh pots of coffee for the patrons, finds time to flick an anchovy on a hook when the boat's in a hot school of fish.

Wayne is following in his mom's and dad's wake and is developing into a top angler, too. He has caught albacore, yellowtail, bluefin tuna, barracuda and kelp bass. Last week he experienced his biggest fishing thrill when he landed a dolphin.

* * * *

NEVA REALLY flipped a bait last Thursday. It was just the usual anchovy but a marlin liked it, grabbed it and took off. It just about scared the wits out of Neva, but she stuck with the fish despite the fact that she was using 20-pound-test monofilament.

One hour and 45 minutes later, the 224-pound marlin peacefully gave up after 31 jumps. The Fisherman II patrons, with 65 yellows in their own sacks, had a real thrill in watching the battle. Pete was thrilled, too, but just a bit envious.

Coming home, Pete sent a deckhand to the wheel, rigged his heavy marlin outfit and started trolling with a dead mackerel. Nothing happened for a long time even though the deckhand slowed to trolling speed at every bit of kelp.

Then, finally, the rod tip bent and the reel began to sing. Pete set the hook. Within 30 minutes he had another marlin aboard. It weighed 176 pounds. All of which comprises some sort of a record for a sportfishing boat that isn't outfitted for even one marlin, much less two.

The Fisherman II returned to its dock shortly before 10 p.m. and the Peters were ready to go again at 1 a.m. A bit of endurance, we'd say!

HORSESHOE KELP provided ocean fishermen with some of the wildest days of the season last week. The action became so hot Friday that boats out of Pierpoint and Pacific were loading with limits of barracuda and white sea bass within a couple of hours and heading for home.

Passenger loads are running light on weekdays and if you haven't tried the ocean, by all means take a trip to the Horseshoe Kelp this week. You'll never regret it.

Pierpoint, Pacific, Belmont Pier and Seal Beach Pier boats are usually loaded to capacity on Saturdays and Sundays, but there's always room through the week.

Mac McClintock of Pierpoint called Saturday to say that one boat had gone out to the Horseshoe Friday with only six passengers. They caught limits within an hour. The skipper said that 20 or 30 others could have done the same, had they been on board.

Even the small skiffs are getting tremendous catches of fish. Clarence Smith, using frozen squid for bait, tied into a 200-pound black sea bass Thursday night at the Horseshoe. The fish pulled his small boat around in circles for quite a while, but he landed the fish, almost as large as his boat, and returned to Pacific Landing at 4 a.m. Friday.

DOVE SEASON begins next Sunday, with exceptionally bright prospects for one of the best shoots in years. Only a sudden weather change can dim the chances of a banner 30-day hunt. Shooting hours will be from half an hour before sunrise to sunset. Bag and possession limit: 10 birds.

Imperial County, no doubt, will provide the best shooting in the state, but don't overlook open areas in Fresno, Tulare, Riverside, Kern, Merced and Stanislaus Counties.

There's an open season—two days only—on ruffled and Sierra grouse Sept. 1 and 2 in Del Norte, Humboldt, Siskiyou, Trinity, Shasta, Tehama, Modoc and Lassen Counties. Limit is two birds. Sage grouse may be taken in Modoc and Lassen only on the same two days.

Deer hunters are blaming every one for the poor take of animals this year, but the truth is that few deer hunters are out in the hills—not enough, in fact, to stir up the bucks. You can't blame a deer for hiding in the shade these hot days. Not only that, but the statewide drought is forcing deer to change their habitat. DF&G men say there are more bucks in the lower brushy canyons than ever before. And those spots are difficult for two-footed creatures carrying guns, to reach.

OUTDOOR PERSONALS — Glenn Engmel, 3820 Charloma Dr., Downey, took a 13-pound silver salmon at the Horseshoe Thursday while fishing aboard his paddleboard. He came in, talking about the "big sea bass" he had just caught.

The Super Express III, skippered by Bob Stroup, is running out of Pacific Landing at 4 a.m. daily as an all-day local boat.

The last grunion run this year starts Monday at 10:45 p.m. and continues for the following three nights, with the run 45 minutes or an hour later each succeeding evening.

Just in case you haven't seen the news already, here are dates of the migratory waterfowl season for California, Arizona and Oregon: Oct. 12 to Jan. 14, inclusive. That makes a 95-day season, longer by 10 days than any California has had for many years.

Duck limits will be nine birds, three of which must be sprig or wildgeon. You can take only six ducks provided you do not take the sprig or wildgeon. Limit on geese is six, of which three must be the dark species. No Canadian geese may be shot in District 32, which takes in the Colorado River and the Salton Sea. Goof season runs simultaneously with ducks, with a limit of 25.

MARLIN MASTERS

Skipper Pete Peters and Mrs. Peters display 224-pound marlin she caught on 20-pound line while fishing for yellowtail on the Fisherman II. Not to be outdone, Peters landed one on heavy tackle on the run home from the fishing grounds. His weighed 176 pounds.

HEAVY MARINE SLATE

Outboards Race at Marine Stadium

By BOB RUSKAUFF

A host of Southland marine sports action today will be headlined by (1) the battle of 75 western outboard race drivers in their big Marine Stadium regatta, starting at noon and, (2) the Long Beach Yacht Club's annual small-boat invitational regatta off Alamitos Bay.

They're but part of a huge array, however, in another transcending weekend. Other events include:

Concluding races of the Los Angeles YC's invitational one-design series at outer harbor and, on bay and ocean at Newport-Balboa, the Voyagers YC's final action of their 11th annual summer invitational.

In the latter 24 classes are competing, 12 racing on ocean and 12 on bay courses.

Meantime, at San Diego, the world's top Star boat sailors are gathered for Monday's start of the seventh Silver Star (North American) championships—a five-race series ending Saturday.

Some 13 of the Alamitos Bay Sabot fleet's top skippers and skipperettes are competing at Mission Bay in three-race wind-up, today, of their own little world series.

* * * *

AS FOR THE outboard skirmishes, nine fleets will take to the briny at noon, for 18 heats of racing over the single-buoy Marine Stadium turns.

Featured action, however, will be regional finals to choose top three boats in each fleet, to compete later in national championships for the tiny M-Hydroplane and big F-Racing runabout classes.

In both fields will be the present national champions, Eric Molinar, youthful Hollywood star, took the M title and Chuck Parsons of Lodi the "Thundering Herd" championship, during the nationals of 1956—which were held on the same Marine Stadium course.

The big meet of the "alky-burners" is co-sponsored by the Long Beach Junior Chamber of Commerce and the Los Angeles Speedboat Association.

Another lusty ocean sail feature on the agenda will be return sail, starting at noon off Long Point, of some 25 yachts which sailed cross channel from Balboa, Saturday, on first leg of the Newport Harbor YC's annual Moonstone Cove race.

IMMIGRATION LAW CHANGES

Congress to Help Keep Games in Squaw Valley

WASHINGTON (AP) — Expected easing by Congress of some restrictions in the immigration law will help keep the 1960 winter Olympic Games in Squaw Valley, Calif., Rep. Engle (Calif) said Saturday.

Engle said he has been assured by Rep. Walter (Pa) that proposed changes in the law will permit the secretary of state to waive fingerprinting requirements for Olympic athletes.

Under present law, all persons entering the country on temporary visas must be fingerprinted.

Red China, Bulgaria and other countries within the Soviet bloc announced they would not send their teams to the 1960 winter Olympics unless the fingerprinting requirements were waived.

Avery Brundage, director of the International Olympic Commission, said such action might mean transfer of the Games to another country.

"Personally, I don't care whether the athletes under Russian control compete or not," Engle said, "but I do want to do everything I can to help assure that the Games be held in California."

Virginia Holds Tee Spotlight

By JACK TEELE

The ninth annual Virginia Country Club Invitational, a 36-hole partner's best ball event at full handicap, will take over the golf spotlight in Long Beach this week.

A wide-open race looms for the Dr. A. C. Sellery trophy this year with over 150 teams vying for the title won in 1956 by Riviera's Dr. Peter Thomas and Mickey Brachman.

The 18-hole qualifying rounds for the tournament my be played Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday or Friday. Low 60 teams and ties will move into the 36-hole title meet slated for Saturday and Sunday.

* * * *

THOMAS AND Brachman, who won rounds of 65-61, will not be back to defend their crown, Neil White and Jim Ferrie of the host club, who combined for low gross honors with 132 last year, will be playing with different partners.

White, recent winner of the Virginia championship, will team with Hal McGrew, Ferrie's partner will be Ray Waestman.

Other low handicappers from Virginia and their partners include Jack Gage and Milt McGrew, Del Walker and Milt Arthur and Julie Bescos and J. V. Evans.

Leading the out-of-town challengers is the intercollegiate whiz Bob McAllister of San Gabriel, who is teamed with Lou Hageman.

* * * *

ONLY PAST champion in the fields is Harwood Clark, who shared the trophy with Carl Haymond in 1954. Clark's partner this week will be Dr. Ed Neushutz.

Among the celebrities participating will be baseball's Bob Lemon, who still hits 'em a mile bad elbow and all, and the movies' Johnny Weissmuller, a fine golfer who has no peer as a player of water holes. Unfortunately, Virginia is dry!

Russia Hits Its Stride in Oil Production

Soviet Now Rates Third, Still Gains

By THOMAS W. WHITNEY
AP Foreign News Analyst

The Soviet Union — already the third largest petroleum producer in the world—is upping its oil output rapidly each year.

The Russian oil industry which has at its disposal rich new fields, good drilling equipment, a large corps of experienced personnel, ample investment capital and a big domestic market has at last during the last three years hit its stride.

This year alone it's expected Soviet oil output will rise nearly 15 million metric tons over that of last year and reach in total nearly 160 million tons.

This is some 30 per cent less than Venezuela is expected to produce this year and only a little better than one-quarter of the gigantic U.S. output—but it's approximately equal to the combined production of Kuwait and Saudi Arabia, the two largest producers in the Middle East.

* * * *

HERE'S HOW it's estimated the big five oil producers of the world will stack up in 1957:

Area	Barrels Per Day
United States	7,283,000
Venezuela	2,800,000
U.S.S.R.	1,860,000
Kuwait	1,050,000

Here's how Soviet oil output has risen since the end of World War II with yearly totals in metric tons:

1945	19,400,000
1950	37,900,000
1954	59,300,000
1955	70,800,000
1956	83,800,000
1957	98,000,000

* * * *

THE RUSSIANS in 1945 faced a petroleum crisis of major magnitude. By that year as compared with 1940 their output had fallen off 40 per cent. This was not a matter merely of wartime difficulties, shortages and destruction—though those played a role too. The major factor in the picture was the exhaustion of the great Baku oil fields on the Caspian coast which had always been the most important source of Soviet oil. Baku produced in 1940 22,000,000 tons or over 70 per cent of total Soviet production. But by World War II the Baku fields had been ruthlessly exploited for some 70 years. They folded. They will probably never be the same again.

Even today despite extensive offshore drilling many miles out into the Caspian, Baku produces still only about two-thirds of what it did before World War II.

* * * *

THIS COULD HAVE BEEN disastrous for the Soviet Union, which needs vast quantities of petroleum and its products for its tractors, air force and transport.

However, before the era during the war there had been discovered and brought into exploitation new oil fields located in the area between the Volga River and the Ural Mountains. The particular centers of production which developed there were near Kuibyshev on the Volga and Tuimazy in Bashkiria.

The Soviet government exerted a major effort to expand output in the area. It paid off richly. These new oil fields produce at the present time probably around two-thirds of all Soviet oil. They contain rich reserves and it's expected that production can expand there rapidly for a long time in the future.

* * * *

THESE FIELDS have another important advantage over those at Baku which is close to the Soviet frontier. They are in the heart of the country. This locates them well strategically and from the point of view of economy in transportation.

With their rapidly rising output the Russians could enter the petroleum export field on a large scale if they so desired.

They do export some oil at the present time — on a relatively small scale. Nevertheless it's not to be expected that the Soviet Union will ship large quantities of oil to foreign countries at least during the next few years. To export oil the Russians would have to deprive industry, transport and the military of fuel they require for their own expansion

Big Dollar Cuts Caper in Canada

OTTAWA (AP)—Canadians reacted with mixed feeling of dismay and delight as their dollar put on a new display of strength last week, rising to unprecedented heights in the world's money markets.

Set free in 1950, the Canadian dollar had been riding at a premium of between two and four cents in relation to United States currency in recent years. On Tuesday it climbed to a record premium of more than six cents and then settled a little below that but still at a all-time high.

For importers it was good news. Canada is one of the world's biggest buyers of foreign goods. The higher premium meant some savings on imports, that might be passed along to consumers to help restrain rising living costs.

* * * *

BUT CANADA also has a heavy deficit in foreign trade. She has bought much more than she has sold and her deficit in 1956 reached a peak of $842,300,000. Total trade — exports and imports—swelled by $1,500,000,000 to a record $10,568,000,000.

Some Canadians argue that the high premium will encourage more and more imports, adding to the deficit and increasing prospects of widespread foreign control over Canadian industry.

The tourist industry fears that the low value of the American dollar in Canada—it takes about $1.06 in American funds to buy $1 Canadian — will frighten foreign visitors from Canadian resorts.

Main complaint comes from exporters. The high premium cuts into their profit margins and increases their problems in meeting for price competition.

* * * *

GOLD PRODUCERS, selling on the official market, appealed this week for increased federal subsidies.

V. C. Wansborough of Toronto, managing director of the Canadian Metal Mining Assn., said that for gold producers the rising premium is like the "turn of the screw." Gold was pegged at $35 an ounce, U.S. funds. Translated in Canadian funds it meant a drop to about $33. Production costs were rising while the selling price was dropping.

Through most of the 1940s, the dollar was pegged at a discount of 10 per cent. Many Canadians now feel there should be a repegging of the dollar, perhaps at par with American currency, or that other steps be taken to restrain it from its mighty climb. But there is definite opposition to interference with the dollar's freedom.

Experts argue that when the dollar was pegged the government found it difficult to keep it at the official rate. The heavy flow of foreign investors "hot" money in 1950—gambling on a rise in the Canadian dollar—was an example of the problem.

Federal officials appear to conclude that the dollar will be "self-correcting."

BELLEHURST'S CLOVERNOOK RADIATES WARMTH

BELLEHURST BUYS EQUITIES

Home Trade-in Plan Popular

A quick, practical method of trading your present home or equity in on a new Bellehurst home in Bellehurst's 900-acre country club development in the Fullerton-Buena Park area has been received with enthusiasm by home buyers, W. D. Windisch, development spokesman, said Saturday.

According to Windisch, "Bellehurst will buy your old home for its established valuation at the time a new home is selected in Bellehurst.

"We have found that the majority of buyers of new Bellehurst homes have sufficient equity in their present home to more than take care of the 10% down payment required."

Said Windisch, "The plan eliminates the many problems encountered in selling the buyers present home on the open market. Most of the new Bellehurst purchasers have built up more than ample equity in their old home during the past several years and now are ready to 'trade-up' to a home in the private country club community of Bellehurst."

Bellehurst is located in the Fullerton-Buena Park area and surrounds the new $2.5 million Los Coyotes Country Club. There are 183 three and four bedroom luxury class homes in the first unit, ranging in price from $30,000.00 to $37,000.00. A few estate size lots up to one acre in size are still available.

Purchasers are eligible for membership in the new country club which includes a 27 hole golf course, three large swimming pools, tennis and badminton courts and other recreational facilities.

Eight models furnished by W. and J. Sloane are open daily from 9:00 a.m. to 9:00 p.m. and are situated one mile north of the Santa Ana Freeway on Highway 39.

Roosevelt Shelves 'Divorcement' Bill

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24 (UP) —Rep. James Roosevelt (D-Calif.) has shelved, for the time being, his "divorcement" bill to prevent oil producers from owning retail outlets.

His house small business subcommittee also has bumped into so many complex problems in its two-year investigation of petroleum marketing practices that there will be no restrictive legislation this year. But he has wheels moving in congress, the justice department, and the federal trade commission, so 1958 could spell a different story.

* * * *

THE ELDEST SON of the late president made clear in a recent report on the subcommittee's inquiry that his digging is far from ended. He plans to go into the supply and demand issue, root evil of gasoline price wars. He also wants to expand the subcommittee's investigation of alleged price-rigging turned up in spot checks in South Bend, Ind., Denver, Los Angeles and other cities.

The divorcement bill was Roosevelt's ace petroleum legislation. It grew out of 250 complaints that independent filling station operators were being squeezed out by oppressive leases, unfair pricing arrangements, price manipulation, coercive sales of tires, batteries and accessories, and other dubious marketing practices.

Some testimony confirmed this but it also opened up new fields so completely inter-related that Roosevelt himself admitted further study is required.

"The subcommittee," its report said, "has noted the opposition to such measures by integrated producers as well as independent refiners, jobbers, and even some retailers . . . in view of the compliated nature of legislative divorcement, the subcommittee concludes that continuing studies and investigation should precede any attempt to secure passage of such a bill."

* * * *

THIS AND OTHER aspects of the report caused Associate Counsel Donald O'Hara of the National Petroleum Assn., a refiners' group, to comment that "the subcommittee's findings are surprisingly temperate, in contrast to the statements chairman Roosevelt issued before the hearings began."

"After the subcommittee settled down to a serious study of marketing," he added, "it found the subject much more complex than it appeared . . . it is difficult to find evils that are all black on one side and all white on the other."

Roosevelt has asked the federal trade commission to hit a faster pace in its investigation of questionable marketing practices, including "coercive" use by major oil companies of filling station outlets for automobile equipment. The commission says it is hampered by lack of manpower and money.

* * * *

THE CALIFORNIAN asked the justice department, which already is investigating price-rigging and other monopolistic devices, to inquire into "the present influence of consignment, commission and company-operated stations in price leadership, maintenance or fixing, or in price discrimination against independent lessee dealers, as possible violations of the anti-trust laws."

Meantime, he invited the oil-industry to clean up its own house and adopt an "open door" policy which he said would give the independent retailer a new lease on life and end under-the-table dealings.

Steel Puts New Punch in Industry

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Steel producers are beginning to punch holes in stiff cards the size of bank checks and use them to control rolling mill equipment. It is another step toward automation.

Since punch card programming appeared about two years ago one steel firm already has begun using it. At least nine other big steel companies presently are installing punch card systems.

Chief aim of the steel firms interested in the new equipment is a higher and more uniform quality of steel. But the automatic controls also will increase a worker's production capacity.

The punch card system is being considered chiefly for blooming and slabbing mills and reversing roughers at present.

Steelmen expect to uncover many more uses as they become more familiar with the operation. Punch card system equipment comes high but steelmen think the investment will pay off.

Most of the installations now under way will use punch cards to set the width between huge rolls that shape steel ingots into forms for finishing mills.

* * * *

THE CARDS ALSO will set the speed and direction of the ingots and steel shapes as they pass through the rolling mills. Such operations now are done manually.

A mill operator at manual controls will perform something like 1,200 operations an hour, passing the steel shapes back and forth through the huge rollers of a blooming mill.

For example, the operator screws down the rolls that press the big hunks of steel into thinner shapes. He adjusts the speed and reverses the direction to bring the steel through the rollers repeatedly—as much as 25 passes for a single ingot.

Real Estate Course Set This Autumn

Plans for a real estate course to be offered in Long Beach this fall have been announced by University of California Extension.

The local course is presented by the university in cooperation with the California Division of Real Estate, the Educational Committee of the National Assn. of Real Estate Boards and the California Real Estate Assn. with Karl Venter as coordinator.

Registration for class is being accepted by mail at University of California Extension offices, Los Angeles 24, and through the first week of the class, providing places remain open.

General information concerning all university extension fall classes is available in a class bulletin which may be obtained at the Los Angeles center, 813 S. Hill St., Los Angeles 14.

World Bank Rings Up Neat Profit

Borrowers Set Strong Record for Repayment

By MARK EMOND

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) In its first 10 years the World Bank has rung up a profit of 254 million dollars while just doing its job—helping nations get on their economic feet.

It makes the proud claim that would be the envy of any bank: no borrower has missed a payment. Since 1947 the bank has made 166 loans totaling more than 3 billion dollars in 44 countries.

This capitalistic institution, officially called the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development counts among its 60 member nations—its stockholders—a number of Socialist countries and one Communist nation, Yugoslavia. The Communist bloc, including the Soviet Union, is absent by its own choice.

The bank's president and board of directors have been criticized at the United Nations and elsewhere for being hard-headed in their lending policies —too tight, is the charge.

* * * *

ITS PRESIDENT, Eugene R. Black, a veteran banker originally from Atlanta, makes no bones that the bank operates on traditional banking principles. He says it will continue to do so.

Its charter is dedicated to what has aptly been called "creative capitalism." One of its basic aims is "to promote private foreign investment."

Black has said, "If the bank is to succeed in stimulating the flow of private capital, the integrity of our lending operations must be preserved.

"This is of the highest importance to the bank and its members, and it means that we cannot and will not lend more than borrowing countries can afford to repay."

The position of the borrowing countries, or of private individuals or groups whom a nation backs, is not unlike that of a farmer who wants to improve his farm or of a factory owner who wants to increase his productivity.

Somebody goes to the World Bank with a development plan and an estimate of what it will cost. The bank decides whether the investment appears to be a good one: that is, whether the improvements made with the borrowed money can themselves pay off the loan, and whether the plan is in general well conceived.

If the bank is convinced that a project is worthwhile, and sources of private capital are dried up, it will make the loan. The bank gives a go ahead, sets up a repayment plan, and keeps an eye on how things are going.

* * * *

IN THE DECADE of the World Bank's operation, a number of loans have already been repaid and written off the books. They were short-term loans—two to five years—carrying from 3 to 4¼ per cent interest.

Chile paid back a 5-year loan of $2,500,000 for an agricultural development project. Finland a 2-year loan of $2,300,000 for equipment to improve its timber production, Netherlands a 2-year loan of $3,955,788 for postwar reconstruction, and Yugoslavia a 3 per cent loan of $2,700,000 for its timber industry.

Most of the bank's present loans are not scheduled for complete repayment until the 1960s and 1970. Four are due to be fully paid back in 1980 and one in 1981. The latter, 80 million dollars at 5 per cent, was negotiated by Britain for a high dam in the federation of Rhodesia and Nyasaland, Africa.

Investment Company Adds Three to Staff

Three New York Stock Exchange registered representatives have been recently added to the staff of Paine, Webber, Jackson & Curtis, investment firm at 401 E. 4th St., according to Howard T. Booth, resident manager.

"This expansion in our service to the investing public of the Long Beach area includes S. L. Harrod, Garden Grove; Donald R. Bretting, formerly of Milwaukee and now residing in Lakewood; and Hale D. Cissell, Long Beach," Booth stated.

Hogle Investment Co. Names Vice President

G. Kenneth Handley, former vice president of the Hanover Bank of New York City, has been named vice president of the Hogle Investment Co., Salt Lake City, according to George Baumgardner, local manager of J. A. Hogle & Co.

In addition to his duties with Hogle Investment, Handley will be an investment adviser to the partnership of J. A. Hogle & Co., members of the New York Stock Exchange, Baumgardner stated.

Los Altos Realty Co. Celebrates

Los Altos Realty, Inc., will celebrate its sixth anniversary today with open house from noon to 5 p. m. and a "Fashion Show of Homes."

Rodney Whaley, president, and Jim Tolbert, vice president, will join their sales staff at the main office, 2060 Bellflower Blvd. to greet the public.

Following refreshments, conducted tours of homes are planned. Keynote of the tour—literally a "fashion show" of homes—will be the changing trend in today's home-planning.

Two-Story Houses Staging Comeback

By ROBERT F. COLL

WASHINGTON (UP) — Many builders report the two-story house is staging a strong comeback.

They say there are ample signs the ranch-type rage has run its course. With more builders switching back to the traditional two-stories.

There are two reasons, according to contractors; economy and customer appeal.

The building industry has found that if the two-story house is built big enough it can be put up cheaper than a comparable ranch style home. But as always, it is the home buyer who has made the biggest impact through his preferences.

Buyers like the looks of a two-story house—solid and impressive. Bedrooms on the second floor are private — they don't have to be kept in apple pie order when entertaining.

It is easier for the builder to provide the extra bedroom many families want. It also is possible to provide a separate dining room.

Looking at it from the economy side, the two-story home is usually easier and cheaper to heat.

Thus far, the comeback has the current trend toward split level houses. Builders feel the split-level is a good idea and here to stay.

It is the ranch-type house that has felt the pinch.

Many developers have not made much of a dent in scrapped the ranch home and now offer a choice of some two-story homes along with their popular split-levels. But based on construction costs, there appears to be a sharp cut off point below which it is not practical for the builders to venture.

WHEN YOU SELL...

will the price be right?

It can be right — if your home has been well built and offers legitimate value to another buyer. It is always how well built a home may be that determines what you can get for it. If your walls and ceilings are of Genuine lath and plaster construction, then you can be sure of the highest appraisal — for more than you could get for a home built with substitute materials.

This is because walls and ceilings of Genuine lath and plaster are more durable than others — fireproof, soundproof, and most easily refinished to look fresh, beautiful and new.

Increased sales at Holiday Park in Garden Grove have resulted from recently revised FHA financing terms, W. W. Keusder, president of Davies, and developers, stated Saturday.

Trade Center Topic for Realty Meeting

A discussion of the proposed World Trade Center, and how it is expected to pour $30,000,000 a year into Long Beach economy, is scheduled Tuesday morning at a meeting of the Long Beach Realty Board in the Lafayette Hotel.

Speaker will be D. E. Anderson, general manager of the project, who already has set up temporary quarters in the Times Bldg. He will exhibit plans for the $20,000,000 structure.

Anderson said he will tell the realtors of the economic advantages of the center, and will show them how it can bring more than 100,000 visitors to the city each week while creating 5,000 new jobs.

Fashion Editor Recalls Rome, Florence Shows

Editor's Note: Following are excerpts from a letter by Virginia Pope, fashion editor for Parade Magazine, to the publication's president, Arthur H. Motley, telling her impressions of the recent haute couture showings in Italy—and of the fashions you will be seeing in the Sunday Parade Magazines for the fall season.

"DEAR MR. MOTLEY:

"I'm off to Paris this afternoon, so it is 'arrvederci Italy' where I have spent two weeks. I hate to leave this land of sunshine where I lived for five years some time ago. As you know, I've been 'covering' the showings in Rome and Florence. It's the fifth time I have done it.

"Before plunging into work I had a few days holiday on the beautiful Island of Ischia, green gem set in the blue of the Mediterranean.

"When I reached Rome I was proud to tell the designers that I was reporting for Parade, pointing out that their styles would be seen by some 21 million persons in 56 cities. They were so impressed they had me on the air twice—imagine talking about fashion in Italian!

"The Italian couture is very young, it was not organized until seven years ago in Florence. Four years later, Rome, jealous of its neighbor to the north, set up rival showings.

* * * *

"IN ROME the showings go on for three days, starting at 9:30 in the morning and continuing until late afternoon; sometimes there are evening presentations.

"This year, one of the outstanding affairs was to take place at the home of Simonetta and Fabiarri, husband-and-wife team. Their exquisite villa is located on the Via Appia Antica. The stage was set in the garden theater, the supper tables placed around the turquoise pool, the flares lighted. In awning-striped tents the models were ready to don their costumes, some 400 guests rolled up to the door in limousines and taxis when the heavens opened letting forth a drenching downpour. There was no show that evening but they showed in their respective establishments the following day.

"She designs excellent sportswear (I photographed some of her styles for Parade), good looking coats and suits and smart cocktail and evening dresses. Her party dresses have skirts that are round as balloons and knee-high. They are pretty but only for the young and slim.

* * * *

"HE IS BETTER at suits and coats. His perfectly tailored suits are trim with short boxy jackets and slim skirts. Coats are easy, some tapered toward the hem and beautifully detailed with pockets and belts.

"Next in importance was a social as well as a fashion event, the celebration of the 50th anniversary of the founding of the house of Fontana. The fashions were inspired by the anniversary and reflected the dignified elegance of the turn of the century. Everyone was charmed by the opening number, the first dress in Parma violet made by Mrs. Fontana at the start of her career.

"An amusing picture of an Italian ballroom this winter came to my mind when I saw Mingolini-Guggenheim's dance frocks with 'bubble skirts'—the shoulders are quite bare, the waists wasp-slim. I imagined them floating around like a lot of carnival balloons!

"Even though the showings keep us very busy, we manage to sneak in a few minutes at the Coloseum and St. Peter's. At the close of the day we gather at Doney's for a nightcap, sitting at sidewalk tables watching the world go by as we discuss the latest fashion trends. Yes, it's fun to have an assignment in Rome.

* * * *

"FLORENCE PRESENTS a different picture. The presentations are held in the vast hall of the Pitti Palace against the background of Medician splendor. The walls are hung with priceless tapestries, two-centry-old crystal chandeliers cast their light on the fashions many of which this year reflect the influence of abstract design.

"Endless model parades go on from 3 in the afternoon to 2 in the morning, with time off for dinner. If the canvas chairs were more comfortable it would make the viewing of the models less tedious.

"There was lots and lots to note in the Pitti Palace showings, brilliantly colored full skirts of wool, silk or cotton which look like enormous butterflies as the girls whirl and twirl on the runway.

"The picture which I carry

90th Birthday for Mrs. Walker

By IOLA MASTERSON

She was Long Beach's first woman driver!

Her home, at Pacific Ave. and 3rd St., where she lived as a bride, boasted the first telephone in town!

She is Mrs. C. L. Walker, now of 3820 Pine Ave., who celebrated her 90th birthday Saturday; widow of the founder of the Farmers and Merchants Bank and one of the city's most valued pioneer civic leaders and mother of prominent business and civic leaders, too. Her children are Charles Walker Sr., Gus A. Walker and Mrs. Winchell Boice.

We delight today in sharing some of her reminiscences from a host of wonderful memories of early Long Beach.

HER AUTOMOBILE DRIVING days began in 1903, the year her husband not only served as mayor of Long Beach but also purchased a two-cylinder Oldsmobile, first gasoline-powered car ever to scare horses on local streets.

As a matter of fact, that car soon was disposed of because of the way it DID scare the horses. Walker, an ardent horseman, kept a stableful of fine animals on their property—at that time generously surrounded by open fields. Mrs. Walker recalls that his favorite, a handsome black saddle horse, named "Midnight," was particularly disdainful of motors in any form, which resulted in the early retirement of the city's first car.

About that telephone! It was an ingenious contraption: a most private line connecting just two telephones—the one at the house and the original "business" phone in her husband's office at Pine Ave. and 1st St. The phones consisted of two sounding boxes joined by ordinary household cord stretched

Wounds From Cupid's Ill-Aimed Arrows Heal Completely—in Time

By ILKA CHASE

Mrs. Dorothy Parker, a distinguished writer and a lady tutored in the ways of love, has written a good deal of poetry dealing with topic A and much of it is wise and realistic.

For this treatise I filch two of her poems, one in its entirety and one an excerpt because it seems to me they admirably illustrate, if from opposite sides of the fence, two widely experienced emotions. The first one goes:

"Oh when I flung my heart away
The year was at its Fall,
I saw my dear the other day,
Beside a flowering wall;
And this was all I had to say:
I thought that he was tall!"

The other one is a little old lady of 77 issuing a statement on what the years have brought her:

"So I'll say, though reflection unnerves me
And pronouncements I dodge as I can
That I think (if my memory serves me)
There was nothing more fun than a man!

Though the shabby unbalanced the splendid,
And the bitter outmeasured the sweet,
I should certainly do as I then did,
Were I given the chance to repeat."

WOULDN'T WE ALL! If we are honest it is usually the things that we missed that we regret the most. Certainly when it comes to love and men! No fisherman ever keened so bitterly for the one that got away as keeneth woman for the love affair she didn't have.

To take the first rhyme first. When one is in the agonies of love it is impossible to believe that it could ever happen—that a state of indifference could ever come. Indeed we don't want it to. Agonizing as a love affair may be, and one may suffer intensely in the throes of love unrequited, one would rather endure the pain than be free of it because to be free is to be removed from the person without whom the world is empty.

And yet time does pass, wounding all heels as they say and let us hope so, as well as healing all wounds and the day comes when we are able to murmur, "I thought that he was tall!" It is possible to murmur much less. It is possible to take a look and think only, "Well, well, well."

THE THING IS WE mustn't expect too much, for in all likelihood the bitter will outmeasure the sweet. That is the way of life. What is important is that we ourselves should not become embittered. Love is a very tricky affair and although highly regarded it is rare that it brings out the best in us. Love is the Great Distorter. Perfectly normal pleasant people can behave outrageously when involved in l'amour. They are jealous, touchy, downright mean.

I HAD A STRIKING EXAMPLE of this the other day. I was watching a television program in the company of a woman to whom I am devoted. It was an interview show and one of the guests was a man who some years ago she had taken very seriously indeed. As he appeared on the screen we looked at each other. I had played the role of confidante and the gentleman's shortcomings, gross betrayals and generally piglike traits were no secret to me.

To my surprise, and not a little to my annoyance, on the program he acquitted himself admirably. I began to feel a sneaking admiration for him and a sneaking sense of disloyalty to my friend. I stole a look at her. She was gazing at the set with an expression at once affectionate, amused and relieved. Suddenly she laughed aloud and a smile that was down-right smug, settled on her face. She stuck out her legs and stretched her arms over her head. "Know something?" she said "When we were going through the mill I used to feel ashamed that I had chosen such a skunk to fall in love with, but he's not bad at all. He's even quite good." And, with a happy little sigh, "I had excellent taste."

McCaffertys Mark 30th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth McCafferty of 5630 Walnut Ave. were honored on their 30th wedding anniversary with a reception given last Sunday by their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Robinson, at their Lakewood home. Co-host was the McCaffertys' son, Robert.

The McCaffertys were married Aug. 10, 1927, in Pittsburgh, Pa., where both grew up and were educated. They came to Southern California on their honeymoon, settling in Long Beach in 1929.

A ring of miniature white nosegays, each centered with pearls in recognition of the "pearl anniversary," circled the base of an antique brass candelabra. A three-tiered wedding cake was cut by the honored couple.

Assisting the hostess were Mrs. Mary Coleman, former resident of Pittsburgh and lifelong friend of the honorees, and Mmes. Stanley Houghton, Hugh B. Reynolds, Martin L. Bonnewitz and McKinley Eaton.

Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Harold Kime and Kathleen, and Mrs. Jack Shrum, all of Upland; and Mrs. Helen Craig and Mrs Bea Judge of Pittsburgh, Pa.

Ladies of Elks

Ladies of Elks will have a Wednesday luncheon at the Elks Club. Mrs. Amelia Blume and her committee will be hostesses. Bridge and canasta will be played, following the 12:30 p.m. luncheon.

Bankers on European Tour

Travelers, from left, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ibbetson and Mr. and Mrs. Everet Wightman plan to holiday for three weeks in Scandinavia and then proceed outward. Ibbetson is director of Lakewood's four Bank of America branches. Wightman is chairman of the board of directors for Bank of America, Long Beach.

The Wild Waves Say

—By IOLA MASTERSON—

"Round 'n' round"

THAT OLD ferris wheel of hospitable summer fun is spinning around so fast it leads us to suspect it's in love with the roller coaster. Step right up, folks, no waiting. Step aboard!

Top seat on the wheel Wednesday will be occupied by Jess and Hale Young's home, 5620 El Jardin, to be opened for its first formal party since occupation by the Youngs, a garden cocktail buffet. Invitations (extended to 150 friends) pictured a couple standing in an open door with a red carpet extending down some steps. Jess, not to be outdone by some nimble fingered artist, hints she'll actually roll out a red carpet. 100 per cent wool broadloom proof how she and Hale value their local cohorts.

May Dickie of Ft. Worth, Tayuksus, life-long friend of the hostess, will arrive tomorrow in time to be party co-honoree with the new manse.

Assisting make the who's-who houseful of guests extra happy will be Della and Les Lawson Sr., Kathleen and Bruce Mason, Chlora and Ross Hall, Ila and Jim Locke, Dorothy and Morris Holmquist and Ann and Dr. Tom Noble.

MR AND MRS. W. F. Prisk (Bill and Alice) will say those familiar French words, "bon voyage," next Saturday night using a typical American translation pronounced "cocktails and dinner". Present to collect the message in person will be travelers to the Orient we envied in print last week—the Cottrells, Davis', Dunns and Millers—plus a few other close friends of the host and hostess.

MARY JANE DURNIN and Bea Hart decided that Marge and Edison Demler would settle into their new home at 6300 E. Ocean Blvd. more comfortably if they gathered a few of the neighborhood old friends together to say "howdy." George and Bill were agreeable and so, we understand, the long time Long Beach Demlers will become official Peninsulans next Friday. "Naturalization" formalities will be in the form of cocktails at the Harts followed by buffet supper at the Durnins.

DUST OFF YOUR easel, cousin, Fran Soldini's teaching art again! You can squeeze a tube of oil or mix a water color in company with such near professional amateurs as Leonie Pray, Marian Lewis, Pat (Bartell) Johnson or Mildred Beckstrand.

Other playmates of the palette set are Jane Rhorer, Catherine Carlyle, Nada Richards, Mildred Dorsey, Kay Hammer and Curtyne Driscoll.

Fran, whose reputation as an artist is nationwide, returned to Long Beach this summer after a year's absence during which time she has been studying and painting in New England, New York and the Southwest. Many of her canvasses, left on exhibition in the East, are still winning awards.

IF YOU WERE waiting for a Polar bear you'd be as excited as Betty and Jim Worsham. They were, at last report, expecting such a bear on their doorstep at any moment. Fortunately, said bear will arrive sans everything but his coat. He has been relieved of the rest of him by Norwegian furriers.' Before the furriers did their work he was relieved of his will to live by Jim, himself, on an exciting hunting trip into the far Northland, part of the Worsham's European trip earlier this summer.

Escorted by Norwegian guides, Jim, and another American plus two Austrians went off on a month-long Polar bear hunt up through Adm. Byrd's old scouting territory. Dead-eye Worsham bagged the biggest beast of the trip—a seven-foot brute—leaving it to be bleached and dressed for shipping here; really the antiseptic thing to do. Betty is expecting a "trophy" of her own from abroad. A new French sports car purchased over there in which she did her more feminine type of hunting, referred to as "shopping"!

"Sweet music"

THE ROAR of a lion or the snarl of a leopard will be music to the ears of Millie and Frank Vessels Jr. in less than a month. From Sept. 15 to Oct. 15 they'll be on a full scale African safari, hunting all through the teaming Tanganyika area and guided by one of the most famous hunters in Africa, Geofrey Lawrence Brown.

This will be part of an 80-day flight around the world, beginning Sept. 1. They'll be in Europe, briefly, before meeting their guide in Nairobi to begin the safari, being conducted exclusively for Millie and Frank. After their search for game they'll continue their travels through India, Egypt, Bali, the Orient and other places with an uncommonly sultry glamour. Their cache of travel days used up, they'll return home Nov. 20.

SUMMER OF '57 has been a bowl of sour cherries for the Gibbs, Gertrude and Hugh, we've been told. First of all, Gertrude and daughters, Caroline and Sue, were all ready to leave for Hawaii until something went awry in Gertrude's health department. So she cruised through a hospital's routine for a month instead of through trade winds and muttered "O, ouch-o" instead of Oahu. Finally recovered and home so what happens? Hugh sprained an ankle and another Gibbs took to bed.

BRIDE BROKE HER ARM. Right after the wedding in Las Vegas. In a few well chosen words the new Mrs. Robert White (Dorothy Jergins) said to the bridegroom, in essence, "Isn't this ridiculous?" Now the bone is mended well enough to travel so the newlyweds will leave for Hawaii next Saturday on a belated honeymoon. Dottie and Bob hosted a combination belated wedding reception and aloha preview party for close friends yesterday—Hawaiian themed, of course—in their home at 371 Park Ave.

Docs 'on Staff' as Party 'Consultants'

"Oh, Doctor!"

Just don't stand out in front of Sallie and Dr. Milton Van Dyke's Park Estates home this afternoon and yell "Doctor! Come quickly" or the next thing you know you'll be up to your ears in medics! Same will be true next Saturday.

Sallie and Milton are having a party to welcome son, Dr. Alexander (Ike) Van Dyke and his wife, Dee, smart as she is chic, back to Southern California. Ike, his medical school and intern days over, is now serving as a lieutenant in the U. S. Navy Medical Corps Reserves, stationed at Camp Pendleton. The Van Dykes wide circle of friends (naturally a lot of them in the medical profession) have been bidden to one of two affairs—this afternoon or next Saturday.

CO-HOSTING will be Ike's sister and her husband, Sally and Dick DeGolia, and assisting will be Drs. Francis and Nancy Hertzog Jr., Lyle and Rita Gray, Bill and Jane Rhorer, Bob and Betty Godwin, Edwin and Lucille Squire and Philip and Nancy Hartley. Nonstethescopian assistants will be Katie and Carter Boswell, Sylvia and Bill Reid, Anna and King Parks and Phyllis and Harlan Miller.

For the second party good friends assisting will be Drs. Gordon and Eddie Brown, Walter and Gladys Furie, Fritz and Haldis Hertzog, Ben and Anabel Parks, Seibert and Waula Pearson, Hugh and Frieda Prichard and Jack and Mildred Dorsey. Lone "civilians" aiding the hostesses and hosts will be Marion and Don Locke.

Kramer of Long Beach.

Miss Webb and her fiance are both graduates of Wilson High School where she was president of Yoga Sorority and he was a member of Scarabs. Continuing their education at Long Beach City College Miss Webb affiliated with TNT Sorority. The bridegroom-elect graduated with the June class and will continue his education at Long Beach State College.

The popular young couple will be married on Sept. 12 and will reside in Long Beach.

DUV Session

Anna Etheridge Tent No. 58, Daughters of Union Veterans, will meet at 12:30 p. m. Monday at Veterans Memorial Bldg. for installation of new members. Rose Capron will be in charge.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY, MRS. WALKER!

Shares Memories

across the intervening fields. To call her husband she simply picked up the receiver and tapped the box energetically with a pencil. This set up a hum along the line, a signal at the office to answer the phone!

* * * *

WHEN MRS. WALKER used that telephone she already had lived in California more than 16 years, 12 of them in Long Beach. As Miss Carrie D. Ziegler she arrived here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. N. Zeigler, from their native Minnesota, the family journeying to California by covered wagon.

The Zieglers settled in Tulare for a while. It was here Miss Carrie met her future husband. In 1887 they moved to Los Angeles and to Long Beach in 1891. They bought farm acreage "out in the country" at 3rd St. and Walnut Ave. for their home, an easy buggy ride into town with its bustling "3,000-plus population."

In the meantime Charlie Walker never forgot or lost track of the blue eyed, auburn haired Carrie and when the Zieglers settled here he decided, post haste, Long Beach was the place for him. Carrie became Mrs. Walker in 1895 and moved into the Pacific Ave. and 3rd St. house, "on the outskirts of town."

* * * *

IN THOSE DAYS Long Beach was mainly a winter resort popular with hundreds of midwesterners with a strong desire to retire someday to this sunny, quiet spot. Walker, a real estate man then, was being requested constantly by the winter crowd to keep money for them here with the admonition, "Charlie, you keep this and when a good piece of property is up for sale, you just buy it for us." Finally he was handling funds for so many investors he decided he might as well be a banker, so he founded the F. & M. bank in 1907, serving as its president or chairman of the board until his death in 1938. His sons still head the firm which has remained a local institution.

Always active in church work, the Walkers were among those instrumental in the construction of First Methodist Church, the second church for a specific denomination built in this city.

* * * *

MRS. WALKER was graduated from the California State Normal School (it ultimately became UCLA) in 1893 and taught school here until her marriage. She remembers leading the music for graduation services at The Tabernacle for the last class of seniors before the first regular high school building was erected.

As a Sunday School teacher at First Methodist for more than 50 years, she and her husband recognized the need for, and promptly headed the committee organizing the YWCA, its first members all from Mrs. Walker's own Sunday School classes. They also helped organize the local YMCA.

Modjeska, scene of the birthday celebration Saturday, also is wrapped in memories for the Walker clan. The house originally was built by Madame Modjesta, famed Polish opera star, in 1876 in the Orange County canyon she bought. The property was purchased by a group of local businessmen in 1906, the sale negotiated by Walker and Stephen Townsend, another pioneer leader of that era.

* * * *

IN THOSE days the local families who shared the resort, made the day-and-a-half trip by horse and wagon, stopping overnight en route at Orange. In 1923 Walker bought the home and its immediate grounds for the family's country house and it has remained a favorite rendezvous ever since.

Approaching her 90th birthday and hesitant about bothering with a party, she later confided to her family (children, grandchildren and great grandchildren now total 48) that she felt a little like she was "the last leaf on the tree." Then she said, "I looked about me and there were 48 new leaves, fresh and healthy, belonging to the same tree—so of course there should be a party for all of us."

* * * *

THERE ARE ten thousand times "48 new leaves," Mrs. Walker, who live in this city you helped build and, in a sense, have become part of your family. They all say thanks—and happy birthday! You'll never be alone on your tr

Mardel Graham Wed

MRS. THOMAS O'BRIEN

The blonde loveliness of Miss Mardel Graham was enhanced by her bridal gown, an exquisite creation of white silk taffeta, fashioned with moulded bodice of Alencon lace, portrait neckline, lily point sleeves, and bouffant skirt, with its shimmering folds ending in a chapel train. Her fingertip veil was held with a pearl-studded Alencon lace tiara, and she carried cattylea orchids and lilies-of-the-valley.

Miss Graham, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas H. Graham, 4029 Chestnut Ave., and Thomas Michael O'Brien, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jerome J. O'Brien of San Antonio, Tex., were married Aug. 17 in a high noon nuptial mass at St. Anthony's Catholic Church, with Monsignor Bernard J. Dolan officiating. The bride's prayerbook was specially blessed by Pope Pius XII.

Miss Patsy Ball, maid of honor, and bridesmaids Mary Powell, Los Angeles; Jeanne Charvat, Long Beach; and Dickie Hoffern, Anaheim, wore identically styled ballerina length empire line frocks of sea green silk organza and lace. Lace hats matched their attire, and they carried fans covered with pink and white blossoms.

Others in the formal bridal entourage, were Jerome Jergins, best man, and Douglas Graham Jr., Robert Gerson, George Clifton, Jan Erickson, William Simonds Jr., and Joseph Scavone, ushers.

Out of town guests were uncles and aunts of the bridegroom, Mr. and Mrs. Myron Anderson, Midland, Tex., and Dr. and Mrs. Mark O'Brien, San Diego, and Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Grindal, San Antonio, Tex., William C. Newman and Von E. Newman, both of San Antonio.

Pastel-hued water lilies floated in the patio pool at the Pacific Coast Club, setting for a reception, and hanging baskets held pink and white flowers.

When the bridal couple returns from a honeymoon trip to Hawaii, they will establish residence in Austin, Tex.

The bride, a second generation Californian, is a graduate of USC, affiliated with Alpha Gamma Delta, and attended school in Switzerland. Her bridegroom, a UCLA alumnus, is a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity.

HONEYMOON IN THE SUN

Currently honeymooning in Hawaii are Mr. and Mrs. George R. Johnson (Patricia Geary Bartell), 53-68th Pl., pictured aboard the Lurline. The bride, daughter of the Leslie Edward Gearys, and her husband, son of Ward Johnson, former congressman and the late Mrs. Johnson, were married here Aug. 15. The newlyweds, who will return early in September, were feted at a reception aboard ship when it docked in San Francisco Aug. 16 by close local and Bay area friends.—(Matson Photo.)

Anne Avery Lovely Bride

A rosepoint lace crown worn by her mother at her wedding, rested on the beautifully coiffured hair of Miss Anne Moore Avery, and held her nylon tulle veil. The lovely brunette was gowned in bouffant-skirted tulle and Chantilly lace, for her marriage to Andrew Dwight Hotchkiss Jr.

The August 17 wedding of the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Barnett Avery, longtime Long Beach residents, and the son of Mrs. A. B. Hilton of Bel Air, and Andrew Hotchkiss Sr. of Grosse Pointe, Mich., took place in St. Luke's Episcopal Church.

Bridesmaids bouquets of pink rosebuds prettily complemented Miss Avery's bridal bouquet of phaelanopsis, lilies-of-the-valley and bouvardia.

Matron of honor Mrs. John W. Klug; bridesmaids Miss Jacque MacLeod, Mrs. Donald Peck, Mrs. Willard Badham, Mrs. Donald Killian and Mrs. Robert Ivey, and junior bridesmaid Miss Peggy Avery, sister of the bride, wore ballerina-length light blue frocks.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. Four hundred guests attended the solemn rites, at which the Rev. F. C. Benson Belliss officiated.

Groomsman was Frederick Hotchkiss, and ushers duties were performed by Michael Brennan, Robert and John Avery, Chauncey Lufkin, Richard Spencer and Edward Hunter.

Church floral decorations, pink roses, gladioli and stock, were repeated at a Virginia Country Club reception, where the newlyweds' happiness was toasted in champagne cocktails. After a honeymoon trip to Northern California, they will establish residence in Los Angeles.

away with me of the general trends is one of easy slender lines for daytime and elaborate draping and handling of fabrics for evening in gowns that may have bulbous silhouettes, bouffant skirts or drapery that floats like wings in the wind. Miles and miles of chiffon has gone into the after-dark styles.

"IN THE SUITS I see no particular change of outline—boxy jackets, straight skirts, all very young in feeling, with newness in details of collar, pockets and belts. Many of the coats taper toward the hem. A few are high-waisted in cut or have a high-placed belt. Collars are often Puritan types.

"Many of the dresses have an enciente look, floating in swooshes of material from shoulders to hem. I don't believe they will find popularity with the American gals! Of course there are plenty of smartly tailored and fitted ones which the buyers were noting with interest.

"Continuing our photography of sports fashions, we betook ourselves to the Hotel San Michele, at Fiesole for background interest. It is a converted monastery in which the old atmosphere is preserved in spite of those modern conveniences which Americans love.

"In loggia and courtyard, where monks have walked prayer book in hand, we photographed Emilio Pucci's newest 'pantie shirt,' Myricae's embroidered cotton dress and Mirsa's wool knit sport shirt and short shorts. Through the arches of the loggia we saw the dark fingers of the Tuscan cypress and the far-away domes and campaniles of Florence.

"So much for my Italian impressions. I'll write again from Paris. This will be a different type of fashion story.

"With sincere regards.

VIRGINIA POPE."

By ANNE GILCHRIST

The panel of judges who will select the outstanding business or professional woman of Long Beach for 1957 has been announced by the three Long Beach Business and Professional Women's Clubs sponsoring the contest now in progress as a major local salute to women who work.

The contest, to be a highlight of National Business and Professional Women's Week observances here Sept. 22-28, will culminate with a banquet Sept. 24 when the winner will be announced and honored.

* * * *

JUDGES who will select the outstanding careerist from nominees entered by business firms, service clubs, and trade or professional groups are: Sam Vickers, city manager of Long Beach; Dr. Lois Swanson, assistant dean of women at Long Beach State College; Vito Romans, manager of the Long Beach Retailers Assn.; Iola Masterson, Long Beach Independent and Press-Telegram woman's section columnist; Dr. Charles R. Brantingham; Wallace Bruce, manager of Butler Bros.; and Mrs. Cravens Douglass, president of the Sierra Mar District BPW Clubs.

* * * *

LAURA JANE WALTER is chairman of the coordinating committee for the sponsoring clubs and, with members of the three groups, has prepared contest rules. Invitations have been received by hundreds of firms and groups to enter employes of prominence. Judging will be based on participation and interest in community projects and affairs, efficiency, appearance and personality, contribution toward her company or profession's welfare and progress, and lastly, education, voluntary in-service training and academic efforts toward career advancement. Presentation of contestants' names and qualifications closes Sept. 10.

Executives' Secretaries

Tables at Virginia Country Club, accustomed to white linen toppings adorned with artistic floral arrangements, became miniature "construction yards" Saturday night as scale size models of trucks, cranes and tractors centered the tables and blueprints became place mats, replacing the snowy tablecloths.

It was all in the spirit of Executives' Secretaries "Firm Night" in keeping with the business of Millie and Severson, host firm, building contractors. Invitations to the smart affair cleverly imitated a construction company's work sheet. Information included these facts: Project Supervisor: Agnes Herbst (she is Millie and Severson's representative member of Executives' Secretaries); Schedule: 7 p.m. to completion; Layout: Virginia Country Club; Specifications: Cocktails, dinner, dancing. Project personnel: Secretaries, executives and wives, guests.

* * * *

NOBLE MILLIE, president of the host firm, gave a brief history of the formation of the company explaining informally how he and fellow USC classmate and Sigma Phi Delta Fraternity brother, Chuck Severson, decided, during their senior year, to form a business partnership. The big decision was reached one day during an "open air" conference on the steps of the university's administration building!

Shortly after their graduation we entered World War II and the boy from the Panama Canal Zone (Charlie) and the kid from So. Dakota (Noble) had their college-fresh engineering knowledge promptly put to use by Cal-Shipyard here, subsequently going into business in Long Beach following the war.

"Hospitality Sunday"

Queen Beach Chapter, National Secretaries Assn., has named Sept. 8 as "Hospitality Sunday," and is planning a party to take place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Forest Jr., 24 Headland Dr., Rolling Hills.

Purpose of the day, as planned by the membership committee, is to acquaint prospective members with NSA. Invitations on behalf of the chapter are being extended by Beverly Samuel, corresponding secretary, 2165 Chestnut Ave.

Women Accountants

Emphasizing that "most business firms are honest," Robert L. Gayley in his guest appearance before the Long Beach chapter of the Society of Women Accountants at the Lafayette Hotel last week, said that upward of 50,000 inquiries per year, an average of 250 a day, are handled by the Long Beach Better Business Bureau in an effort to thwart the unscrupulous operators.

Gayley said that queries come to the bureau by phone, mail or personal visit and that, in most instances, explanations are readily available in the pamphlets prepared by the BBB or by explanation from the staff.

Estelle Cannon was nominated by the club as its candidate for Long Beach's outstanding business or professional woman's contest, as outlined previously in this column.

Garry Alden Gives Ring to Miss Perrine

In a double ring ceremony at First Christian Church, Whittier, Miss Connie Jo Perrine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clair C. Perrine of Pico, became the bride of Garry Harwood Alden, whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Thompson of Long Beach.

The bride's ballerina-length gown of lace and tulle was trimmed with shimmering sequins. She carried a cascade of white carnations and stephanotis, centered with a white orchid.

Sister of the bride, Miss Jeanie Perrine, was maid of honor. Barry Alden, the bridegroom's brother, served as his groomsman. Bridesmaids were Chari Serrell, Betty Bath, and Sally Sanchez. The 200 guests were seated by Verne Bath, Jay Warnke and Owen Reynolds.

The bride attended San Jose State College. Her bridegroom, a Polytechnic High School graduate, attended Long Beach City College.

Presently serving with the U. S. Air Force, and stationed in Germany with the 604th Communications Squadron, he was recent recipient of an "Airman of the Month" plaque. Alden was home on a 30-day furlough when married. He has returned to Germany to serve six months more there. In his absence, his bride will reside with her parents.

Ruth Paige Troth Told

A buffet supper at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Paige last Sunday served to announce the betrothal of their daughter, Ruth Ann, to Myron Eugene Caldwell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer V. Caldwell, also of Long Beach.

Both young persons attended Wilson High School where the bride-elect was active in music organizations. She now is a student at Long Beach City College. Her fiance is serving with the Navy.

No date has been set for the wedding.

Tim Henney Wed in East

A summer school romance which began on the Berkeley campus just a year ago has culminated in the marriage of Miss Jacqueline Lee Pelton and Tim Harriman Henney. They exchanged wedding vows Aug. 10 at Block Island, R. I., and after a wedding trip in the New England states, will reside in New York City.

Mrs. Tim Harrison Henney

Miss Pelton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Lawrence Pelton of Whittier, formerly of Long Beach, was attended by Carli Lewis, sister of the bridegroom. Andrew Jess Clawson Jr. of Atlanta served as best man. Others attending the ceremony were Gary Lewis, brother of the bridegroom; Reid Collins, formerly of Long Beach, now of New York City, and Mrs. Clawson Jr.

Henney is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Hal Lewis, 3851 Linden Ave. His grandparents are C. C. Lewis and the late Mrs. Lewis; Mrs. T. G. Harriman and the late Mr. Harriman. A graduate of Polytechnic High and Long Beach State College, Henney served three years in the Air Force. Also, he attended USC and UC at Berkeley and was listed in Who's Who in American Universities for his numerous college activities and as a past chapter president of Sigma Alpha Epsilon.

Miss Pelton attended UC at Santa Barbara and was graduated from UC at Berkeley in January, where she served as president of Associated Women Students. She taught one semester at Lake Arrowhead school and after a month's vacation in Canada with her parents, traveled to New York to complete her wedding plans.

Upon their return from a wedding trip, a reception will take place in their New York apartment.

2 Exhibits at Museum

An excellent opportunity is offered art enthusiasts of this area to view comprehensive collections of the graphic techniques of printing and drawing. Two such exhibitions — Contemporary Prints from Italy and California Drawings—are currently on display at the Long Beach Museum of Art, 2300 E. Ocean Blvd.

Outstanding examples of the graphic arts, which refer to techniques predominantly linear in effect, are included in both collections.

Drawings employing the media of charcoal, wax or conte crayon, ink, and textural studies may be seen in California Drawings. Sixty-nine works from such noted California artists as Karl Benjamin, Richard Diebenkorn, Leon Goldin, Rico Lebrun, Bernard Rosenthal, Richards Ruben, and Jack Zajac represent the drawing technique. Another collection of drawings, the Los Angeles Area Drawing Exhibition, may be viewed at the Exodus Gallery, 253 6th St., San Pedro, until Sept. 15.

DIFFERING from drawing, which uses pen, pencil, crayon or brush applied directly to the surface, printmaking uses many impression processes to produce a linear picture. These may include the techniques of intaglio engraving, drypoint and etching—lithography, or wood engraving, all of which are represented in the Contemporary Prints from Italy exhibition.

The etching process of intaglio uses a copper plate which has been covered with a layer of wax. The metal is exposed by drawing lines with a needle, after which the plate is immersed in acid. The acid bites into the metal, giving the impression for the printmaking process. Excellent examples of this technique are Luigi Bartolini's "Broken Flasks" and "The Tortoise."

* * * *

AGAIN A METAL plate is used in engraving and drypoint. However, in engraving, the lines are cut with a burin, and the cut areas are polished to make them parallel with the plate surface. The plate is then inked for printing. Drypoint uses a needle, instead, and the cut areas are not polished, which gives it a fuzzy quality when printed. The drypoint technique is used in "Old Man" by Gisberto Ceracchini and "Marco Polo" by Fabrizio Clerici.

Lithography simulates the effect of a pencil or crayon drawing by using a grease pencil or crayon on a stone surface. After wetting with water, ink sticks only to the greasy areas, again making an imprint. There are many lithographs in the Italian collection, among them color and black and white works by Afro Basaldella, Renato Birolli, Massimo Campigli, Luciano Minguzzi, and Antonio Music.

* * * *

IN WOODCUTTING or wood engraving, the design is drawn on the surface of a wooden block and all areas except the design are cut away. Representative of this technique are Guiseppe Balbo's "Fishermen" and works displayed in the exhibit by Ettore Bonfatti, Bruno Bramanti, Bruno Colorio, Tranquillo Marangoni, Romano Rigucci, and Remo Wolf.

Another fine collection of prints may be seen at the Tower Gallery, Los Angeles City Hall, where an exhibition entitled "Swedish Prints" is on display. At the local Museum, Contemporary Prints from Italy will be on display until Sept. 1 and California Drawings until Sept. 25. Most of the works in both of these collections at the Long Beach Museum are for sale.

The Italian prints range from a very reasonable $5.00 to $25.00, while the California drawings may be purchased for $25.00 to $300.00. The Museum is open Tuesday through Saturday, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Sundays 1 to 5 p.m. It is closed on Monday.

Dear Abby

Send Out an Alarm Fast!

DEAR ABBY: I am trying to locate my husband and this old maid retired schoolteacher he took off with. He is a man of 46 and this old maid retired schoolteacher is (now get this, Abby, but don't faint) not a day under 60 years old.

I don't know what he wants with her. I am 44 and am an excellent cook and housekeeper and my only fault is that I am a little bossy. They have been gone almost three weeks and I don't know where they are but I am sure they are together. How can I find them?

GUSSIE.

ABIGAIL

DEAR GUSSIE: I think your husband is missing both physically and mentally. If you notify your Bureau of Missing Persons promptly they will try to bring him back (physically) . . . the rest is up to a doctor. Good luck!

* * * *

DEAR ABBY: Do you approve of separate vacations for a couple who has been married for 16 years, who love each other and trust each other? Please reply to NELLIE and put this in the paper as my mother reads your column every day and this is for her.

NELLIE.

DEAR NELLIE: I not only approve—I recommend it.

* * * *

DEAR ABBY: I am 37 years old, and am a good God-fearing woman who lives in the country. My husband farms and we have six boys and three girls. I think I am going to have another baby and I don't want this one. What should I take?

HAD ENOUGH.

DEAR "HAD": Take another look at the Bible.

* * * *

DEAR ABBY: I just finished reading about a man named Steve who said he couldn't find a decent girl in a bar. Well, he is wrong. My husband found me in a bar and I am as decent as they come. I also have a sister who is 26 and she goes in bars all the time and enjoys herself. She is a decent girl and is some looker, too. Too bad Steve and my sister can't get together as she would also like to settle down.

FOR BARS.

Color Films to Be Shown

"Suez Canal," a 14-minute film in color, and "Assignment Children," featuring Danny Kaye with children of India, Japan, Korea, Burma and Thailand will be among pictures screened at dusk Thursday at Burnett Branch Library, 560 E. Hill St.

Also scheduled are "Dangerous River," filmed during a Smithsonian Institution exploration of the Big Horn River in Montana and Wyoming and "Make Way for Ducklings," an amusing domestic scene in the lives of Mr. and Mrs. Mallard and their family of eight ducklings, from the picture book of Robert McClosky.

The public is invited. Miss Jean Taggart, branch librarian, planned the program with attendance by family groups especially in mind.

New Musical 'Wows' Capital Social Throng

By PATRICIA WIGGINS
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP) — "Boy Wonder" Leonard Bernstein (who hates the title) is setting the capital on its social as well as musical ear during the opening run of "West Side Story."

The premiere of the new Bernstein - Robbins - Laurents musical last week not only drew an unusual number of VIPs but got them into fancy first-night garb usual in New York but not here. It also caused eruptions of cheers and applause the politically-minded capital usually reserves for inaugural parades or other non-theater events. Frosty Presidential Aide Sherman Adams was one of those on his feet applauding when the curtain fell. Presidential Physician Dr. Howard McC. Snyder, one of those giving lobby laudings to the show's "originality."

* * * *

THE 38-YEAR-OLD Bernstein personally wowed guests at an elegant suuper party after the opening, where you could locate him by the fluid movement of the Ambassadorial-White House-Congressional guests. Everywhere that Bernstein went—dining room, living room, bar or hall — the crowd was sure to follow.

Bernstein brought down the house in an impromptu performance kicked off by the arrival of first newspaper reviews. Shoes off and atop a soft-cushioned chair, he read them aloud with gestures and expressions that brought appreciative shouts from Sen. Jacob K. Javits and others.

If he weren't going to be so busy putting finishing touches on "West Side" for its New York opening, Bernstein obviously could win hands down a "social lion" title that Washington hostesses would love to bestow. (Bernstein also obviously had more fun himself at his second stop of the evening, a cast party which ended at 5 a.m., with Bernstein playing Bach.)

Maturing With Music

As your child grows to ages three, four and five, he will undoubtedly develop into a TV fan and his choice of music may horrify you for a while. But it is only that his new favorites follow the pattern of short, bouncy tunes.

The most popular tunes for the moppet stage are the simple commercial jingles. Next comes the theme songs of the western heroes. Strong competition, however, is offered by the special children's shows that feature a single person playing a simple instrument. Children sit and sway to these tunes and learn them easily.

They seem especially fond of "demonstrated" songs for they can join in the action and imitate the movements of animals, birds and flowers and sing their songs as they bend and turn, wave their arms and march around the room.

Visits in East

Rachel Morton, music editor and critic of the Independent, Press-Telegram, left Thursday for a vacation in the East. She will visit her mother in Bar Harbor, Me., following which she will spend a week in Keene Valley, N. Y., with Mrs. Frederic Upham of Chicago, who maintains a summer residence in Keene Valley.

Major Minor

By RACHEL MORTON

For many years I have been an ardent admirer of the music critic of the Los Angeles Examiner, Patterson Greene. He has a poetic and flowing style of writing that pleases my aesthetic sense and his viewpoints mostly coincide with my own. I thought, too, that it would be interesting for one music critic to interview another. So I asked if I might see him. He very graciously invited me to his home.

Rachel Morton

In a lovely house in Westwood he and his charming wife greeted us cordially. We met, too, their smiling young daughter, Catherine, age 13.

Mr. Greene has the quiet bearing of a studious man; the sure demeanor of an aristocrat and the kind manner of a thoroughbred. He is modesty itself and I had to put all the questions. So modest indeed is he that it was five years after he had graduated from Harvard before he learned, upon opening his diploma, that he had graduated "Cum Laude"!

Although born in Superior, Wis., he attended school in Washington State preparing to become a concert pianist. But after graduating from Harvard he went to the Philippines where he taught in Manila. There he met and became friends with Carlo P. Romulo, one time Philippine Ambassador to the U. S. Attending a concert together, Romulo asked Patterson Greene to write up the concert. That was his first review and for 33 years he has been writing reviews for the Los Angeles Examiner, where he sits enthroned as an authority on things musical.

I like Patterson Greene's healthy outlook. For instance, he says there are opportunities today for exceptional talent as there have always been. Our American singers are being engaged abroad singing in the opera houses of Europe and England. They receive excellent foundation here in America and experience over there. (For myself, I wish they might also have their experience in America.)

Music today, he says, is not degenerating if you seek out the best. Asked if he still enjoyed music after so many years of listening, he said: "I always enjoy music when it is good."

About two things Mr. Greene was most emphatic. When I asked him what the Los Angeles area needed most musically he cried: "An opera house!" Here, too, he was optimistic. After all, it took San Francisco 20 years to get one — an opera house that seats only 3,200, while the Shrine Auditorium (deplorable structure though it be for opera production) seats 6,700 and it is mostly capacity full during our opera season. Each year we get nearer the accomplishment of the project and this year the voting was two thirds in favor of building one. It is a heartening sign, says Mr. Greene.

The other subject upon which he held a strong opinion was the absurdity of having several different conductors in one season for the Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra. It was, he said, like changing the parents of one's children every few weeks. The perfection of orchestral playing comes from a singleness of purpose, a working as a whole toward one man's idea; a welding into a component ensemble. Every conductor has his own ideas, and to be continually tossed from one to another, plays havoc with virtuoso accomplishment.

Patterson Greene is not only a music critic. He writes short stories and plays. One of his plays is in production in Scotland right now. It was produced by the New York Theater Guild in 1944. It is called, "Papa Is All."

I asked him about his hobbies—a man who writes long into the night and is at his desk six days a week, has little time for hobbies. But he did introduce us to two beautiful Siamese cats, and Mrs. Greene says that his collection of very valuable old records is prodigious. He played one for us—a remarkable recording of the voice of Adelina Patti, which is rare indeed.

Patterson Green lives in a beautiful world, a world of music. He is a happy and contented man, sharing his gifts daily with the reading public. As I left him I was refreshed in mind and humble in spirit.

Volkswagen Lines Seen as Trend in Clothing

(Editor's Note: This is the first of a series of Sunday features on men's fashion trends as seen by leading Long Beach retailers.)

By TED KREC

Sneaking back up Locust Ave. toward the paper after taking too long for lunch the other day, I spied the boss heading down the street toward me. "This," I said to myself, "will be a most opportune time to duck into the Andover Shop and see my old friend, Jack Becronis!"

Jack, an ultra-sharp young man with his eye on the ball and his mind on design, was glad to see me, for if there's anything he likes better than the clothing business, it's talking about the clothing business.

"Take a look at this," he said, showing me a magazine picture of a modern, swept-wing American car. "This is what men have been wearing. And this," he turned to a picture of a Volkswagen, "is the trend. Translate that into terms of clothing and you'll see what I mean."

It's the natural look in clothing these days, Becronis asserts, traditional and utilitarian — natural shoulders in the suits, and trim trousers.

BECRONIS AND John M. LaJoie Jr. have operated the Andover Shop at 210 Locust Ave. for a year and a half with the avowed aim of giving Long Beach men a store that represents good taste in "what is to be"—and "fad" clothing is ruled out.

"The clothing we carry is of a traditional nature that dates 'way back before the lounge type," Jack said. Noticing my quizzical look, he explained: "The lounge style of clothing was a style which started about 1935, reached its flamboyant peak in the 1940s and then declined.

"You remember the style—it was still around after the war. Men came home from the service and the accent was on heroism, so clothing, too, had the 'heroic look.' Some of the suits had everything but medals on them.

"But today, fashion-conscious men are not looking for the 'heroic look.' Now they are solid citizens, businessmen who have developed a taste for good taste in clothing. That's why the trend is to the traditional."

BECRONIS AND LaJoie are a friendly crew, and there's always a chuckle when you stop in to chat. For example, Jack says: "You can tell a lot about people and their personalities from their sizes. The customer who is a 42 long is the greatest guy in the world—a real happy Joe. Why? Because he's not aware of his size or build as being too large or too small, so he's usually not self-conscious at all."

Is 42 long the most popular size across the country? "No —the most popular size is 40 regular. That's the average —and 40 regular is a darn good guy, too!"

Then the conversation drifted around to wives who shop with or for their husands.

"WE DON'T have much of that here in Long Beach," Jack said. "However we do have many women shoppers in our San Marino store. There we get a lot of the 'gift store' business. Wives buy mostly furnishings—socks, underwear and pajamas. Why? Because they patronize stores in shopping centers and streets where women travel more. Gift shops in hotel lobbies get a lot of this kind of business. But in our Long Beach store we essentially are downtown—we get businessmen who come in to try on suits. Wives can't try on suits for men—they have to do that themselves. So, our store is a place for businessmen to drop in to talk and to see what's new in the world of suits."

There's a lot of experience behind the light-hearted witticism of Jack Becronis. A native of Pasadena, he has been in the clothing business since he was graduated from USC in 1951. He went to work for Phelps-Terkel in Los Angeles and Pasadena, and while there he met LaJoie, who had come to California from Minneapolis, where he worked for Hubert White. That's how they got together. Their San Marino store is now six years old and their next store will be in downtown Los Angeles.

ALWAYS, THE partners' preoccupation has been with good taste, and the Andover Shop itself mirrors this. The facade is Williamsburg type Early American, complete with paned window and Dutch-style half doors. Inside the motif is carried through with appropriate colonial decor.

You have to force yourself to leave when talking to Becronis, for his language is sprightly and his knowledge of fashion is endless. But I stuck my head out the top half of the Dutch door and made sure that the boss was nowhere in sight. Then I opened the bottom half, waved goodbye to Jack, crawled out and went on back to work.

Paris in Couture Spotlight

By JOYCE KENT

Intimate facts about the haute couture of Paris are related in the recently publisher "Paris a la Mode" by Celia Bertin, young French author and winner of the Prix Renaudot in 1953.

Written in story form, rather than the textbook style one is accustomed to on the subject of fashion, it proves as interesting to the woman who enjoys fine clothing as it does to the student of fashion design.

IN ADDITION to making more understandable the world of high fashion, it instills in the reader a strong desire to one day own a true Paris design!

Published by Harper and Brothers and translated from the French by Marjorie Deans (illustrations by Mariel Deans), "Paris a la Mode" exposes the haute couture as a true fine art and as an important part of the economy of France.

Along with couture collections presented each spring and fall, the book explains how many of today's designers also show "Botique" collections in a more moderate price range. Another important facet of the Paris fashion industry, the selling of "toiles"—patterns of the models cut in linen — to foreign buyers also is explored.

Particularly interesting are Miss Bertin's interviews with seamstresses, models, saleswomen and the great couturiers themselves.

ACCORDING to "Paris a la Mode," Schiaparelli "opened the first couturier botique, where an eccentric young Englishman burst into tears when he recognized a stuffed polar bear which had been shot by his grandfather and dyed pink by Dali." Mme. Vionnet told Miss Bertin, "It was I who got rid of corsets. At Doucet's in 1907, I presented mannequins for the first time with bare feet and sandals, and in their own skins." Of Dior, today's undisputed leader of haute couture, the author says, "he is one of those rare, grown-up people who seem as detached as children."

Perfume as an important sideline to Paris fashion is seen in the chapters on many of the great fashion houses—Dior, Chanel, Schiaparelli, Lanvin and Jean Patou. (Incidentally, the House of Patou is introducing its newest fragrance, Lasso, here in September.)

Our Children

Prepare Your Old-Age Activity While Young

By ANGELO PATRI

Growing old is an inevitable result of once being young. Some of us do not accept the fact at all and consequently are unhappy when it falls upon us. Some of us know full well that age and its characteristics are coming but we make no preparation for it. The end result of this lack of acceptance and preparation is a miserable old age. Having to stop active work and having nothing to do with our minds or our hands is tragic.

THIS NEED not be. Age can be a happy time provided one has something he wants to think about, or wants to do. This requires preparation and youth is the time to begin that essential activity of mind and hand. Each of us from childhood on has certain abilities, certain gifts, tastes and tendencies apart from the essential life work. One or more of these qualities or abilities should be cultivated from youth onward as insurance against the time when the "grasshopper becomes a burden."

Nature offers a various choice. The stars, animals, plants, fish, whatnots of the fields. Gardening, propagating plants, hybridizing them; wood carving, carpentry, cabinet making; writing and reading; collecting from buttons to jewels; paint, sculpting; sewing from making aprons to embroidering vestments. Truly "the world is so full of a number of things we all should be happy as kings."

But this provision for a far-off time makes no sense to children and youth so we make no mention of it. We quietly see that each child cultivates some one gift, some one interest that he will fall back on when his work-a-day time is over. That is why parents should stress music as an inner source to strengthen the spirit for the stresses of the future. Anybody who can play an intrument has that essential insurance against hopelessness in old age.

TOO, THIS second vocation does not wait to the day age sets in but serves then and there its purpose of spiritual release. Too many people including the children of today are suffering from tensions and the best way to relieve them is to have this resource, this bit of activity that acts as a haven for the troubled mind and weary body. And make no mistake, youth knows that weariness and needs that release.

Help the children to cultivate an inner resource. It pays its way in immediate rewards and insures happiness in time to come.

Children profit by a little self-examination. Dr. Patri advises a self-measuring chart which a child can make for himself. Leaflet P-13, "Self-Measuring Chart," is a chart to work with. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to him, care this paper, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

Worry Clinic

Maladjustment Can Cause Unhappiness in Marriage

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Case V-372: Milly B., aged 28, is the indifferent wife of Terry.

"Dr. Crane, I never did like housework," she protested in tears.

"And even after our first baby was born, I wanted to work and hire a woman to look after the house.

"But Terry insisted I stay home and be a housewife. Then he bought this little place out in the country.

"Well, I never was a country lover, so I hated it. But I was pregnant with our second baby, so I tried to put up with things.

"And Terry likes to read. I don't. So we had little in common. We have drifted farther apart. I can see that he is unhappy and ready to leave.

"But I don't know what to do to stop it. We just aren't compatible but our three children make it very complicated."

EVERY SUCCESSFUL wife soon learns that she must be an actress in her own home.

For she must feign ardor on many occasions to keep from deflating her husband's ego.

Most American males have absorbed an erroneous notion that women are very passionate creatures.

So when their wives show little fervor and often act indifferent, it wounds the male ego.

Deflated in his own pride, he then feels bitter and ugly. So he subconsciously decides to whittle down his wife's ego to an even lower stage than his own.

Thus, he scolds and finds fault and yells at the children and becomes a nagging husband.

"Nagging" usually is linked with wives. But there are literally millions of nagging husbands, too.

They find fault and indulge in biting sarcasm and affront their wives in public.

Such men often are victims of a sexual inferiority complex, regardless of whether they are 29 or 49.

But they probably are more numerous after 45, when they are panicky about slipping into a permanent platonic state.

So smart wives must learn the facts about the male sex ego and then become actresses. Feign ardor and you'll soon have a happy, devoted husband again.

That will not only be a great boon for you but a double blessing for your children.

FOR MILLIONS of youngsters are scolded and "bawled out" unmercifully when the real cause for the ill will of their dad is maladjustment which lies in the erotic realm.

Men and women are born with marked differences in their two major hungers, namely, the gastric and erotic.

Women have recognized this difference since the days of Adam and Eve. And wives even have tantalized their mates with delicious viands so their husbands would go far beyond the 3,500-calorie input.

But men also have much greater erotic hunger than women, though wives largely have ignored this vital fact.

So send for my booklet "Sex Problems in Marriage," enclosing a stamped return envelope, plus 20 cents. Insure a happy home, especially for your children's sake.

Lloyd Vaughans Observe Silver Year at Parties

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd J. Vaughan, 3820 Cedar Ave., have been celebrating their silver anniversary this past week. They said their vows in this city 25 years ago, and have resided here ever since, except during the war years, when Vaughan served as a Colonel with the Air Force in Europe and Japan, and with General Curtis LeMay at SAC headquarters in Omaha, Neb.

Vaughan's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. George Hove, were dinner guests at their 2320 Rutgers Ave. home. Guests were friends of many years, and included Pom Whaef bridge club members, and numerous guests at the 25 years ago wedding.

The hosts were assisted by their son, Roger, and the Vaughans' daughters, Linda and Sharon. Surprise visitors were Mrs. Bruce Woods and her two-year-old son, Paul, bearing a white orchid for Mrs. Vaughan. Mrs. Woods was flower girl at the Vaughans' wedding.

A pink and silver "money tree," laden with silver dollars, was presented to the honorees.

On Aug. 20, actual wedding date, a group of friends, including the Foster Strongs, Leslie Mayes, Jim Sidfords, Lewellyn Phillips, R. J. Kirkpatricks, Lucy Lovell, and the J. Roscoe Howells, who were the Vaughans' wedding attendants, hosted a surprise buffet dinner party at the Howells' home for 60 friends. Ginger blossoms, pink hibiscus and stephanotis were table decor.

LaVern H. Brinkman

CHEF OF THE WEEK

LaVern Brinkman Is Fan of Bouillabaisse

By MILDRED K. FLANARY
Independent, Press-Telegram Home Economics Editor

He majored in science — minored in "math," but taught "phyzz-ed." Then, to lend even more variety, Chef of the Week LaVern (Vern) H. Brinkman became Long Beach manager of New York Life Insurance Co.

A Wisconsinite by birth, Brinkman attended Eau Claire College, but received his degrees from Wisconsin U. He was known for his athletic prowess at both colleges, being a member of their football and basketball teams. He captained the football team at Eau Claire.

Following graduation, he taught and coached in schools at Stanley, Wis., for two years. Then, still single, and with an eye for adventure, a relative succeeded in luring him to Coos Bay, Ore., where he taught and coached for another two years.

IT WAS WHILE summer-schooling at UC, Berkeley, that he met Willard E. Givens, superintendent of Oakland schools, and more recently secretary of NEA, Washington, D. C. This friendship led to his transferring bag-'n-baggage to Oakland and a teaching position in Roosevelt High School.

His interest in insurance and investment was born when he read, re-read and re-re-read his life insurance policy with an eventual understanding. He rather liked the idea of having mastered the legal aspects of the document, so after two years at Roosevelt, he resigned and joined the New York Life Insurance Co. at Oakland.

AS A GOLFER, he's what is known as a "hacker." But his love of that game is surpassed only by his pleasure at deep sea fishing—duck hunting and rooting at football games. A regular guy at most things, he isn't inclined domestically and not much of a cook. You'll like his New Orleans Bouillabaisse, however.

NEW ORLEANS BOUILLABAISSE

¼ cup oil
1 cup butter or margarine
2 chopped onions
2 diced green peppers
2 cloves of garlic
2 No. 2 cans solid pack tomatoes
1 6-ounce can tomato paste
2 8-ounce cans tomato sauce
1 bay leaf
1 tsp. paprika
2 tsp. salt
Freshly ground pepper
6 peppercorns
1 cup sauterne wine
¼ cup sherry wine
1 tablespoon grated orange rind
2 small lobster tails
1 pound frozen fish fillets
1 pound scallops
1 pound frozen shrimp
1 pound cooked crab meat
1 pint canned oysters
1 pint raw clams
2 tblsp. chopped parsley

Put oil, butter, onions, green pepper and crushed garlic in large, heavy kettle. Cook until onion is soft and yellow. Add tomatoes, tomato paste, tomato sauce and seasoning. Stir in wines and orange rind. Cover and simmer 1 hour. Meanwhile, cook lobster tails in boiling water to cover, until tender-about 15 minutes; cool and remove the shell. Cut fish filets in 2-inch squares. Layer fish and shell fish in large kettle. Pour sauce over the top. Cover and simmer 20 minutes.

MOLLY MAYFIELD

You Are Years Too Late

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

I'm at my wit's end. I've been married 29 years. The past 15 years have been quite a trial. My husband met a married woman. He drank himself out of two businesses because of her. She loves to drink, too. I have found them together quite a few times. Always I get a good excuse for it.

When he doesn't see her for a couple of weeks he is a nice man. He always has been good to our children. We never do anything together but he hunts this other woman up to be with her. He says she is fun to be with. He is free to live with her if he wants to. He always says he wouldn't, though, because she wouldn't suit him as a wife. BEWILDERED.

DEAR BEWILDERED:

Whatever answer I give is going to be about 14 years too late. You've let him get away with this shoddy scheme so long that it's going to be difficult to get tough about it now. You never should have permitted it—even separated, if necessary.

But your apparent tolerance (which I think was soft-headedness in this case) encouraged him to philander.

You can still try reading him the riot act, but he'll have a quick answer: "Why did you let me get away with it for so long? You couldn't have cared very much." That's why I'm afraid the advice is too late.—M. M.

* * * *

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

I am a wife and mother of four wonderful children. We recently moved to a new state because of my health.

We owe several bills and we got behind moving out here, especially on the car payments. The finance company stored the car until we could make up the payment. My husband and I talked about me working, so I found a job working nights.

But every night when I start dressing for work, he fusses at me to quit. I would like to give my employer a notice, a week at least. My husband thinks I just ought to quit and not say anything.

Now my husband is saying that he's going to lose his job if I don't stop working because his boss doesn't believe in women working outside the home. Should I believe this? Should I give in and quit or just try to bear the fussing and work anyway?

MRS. L. R. C.

DEAR MRS. L. R. C.:

I think this is a situation that calls for soft talk, even if you have to bite your tongue to keep from saying something harsh. Your husband's masculine pride is what is troubling him. He feels that your going to work is an admission that he's a failure as a provider and that's what makes him so snappish and unreasonable.

So why not tell him that you sure hate working, that his job would have been plenty to live on if YOUR health hadn't fouled everything up? Tell him that's why you feel guilty and want to help support the family. Assume all the blame. Make him feel like a million dollars. I'll bet his attitude will change in a flash. And I don't think there's anything to that talk about his boss. That was just hubby's way of bringing pressure to bear—by using the boss as an excuse.—M. M.

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

I have grown up, or at least reached, the age of 16, and in all that time I have as yet had no fun.

I have done extremely well at school. I am the antithesis of the modern teenager. If he is too wild, I am too careful. If he is not interested enough in world affairs, I am too much so. In short, whatever the modern teenager has done, I haven't done, and what he hasn't done I have done.

Is there any way that this one-track life of mine can be split up into a sensible balance between two integrated roads? Is there a way to prevent this lonely, creeping paralysis? Or should I concentrate on intellectual pursuits, becoming perhaps a brilliant chemist or physicist?

In the words of our modern immortal singer: "I have had too much!" A. K. R.

DEAR A. K. R.:

Ah, wilderness! The splendid melancholy of youth! I remember how it was, long ago, and I can smile at the recollection now, whereas I sighed dismally at the future then.

Of course, you can combine fun and seriousness, and you will do so. I realize that 16 is a very old age, but I think you will survive it. Who knows you may live long enough to enjoy second childhood, which I am now doing! —M. M.

Distribution Is Opponent

West opened the ace of clubs and continued the suit. Eventually South lost one club, one diamond, one heart and two trumps and was down 500.

Not a tremendous penalty but an unnecessary one, and North and South have asked me to discuss the bidding and assess the blame for the loss.

North feels that South should have opened three spades or merely bid three spades after East's double of the three-club bid. In that case the North and South loss would have been 100 points only.

South feels that North should have let him play two spades, in which instance North and South would have shown a profit.

I have no criticism of either a one-spade or a three-spade opening with the South hand. I can't condemn his jump to four spades either, although I would have bid three spades only. South only had 11 high-card points and except for his one ace they all were represented by queens and jacks.

I also would definitely have dropped the bidding at two spades if I had held the North cards, but again I cannot condemn North. He was void in spades and it was possible that hearts or clubs would work out as a better contract. Still, when my partner rebids a suit that I am void of I always pull in my horns as far as possible.

Finally, North and South should not be too greatly upset. Move the ten of spades over to the East hand and the king of hearts over to the West hand and South will romp home with his four-spade contract.

Mrs. Ewart Ends Pacific Cruise

Newly returned from a six-week cruise of the South Pacific aboard the SS Mariposa is Mrs. Grace J. Ewart of 118 Pomona Ave.

A highlight of the trip for Mrs. Ewart, owner of a dancing school here, was a study of the dances in the various Islands visited.

She found the Tahitian dancing fast, but not particularly graceful, while the dances of the Mauris, original inhabitants of New Zealand, were very beautiful. Fiji dances proved fascinating to the instructor, since most of the dances are done from a sitting position, and constitute little more than arm movements.

Samoa, she believes, is the most primitive and beautiful of the Islands, and she was completely captivated by the Koala bears in Australia. Rounding out her trip was a visit in the Hawaiian Islands.

Gate No. 1 at Long Beach Naval Station is a busy passageway. Here men going ashore are seen going through the portal. Note vast expanse of the station area.

Navy's Long Beach Home Ashore

By James Allen

"SERVICE to the Fleet." This simple phrase sums up the complex mission of Long Beach Naval Station, a highly important Navy activity with an annual operating allotment of more than five million dollars. It is a "Navy home ashore" for thousands of crewmen of the Pacific Fleet.

Since the station was established in 1946, it has performed a growing number and variety of services to men and ships of the Pacific Fleet.

In addition to its primary mission, the station gives logistic support to other Naval activities and stations.

Commanded by Capt. Robert S. Clark, Long Beach Naval Station is a component of the U.S. Naval Base, Los Angeles, headquarters of which are on the station.

IT IS DIVIDED into a number of departments or sections, each of which performs a particular type of service or supports a particular Naval activity. Naval units of friendly foreign nations also are accommodated.

The following military-type services are provided:

Pilot, tug and refuse service and delivery of water and fuel.

Anchorages and buoy and pier-side berthing, excluding ships berthing at Long Beach Naval Shipyard.

Naval communications.

Medical care for Navy families.

OPERATION OF a bachelor officers' quarters, enlisted men's barracks, mess hall, commissary, Navy Exchange, commissioned officers' mess, chief petty officers' mess, enlisted men's recreation center, recreation club and "party room" and military athletic facilities ashore in the harbor area.

Furnishing facilities for a Naval Accounts Disbursing Office, Red Cross, Navy Relief, units of the Mine Force, Naval Reserve Training Center and Harbor Defense Unit, plus some facilities for the Naval Ordnance Test Station, Inyokern.

Maintenance and operation of nearly 2,000 units of housing for enlisted men and their families—at three locations in Long Beach and one in San Pedro.

Operation of the Naval Receiving Station, where transient personnel are housed and processed for transfer to other commands or separation from the service.

ONE OF THE most vital departments of the Naval Station is the medical department, which operates the dispensary in six buildings covering an area equal to a city block.

It offers comprehensive services to forces afloat and ashore, to active an inactive reservists and to dependents of active and retired Navy and Marine Corps personnel in this area.

The pharmacy compounds an average of more than 4,600 prescriptions a month. In the dependents' clinic, nearly 7,000 wives and children of servicemen were treated in a recent one-month period by five doctors, nine nurses and four Waves. The eye clinic performed nearly 1,000 refractions in the period. More than 700 children were cared for in the nearby nursery while their mothers were seeing the doctor.

THE DISPENSARY has a men's sick ward, which admits sailors and Marines who are not seriously ill. It also cares for emergency cases and patients who are awaiting transfer to Corona Naval Hospital. The dispensary has five ambulances. Two doctors, a nurse and three hospitalmen are on duty every night.

The dental department cares for dental needs of more than 25,000 crewmen of Long Beach-based ships, plus about 9,000 retired and Fleet Reserve personnel. The staff has been averaging 3,800 sittings a month.

The Port Control Office makes arrangements for a ship arriving at the station. The office readies a berth for the vessel, provides tugs and a pilot, and helps out with any problems the ship may have.

PORT CONTROL arranges for ceremonies to welcome home Fleet units which have been overseas — a service which is particularly appreciated by the returning men.

The office also supports Naval and other military facilities on offshore islands, such as San Clemente. A boat provides transportation for Naval ships and security launches for harbor patrol.

The communication department gives call and delivery service of plain language and classified-message traffic to all Naval activities in this area. Ship-to-shore radio and visual traffic also is handled, as well as telephone service.

The supply department operates a large, well-equipped galley and mess hall which accommodates personnel from the station, nearby activities, transient personnel and men from ships under repair in Long Beach Naval Shipyard.

THE DEPARTMENT'S clothing and small stores divisions issues clothing to men who are unable to buy uniforms and other articles aboard their ships. It serves the station and other shore activities.

Approximately 20,000 Navy personnel pass through the Receiving Station annually. The facility arranges for transportation of men and dependents and co-operates with the Red Cross in assisting others who face emergencies or hardship.

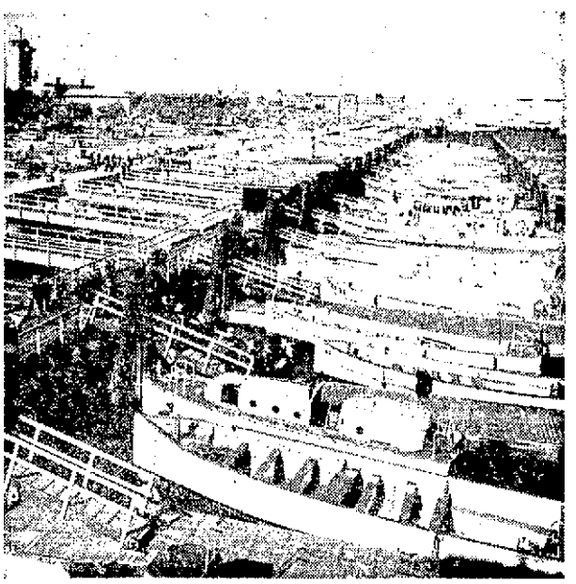

The Special Services Division offers a large and well-equipped gym, handball courts, squash and badminton courts and a swimming pool. An archery range is being established. Equipment for many sports can be checked out for use away from the station.

Special services seeks the best and latest movies for showing in the station theater and arranges periodic special programs. Tickets are distributed for TV shows, plays, sports contests and other events. Athletic tournaments provide competition

Exploring California's Verdant Wine Lands

Vine-covered pergola, overlooking a broad expanse of California vineyard at Cucamonga, offers the traveler of the wine lands shade and rest.

Keeping the history of gallons of wine aging in huge storage tanks requires constant checkup. These are at Guasti in San Bernardino Valley.

By Caroline Coleman

FOLLOWING the footsteps of sandaled padres, Gold Rush nabobs, and earnest pioneers, thousands of eager travelers are ever striking out to explore the verdant wonderland where the wines of California are grown. There, they will find, as they have in other years, that the sprawling wine land is imbued with all the timeless charm and romance associated with wine growing throughout the world.

The excursion, along fine, new highways, is an easy one with some sunlit part of the wine land readily accessible from almost any point in the state, particularly in the Southland where the harvest has started. For the vineyards, stretching from the Mexican border almost to Oregon, extend into 47 of California's 58 counties. Here, on a half-million bright acres, are grown almost 90 per cent of all the wine produced in the nation and about 85 per cent of all consumed.

THE FIRST WINE grower in what is now California was Father Junipero Serra who, in 1769, planted a vineyard at his Mission San Diego near the Mexican border. In the abundant California sunshine and friendly soil, the vines flourished, yielding bountiful harvests for making the mission's sacramental wines. As the yearly bounty continued the wine grown by the Franciscan padres also enhanced their simple table fare, added warmth to the hospitality extended wayfarers, and was used as a medicament for the sick. Vineyards, supplying wines for the sacrament, marked the spread of Spanish missions through the region and the trail of the vine through much of California still roughly approximates the trail of missions.

For many years, however, Los Angeles was the undisputed wine-growing center of the state, until it was found that grapes also would flourish in California's central valleys and in her north coastal counties.

Among the aristocratic grape varieties now flourishing in California's vineyards are the Pinot Chardonnay, Pinot Blanc, Pinot Noir, Cabernet Sauvignon, Johannisberger Riesling, Traminer, and California's own Zinfandel. Here, too, grows the Palomino for fine sherry, the Tinta Cao and Tinta Madeira for distinguished port. Each of the varieties, with its own special flavor and aroma, makes a distinctive wine and adds a brilliance to California's kaleidoscopic wine spectrum.

GRAPES ARE now being harvested from the California vineyards with shears or stubby knives and taken immediately to the winery where they are tested and examined to be sure their quality is good. They are then crushed and the juice along with the skins is drawn into redwood or concrete vats for fermentation.

Careful watch is kept over the fermentation for by this important process—the same required in making bread, vitamin drugs, and cheese—the fresh grape juice is preserved as wine. Yeast enzymes, responsible for the fermentation action in the crushed fruit, convert the natural grape sugar into approximately equal parts of alcohol and carbon dioxide gas which escapes. In autumn, the murmur of the ferment in vats can be heard through the lofty wineries as the ruby-colored crush becomes flecked with foam.

After fermentation the wine is drawn into oak or redwood casks for aging. Since the temperature must be kept cool and even, some wineries stow their casks of aging wine in tunnels dug with pick and shovel long ago while others use built-in cooling devices. In the cellar chill, whether above or below ground, the air is sweet and pungent with maturing wine and mellow wood.

For a helpful boost along his way, the prospective wine land traveler may write the Wine Institute, 717 Market St., San Francisco 3, Calif. Route maps, tour schedules, and other information designed to facilitate a holiday excursion can be obtained on all of the state's eight great wine districts.

LARGEST OF the eight districts, in area, is Southern California which actually embraces three smaller but distinct districts—Los Angeles County, the Cucamonga-Etiwanda-Ontario-Guasti region, and the environs of San Diego.

The San Diego area is the oldest of the wine growing regions for it was here, near the "Mother of Missions," that Father Junipero Serra planted the first vines for wine. South of the city, itself, and across the border is the Mexican town of Tijuana with its Sunday bullfights, and slightly north of the city is the posh resort suburb of La Jolla with its majestic sweep of palm-fringed beach. Wine grape growing in the San Diego area is now centered mostly around Escondido in a beautiful sheltered valley on U. S. Hwy. 395, inland from La Jolla.

Continuing northward along the route of Hwy. 395, the traveler drives into the Cucamonga-Etiwanda-Ontario-Guasti district where the lofty San Bernardino mountains rise abruptly from the vineyards. U. S. Hwys. 60 and 70, well-traveled routes from Long Beach to Palm Springs and the Joshua Tree forests, course through this land of citrus groves and vineyards, any part of which is only an hour or two away from the booming southern metropolis.

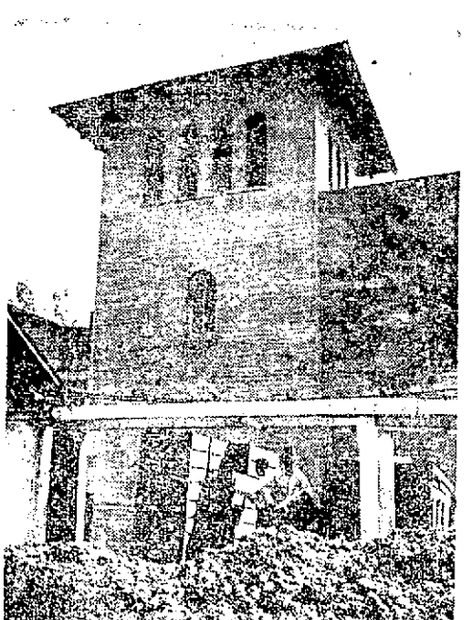

AS THE TRAVELER, pursuing the trail of the vine, veers from this eastward route and swings to the north again through the great valley heart of the state, acres of vineyards unfold vast bubbly green seas parted only by ribbons of smooth highway or occasional clumps of white oaks and eucalyptus.

On these interior plains, between the coastal mountain ranges and the Sierra Nevada, are the Fresno-San Joaquin Valley District, and farther north, the Escalon-Modesto District, joining the Lodi-Sacramento District in the Sacramento Valley, U.S.

Nobody Steals Their Thunder

By Harry Fulton

WHEN THE 18,000-ton tanker Robert Wietert made a round-trip cruise to Mazatlan, Mexico, recently, two Long Beach sea scouts went along for the ride.

Denny Hamann and Ronnie Elmore, both 17, had the run of the ship and were given every chance to learn as much as possible about the operation of the 269-foot vessel. Furthermore, all their expenses were paid on the 15-day cruise.

Denny, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Hamann, and Ronnie, whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. Frank Elmore Jr., actually won their trip. It was their reward for being selected as the outstanding members of the Sea Explorer Squadron of the Long Beach Area Council, Boy Scouts of America.

WHEN MOST PEOPLE think about scouting, they only think in terms of Boy Scout activities which are confined to land areas. However, sea scouting has been a part of the Boy Scout program in this area for the past 30 years, and the Sea Explorer program is open to all boys 14 and older who have the basic desire to learn about ships and explore the sea.

Denny and Ronnie, who both hold an able seaman rating, are only two of 364 boys who get their Sea Explorer training at the $25,000 Sea Scout Base, located on 250-feet of waterfront property, overlooking the Long Beach skyline, on Pier A, Long Beach Harbor.

Their ship, The Volunteer, a 40-foot motor sailer, is just one of 14 vessels which make up the Sea Explorer Base fleet. The base also has a sail loft, 12 lockers and the headquarters building, which includes meeting rooms, a galley and a club room with fireplace which is used as an auxiliary meeting room.

AS PART OF the Boy Scout program, the sea scouting activity of course is aided by funds contributed to the Community Chest. Local organizations also assist, however, by sponsoring the individual ships.

The Volunteer, for example, is sponsored by the Men's Club of the First Congregational Church. Various groups of the Latter Day Saints Church sponsor three ships—the Lehi, Mormon and Maroni—and other ships are backed by the following groups: Malolo, Long Beach Lions Club; Argo, Elks Club 888; Alamitos, the Alamitos Bay Post, American Legion; Marlin, the Isaac Walton League; Neptune, Exchange Club of Long Beach; Sea Lion, Lakewood Elks 1885; Viking, Belmont Shore Lions Club; La Pirata, St. Thomas of Canterbury Church, Lakewood; The Spartan, Los Altos Community Congregational Church, and the Flying Dutchman, East Side Christian Church.

Roger T. Huffman of the Procter & Gamble Co. now serves as general chairman of the local Sea Explorer program. He is assisted by a nine-member planning committee and an advisory committee which includes both Capt. Robert S. Clark, commandant of the U. S. Naval Station here, and Capt. John Rountree, commandant of the 11th Coast Guard District.

SKIPPERS AND MATES of all the ships are adults who donate their time to the scouting program. They represent many occupations, but they share a common love of boys and the sea.

These men supervise the operation of the various ships, but it is the boys themselves who do the work.

Learning how to splice a hauser, a group of Sea Explorer Scouts works aboard Navy LSM 455 which recently took boys on a 2-day cruise. Navy, Coast Guard aid Scouts.

First Mate Edwin Lawler and crew of Sea Explorer vessel Neptune, sponsored by the Long Beach Exchange Club, hold ship's meeting in forward cabin of 40-foot launch.

Ships of Navy provide background as personnel of the Sea Explorer base conduct their annual squadron review, held each April, just before start of annual cruising season.

Dan McGrew's 'Uncle'

By Olive Breed

THE world still owes much enjoyment to Robert W. Service, who at 20 staked his literary claim in the frozen Yukon. During its wildest days he brought out such nuggets as "The Shooting of Dan McGrew," "The Cremation of Sam McGee," and many others in his "Songs of a Sourdough."

Because his books have made millions for him, today at 83, Robert Service, "father" of Dangerous Dan McGrew, has a permanent home in Monaco and can take a daily dip in the warm Mediterranean. Last year he was an honored guest at the Rainier wedding.

Famed poet Robert Service is 83, lives in Monaco and visits with Grace, Rainier.

But Peter Service, Robert's 76-year-old brother, would not trade the Southland for Monaco, or Long Beach for Monte Carlo. He makes this his second home for five months of the year.

With a delightful chuckle, Peter recalls how the first Service book got into print.

"MY BROTHER sent a bundle of those poems to Father, in Scotland, with a $100 check to cover the cost of printing." Peter's laugh was infectious. "Father was a canny banker, wise to the ways of a dollar, and was thrown into a panic for fear Robert's writing poetry would jeopardize his job in a bank at White Horse, Yukon Territory.

"Father grumbled, 'I don't know anything about publishing, and I couldn't care less.' I had gone with Father to pick up the mail, and remember that we were passing a Methodist publishing house. Father paused. The outside of the manuscript read, "Songs of a Sourdough," not very much like Methodist hymns, but we went in and laid the sheets on a table behind which some men were talking. I knew the typesetter, for he often entertained our church groups with his readings.

"While Father and the manager were talking, somehow this fellow got hold of some of the poems. He started to read 'The Shooting of Dan McDrew' right there, and before he got through all work had stopped and everyone gathered around.

Poet's brother, Peter, is 76, visits Long Beach frequently. Here he poses with his grandchildren.

"'We'll publish them,' the manager said, handing Robert's check back to Father.

"But Father was very Scottish, and couldn't change his mind easily. All my life I had heard him say, 'Not one in a million ever made money out of poetry.' Now, going down the street, he placed his arm across my shoulders and repeated those words."

AT THIS point Peter had been so engrossed in talking of a time almost a lifespan in the past, and a place halfway round the world, that he had to shake himself into the happy present.

"My brother still is constantly writing," he went on, "but his writing today is very different from the virile product of the gold rush years. It is that of a man who cares a great deal about people. He cannot abstain from writing. It is his lifeblood, and reason for living."

Peter speaks with great understanding and feeling for poetry. "But I haven't my brother's genius for expression," he modestly says to any suggestion that he put down some of his colorful stories. He is approached almost daily by someone who wishes to discuss his brother. He obliges with:

"Although Robert is 83, he keeps a fixed schedule of a swim, a walk, and a poem a day. He wants it that way every day he lives."

Globe-Trotting Is His

Percy Steidley, who's been about everywhere, is shown beside bronze Daibutsu (Great Buddha) on Japan visit.

By Vera Williams

EVER SEE an entirely happy person? A man who is doing exactly what he wants to do?

Meet Percy Lee Steidley, who on Sept. 18 will be 71 years old, a retired printer and enthusiastic globe-trotter.

In the past seven years, Percy has traveled 117,619 miles. He has seen every place in the world he wants to see except Mexico City, and he will go there next.

He has traveled by rickshaw in Hong Kong, he has ridden elephants in Ceylon and camels in Egypt.

PERCY'S WANDERLUST began, he thinks, when as a boy he stood on the cindery tracks at his home town of South McAlester, Indian Territory (now eastern Oklahoma), and watched the trains snort through on their way to Kansas City, St. Louis and Dallas.

When he was 17, the boy began going with the trains—he rode the rods under freight trains, in box cars, on the tops of Pullmans.

Three years before, he had begun his printing career, as a printer's devil on the News-Capital, a weekly paper. His salary, he recalls, was $2 for a 54-hour week.

THEN HE GRADUATED to setting type by hand at the cases, and pulling an old Washington hand press, now fortunately obsolete.

"My mother had been a schoolteacher in the Ozarks," says Percy. "She noticed that printers always had work—may-be they didn't make much money but they always could get a job. I started 57 years ago, and I haven't been out of work a day since when I wanted to work."

In 1921 he came to Long Beach, started on the Press, and stayed on the Press, the Press-Telegram and the Independent, Press-Telegram for 31 years.

HE SERVED as president of the Typographical Union, president of the Central Labor Council, he is active in Masonic groups and the Eastern Star, and he served several terms as press chairman for the California Grand Chapter Eastern Star.

In 1950 Percy began traveling again. On a three-month trip he flew to New York, took the Queen Elizabeth to England, and toured England, Holland, Belgium and France, with stays in London, Amsterdam, Brussels and Paris.

He came home, worked 11 months, officially retired, and then in October 1952 started out again, this time on a four-month trip around the world. He sailed on the President Polk and saw Honolulu, Japan, Hong Kong, Manila, Singapore, Colombo, Bombay, Pakistan, Egypt and Italy. Returning to New York in January 1953 he went to Washington to watch Eisenhower's first inaugural parade, and then he went to Key West, Fla.

IN OCTOBER 1953 he took a cargo ship to South and Central America, visiting among other places Brazil, Venezuela, Uruguay, Argentina, Chile, Peru, Colombia, San Salvador and Guatemala. He visited the West

Hobby

Indies and got home the day after Christmas.

Percy stayed home for a while, and then in May 1955 he took the SS United States from New York to England. He made an overland tour of England, Scotland, Wales, the channel island of Jersey, then he went to France, Germany, Switzerland, Austria, Jugoslavia, Syria, Lebanon, Jordan, Israel, Greece, Turkey and Portugal.

Last February he left San Francisco on the SS Orsova of the Orient Line, and set out to see the places he had missed before. He saw Suva in the Fiji Islands, he took a 16-day tour of New Zealand, a 13-day tour of Australia. He made a 4,400-mile trip from Australia to South Africa, with a stop at Durban, and he went around the Cape of Good Hope to Capetown. Next, 4,460 miles to Las Palmas in the Canary Islands, then London, Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Holland and home on the Queen Elizabeth.

HOW CAN A PRINTER do all this traveling? Seeing the world costs folding money, doesn't it?

"Well, yes," says Percy, "I travel middle class—not really top but not the bottom, either. In foreign countries I stay in middle class hotels or in the homes of the natives, if I can. I like to travel by motor bus—that way you get to see the country and the people.

"I don't speak any language but English, but I'm pretty good at sign language."

How does he finance his travels?

"I bought war bonds, and when they matured I saved the money. . . . I live in an apartment in a cottage at 345 E. 8th St. I do my own cooking. I don't drink or smoke or play the horses. . . . I have my printer's pension, Social Security and a little income on the side. My monthly intake is larger than my monthly outgo. I have a car, not a new one, but it runs. I like my way of life just fine."

"Take things easy. Don't get excited. Speak your own language first. Don't buy more stuff than you will need, don't take stuff you'll never unpack until after you get home. Don't go down alleys looking for bargains. Don't exchange money on the street go to reputable, authorized places."

How about clothes?

"You can go around the world," says Percy, "with two suits, a sports outfit, raincoat or topcoat, a hat, Nylon shirts and Nylon underwear, two pairs of shoes."

Percy Steidley traveled 117,619 miles in 7 years.

"We plan an air trip to Sydney, Australia. Is there a stopover on the way down at the Great Barrier Reef?"

NO, THE best way to get to the reef resorts is from Sydney. There's air service and a couple of hotels. You can make the reservations in Sydney and they tell me this is really great. Australian friends like a place called Surfer's Paradise."

IF YOU WANT a stop-over like this, why don't you make it at Nadi Airport in Fiji? Both QANTAS and Pan American make a fuel stop there. Take a taxi to a fine tropical resort half-way between Nadi and Suva—called Korolevu.

Very comfortable native cottages. Good food for Fiji. Coco palms on the beach. Another great trip is the four-day Blue Lagoon cruise down to a little group of almost untouched islands.

The last price I had on this was $100 which included everything. Make your plans so that you get there at the right time. The yacht sails every Monday.

YOU MIGHT WRITE TEAL at Suva, Fiji, and get their upcoming time table. Their one flying boat makes one-day hops down to Tonga islands. And every three weeks goes over to Tahiti. You can get off at Apia in Samoa on one of the most colorful of the South Seas islands. Then pick up the TEAL plane on its return three days later.

Not many hotels. The one I like is Aggie Grey's.

"You mentioned a new insect repellent but our druggist doesn't know it. . ."

THE U. S. Department of Agriculture says the new diathltoluamide is the best discovery yet. It is sold under several trade names. One of them is "OFF!"

Supposed to be non-greasy, pleasant odor.

"We have a few days to slop off in Ireland when we come back from Europe. Could you suggest a place?"

I LIKED Ashford Castle about 30 miles north of Galway and about six hours drive from Shannon Airport. Moats and towers and a lake and good food. I don't think they are open all year though. So it depends on what time you are in Ireland.

If they are closed for the season, drive down the coast to the Butler Arms at Waterville. This hotel is run by the same family.

"I understand that you can send gifts worth less than $10 from overseas and they enter duty-free. But does this come off your $500 duty-free exemption on what you bring in?"

NO. ANY GIFTS like this still leave you free to bring in $500 worth of other things. If it is more than $10 and you want to get it in without duty, you have to declare it as "purchases not with the passenger." Then it comes off your $500.

Your mailed questions will be answered (no phone calls). Send stamped and addressed envelope to Stan Delaplane, Southland Magazine, Independent, Press-Telegram, Sixth and Pine, Long Beach 12, Calif.

Totem poles and Indian ceremonial house pictured above are located at Totem-Bight, just outside of Ketchikan.

Land of the Totem Poles

By John Ronson

HIGHLIGHT of any trip to Alaska is a visit to one of several locations along the routes of Pacific Northern Airlines where Indian totem poles may be found grouped in their original settings. An ideal time for such a trip is in the late summer and early fall through the month of October when the weather and scenery are at their best.

One such city is Ketchikan, where one may view the totems and a ceremonial house at Totem-Bight, a few miles north of town; see the Saxman Indian Village, just south of town; or walk to the city park in the center of Ketchikan. Early examples of Indian totems and carvings are also on display in the Territorial Museum in Juneau. Other areas include Sitka and Wrangell, also in Southeastern Alaska.

CARVED OF CEDAR, totem poles among the Indians of Alaska were symbolic of each clan. Largely heraldic, and related to native mythology as well as actual happenings, the totem pole was the perpetuation of the tribal past and virtually the native Book of Chronicles.

Contrary to belief, the totem was not an idol. It had no religious significance and was based on tribal past, becoming an expression of totemic possession and the histories of one particular clan. The various symbols were the exclusive property-marks of clans and families, jealously guarded and proudly displayed on houses, canoes, garments and household possessions.

The totem poles, in all their brilliant colors, symbolized victories, family history, defeat of rivals, and even unpaid debts. The figures depicted on totem poles embodied legends, phenomena, and the wild life of the region. The figure story begins at the top of the pole and reads downward.

THERE WERE SIX different types of totem poles and they ranged from a few feet to 80 feet in height. The house pillar and the mortuary or "grave" poles, topped with the crest of the family of the dead person, were the principal ones. Others are heraldic, memorial, ridicule and potlatch poles.

The ridicule or "shame" pole was erected by a rival chief before the house of a chief who broke his word or behaved in a similar dishonorable manner. The threat that a "shame" pole might be erected was usually enough to make the delinquent chief accede to the other's terms, for no chief ever felt that he could afford the shame brought by such an act.

THE MAKING OF a totem pole was a large project. Selecting and cutting a perfect large red-cedar tree, then hollowing it out by fire, transporting it overland or by sea for often considerable distances, carving and finally erecting sometimes required years. Totems are of relatively late origin, those poles now standing were all made since 1860 and some even after 1890.

The direct inter-relation of the clan system enables other clan members often to be able to read totem poles because the story carved thereon may depict their own stories as well as those of the original owners.

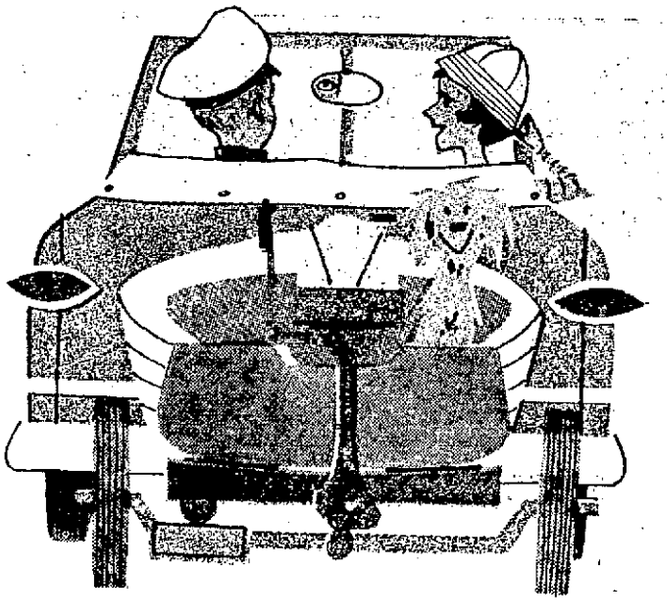

THE CARVINGS on the totems include animals, people, and supernatural beings and often a figure was included because the man who used the totem was the first person to see that particular figure—as in the sailing ship on the pole in Ketchikan Park.

For further information on Southeastern Alaska and how to get there, contact any PNA travel agent or write Pacific Northern Airlines, 1223 4th Ave., Seattle, Wash.

Clint (Cheyenne) Walker and Virginia Mayo in a scene from Warner Bros.' "Fifteen Bullets From Fort Dobbs."

HOLLYWOOD

Cheyenne Wows Utah

By Betty DeWeese

BIGGEST CURRENT tourist attraction in Kanab, Utah, city of 1,500 people, has not been the Indian cliff dwellings that surround it, nor the spectacular scenery of the area.

It has been Clint Walker, the 6-foot-6-inch, 235-pound star of the highly-rated "Cheyenne" television series who came here for his first starring role in a feature-length film, Warner Bros.' "Fifteen Bullets from Fort Dobbs."

Ever since word spread that Walker was coming to Kanab, tourists have been changing their vacation plans to include a drive here for a look-see at the man who is probably the most popular western star in the nation today.

THE KANAB Chamber of Commerce figures that during the average week 4,000 tourists drove through this small Mormon city, known as "Utah's Little Hollywood" — because so many pictures have been filmed around this country. But with the arrival of the "Fifteen Bullets from Fort Dobbs" company, the number of tourists almost doubled.

If you keep a watch, you'll usually see a crowd of mothers with their youngsters hovered around a tall, dark-haired, muscular chap dressed in western clothes, signing autographs by the dozen. That's Clint (Cheyenne) Walker.

And if you are looking for the dads you'll find them busy seeking autographs from blonde and lovely Virginia Mayo. Clint's co-star and the prettiest scenery to ever stroll down the main stem of Kanab.

LOCAL POLICE had to work extra duty to keep the traffic moving. And the highway patrol set up a special parking arrangement whereby tourists following the company out to its various locations would not jam up the roads.

As for Walker, the whole ballyhoo is the most fascinating thing to happen to him since he was discovered two years ago for the role of "Cheyenne."

None Steals Their Thunder

"Don't Steal Their Thunder," is a basic fundamental of scouting. "Train 'Em, Trust 'Em, Let 'Em Lead." That's the theory followed at the Sea Explorer Base.

The young men select their own crew leaders and assistant crew leaders and through them manage their own ships, and under the direction of adults they learn sea lore, boat handling, marlinspike seamanship, rigging, ground tackle, piloting, navigation and similar subjects associated with the sea.

THE CRUISING season for local sea scouts starts May 1 and ends Sept. 30 each year, and the highlight of every year is the annual squadron review held just before the cruising season begins.

All ships and crews are made ready for the big event, and the Waddington Trophy is awarded the ship scoring the highest in efficiency of both personnel and gear.

Winner of the trophy this year was The Volunteer, whose skipper is Harry E. Graves. Since the first of the year, The Volunteer has held 28 crew meetings, 26 work parties and sponsored 16 special events. In addition, the ship has gone on nine weekend cruises to the Boy Scout base on Catalina Island.

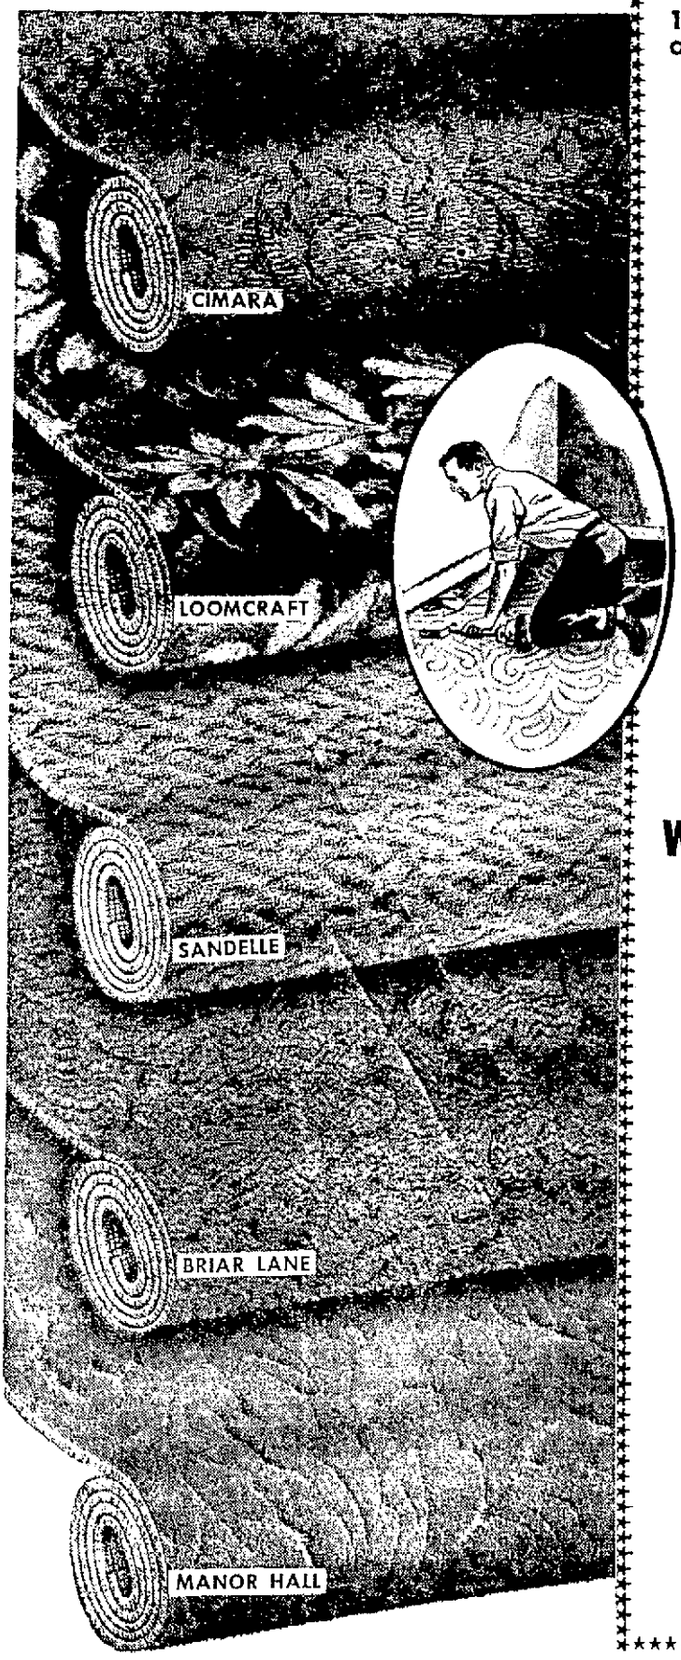

Officials of the local Sea Explorer base train the boys, they trust them and they let them lead.

And they let them have fun!

ON WARDS HOME IMPROVEMENT PLAN

With living and dining often merged into a single area, harmonized furniture—with some pieces serving dual purposes—is an answer; the idea is exemplified in this collection by Basic-Witz. Each individually-styled piece is designed to go with every other piece.

Harmonized Furniture Dresses Up Merged Areas

By Alicia Kay Smith

FURNITURE, these days, must suit our new ways of living, and it must fit the new houses and apartments we're living in. Consider, for example, the effect on home furnishings of just two changes: the almost total disappearance of the separate dining room, and the even more complete vanishing of any form of household help.

With living and dining merged into a single area, furniture for both must be closely harmonized, and some pieces must serve dual purposes. And with no household help available, women everywhere do their own housework. Simultaneously, they're involved in more activities outside the home than ever before; and the result is a need for furnishings that can be cared for with a minimum of effort.

Such changes in living patterns are the inspiration for a new group of correlated furniture for living, dining and bedrooms. The "Innovation" group, designed by Sanford Wallack and manufactured by Basic-Witz, has been specifically tailored to the needs of today's homes and today's families.

ALL PIECES ARE relatively low and small in scale, with a "light" look, in keeping with today's generally smaller room sizes and lower ceilings. Low-backed sofas and chairs fit a common decorating problem—the necessity of placing furniture in front of a picture window or wall of glass. Every type of case piece can serve several uses, and each looks equally at home in any room.

The upholstery fabrics are protected by a new process which repels dust and dirt and resists both water and oil stains.

BOAT TALK

Democracy Afloat

By Bob Ruskauff

NOTHING facetious intended, but pleasure boating has taken a whale of a jump, from aristocracy to almost full-scale democracy, since J. P. Morgan (the elder, I believe), delivered a classic statement.

As the tale goes, a reporter stopped the old gentleman (as he was departing a Senate investigating quiz) and asked what should it cost to operate a yacht. Mr. Morgan snapped:

"Young man, anyone who has to ask can't afford to."

THAT COMMENTARY probably slowed the whole movement by 20 years. But no longer.

TODAY, BOATING is rated the second biggest recreational and sports activity in the nation with more than 11 million devotees who consider it their main avocation.

The area about Long Beach and environs is a vital and important part of the national picture. If there were more protected waterways to use in these thirsty parts, the whole thing would be vastly bigger. However, even as we stand, look at the action:

Of three main local spots where boaters find enjoyment (apart from the broad Pacific) —in Harbor Master Tommy McInturff's estimates 2,100 boats per week use Alamitos Bay; 1,300 per week, the Marine Stadium and approximately 2,800 weekly take out from, or deploy about, the Magnolia Ave. landing.

Lawrence W. (Larry) McDowell, for years one of the boating clan's cagiest predicted-log race contenders with power yachts (his family grew up with boating), and presently director of the marine department of the Alamitos Bay Marina, points out the Marina status:

IN BASIN 1 (of four proposed and engineered, but no further definite action to date) there are 344 boats of from 16 to 80 feet length in the slips. That's the maximum available. There is today a waiting list of more than 800.

So, by the time Basin 2 is ready and filled, those waiting will probably be three times that number.

Added, nearby and also bulging with boats, is the greater Los Angeles Harbor area and the "gold coast" headquarters, Newport-Balboa.

Recreational boating today has basic things in its favor to insure a continuing boom here and everywhere:

1. You can buy a boat, either sail or with power, which will both haul more and sleep more —than the family car, for less than the family car cost. You can also go as high as the moon.

2. As a recreational thing, even in racing, boating is a family activity. So pursued, it can be more economical than most.

ANENT WHICH, there is the so-true slogan of the Outboard Boating Club of Long Beach: "the family that plays together, stays together."

In the sailing end, there are some 1,000 children (more than adults) in the Alamitos Bay Yacht Club membership, combined with its junior affiliate, the Leeway Sailing Club.

3. Boaters can get off the highway most of the weekend, though a sound warning is to have a good, reasonably-priced place on the waterfront to store your small boat, if you live a few miles inland. Insurance-wise or any-wise, it's a good precaution.

Today's highway hazards, in fact, probably did more to spirit all-American participation in recreational boating, particularly since War II, than Mr. Morgan's caustic commentary could ever have delayed it.

BOAT HOOKS: what to see today—the L.B. Jaycee-Los Angeles Speedboat Assn. outboard regatta at Marine Stadium, from noon on; Long Beach Yacht Club's small boat invitational regatta at Alamitos Bay, from the strand, this afternoon. The "World Series" of one of boating's divisions will begin Monday at San Diego when the five-race Silver Star (North American) championships for 21-foot Star sloops for 1957 gets under way. Long Beach hosted the event in 1933, with Edwin Arthur (Two-Round Eddie) Fink defending.

Room That's a Reflection of You

Individuality is reflected in the bedroom of Mr. and Mrs. George Lake. A corner fireplace is one of luxuries of this interesting and restful retreat.

By Eileen Ball

YOUR OWN TASTE and individuality—your idiosyncrasies and particular fancies can give your bedroom an originality that sets it quite apart from the rest of the house. Everything about it should proclaim that this is Your room—to do with as you, and you alone, wish!

Your bedroom, to be sure, may be modern, colonial, French provincial—or even a brave mixture of any or all of these styles. But one thing it must be: and that is a haven for you, a place where you can go for privacy and for personal withdrawal (more important than ever in today's "open-plan" house). This should be the one room in the whole house where you can go all-out—just being you!

WHAT FUN, THEN, it can be to decorate a room that need make no overtures to what guests or the rest of the family might prefer. The redhead who has always harbored a longing for pink can have as rosy a haven as paintbrush and fabric permit!

Perhaps the rest of the house may be sedately conservative, blending backgrounds with the family's Victorian heirlooms. Why says you can't toss caution to the winds and go completely modern in the bedroom? Here's your chance to change pace, to feel wonderfully detached by the contrast.

Remember, the same things hold true for the small fry. No insistence on baby blue color scheme, please, for the little lad who hankers loudly for red and white stripes! And, parents, try to swallow your urge to bedeck sister's room in organdy ruffles when, clearly, she'd rather have denim bedspreads and a place to exhibit her bottle cap or seashell collection!

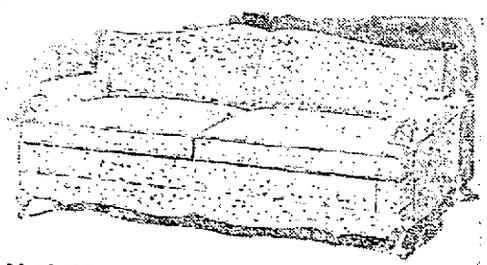

ANOTHER POINT to consider is that a bedroom need not be a "bed" room, period. Nowadays, there is an ever-growing trend to make this part of the house embrace other functions. Many parents provide space for comfortable chairs and reading lights handy for those occasions when partying teenagers "bump" the older folks from the living room area of the house.

Two charming examples of what well-decorated bedrooms might look like for two young ladies are to be found in the Clarence Miller home. Younger daughter, Mindy, has a delightful "little girl" room that is just as exuberant and lighthearted as its occupant. Because Mindy favors clear pastels, her room was given a happy treatment of yellow, pink, turquoise and white. Panels of cotton in these colors make the sill-length draperies. White background wallpaper scattered with dollar-size polka dots in these pretty tones decorates the ceiling. Companion paper in a whimsical fairy tale motif decorates one wall. Center of attraction, of course, is the pale yellow four poster bed with its white cotton canopy, and its white heirloom spread. Standing at the foot of the bed are two old-fashioned school desks painted bright yellow. No wonder Mindy is so happy with her own little haven!

MINDY'S TEENAGE sister, Diane, has a room that is youthfully sophisticated with its grey and deep pink color combination. "Hot pink" is the color of the cotton carpet, and the walls are painted charcoal for dramatic contrast. The obvious attraction of the room is the charcoal-background mural wallpaper that is used on the wall. Depicted in pale gray, pink, coral and turquoise are abstract, hand-brushed outlines of a camel caravan composed of tall, exotically eyelashed figures of camels that appear to be sauntering across the wall. Against this unique and somewhat startling background stands Diane's bed—a complete circle spread with dove-gray chenille.

As carefree as any little girl's bedroom should be, this happy area is Mindy Miller's very own domain.

Sons of Dr. and Mrs. Benjamin Feldman share a large, L-shaped bedroom in which space is provided for study and hobbies. Beds are set into recesses.

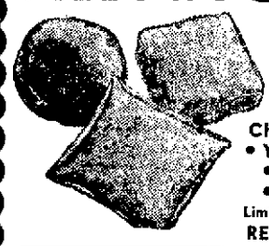

have a large room, two walls of which are brick painted a soft yellow-green. A cool color scheme of blue and lime sets a somewhat sophisticated note for traditional and antique furniture. Mrs. Lake enjoys a cherry-wood desk that stands at one end of the room near the pleasant open fireplace of brick. Adjacent to the desk is a comfortable lounge chair. Desk, chair and fireplace provide the Lakes with an intimate, cozy and comfortable nook in which to "hide-away" when a good book, some letter writing or simply the plain need for solitude presents itself.

Diane Miller is a teenager who enjoys "young sophisticate" room. Note whimsical camel mural, round bed.

THE TWO SONS of Dr. and Mrs. Benjamin Feldman share a huge L-shaped room that embraces sufficient footage for the boys to have plenty of room for studying, for pursuing hobbies and entertaining overnight guests. There has been much reliance on built-in drawer and cupboard compartments to keep comfusion and clutter at absolute minimum. Built-in beds that eliminate the chore of moving them for cleaning. Each boy's bed is set in an alcove. These offsets for the beds create a sense of privacy that would, otherwise, be at minimum in such a multi-purpose room.

Keeping Kitchen Steals the Show

Family activities of Colonial days were centered in an area of the home called "keeping kitchen." Modern version features the House of the Week.

By Andrew C. Lang

Associated Press Staff Writer

MODERN version of the "keeping kitchen" of colonial days is one of the high spots of this three-bedroom, two and a-half bath ranch house, designated as HW-64 in The House of The Week Series.

They called it the "keeping kitchen" in those days because it was the center of much of the family's activities because, in effect, it helped to keep the family together. But you don't have to go back to the colonial era to remember when the kitchen was an "active" room, more than just a place to prepare meals. It occupied that same role not too many years ago, probably when you were a child.

In designing a delightful adaptation of the "keeping kitchen," Alan Frazer has turned back the clock. It has the bigness, the brightness and the airiness of the old-time kitchen, plus the convenience and the work-saving traffic pattern of a well-planned kitchen of today.

Notice the way the range in the island counter is just a few steps from the wall oven on one wall, the refrigerator at the side wall and the sink at the rear. This "work triangle" is recommended by kitchen experts for maximum efficiency with the least effort.

THE SNACK BAR side of the island counter is adjacent to the dinette to make that corner of the room a comfortable, inviting area for adults and children alike. There are three windows looking out to the rear and two looking out to the large patio.

The charm of this kitchen is further enhanced by a barbecue fireplace for grilling, a practical adjunct to family get-togethers indoors. The hood over the range helps to give a contemporary look to this "old time" room, and there are cabinets built in under the counter and snack top for convenient storage.

A 29-FOOT LIVING AREA incorporates the living and dining rooms of HW-64, with the bay at the front setting the rooms apart effectively without need for room dividers. A flagstone fireplace wall and a wide hearth high light the living room. The barbecue in the kitchen backs up to this, so that one chimney takes care of both.

In the alcove to the right of the fireplace there is space for TV and Hi-Fi. Behind this alcove is a wood trellis wall through which the gallery and patio may be viewed, adding to the feeling of openness. When the weather permits the sliding glass doors to be opened, the indoor and outdoor spaces combine for a pleasing effect. Even when the glass doors are closed, the patio may be seen through the center hall from the front door.

THE BEDROOM WING has two baths. One has a twin washbowl vanitory and is easily accessible from two bedrooms or from the foyer or hall or patio. The other, for the master bedroom, is a stall-shower bathroom. The two bedrooms at the rear share a closet wall, with a sliding door closet for each room. The master bedroom has a walk-in closet, with over 30 square feet of space. And you can get to the bedroom wing from either the front door or patio without going through a single room.

MOVING OVER to the other side of the house, we find an excellent space arrangement behind the garage. Since the lavatory also is in this section, with a door to the rear, young children can go in and out without tracking mud or other dirt through any of the rooms.

The architect suggests a horizontal heater-air conditioning unit in the attic, under the eaves, if gas is available. If the furnace is oil-fired, an 8-foot by 10-foot excavation could be made, with the balance of the area under the house left as air space.

SHOULD A FULL basement be desired, the plan calls for a 25-foot recreation room, a three-way fireplace and a built-in bar. A deep closet is provided near the fireplace for the storage of toys and games. An areaway at the back makes it possible to have three big windows for plenty of light and ventilation. The basement stairs are conveniently placed for entry to the lower level from the rear door.

There are 1,552 square feet of living space in HW-64, not including the garage and patio. The overall dimensions, which include the garage, are 73 feet by 32 feet 6 inches. A handsome, wide chimney adds to the smart, homelike exterior of this interesting house.

By taking the HW-64 study plan to a contractor, estimates on the basic plan and two alternate plans, may be obtained. These will help determine which plan best suits current needs—presupposing that present family requirements permit a choice. With children in the family, one of the alternates would be preferred.

To obtain plans, address Building Editor, Independent, Press-Telegram, 6th & Pine, Long Beach 12, Calif., enclose 35 cents and request House of the Week, Study Plan, Design HW-64.

Havana's Prado

The Old World charm of Havana, Cuba's gracious and fascinating capital, is crystallized in a walk along the Prado, Havana's main street. For most Americans, whose stay in Cuba is limited to two or three days, the Prado remains their most impressive experience in the Spanish-flavored island.

Within 11 blocks, the tourist can see the national capital, shops and stores filled with bargains, outdoor cafes, theaters, a casino, and one of the ancient fortresses guarding the town.

The Prado begins at the national capitol, an artistic triumph containing valuable paintings and statues. Diagonally across the street is Central Park, and three blocks away is the world-famous Sevilla Biltmore Hotel which retains the Old World flavor of the Prado.

At the end of the Prado is another park and the Punta Fortress, began in the year 1589 to help defend the Cuban capital. Some of the ancient walls, moat, and cannon can still be seen.

What's Next for Georgia?

By Ellen Saunders

WHEN Georgia Atton, 1851 E. 64th St., was barely two years old, she climbed aboard a merry-go-round and fell in love with horses.

Now she's 14 and has been swept into a whirl of activity as a dancer, singer, instrumentalist, painter and sketcher; but she still finds time to collect statuettes of horses.

Georgia has been delighting audiences with her singing and dancing since she was three years old and has appeared on as many as 100 benefits shows in one year. Tap and ballet have been supplanted in recent years by an intense interest in the hula. "Actually I'm a Polynesian dancer," says Georgia, "because I also perform Tahitian, Samoan and Filipino dances."

She has mastered all the instruments native dancers use in interpreting their music, including the split bamboo, feathered and bottle gourds and stones (the Hawaiian version of castanets). Georgia varies her program by singing in Hawaiian, accompanying herself on the ukulele. These latter accomplishments she acquired through long hours of listening to her extensive collection of Hawaiian records.

IN HER MOST recent television appearances she walked off with the top prize on "Rocket to Stardom" and won first place on a week-day show on the Al Jarvis program. Native Polynesian dancers have been so impressed with her skill that she has been invited to become an associate member of the Society of Polynesian Dancers of California.

On school days the green-eyed, 5-foot-10 dancer who rates wolf whistles at Camp Pendleton, lays aside the ukulele for the violin. She's a member of both the All City Junior High School Orchestra and the Jordan High group. "It's my favorite instrument," she explains, admitting that she also plays the accordion, guitar, Tahitian drums and "a little piano."

COSTUME DESIGNING has intrigued Georgia since the days when she sketched elaborate wardrobes for her dolls. Only nowadays it's a new costume for a dance routine which demands her attention.

Georgia Atton has so many activities, it's hard to name a favorite. Dancing Polynesian style is one of them.

"Mother does the sewing," she confesses.

She works with equal ease in the medium of pencil sketching, water colors and chalk drawings. Horses are her favorite subject and she has exhibited her drawings along with her collection, in hobby shows for the past four years.

FOR RELAXATION, Georgia ice skates, swims, rides horse back and readies her collection of statuettes for another exhibit. There are 300 of these horses, gathered over a 10-year period. There are ivory horses from the Orient; horses of bone, ceramic, metal and bronze. There are tiny plastic horses one-half inch in height standing beside fur and plush covered animals two feet tall. And since Georgia has just discovered what fun modeling is, there are a few clay horses of her own creation.

What's next for Georgia?

"I might decide to become an actress," she says a bit dreamily, gazing at the six pinups of Yul Brynner that decorate her bedroom walls. Since photogenic Georgia has already won two local beauty contests, it just could be!

Wine Lands

Hwy. 99 cuts through this flat, fertile wine land, intersecting other highways snaking off, 50 miles or so, through the Sierra foothills into Yosemite, Kings Canyon, and Sequoia National Parks. Also nearby is the colorful and historic Mother Lode country, once stormed by the Forty-niner's in their rush for gold.

Other wine lands include those eastward across the Bay Bridge from San Francisco, on the peninsula south of San Francisco, north of San Francisco in the Sonoma-Mendocino County area, and farther northward in the Ukiah area.

Boron, Glamour Stuff of Jet Age

By Jack Quigg
Associated Press Writer

A LITTLE KNOWN element from the shimmering dry lake beds of California's deserts is emerging as the glamour stuff of the jet age.

It is boron, which you already use in more ways than you think, and which will play an ever larger role in your life in the future.

It's the key ingredient of new superfuels which some day may take man to the moon and beyond. It already has added new speed to fighters and bombers and missiles in America's arsenal.

Scientists say they are on the threshhold of research programs that should open numberless uses for boron compounds in such diverse fields as medicine, atomic energy development, agriculture, food processing.

But the big push today, a push backed by undisclosed millions of government dollars, is for perfection of high energy fuels. Half a dozen big chemical firms, scores of smaller ones and many universities are working on aspects of fuel problems.

What is boron?

PURE BORON is a gray, extremely hard non-metallic element first isolated in France in 1808. It is found in the pure state only as a laboratory curiosity. In nature, it is usually found as borax—sodium tetraborate—a crystalline white salt with an alkaline taste.

The salt is mined from lake beds where it had been carried by rainwaters draining over millions of years from ranges rimming Death Valley and the Mojave Desert.

Under these glistening white expanses, where summer temperatures sometimes hit 130, the stuff lies in beds hundreds of feet thick . . . beds that contain 95 per cent of the world's known supply . . . enough to supply many generations.

Since the days when it was hauled out by the famed 20-

Flapjacks—or pancakes, if you prefer—appeal to the entire family. They may be served plain, with butter and syrup, or converted into specialties.

Eight Ways to Doll Up Flapjacks

By Mildred K. Flanary
Independent, Press-Telegram Home Economics Editor

TRADITIONALLY the most-asked-for item on the morning menu, the flapjack has emerged from the breakfast nook to don glamorous garments for luncheon, dinner, party or midnight snack.

The Fairy Godmother is you. With a wave of your spoon and a package of flapjack and waffle mix you have the main ingredient for many wonderfully versatile dishes. Cinderella, despite all the time she spent at the hearth, couldn't reproduce the taste or texture of today's flapjack and waffle mix.

The Prince Charming in your household will delight in these recipes, too. All the men like plain flapjacks served for breakfast with warm syrup and melted butter or in a dolled-up fashion for luncheon or Sunday supper.

Eight Flapjack Recipes

Make according to directions on box of flapjack mix. The simpler type requires only the addition of milk.

Cinnamon Flapjacks: Add two teaspoons cinnamon to regular mix recipe. Bake according to directions. Roll while hot. Fill with sour cream.

Apple Flapjacks: Peel 1 tart juicy apple. Slice thin and add to regular mix recipe.

Blueberry Flapjacks: Add ½ cup well drained, fresh or canned blueberries.

Pineapple Flapjacks: Add 1 cup of drained crushed pineapple to thicker than usual mix recipe. Serve with butter and brown sugar.

Corn Flapjacks: Add ½ cup corn meal to regular mix recipe.

Cottage Cheese Flapjacks: Add 1 cup cottage cheese put through sieve. When baked, spread with jelly, roll up and sprinkle with confectioner's sugar.

Cheese Flapjacks: Add 1 cup of grated process-type American cheese to regular mix recipe.

Flapjack Hints

Don't turn a flapjack after it has been cooked on both sides.

Don't stand waiting, turner in hand, until the last air bubble has broken and all the flapjack's important airiness is gone.

Don't try to improve on ready-mixes by additions of your own. You're only making a simple job harder.

Rub the hot griddle frequently with salt tied firmly in a piece of cloth. The griddle will be freed of bits of extra batter and the flapjacks will be less likely to stick.

On a gas range the griddle is hot enough when a small piece of paper will brown. Lower the heat and start baking.

On an electric range, pre-heat the griddle four minutes, lower the heat and start baking.

Don't lift the edge of a flapjack to peek under and check the browning process.

Grease griddle with piece of bacon or rub over with cut turnip. (That is, if your griddle is the type that requires greasing.)

Fricassee of Rabbit

Skin and cut into pieces: A rabbit.
Dredge it with: Seasoned flour.
Melt in a skillet: 4 tablespoons butter or drippings.
Add: ¼ cup chopped onions
1 cup cut-up mushrooms

Remove the onions and mushrooms before sautéing the rabbit in the drippings until it is lightly browned. Pour over it:

1½ cups stock or dry wine—a piece of lemon rind—10 peppercorns—2 sprigs parsley—2 ribs celery with leaves.

Cover the pot closely. Simmer the meat until it is done, for 1 hour or more, but do not boil it at any time. Ten minutes before you remove the rabbit from the pot add the mushrooms and onions. Thicken the drippings with flour to make gravy. Season if necessary.

HEAVENLY HAMBURGERS . . . BARBECUED

A good hamburger is hard to beat. It makes the meal a success, tastewise, healthwise and economywise. Meat Protein with added benefits from iron, for good red blood, is found in hamburger, at the same amount equal to any meat at any price.

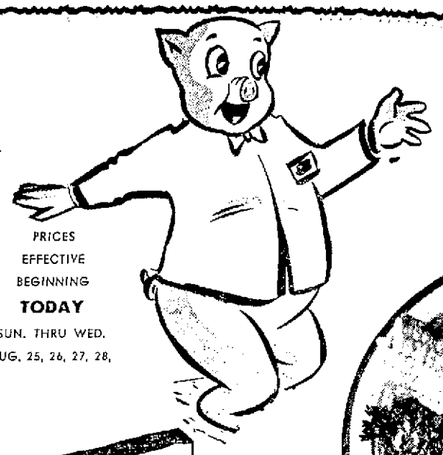

1 lb. Ground Beef — 2 Tablespoons Minced Onions
1 Teaspoon Salt — ¼ Teaspoon Pepper

Shape into 4 large or 6 small patties. With one tablespoon hot fat, brown patties on both sides. For a really delicious sauce combine the following:

1 Cup Catsup — ¼ Cup Vinegar
1 Onion—Sliced — 1 Tablespoon Granulated Sugar
½ Teaspoon Dry Mustard

Pour sauce over patties, cover, simmer 20 minutes. Serve 4 or 6. Serve on toasted hamburger buns or English muffins.

LA REINA RULE

WHAT YOUR NAME MEANS

DEAR MISS RULE: We would greatly appreciate the brief genealogy of the name BOGEN.—F.B.B., Long Beach.

DEAR F.B.B.: The chronicle of the German surname BOGEN goes back to the occupation of stonemason in the Middle Ages. Centuries ago stonemasons constructed arches and vaulted ceilings formed of arched stones. The surname was once Bogener which gives us a word picture of the "arch maker." The Bogen family were granted a coat-of-arms in the famous city of Rothenburg, Bavaria. It was a black arch across the center of a golden shield.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please give the history and meaning of the name JEFFCOTT.—MRS. M. F., Long Beach.

DEAR MRS. M.F.: JEFFCOTT is now an English surname but it was acquired from the French given-name Geoffroy. This name came from the Teutonic "Wald-Frid" meaning "governor-peace" or figuratively speaking "peaceful governor." Geoffroy became Jeffrey in England, and was abbreviated to Jeff. The suffix "-cock" meaning "proud as a rooster" was added as a pet name. Jeff-cock was registered as a family name in the 1200s, and was later changed to Jeffcott. Looking over old London marriage records, I found Agnes Jefcott who was married there in 1616. The Jeffcott coat-of-arms has three blue crescents on an ermine covered shield.

DEAR MISS RULE: I am interested in the name GARD.—MRS. L. B., Corona del Mar.

DEAR MRS. L.B.: From ancient archives I find that GARD, from the French surname DU GARD meant "of the garden." The "Du" was effaced by descendants. Delineation of Du Gard gives a word-name portraiture of an ancestor whose flowers grew in such profusion that he was spoken of as "the man of the garden." This family originated in Picardy, northern France. Their coat-of-arms had three silver jars on a blue shield, perhaps portraying watering pots which the garden owner used.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please inform me about the name COCHRAN. K.R.C., San Mateo, Calif.

DEAR K.R.C.: The COCHRANS are an old family of Thomond, Ireland: Their ancestor was named Cogaran meaning "confidant," one who is confided in. Cogaran was the confidential, right hand satellite of an 11th century Irish king. His descendants took the name MacCogarain, then Coghran and then Cochran during the medieval centuries. There is a Scotch family with the same name who are believed descended from the same ancestry.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please give the meaning, genealogy and coat-of-arms of my name DORE.—J.D., Long Beach.

DEAR J.D.: DORE is a French surname with the illuminative title of "golden." Dore was applied to a goldsmith who fashioned beautiful jewelry and objects of art out of the precious golden metal. The Dore coat-of-arms was granted in Lorraine in 1718, a gold lion on a blue shield.

DEAR MISS RULE: We would like to hear about the surname NELSON: L.N., D.N. and V., Long Beach.

DEAR L.N., D.N. and V.: The source of NELSON was the Scandinavian given-name Nial which meant "the champion." It was introduced in England by the Vikings who established settlements in Britain in the 9th century. "Nial's Son" became the surname Nelson in England, Norway and Sweden. It was spelled Nielssen in Denmark. Most Nelsons in America have Swedish or Norwegian ancestry. However John and Thomas Nelson who had English forebears were early Pennsylvania residents in 1741. The Nelson coat-of-arms granted in Berkshire, England, in 1576 had six alternating vertical red and silver stripes covering the shield.

DEAR MISS RULE: I wish you would check on the German name KAHL. The family came from Schleswig-Holstein Province after the Civil War.—D.K., Long Beach.

DEAR D.K.: The early German name KAHL is a memorial and a personal description of your progenitor whose nickname you carry as a surname today, for it is deciphered as "shaved head" or "bald head." The Kahl coat-of-arms was granted in Prussia in 1786 and is a black wild boars head on a silver shield.

Send your names to La Reina Rule in care of Southland Magazine, Independent Press-Telegram, 6th & Pine, Long Beach 12, Calif., for analysis and brief genealogy, for publication in this column.

Oystermen Come Back

By B. P. Welles

GOOD TIMES are back for the California oyster industry, a business that once boomed and then waned. And the very growth that doomed the industry in the San Francisco Bay region around the turn of the century is now creating the demand for this vitamin-rich product in the expanding population centers. This and improvements in the culture of oysters.

In 1870 when transcontinental railroads spanned the United States to the West Coast carloads of Eastern oyster "seeds" (tiny oysters are called seeds) were shipped and spread out in south San Francisco Bay. They supported a good market until the turn of the century when the waters became polluted, some say, due to the increase in population and heavy manufacturing that was coming into the region.

CALIFORNIA MARINE biologists in 1929 began new experiments with rapidly growing oyster "seeds" from Japan. The experiments were successful. Drake's Bay, Tomales Bay and Morro Bay were the three leading areas developed and, until the last World War, Drake's Bay in northern California, ranked first in production. Since that time, Morro Bay oyster beds along the central California Coast are taking the lead. Oyster culture has not developed commercially in the bays of Southern California.

Dr. H. G. Orcutt, marine biologist for the California Department of Fish and Game at Stanford University, says there is an increase in both state and privately owned waters planted to oysters since 1952 when only 3,271 acres of tidelands were under cultivation. The present figure, is 14,000 acres being developed.

Four kinds of oysters are grown in bays along the California coast. The small Olympic oysters grow naturally in Tomales and Humbolt Bays, but these tasty bivalves do not grow abundantly enough for commercial use.

THREE OTHER species are imported and cultivated. One of these is the Eastern oyster. These are shipped alive and full grown from the Atlantic Coast. Planted and cultivated in Tomales Bay, they are used fresh daily for the markets of San Francisco.

The third species is imported from the southern waters of Japan and is called the Kumamoto by the Japanese. In this country it is called the Pacific oyster. When the tiny "seeds" are hardy enough to make the long trip across the ocean they are imported in crates and are transplanted in the coastal waters of California, Oregon and Washington. This species thrives best in the colder temperatures of the bays of northern California and in Puget Sound. The Pacific oyster, which grows to be three inches long within 12 to 14 months when they are ready for harvesting, are particularly good in cocktails.

The fourth species is the Giant Pacific oyster. "This," Dr. Orcutt, points out," is the principal product of California's new oyster boom, for these oysters are getting extensive cultivation in state and private lands."

LARVA OF THE Giant Pacific oysters are produced in great quantities several hundred miles north of Tokyo. Japanese

SOUTHLAND'S SHORT SHORT STORY

The Silhouette

By Lorna Callahan

Illustrated by H. Parker Markle

I GUESS all of us at Independent-Pix were surprised when Barry Sylvester showed up on location. As a humble script-girl, I'm not supposed to have an opinion. But it was my guess that Universe Studios hadn't picked up his option.

Of course you remember Barry Sylvester, better known as The Silhouette. Pretty expensive one, too, according to my roommate, Flo Gardner. Flo is secretary to Cy Prentiss, president of Universe. She's been in on a few of the battles—I mean conferences -- brought on by Barry's delaying production. Barry had the idea that a movie star had to be temperamental to prove he was a movie star. And he insisted on having doubles for any scene where there was the slightest element of danger. His Silhouette, you know.

Be that as it may, here was Barry now, dressed in a flat felt hat and fringed buckskins. He had the lead role of wagonmaster in our budget epic, "River Crossing." In the story the water is so high the river can't be forded. So, for safety's sake, the wagons are chained together and drawn across by rope. Of course, someone has to swim the raging current with a tow rope to start the first wagon across. According to my script that someone was Gar Langtry, wagonmaster.

I REFRAINED from smiling. Last picture Barry had done for Universe was "Hit the Canvas," saga of a rich boy turned pugilist. Flo told me that Barry's own son, Skip, had been on the set while the picture was being made. The idea had its amusing aspects. You know how kids look up to their dads and try to make heroes out of them. Isn't a man made that their dad can't lick, etcetera. I wonder what Skip thought, seeing his dad so careful about getting hurt, and using a double in every possible scene? Of course I know that the company didn't want The Silhouette spoiled either. It had brought quite a few million into their coffers. But it did seem that Barry could have taken a few punches just to prove that he was a man at heart. Thinking about it now, I was hoping that Skip had understood about The Silhouette business, and didn't think, as I did, that Barry Sylvester was just a trifle yellow. You see, Skip died soon after the picture's release. There was some kind of accident while on a hiking trip in the mountains with his Boy Scout Troop.

Anyway, Barry was in luck coming to Independent-Pix. His Silhouette was safe with us. We had Curly St. John, best stunt man in the business. He's a little hard to get along with, but he can be counted on in the hazards. He'd swim that "raging current" for Barry, which just happened to BE raging, being swollen from the melting mountain snows above us.

HAL SIMON, our director, scheduled the river-crossing scene first, although in the picture it comes toward the climax, after which the wagon train runs into hostile Indians. Everybody took their places. There was the scene of the horses being unhitched and driven into the water to swim to the opposite shore. The current was pretty swift and the animals were carried arc-like down the stream before they could struggle out on the other side. Hal Simon had the camera crew grind out extra footage on the scene. It would stretch the budget, but it was pretty realistic stuff, and a swell build-up for the hazard the wagonmaster would have to face. In the script, the wagonmaster is disliked by the emigrants who feel that he is inefficient and taking them a round-about way. This is his chance to prove his worth.

Barry, up to the hairline in makeup which gave The Silhouette glamor-plus, took the tow line and tied it around his waist. Then, in that masterful way he always effected right up to but not including the "sock" scene, he plunged into the tumultous water.

"CUT," YELLED Hal Simon. He motioned to Curly St. John to take over.

But Barry Sylvester didn't come out of the water. He kept on going, battling the swift current. It caught him and spun him against the rocks.

"Roll 'em," shouted Hal Simon, waving Curly St. John back. "Keep 'em rolling," he repeated as Barry was buffeted downstream.

Curly St. John was not happy. But nobody was worried about Curly's frame of mind. All eyes were on Barry Sylvester. He was in trouble unless he beat that current!

HE MADE IT! All of us, except maybe Curly, gradgingly admitted that this was big. We didn't know how he did it, but it was big. When he got back to our side of the river, his lips were swollen, there was a gash on his cheek, and his nose was puffed all out of proportion. He looked like anything but The Silhouette.

Curly St. John faced him with folded arms and a sneer on his thin lips. "Aren't you taking the part too serious, Sylvester?"

Barry Sylvester studied him, no smile on his face as the water dripped from his sodden figure. "Come again?"

Curly's anger piled up. "I'm the guy that's paid to take the falls. You're paid to stay pretty."

MY HEART DID a flip. Would this bring on a flare-up of the old Sylvester temperament? If he walked off the set Hal Simon would be in a real bind. On his budget, he couldn't afford too waste even today's scenes.

"Maybe I'm tired of being pretty," Barry said. And with

"Maybe I'm tired of being pretty," Barry said. And with that his fist shot out and connected with Curley's chin.

Oystermen Stage a Comeback

oystermen set out millions of old oyster shells for the new oysters to attach themselves to as they swim about searching for a clean hard object on which to settle. Oystermen here use plywood or lath clutches for the larva to cling to. After arriving in California waters they are spread out on sandy bottoms of the bay where they grow until harvest time.

According to Dr. Orcutt, oyster culture is similar to agriculture in that the "seeds" are planted and the growing crop of oysters is cultivated and ripened for harvest. This is called "aquaculture" and the oyster grower is called an "aquaculturist."

"Aquaculture is very tricky," Dr. Orcutt explains, "the aquacultrist must know his business. The oysterman, like the farmer, faces problems in producing his crop. An example is that the oyster grower plants his "seeds" on lands exposed at low tide. These bottom lands must be firm enough to prevent loss of growing mollusks. The Giant Pacific oysters cultivated along the California Coast thrive in mud flats after attaching themselves to the clutches. These mud flats, however, are too soft for the smaller Olympic oyster to grow in.

Oystermen harvest their crop in a tidelands area of California. Industry is booming again in this state.

"During the period of cultivation the oystermen must watch the beds continually. Strong currents or wave action will pile oysters in rows, or will wash them away," Dr. Orcutt says. "Silt sometimes will pile up and ruin an entire crop. Winter and spring rains wash top soil from nearby farm lands."

STILL ANOTHER problem in oyster growing is a marine algae which looks like moss. When the weather is warm the algae spreads over the oyster beds forming a thick carpet. Decomposition of the bottom layers of this covering produces a concentration of waste which kills oysters. Marine biologists work contantly with oystermen to combat this threat, comparable to soil farmers working to combat weeds.

Other pests which are harmful to oyster beds before harvest time are the oyster drills. These are snails that cause thousands of dollars in damage to beds along parts of the Pacific Coast, but so far have not obtained a foothold in California oyster beds. These snails drill through the oyster's shell and suck out the tender meat. Every crate of "seeds" is carefully inspected by the State Fish and Game Dept. for these pests.

The bat ray, a large fish with powerful jaws which crushes the oyster shell, eating the meat, shell and all, is another pest. Oystermen put lath fences about the beds to fend off this attacker.

Starfish are found on oyster beds in California bays, but the damage they do is slight, and oystermen have little concern over them.

Oyster culture is important to California's growing cities and towns for oysters have fine nutritional qualities. They are rich in proteins, vitamins and such elements as iodine, iron, copper, cobalt, phosphorous and manganese, all essential elements to human diet.

Clem Heiser, attired in linen duster, pumps tire of his 47-year-old Overland while the girls admire his strength.

Horseless Carriage 'Hot Rods'

By Jo Hindman

RESTORING an old car renews boyishness in grown men. Their ladies approve the idea, and the kids, too.

Buying a vintage model in Stutz, Stearns Knight, Ford, Overland, and other makes of yesteryear, sleuthing for obsolete parts, or having them retooled, refurbishing the chassis from brass lamp to running board, then actually testing the renovated antique on cross-country trips, provides exhilaration that faces no end and includes enthusiasts, both old and young. You see, the oddest things keep happening.

Clem Heiser of Inglewood, who owns a 1910 Overland touring car, received a telephone call from a stranger, a harried club press chairman, who had traced him through the Horseless Carriage Club of the U.S.A., of which Heiser is a member. A vintage model car was needed as a prop in a publicity stunt advertising a benefit dance. Would Heiser oblige?

SLIPPING into duster and goggles, Heiser drove his 47-year-old car through heavy traffic to the academy where schoolgirls and one matron, dressed in gay-nineties plumage, waited with a press photographer. Heiser went all the way with the gag, even to posing with a tire pump beside a perfectly sound rear tire.

Indicative of the interest of Long Beach residents in ancient vintage autos was the show held on Pine Ave. last winter.

Outfitting old cars with the spindly rubber casings of earlier years has burgeoned into an interesting sideline for the tire industry which keeps the horseless carriage trade supplied. An exceptionally popular tread is the "alphabet," or ABC-XYZ pattern, cast from old tire moulds.

The Heisers and other old-car enthusiasts are invited to participate in Fourth of July parades, festivals, centennials, fiestas and celebrations of all sorts. Mrs. Heiser maintains a wardrobe of old-time finery in keeping with the gay proceedings.

WOMENFOLK find hilarious pleasure in loading themselves into modern cars to shop around for old-fashioned clothing. Rummage sales and second hand stores provide the mutton-sleeve fashions that match the years in which their old-time cars were rolled out of the machine shop.

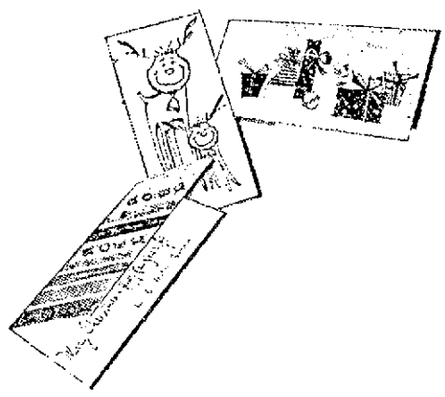

Immaculately maintained and cherished and running better than they ever did in their previous car-life, the colorful old jitneys are taken to swap meets where owners avidly trade parts, such as bulb horns and windshield straps.

Average cost of authentically restoring an old car is approximately $1,000, including unpriced owner-labor, after which the machine possesses resale value in the eyes of acquisitive specialists. One gentleman collects only pre-1915 Fords, owns five of them, and "can't see" any other make. Authenticity is a deciding factor in capturing prizes, and antique car owners conduct painstaking research before adding accessories or parts to their old cars.

CROSSCOUNTRY trips are eagerly awaited by the horseless carriage set. Outfitted in costumes, wearing badge identification both on themselves and their cars, the caravaners gaily set off for destinations hundreds of miles from home, excursions that take several days to complete.

That's the zest of owning a quaint old hot rod. Younger years are summoned back and return a man's youth along with the old car.

CALIFORNIA'S DESERTS YIELD RICH GLAMOUR STUFF OF THE JET AGE

mule teams, boron had until the last few years a steady but unspectacular career in industry.

TO HOUSEWIVES, it was most familiar as a disinfectant, boric acid, and as a cleanser. But it also became a vital ingredient in glass, fertilizers, pesticides, soil sterilants.

Then, with the crash program to develop long-range missiles, came the need for a fuel to power them. The military singled it out as the element most likely to succeed in "Project Zip"—designed to speed high energy fuel research.

Why boron?

Importantly, it is light, the fifth lightest element. And it will combine with hydrogen, the lightest thing of all.

Scientists put it this way: Hydrogen would be the perfect fuel, as it produces the maximum energy per pound. But pure hydrogen is impractical, dangerous and expensive.

Of the other light elements in good supply, boron is the most practical.

TODAY, AFTER intensive research, the military is experimenting with a variety of liquid and solid propellents involving various boron-hydrogen and boron-carbon-hydrogen compounds.

The best are stable, easy to handle and non-toxic—all vital factors.

The best develop an energy of close to 30,000 British thermal units per pound, compared to pure hydrogen's 52,000. By comparison, kerosene yields only 18,500 BTU.

Already one firm, Olin Mathieson Chemical Corp., has announced a boron fuel it says will send a jet bomber 40 per cent farther without refueling.

And the Midwest Research Institute in Kansas City says it has developed a boron fuel, under contract with the Callery Chemical Co. and the Navy, that can extend the altitude of aircraft from a current ceiling of 60,000 feet to 90,000. In stage rockets, says the institute, it could propel a missile hundreds of miles beyond the earth.

FABULOUSLY EXPENSIVE now, the fuel is not yet in quantity production. The time of mass production is not far off, however.

Thus far such so-called exotic fuels have been used almost exclusively in laboratories. When they finally start pushing space craft, experts envision a bright green flame exuding a poisonous exhaust of solid white boron compounds. Testing will, of course, be done over non-populated areas.

The heat will be so intense that new substances must be found to withstand it. One such is still another compound that takes advantage of boron's extremely high melting point. Known in the field as "cermet," this stuff is a combination of metals and ceramics that appears to have great possibilities as a heat resistor.

ANOTHER NEW USE is as an additive to gasoline. Companies using it claim it makes engines run smoother, that it inhibits corrosion and keeps engines cleaner, that it ups the octane rating and helps prevent knocking.

What's ahead for boron in non-military fields?

Here are a few uses—some already in the experimental stage, others in the future:

As atomic reactor shields. A quarter-inch-thick layer of plastic and boron absorbs neutrons as effectively as eight feet of concrete. It has, however, a high replacement rate.

As an ingredient of longer-lasting fire bricks.

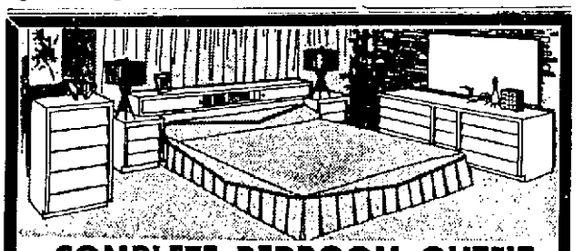

With silicon in solar batteries, to convert the sun's rays into electricity.

TO PREVENT FRUIT spoilage. Sprayed into orange crates, it is attracted by the moisture of fruit bruised in shipping, and chemically seals the bruise, preventing spoilage.

To use in cancer treatment. Certain compounds are attracted by tumors and, when bombarded with neutrons, yield bursts of great energy that penetrate only for the thickness of a cell or two, killing malignant cells but not harming healthy ones.

As fungicides, lubricants, herbicides, disinfectants, metal hardeners and defoliants. As a defoliant, for instance, it strips leaves from cotton plants, enabling mechanical pickers to do a cleaner job.

As an abrasive. New compounds rival the diamond in hardness and are much cheaper.

BOOK REVIEWS

From the Land of Love and Hate

..PASCAL CAPTURES THE RED BALLOON..

One of the year's most beautiful and enchanting books, for both adults and children, is "The Red Balloon" Doubleday, $2.95). Retold in brilliantly reproduced pictures and text from the movie by the same title (an Academy Award winner), the story is about little Pascal, a French boy, who captures a red balloon, loses it, and who, when he finds it also finds a true and loyal friend. The author is Pascal's father, Albert Lamorisse.

ONE OF THE OLDEST of the arts of man is brought to life in "Better Homes & Gardens Flower Arranging" (Meredith Pub. Co., price not given, a beautiful new book with more than 200 photographs, 120 of which are in full color. With each photograph is a step-by-step "what and why" explanation of the arrangement, with suggestions to the amateur. All the rules for making fine flower arrangements are here, too—elements in design in arrangements, basic shapes to follow, and the three styles of flower arranging.

"QUEEN OF FRANCE" by Andre Castelot, translated by Denise Folliot (Harper) is a biography of Marie Antoinette who died on the guillotine after the French Republic was formed. Historically, little can be found wrong with the story, a great deal of careful research apparently having gone into the work. But it is clumsily written, from the over-long sentences to the maze of names that fill the book. It is doubtful to this reviewer that should an educated Frenchmen of those days return to read the book he could keep everything straight. Also, statements by the author regarding the charm and brillance of the Queen are not borne out in what the author presents as evidence. And if the unfortunate wife of Louis VI went to the scaffold misunderstood by the populace, so it would seem the readers of her latest biography also will be filled with lack of understanding when the guillotine falls at the end of the last chapter.

"THE BEST of Ralph Waldo Trine" (Bobbs-Merrill, $3.75): "Within yourself lies the cause of whatever enters into your life," believes Mr. Trine. "To come into the full realization of your own awakened interior powers is to be able to condition your life in exact accord with what you would have it." Trine preceded — and he may outlast—the current school of self-help "philosophers." His book contains the full text of his "In Tune With the Infinite," plus selections from nine more of his books, ending with his Creed of the Open Road.

"THE ITALIAN NAVY IN WORLD WAR II" (U. S. Naval Institute, Annapolis, $5.75): An American admiral and an Italian naval historian combine talents to make possible this book which points up that the Italian Navy was handicapped not only by lack of air support and radar, but by lack of stockpiling, particularly fuel. Comdr. Marc' Antonio Bragadin relates the history of the Italian Navy in the Mediterranean and Adm. Robert B. Carney, U. S. Navy (ret.) in the foreword points out that the cordial relationship between the U. S. and Italian Navies has aided Allied security and NATO.

THE INVASION of Paris, watched through the bewildered eyes of a young girl in a convent school is told in "Not Yet . . ." a novel by Tereska Torres (Crown, $3). She realizes the emptiness of plans, the emptiness of words, the emptiness and uselessness of war itself. The author, who was born in Paris, fled ahead of the Germans, and served in the French army for five years, part of the time as a liaison officer to the British and American forces. She writes in French and her work is translated into English by her husband, Meyer Levin.

IN THE DAYS of the dinosaurs, vast volcanic upheavals under shallow seas formed the chain of islands known as the West Indies. Perhaps the most enchanting of these green jewels set in the turquoise sea is Martinique.

Beautiful as it is, Martinique's history has been shadowed by slavery and stained with blood. Most landowners are of pure French blood, but the population largely is a new race—Creole with traces of French, Spanish, Negro, Indian and Chinese.

These people of mixed breeds love music and dancing, they love their majestic mountain Pelee towering over them. And they have dark and mysterious Haitian superstitions.

From this land of love and hate and pride and voodooism, Edison Marshall has spun a powerful novel, "The Inevitable Hour" (Putnam's, $3.95). Skilfully he has intertwined the lives of Atlas, the last of the Caribs;; Clio, a golden native girl; Joan De Legle, daughter of a plantation owner in whose veins flows the blood of French kings, and Paul Barteau, son of the plantation foreman, barred from the woman he loves by the caste system of the island.

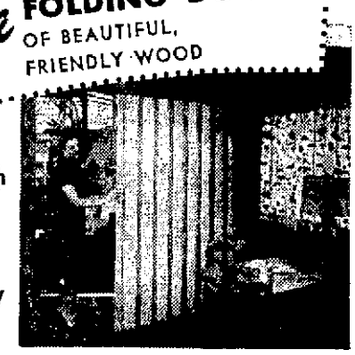

"GAS, AIR AND SPRING Guns of the World" by W. H. B. Smith (Military Service Pub. Co., Harrisburg, Pa., $7.50): More and more interest is being shown in precision pellet gun shooting since range facilities can be set up where rifle shooting is difficult or forbidden. This veritable encyclopedia gives all the details of pellet shooting; in fact, it deals with all high power, high precision air and gas arms — weapons which at short range are said to often equal or even excel the accuracy of some powder cartridge arms. The text is augmented by a wealth of photos, operational drawings and specifications.

TWO HUNDRED significant poems culled from the more than 2,000 Carroll Dewilton Scott has written in his life appear in "California Nature Poems" (Hillcrest, 131 W. Washington St., San Diego, $5.) For 45 years as a trained and experienced naturalist, Scott has traveled and studied the land he loves best, and he has written of it with sensitivity and a good feeling for words. The book is bound in rich maroon, embossed, and gold-stamped.

PAPERBACK ORIGINALS (never before published in book form) that look like good reading: "High Vacuum," a story of space and time by Charles Eric Maine (Ballantine, 35c); "The Deep South Says Never," a no-punches-pulled story of the fight against integration, by John Bartlow Martin (Ballantine, 35c); "The Man from Yesterday," a novel of western outlaws by John S. Daniels (Signet, 25c); "On Love, the Family and the God Life," by Plutarch, translated by Moses Hadas (Mentor, 50c); "This Is the West," life, lore and legend of Western United States, edited by Robert West Howard (Signet, 35c).

Outstanding Private Schools

FOR ONCE in their lives 125 boys and girls will return to school with a gleeful rush. They are the elementary school pupils enrolled at Country Day School and they are looking forward to the use of the school's new 40-foot open air pool when the new term begins Sept. 9. They will have many hours swimming but the new pool was really constructed for teaching something of value while making learning a pleasant experience. Classes in swimming and water safety will become a regular part of the physical education program during the warmer months of the term.

Three new classrooms have been completed for the new pupils from Long Beach, Santa Ana and Garden Grove will then be able to benefit by the experience of attending school in a lovely rural setting where the neighboring farmer and his crops as well as the care of the school's farm animals are a regular part of busy days with the highly regarded Three R's. The kindergarten will continue with the never ending wonder when the little red hen gets up off her nest and marches forth with a new crop of fuzzy chicks.

Two new regulation school buses have been added to accommodate the increased enrollment.

HOBBY HORSE NURSERY, 1710 Redondo Ave., in operation 5 years, has built up a full program for children aged 2 through 6 years. The nursery features French lessons, dancing taught by Audrey Share, music appreciation and many other activities pleasing to youngsters.

The modern building was designed especially for a nursery and the large, well equipped playground has all the facilities to keep children happily occupied. The large experienced staff is headed by Mrs. Ina Cunningham, director. Reservations should be made now for the kindergarten class which starts Sept. 9 by calling HE 4-2015.

PROGRESS SCHOOL, 647 Locust Ave., enters its 24th year with the opening of school Sept. 16. A complete academic course is offered for normal and superior mentalities, from primary grades through high school. A testing program is maintained whereby the individual's needs are analyzed and special instruction given to build a balanced personality. Emphasis is placed on instruction in the basic skills and development of good study habits. Classes in typing begin with the sixth grade and a basic commercial course is available in the high school. A speech program is offered beginning with primary grades, with special speech correction work given when needed. A special reading program is maintained, emphasizing vocabulary development, comprehension and speed in reading.

JULIAN HIATT SCHOOL OF PHOTOGRAPHY, 2700 E. Pacific Coast Hwy., will start its next classes Sept. 23. The finest photographic training is offered by this long-established school. that his fist shot out and connected with Curly's chin.

Hal Simon and the camera crew came running. "Break it up," Hal shouted. "The make-up department's gonna have a tough enough time patching you up as it is."

BARRY GOT UP from the ground and helped Curly to his feet. "That one was for my son," he said, by way of apology. "From now on I'll stick to the script."

Curly didn't get it. But I did. I watched Barry Sylvester turn his eyes to the skies and kind of smiled. And do you know something? Puffed and misshapen as it was, I never saw a better-looking Silhouette. In my book it was perfect. And if Skip was watching, don't you think he thought so, too?

"CHARACTER BEFORE CAREER" has long been the motto of the Southern California Military Academy. While entirely non-sectarian, this academy, as each of the other John Brown schools, is pledged to develop wholesome Christian Americanism.

Weekly chapel services and sympathetic counseling of the individual cadet make a valuable contribution in each boy's training. On Sunday mornings resident cadets are taken to the churches of their faith. The academy's education program covers pre-school through the ninth grade. Resident cadets' homelike needs are fulfilled in every way. Transportation and lunch are furnished day students. Eight new classrooms have been completed, and are ready for the opening of fall classes. Resident cadets should report Sunday, Sept. 8 before 4 p.m. Fall term begins Sept. 9.

Southern California Military Academy is located at 2065 Cherry Ave., and is affiliated with Brown School for Girls in Glendora, and Brown Military Academy in San Diego.

MRS. RUTH BAKER is director of Belmont Shore School & Day Nursery, 30 Termino Ave., and the Carousel Pre-School and Kindergarten, 366 Cherry Ave. She started the Belmont Shore school in 1946 and demand has grown so rapidly that she opened the Carousel school in 1955. The schools are for children aged 2 through 8 years and are housed in beautiful modern buildings. Transportation and hot, nourishing meals are provided. They are open 6 days a week. Darold Baker is director of the Carousel school.

Jack Flanders, dean of the accounting department, announces many new courses in higher accounting, business administration, and CPA coaching. Mrs. Mildred Morris, director of the college, announces the beginning of a new term for the career-minded young person who wishes to take executive training to qualify for the business office, in the near future.

Opening date for evening classes will be Sept. 23 with classes in session each Monday and Thursday from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. All business subjects are available. Full day classes begin Sept. 23 also.

among ships and station departments.

OTHER FACILITIES at the station include a wellstocked library with a listening room for record fans and a hobby shop for Naval personnel and their families. "Sea 'n Shore," the enlisted men's recreation center, emphasizes family programs.

One of the busiest activities is the Information and Education Office, headquarters of an off-duty educational program which provides correspondence courses and testing.

The Navy Motion Picture Exchange issues an average of 75 new motion picture prints to ships daily. The exchange operates seven days a week, including holidays.

The Public Works Department provides cranes, gangways and other equipment, steam and electricity for the station and ships at piers, and motorized transportation. The department administers the Navy housing program.

THE STATION provides one service which probably is not appreciated by some men of the Fleet—a brig for confinement of prisoners from vessels and other commands which lack suitable facilities. The brig warden and sentries are U.S. Marines.

Capt. Clark said:

"Long Beach Naval Station is the Navy home ashore for the men in the Pacific Fleet who are based here that is, their home in the military sense. Of course, we cannot lose sight of the important fact that their real shore home or community is the city of Long Beach or other nearby communities. This is where most of the married officers and enlisted men live. The Long Beach people really understand the Navy and in their hospitable way seem to carry out effectively an unwritten or unofficial mission of 'support for the Fleet.' I might add that the shore-based Naval personnel here at the station also feel right at home in the Long Beach community."

A New Camelia Is Born

Camellia enthusiasts have hailed "Buddha" as "one of the few truly great camellias." It's an AACS choice.

By Walter Finch

"BUDDHA," termed by leading camellia enthusiasts "one of the few truly great camellias," is the All-America Camellia Selection for 1958, with a special recommendation for its culture in milder areas of the United States.

Originated in China, Buddha brings an international flavor to the extensive three-year competitive trials conducted by All-America Camellia Selections, Inc., the independent non-profit organization of America's leading hybridizers and nurserymen. AACS pretests new camellia varieties prior to introduction, and awards, recommends and publicizes new varieties of sufficiently high standards, according to their general or sectional adaptation and perfection, as found in the AACS test gardens, and encourages only the introduction of camellias of quality and distinction.

This unusually vigorous variety, a cross between the Camellia reticulata, "Early Peach Bloom," and the species, C. Pitardii, is a new and distinct camellia of the hybrid reticulata group. Unlike blooms of C. japonica varieties, flowers of Buddha undergo transformations in form from first opening until maturity. Each petal of the unusually large blossoms of phlox pink color, emphasized with contrasting veins of Tyrian rose, gradually increases in size and becomes more arched inward and curved as the blooms develop, thus giving Buddha flowers amazing size and depth. At maturity, the flowers average from 4¾ to 6½ inches in diameter and from 2½ to 3 inches in depth.

Buddha blooms in mid-season, usually during February and March, producing flowers freely on the tips of each branch. The abundance of these huge, exotic, warm pink blossoms silhouetted against the large, glossy, green foliage, veined in customary C. reticulata style, is a strikingly vivid sight. Blooms possess remarkable substance and satiny texture and are exceptionally long lasting and excellent for arrangements.

Under favorable conditions, the strong vigorous upright plant will develop into a small tree and should be given adequate space. It may, of course, be restricted by judicious pruning. The best growing conditions provide partial shade in a location that will permit freedom of growth, but magnificent specimen blooms also are obtained from plants grown under glass.

Buddha may be expected to perform well anywhere that the usual C. reticulatas may be grown successfully. It thrives out of doors in all frost-free sections of the United States but should be given at least partial protection in other areas. Where freezes or frosts may affect plant growth or blossoms, the degree of protection required will vary with localized conditions.

REPORTS FROM individuals who have grown Buddha for a number of years indicate a special adaptability to West Coast conditions, notably in the area from San Diego to San Francisco. In and around Los Angeles and throughout Southern California, plants and blooms of Buddha truly are superb, making the variety a "must have" for experts, enthusiasts and, in particular, for the multitude of home owners who desire merely to enjoy the splendor and perfection of this very beautiful new camellia.

Unless frost-free seasons are the rule rather than the exception, Buddha should not be planted out of doors without due consideration of this factor and the caution that the variety necessarily must be classified as relatively tender on the basis of present data. Protection may take the form of some type of lath house or similar device, and no protection may be necessary in mild areas. Gardeners with glass houses will find Buddha responds readily to growth under green house conditions.

The C. reticulata may be one of the oldest species known to man, and few were available in North America until 1948. Buddha is the first hybrid reticulata seedling to emerge victorious from tests conducted by All-America Camellia Selections, Inc., and is being introduced this year for the first time, selected as representative of the newest and finest camellias of the world, worthy of recognition as an All-America Award Winner, with a special recommendation for milder areas of the U. S.

ASIDE FROM the sheer beauty of this exciting new AACS variety, camellia lovers will find romantic interest in the not-yet-fully-developed story of how the Chinese succeeded in confining the C. reticulata species within the enclosed grounds of their ancient Temple Gardens, tended largely by Buddhist priests, safe from the searching eyes of the western world. Perhaps the future will unfold this remarkable tale in its entirety and reveal also what stroke of good fortune led to crossing the species C. reticulata with the species C. Pitardii, a union which produced the exquisitely beautiful bloom that sets Buddha apart as one of the truly distinctive creations in the camellia world.

Plants of this new All-America camellia will be available through leading nurserymen in quantity and within the reach of all.

It's Time Now to Plant Dichondra

Beauty of dichondra lawns is undisputed. If planted now, progress will be best.

By Joe Littlefield

SOME FOLK feel that the time to plant dichondra is in the fall season, when grass lawns are renovated, and new lawns are put in. There's nothing wrong with planting dichondra in the fall season, except that it takes many months for it to grow together. In fact, it may take eight months for a fall planted dichondra lawn to grow together.

Dichondra lawn planted now, whether from seeds or from flats, grows fast, and should get a good toehold before cold weather sets in. The lawn may not be grown altogether, but it will be fairly well established.

There are two ways to get a dichondra lawn. One is to plant it in bare soil, other is to put it in an established grass lawn. Naturally, you'll have a pure dichondra lawn if planted in bare soil rather than in a lawn. That is, you will if you keep out the weeds! It'll take several years for dichondra to become well established in a grass lawn.

DICHONDRA TURF is available in flats, approximately 17 inches square. The turf is cut up in squares and planted. At this time of year, the squares should be no smaller than inch and a half by inch and a half. Plant them in rows spaced eight inches apart from middle of one square to middle of the next square. Rows should be eight inches apart. This suggested square size of dichondra and spacing requires approximately 25 flats of dichondra for each thousand square foot area. Five sacks of weed free manure should be evenly spread over same given area. Thereafter lawn should be kept moist till it has grown together, or until the rains come.

If seed sowing is preferred, sow one pound per thousand square feet. Spread evenly five sacks of steer manure over same given area. Manure keeps soil from crusting and drying out quickly, and maintains an even moisture content. There's just enough food value action to encourage dichondra to grow evenly.

BECAUSE WEATHER is hot and continues so for another month and a half or more, it isn't necessary to sow grass in the dichondra. However, if pets or children run over the newly planted dichondra lawn, and track dirt into the house, then it may be necessary to sow grass seed in order to cover the soil while the dichondra is growing together.

If the dichondra lawn isn't put in till fall season, then by all means, grass seed should be sown in with it, because dichondra grows slowly in cold weather. Grass furnishes the green covering and acts as a protection for the slow growing dichondra.

NEWLY PLANTED dichondra lawns may be kept pure by periodic weeding. "Periodic weeding" doesn't mean to weed when the mood strikes you. It means to weed when you discover weeds. Luckily so far, we have been able to keep our 15-year-old dichondra lawn clean of weeds. We spend about six hours a year keeping weeds out of approximately 12 hundred square foot lawn. Soon as we spot a weed, a handkerchief drops over it, like a target marker for a bomber. We hot foot it to the front porch and pick up a screw driver or spike sprinkler. With murder in mind, we gleefully root out the weed.

Where weeds are a mess in an established dichondra lawn, you can gradually crowd them out by mowing the lawn close and often. "Close" means to practically scalp the lawn, but without doing so. Cut close without injuring the lawn. Continue mowing close every five days from March through October. Feed about every two months with a dichondra food, and keep lawn moist. Weeds blossom in sun, whereas dichondra flowers in shade. Close mowing clips off flowers so they don't set seeds. Because dichondra continues to multiply from flowers to seed, and weeds do not, eventually dichondra crowds back the weeds! Several gardeners have had good success in following this method of crowding back weeds in dichondra lawns. But it requires patience and follow-through.

Gardening Tips

GARDEN TIPS for the week . . . During the summer, lawns should be thoroughly soaked. A light sprinkling is almost worse than no water at all.

Vine-like plants now growing vigorously should be thoroughly trellised to prevent their becoming topheavy. They may also require some thinning out.

Zinnias, which flower quickly, can still be grown from seed. They are excellent for cut flowers as well as in the outdoor garden.

In Southern California, we seem to get the best sweet peas if we plant them around the end of August.

If you really want prize sweet peas, it is best to prepare the sweet pea bed, two to three weeks before you plant them, in the following manner: Dig a trench at least two feet deep and 18 inches wide. Place a generous amount of good, clean cow manure in the bottom of the trench; then add a layer of soil and mix the two thoroughly. Add another layer of humus unless you prefer using decomposed leaf mold or compost (these are equally as good) and fill the remainder of the trench with soil. Again mix thoroughly and water down. Let it remain until you're ready to plant. It helps, too, to add just bone meal about a half pail full to a row 20 to 25 feet long.

New Robot Gardener Makes Gardening Fun

Three-Way Garden Aid

Caring for a lawn or garden can be fun with the new Robot Gardener, a trisected chamber which attaches to any garden hose or sprinkler. The chamber holds bullet-like cartridges of fertilizer, weed killer or insecticide, enough to care for more than 2,000 square feet of lawn. All that remains to be done is to turn on the water and direct the hose; automatically and scientifically the lawn is fertilized the weeds and crabgrass killed and insects destroyed. For information regarding Robot Gardener Kit, write Dept. LA, Leeds Chemical Products Co., 112 E. Walton St., Chicago, Ill.

Desi, Lucy Prepare New Show

Lucille Ball and Desi Arnaz cut a few capers in a scene from the first of their new TV programs.

By Bob Thomas
Associated Press Staff Writer

IT WAS BACK in Oct. 15, 1951 that a television show named "I Love Lucy" hit the air for the first time. It played its last performance Monday night, June 24, this year.

Thus ended the greatest success story in television history.

For six full seasons, the Lucille Ball-Desi Arnaz show took the No. 1 spot in virtually every audience poll, bowing only a handful of times to the $64,000. NBC has thrown nearly everything possible against CBS's "Lucy," but never could make a dent on the ratings.

Now Lucy and Desi are quitting their weekly show.

STARS HAVE BEEN known to quit at the top in sports, but almost never in show business. Actors seem always to yearn for another show, another audience.

"Lucy and I are not quitting like Rocky Marciano and Gene Tunney," Desi explained. "We just aren't going to fight every Monday night. We'll fight five times a year."

For the 1957-58 season, they are making six one-hour shows. They will still be Lucy and Ricky Ricardo, and Vivian Vance and Bill Frawley will play Ethel and Fred Mertz. The shows begin in late October or early November.

BUT THE STORIES will be broadened to fit the one-hour scope. There will be more musical numbers and guest stars. The first show also stars Ann Sothern, Rudy Vallee, Cesar Romero and Hedda Hopper.

Desi denied the new schedule meant a slowdown in work for the stars.

"Each show is the equivalent of a feature-length movie," he said. "I'm working harder on them than I did before. The stories have to be well blocked out; they take 10 weeks to prepare.

"It takes a couple of weeks to cast and prepare sets, then two weeks or more to rehearse. We shoot most of it in one night, but then it takes four to six weeks to cut and score the music.

TWENTY WEEKS for one show! But it's worth it. When we did our first show, it was like an exciting New York opening up at 6:30 p.m. and the laughs at the end were as big as those at the start. We've never done better work."

Desi said he wanted to make the move to the hour show a year ago, but his sponsors prevailed upon him to stay on Monday night another season. This year he won, despite network pressure and sponsor coolness to his $330,000 price tag per show.

Desi won out, as he generally does.

The whole history of "I Love Lucy" is one of persistence. After he returned from the army, Desi found his film career dwindled to nothing. He organized a rhumba band with moderate success. But the band business kept him on the road most of the time while Lucille was making pictures in Hollywood. Their marriage was close to the rocks.

THEY TRIED TO sell producers on the idea of their working together, but it was no luck. No one could imagine the glamorous redhead their comedy talent had been little exploited in films) and the Cuban drum-beater as a team.

To show the skeptics, they whipped up a vaudeville act that was a broad satire on their actual life together. They played it around the country and at London's Palladium to delighted audiences.

Desi returned to sell the idea of a TV marriage. Buyers were reluctant, but he persisted. The show went on the air just three months after the birth of their first child, Lucy Desiree.

It was a hit from the start. The peak came when Desiderio Alberto Arnaz IV was born Jan. 19, 1953, the same night that Lucy had a baby boy on the TV show. The audience rating hit an all-time high.

I ASKED DESI how the show has managed to stay on top of the heap.

"I think there are several reasons," he reflected. "For one thing, we've always tried to come up with new approaches, so people won't get tired of seeing us do the same old things.

"We've got real people on our show. They live like normal human beings; the audience can identify itself with them. The situations may get pretty wacky, but they start on a logical premise.

"We've got a show with four underdogs. None is an upperdog; one week Lucy will get the worst of it, the next week it might be Ricky, the next time Fred or Ethel.

"We've always had a clean show and never offended anyone. We won't get a laugh out of someone because he has a speech impediment or a physical defect."

THEN HE ADDED: "One of the big reasons for the show's success is this girl (Lucy). Whether it's a prat fall or a love scene, she is the greatest."

How does Lucy like the hour show?

"It's a whale of a lot of work," she said, "but it's real exciting, too. I'm enjoying it, especially since I get three or four weeks off between shows to spend with the children. Not Desi; he works like a dog. I just hope this show doesn't kill him."

Which proves that millionaires can be sentimental.

Second Guessing in Full Swing

By the Shutterbug

Getting natural action from this group at Long Beach surfside was no problem, even for man with 3 cameras.

THE traditional pastime of second-guessing is probably in full swing now as returning camera fans view their vacation picture results. It's no different at my house for, despite all the advice I dish out, a couple of items were neglected and as a result there are picture losses that can't be duplicated.

Before any important family photo event, a holiday excursion or a vacation, the cardinal rule is: Check your camera and, if possible, run some film through as a test.

That's what I failed to do with my movie camera. Now I'm unhappy, to put it mildly, as the first three rolls back show large amounts of blank footage on each. It indicates a possible faulty shutter operation but you can be sure it goes back to my camera shop along with the film. Let an expert find the exact trouble and fix it.

I AM GLAD, though, that I overruled my wife by taking a second and a third camera along. I wouldn't go anywhere without a small camera for black-and-white snapshots. The third camera is for color slides, as you might have guessed, except in my case I've gone overboard for stereo so most everything is in three dimensions as well as color.

While the other cameras proved a good backstop in those spots where the movie camera went blank, they brought trouble in another direction. There were times when sightseeing with three children and three cameras was almost impossible. On occasions, it led to open rebellion as my subjects refused to cooperate by the time it got around to the third camera.

GOING OVER my pictures now, I feel that I didn't get enough general views and locality names to set the scene for various places we visited. It's a mistake to pass that first bill board, sign or over-all view without a picture because you feel you'll come to something better. Why not stop and take a picture merely for insurance and if you come to something better, take that, too.

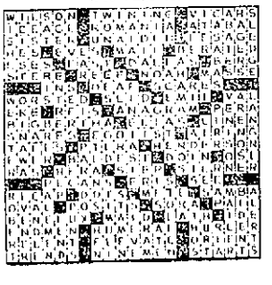

It's a mistake also to put off taking pictures of people and places because "you have so much time to do it later!" I see now that so many of the people who made our vacation so enjoyable and many of the places we visited and stayed never did get photographed after all. If I could retrace my steps, they'd be snapped on the very first go-round.

I'd also start an earlier, more earnest campaign to infect my wife and oldest daughter with the photography virus. It would take a great weight off my mind . . . and shoulders . . . if each one would relieve me of a camera and I could concentrate solely on the third dimension.

MEMBERS of the Long Beach Camera Guild will have an outing today at the mountain cabin of Hazel and Stanley Vosper, which is located in the Moonridge Estates, Big Bear Lake, opposite Moonridge Golf Course.

Feed Pets for Fitness

By Eleanor Avery Price

PET FEEDING today would appear to be no problem, what with the variety of foods for animals offered in grocery and pet stores.

Each pet, however, is an individual, and each owner must be guided by experience acquired from experimenting, with assistance, if necessary, from someone qualified to offer suggestions such as a veterinarian who knows that dietary requirements vary. For example, an active or nervous breed of dog needs 25 to 50 per cent more calorie intake than a calmer dog. Also, an older dog needs more protein than a younger one, and a growing puppy often seems bottomless at mealtime!

Cats usually are wise enough to eat just what their bodies require. Dogs, however, may overeat and even consume spoiled food if it is available. A fat dog is subject to a host of ills, has less pep and is likely to die young, hence the great need to feed dogs carefully.

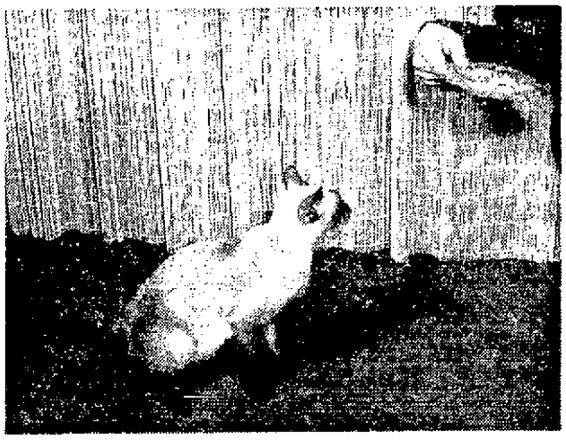

IT IS OFTEN SAID that meat is a dog's (and a cat's) natural food, since his ancestors lived on game they caught hunting. It should be remembered that animals in their wild state were more active and they also were wise enough to eat mineral-rich organs, grains and other foods in the animals' digestive tracts and so could balance their own diets.

Meat alone does not contain all the minerals and vitamins needed, nor enough carbohydrates and fat. Some commercially prepared foods provide all the food essentials, but to be on the safe side, supplementary foods such as meat scraps, bacon-drippings, liver, heart, broth, broiled fish (no bones), cottage cheese, milk, soft-boiled eggs, cooked carrots and string beans, tomatoes, breakfast cereals and baby foods may be offered the cat and dog, along with vitamins, if such foods appear to agree with the pet.

IF YOU USE a prepared food, select one that makes your pet grow best, offer it regularly and follow the directions. In some instances the labels on dog food suggest self-feeding of dry food instead of mixing a certain amount with water or other liquid. This is an easy and often excellent way to feed a dog, but remember that some dogs will over-eat if not watched. Also, if the dog is one that does not drink much water, his food should always be offered moistened, otherwise serious intestinal disorders may result. On the other hand, if the dog drinks a great deal of water, his drinking container should be removed a little while before mealtime so that he will eat the proper amount of food without bloating.

Kittens and puppies should start out with four meals daily. By the time the pet is six to eight months of age, meals should be reduced to two. If the dish isn't cleaned up within a reasonable time, pick it up and offer fresh food at the next regular feeding time. Don't fret if the pet skips an occasional meal and don't give in if it holds out for favorite foods.

Guide the pet with firmness to a proper diet that isn't constantly undergoing radical changes.

Cats are wise creatures, eat just what their bodies require, but hold out at times for favorite morsels.

HOW TO Plan a Workshop In Your Garage

IF YOU'RE PINCHED for space, garage can make room for work corner as well as auto. Compactness comes from using multi-purpose power tool that stores along wall. Large tool chest rolls on casters out of the corner. Next to it is folding workbench.

AN 8x16-FOOT EXTENSION to the garage provides ample space for most workshop needs. In addition, there's small room at one end for storing garden tools, outdoor equipment. Most maintenance and woodworking projects are handled right in the alcove itself. But major tools are given easy mobility with retractable casters. There is small-tool storage along one wall.

VIVIAN LAIRD HILL

Let's Have Swordfish

WHEN THEY stroll into Vivian Laird's Supper Club for the first time and see what an elegant, spacious place it is, people sometimes remark: "Brother, I'll bet the prices are high here!"

Well, sir, they couldn't be more wrong.

One of the amazing things about Vivian Laird's, located at 1st St. and Alamitos Ave., is the fact that excellent complete dinners are priced as low as $2.25. Among the entrees at that price are eastern scallops, chicken a la king, filet of sole and grilled swordfish steak. They are accompanied by ALL of the following:

Soup du jour, large tossed green salad with choice of dressing, choice of potatoes, fresh hot rolls, choice of beverage and choice of pie, ice cream, sherbet or sundae for dessert.

Among the many other selections on this complete dinner are fried shrimp, $2.50; shrimp or lobster newburg, $2.75; delectable shrimp curry with rice, $2.50; pan fried chicken, $2.50; top sirloin, $3.75, and lamb chops, $3.75.

Among the a la carte items (served with salad, potato, rolls and beverage) are the following: prime rib au jus, $3.50; charcoal-broiled filet mignon, $4.50; New York cut, $4.50, and top sirloin, $3.50. The very finest grade of eastern prime beef is featured.

ANOTHER FEATURE of the supper club is the private banquet room which overlooks the great main room. It can be closed off for parties or left open, permitting its guests to enjoy the highly danceable music of Reed Williams and his orchestra. The banquet room is available for groups from 25 to 100.

Pianist Marya Genay is currently the spotlighted entertainer in the Jungle Room, one of the Supper Club's three cocktail lounges.

Vivian Laird Hill, owner of the restaurant, never makes a cover or minimum charge. Dinners are served daily from 6 p.m. to 2 a.m., Sundays from 5 p.m. on. —TEDD THOMEY.

HOT HORS D'OEUVRES SERVED

I was ashamed to always be so tired!

I ALWAYS felt simply "run down." People were thinking of me as a "spoil-sport." I didn't know why until my doctor put me wise. He told me that I acted like a man much older than myself . . . and explained why I felt "tired" . . . why my youthful vigor was slipping away . . . why my wife and family were beginning to think of me as a worn-out man.

He told me how a vitamin-mineral deficiency in my diet could bring on these symptoms—rob me of the joys of living . . . and suggested that I supplement my diet with pep-building vitamins and minerals. Thousands of others had found new energy, new youth, new happiness by adding these essential factors to their diet.

Well, I put off doing anything about my condition—until one day I read the Vitasafe ad in a magazine, offering a 30-day FREE supply of high-potency Vitasafe C.F. Capsules! I figured I had nothing to lose, so I mailed the coupon. When my free supply arrived, I began taking one Capsule a day. In a short time, I began to feel like a new man! My pep and vigor came back. I continued with the wonderful Vitasafe Plan—and I felt stronger—younger—more energetic!

Today, no one thinks of me as a "worn-out old man." I've got pep and energy to burn, and I have fun like a fellow half my age! And you may too! Why don't you take advantage of this sensational free offer to see for yourself whether you too can again feel peppy and full of life! Accept this no risk offer as I did.

FREE—30 days supply High-Potency Capsules

Lipotropic Factors, Minerals and Vitamins

You pay only 25¢ to help cover postage and shipping expense to anywhere in the U.S.A.

Safe nutritional formula containing 25 proven ingredients: Choline, Inositol, Methionine, 11 Vitamins (including blood-building B-12 and Folic Acid) plus 11 Minerals

To prove to you the remarkable advantages of the Vitasafe Plan . . . we will send you, without charge, a 30-day free supply of high-potency VITASAFE C.F. CAPSULES so you can discover for yourself how much healthier, happier and peppier you may feel after a few days' trial! Just one of these capsules each day supplies your body with over twice the minimum adult daily requirements of Vitamins A, C and D . . . five times the minimum adult daily requirement of Vitamin B-1 and the full concentration recommended by the National Research Council for the other four important vitamins! Each capsule contains the amazing Vitamin B-12—one of the most remarkably potent nutrients science has yet discovered—a vitamin that actually helps strengthen your blood and nourish your body organs.

		Potassium	2 mg.
		Zinc	0.5 mg.
		Magnesium	3 mg.

We invite you to compare the richness of this formula with any other vitamin and mineral preparation.

POTENCY AND PURITY GUARANTEED

There is no mystery to vitamin potency. As you probably know, the U. S. Government strictly controls each vitamin manufacturer and requires the exact quantity of each vitamin and mineral to be clearly stated on the label. This means that the purity of each ingredient, and the sanitary conditions of manufacture are carefully controlled for your protection! And it means that when you use VITASAFE C.F. CAPSULES you can be sure you're getting exactly what the label states . . . and that you're getting pure ingredients whose beneficial effects have been proven time and time again!

HOW THE VITASAFE PLAN OPERATES TO SAVE YOU MONEY

When you receive your free 30-day supply of vitamins, you are under no obligation to buy anything. With your vitamins you will also receive a handy postcard. If after taking your free Vitasafe capsules for three weeks you are not satisfied in every way, simply return the postcard and that will end the matter. Otherwise, it's up to us—you don't have to do a thing—and we will see that you get your monthly supplies of vitamins on time for as long as you wish, at the low, money-saving price of only $2.78 per month.

WHY WE WANT YOU TO TRY A 30-DAY SUPPLY—FREE!

We offer you this 30-day free trial of valuable VITASAFE C.F. CAPSULES for just one reason. So many persons have already tried them with such astounding results . . . so many people have written in telling us how much better they felt after only a short trial . . . that we are absolutely convinced that you, too, may experience the same feeling of health and well-being after a similar trial. In fact, we're so convinced that we're willing to back up our convictions with our own money. You don't spend a penny for the vitamins! All the cost and all the risk are ours. A month's supply of similar vitamin capsules would ordinarily cost $5.00 retail.

AMAZING NEW PLAN SLASHES VITAMIN PRICES ALMOST IN HALF

With your free vitamins you will also receive complete details regarding the benefits of this amazing new Plan that provides you regularly with all the vitamins and minerals you will need. This Plan actually enables you to receive a 30-day supply of vitamins every month regularly, safely and factory-fresh for exactly $2.78—or 45% lower than the usual retail price. BUT YOU DO NOT HAVE TO DECIDE NOW—you are under no obligation to buy anything from us whatsoever. How to Have More Fun This Summer

There's no fun like the fun of going places in a brand new car, or a bright, late-model used car. The complete C.I.T. Time Purchase Plan makes it easy for you to drive the car you want now, while you pay for it out of current income. And you get all these extra protections and services, too:

The Best Car Insurance Service Offered Anywhere

Your car is insured against collision, fire, theft and many other causes of loss. And, in case of an accident, you don't have to shop for bids. Repairs can be made expertly by the man who knows your car best—your own car dealer. In addition, if your car should break down on the road, you are reimbursed for towing and roadside service—up to $10.

These protections also apply when you, or any relative living with you, use a borrowed passenger car.

Plus these Personal Protections and Services

First, your credit is established wherever you drive, so that if you should have an emergency car repair anywhere on the road, you simply request any of our offices to pay the bill. You repay in convenient monthly instalments when you return home.

Then, you get life insurance coverage, and while this policy is in effect, your family will own your car outright, without further payments, in the event of your death. CLAD IN COVERALLS, the author indulges in his favorite hobby. Here he tinkers with a Jaguar motor.

I'll always remember...

The car that stole my girl

by DAVE GARROWAY

Let me tell you about this Rolls-Royce . . .

During the past 20-odd years I have spent a great deal of my time tinkering with ancient automobiles and enjoying every second of it. In all I've owned 28 such cars, including a Duesenberg, an Auburn, a Bugatti, a Cord, a Jaguar and several Rolls-Royces. Just in the past 18 months I've spent two hours a day rebuilding the motor of one car.

And how did I get into this habit, or hobby? It started with an unlikely emotion — jealousy. Back in 1931, when I went to University City High School in St. Louis, I developed a violent crush on a certain blonde. Ice-cream sodas, movies, school dances — nothing was too good for her, provided it didn't cost more than 50 cents. After three weeks of this, I decided the time had come to ask the lady to become my steady.

I waited for her at the school door. As she came toward me, her smile was radiant. But to my horror, that smile wasn't for me. She tossed me a casual, "Hi, Dave!" and went right by; went to an ancient robin's-egg-blue Rolls-Royce at the curb with a 20-year-old man at the wheel. When my girl drove off with him, I felt outraged.

Right then I decided that if it took such cars to win a girl like that blonde, by heaven, someday I'd make enough money to buy them myself. Years later I could. And one day in a North Side Chicago garage, I found that same blue Rolls-Royce! I had to spend $1,000 on parts to rebuild it, but it was worth it. Did I feel some special satisfaction in getting the car once owned by my rival? No: I had practically forgotten about him and the blonde. My ardor had been transferred to cars.

That is what my hobby has taught me. Learn to get outside yourself. When something gnaws at you, try to find some absorbing interest. It can be as inexpensive as collecting sea shells or as rewarding as becoming an expert gardener. An outside interest is the best medicine for inside trouble. ■

ARE THOSE CONTESTS RIGGED?

by LLOYD SHEARER

Parade West Coast correspondent

LONG BEACH, CALIF.

This is the season of beauty contests. Next week the Miss America crown will be fought out in Atlantic City; meanwhile, echoes of the recent Miss Universe contest still are being heard. Hard on the confusion here when Mrs. Leona Ennis nearly won the Miss U.S.A. title, Mary Callie Hill of Baltimore sued Mrs. Ennis and the sponsors of the Miss Maryland contest for $30,000. She claimed they had "fraudulently concealed" the fact of Mrs. Ennis' marriage and thus done her (Mary) out of her place in the Miss Universe contest. All of this gives rise to the question: Are beauty contests rigged? PARADE asked seven hopefuls in the Miss Universe set-to; herewith, their answers.

LYLA LEE MORAN, Miss New Hampshire: "Yes, small-town contests usually are rigged in favor of local girls. You can enter a small contest and lose, then go into a larger one and beat the same girl who beat you earlier."

ANNE MARIE STUDNESS, Miss North Dakota: "It all depends on the contest judges. They're the ones who decide everything. My experience is that they're honest."

GERTI DAUB, Miss Germany: "I don't know how it is in the United States, but back home it is strictly honest. At least I like to think so — I was judged the winner there."

SANITA PELKEY, Miss New York: "Of course a lot of contests are fixed. I've been in some where far from the prettiest girl won. These usually are just local contests."

ROSALIE CULP, Miss Pennsylvania: "No, the contests are not fixed. I've been in many of them, including the Miss America contest, and they're always strictly on the level. Of course, the gripers make all sorts of excuses."

Some lovely contestants give varied answers to a timely PARADE question

FAYE RAY, Miss Miami Beach: "The big contests are OK, but in the little ones all sorts of pressures can be used. This means the prettiest girls sometimes lose out."

HANNERL MELCHER, Miss Austria: "Most of the judges are too old. We need more young judges. The Miss Universe contest was honest — but some judges were blind."

FORMER PRESIDENTS Hoover and Truman (above) receive typically distorted handling in the Great Soviet Encyclopaedia: it calls Hoover "a plotter," Truman "an imperialist."

AMERICAN LEGIONNAIRES (left) have fun at a recent convention. Ignoring such open gayety, the Red encyclopedia calls the Legion "militarized ... a kind of secret police."

WHAT IVAN

Russia's man-in-the-street now gets 'facts' on the

by WILLIAM BENTON

Publisher, Encyclopaedia Britannica

AFTER WORLD WAR I, former President Herbert Hoover organized "espionage, political and military diversions and plots against the Soviet government" when he headed the American Relief Administration to feed starving Europeans.

Former President Truman is an important member of the American Legion, and the Legion is "one of the largest militarized Fascist organizations in the U.S. . . . The whole country is covered by Legion posts. These are a kind of secret police and strike-breaker units."

Earl Browder, deposed U.S. Communist leader, is an "agent of American imperialism."

These three typical distortions are drawn from the latest word picture — or caricature — of the United States which the Kremlin is trying to project to 800,000,000 people. They appear in the new edition of the Great Soviet Encyclopaedia, whose long (85,000 words) and long-awaited article on the U.S. is astonishing, impressive — and dangerous.

The Great Soviet Encyclopaedia is Communism's most authoritative single source of general information. Officials, teachers, journalists, scholars and propagandists lean on it heavily. Although "Ivan," Russia's man-in-the-street, may never pick up a copy, his opinion of the U.S. and its people will be vastly influenced by it. The "news" Ivan reads, the speeches he hears, the lessons he learns about America will be based on this fabric of facts, unfacts and misfacts.

Here is the long-range Soviet "party line" toward us. Short-range Red tactics may zigzag from week to week; the make-up of the party presidium may shift dramatically. But in this article Soviet attitudes are frozen for years to come — perhaps for decades.

And the article cannot be dismissed simply as a pack of lies. The editors and authors package truth and falsehood together astutely. They cite figures from well-respected sources. They present the U.S. in a form that will surely seem convincing — behind the Iron Curtain — to present-day readers and, unhappily, to coming Communist generations as well.

During a visit to Moscow in 1955 I met the top officials of the Encyclopaedia. They didn't want to talk about their forthcoming article on the U.S. They said it wasn't ready, that it would appear in Volume 39. In return for my offer of a set of the Encyclopaedia Britannica, they offered to send me their first 33 volumes, plus new volumes as they came off the presses.

He Sees Us As Strong . . .

Recently Volume 39 arrived. With a translator's help I analyzed the article on the U.S. It runs to 97 pages of type, with seven maps, 24 tables of statistics and 83 pictures. It is shorter than the article on the U.S.S.R. in the Encyclopaedia Britannica. It is shorter — and less friendly — than the article on the U.S. in the first edition of the Soviet Encyclopaedia, published years ago during wartime.

Over the past decade I've studied world-wide Communist propaganda as it steadily predicted calamity and catastrophe for the U.S. economy. Thus to me the most surprising quality of this article is the impression it conveys of America's strength. "Industry in the U.S. is highly mechanized and automatic machinery is being rapidly developed," say the Soviet contributors. "New techniques constantly are being perfected and applied."

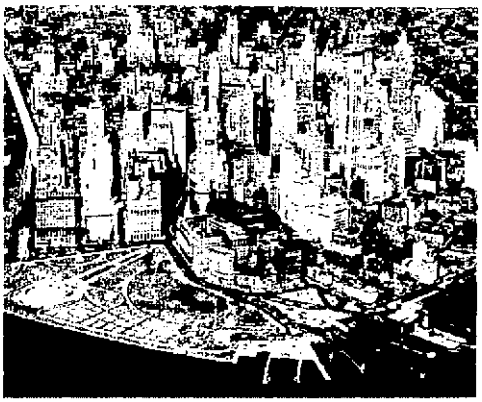

With its own people, the Kremlin doesn't intend to underestimate America's physical strength. Page after page portrays the formidable magnitude of America's economic accomplishments.

Photographs depict Manhattan skyscrapers, Chicago's lakefront, shots of New Orleans, San Francisco, Fargo. There are glimpses of giant dams, Texas oil derricks, an oil refinery at Baton Rouge, ore conveyors, a king-sized stamping press, an Anaconda copper smelter. Also reproduced is a photograph of buildings at the Oak Ridge atomic installation.

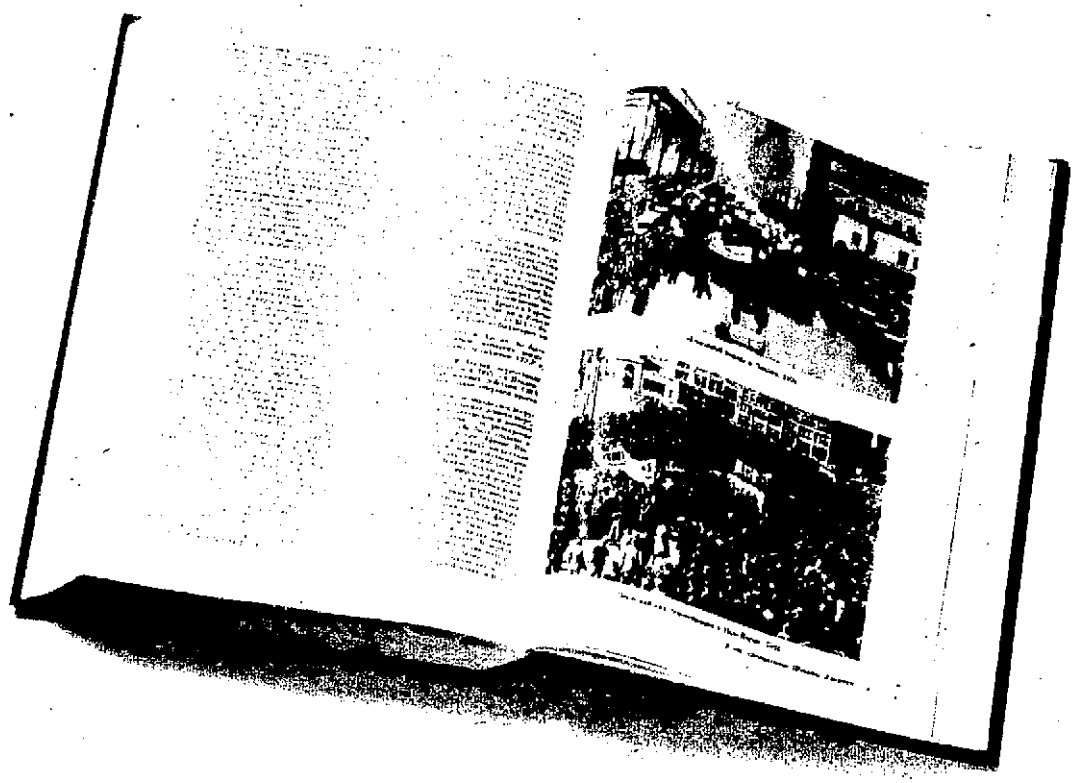

In preparing the material that will, indirectly, influence hundreds of millions of people, the editors and writers draw a sharp distinction between the American people and the "monopoly capitalists" they claim control our government. They wrap their factual descriptions in two gargantuan falsehoods: 1) that ordinary Americans are impoverished victims of the rich, and 2) that our system can continue to expand only by aggressive war.

The editors, in fact, seemed to feel sorry for me because Encyclopaedia Britannica doesn't have what they choose to call a "world view." Britannica obviously is guilty of "cosmopolitanism."

What is this "world view" of theirs? It is the attempt to apply the Marxist-Leninist philosophy to explain past and present, and to predict the future. It preaches that under the Soviet "dictatorship of the proletariat" a new world order is inevitable, through victorious

MANHATTAN SKYLINE (above) illustrates the encyclopedia's section on U.S. cities. Such photos apparently are designed to impress Ivan with American economic strength.

"IMPOVERISHED WORKERS" are a favorite theme of the encyclopedia. The photos at right show depression scenes of 25 years ago; book implies such things still are common.

THINKS OF US

struggle against "capitalist and bourgeois classes." It teaches that "true democracy" can exist only under Communism, that Western forms of self-government merely mask capitalist control of the masses through "bourgeois" systems of law, ethics and religion. It teaches that the happiness of present generations, and all individual rights, must be sacrificed — that any means are justified to achieve Communist ends.

. . . He Sees Us As Weak

The "world view" splits the world into two camps. The capitalist camp is led by the U.S. — reactionary, decadent, disintegrating, doomed by the irresistible march of history, as they write it. The second camp, led by the U.S.S.R. ("the fatherland of all the workers") is the only hope for world peace and what they call "harmonious cooperation." The Hungarians and Poles, among others, have found this harmony a rugged experience.

This interpretation, of course, is scarcely new. It is the standard Communist fare. The typical Ivan has been exposed to it, directly and indirectly, for years. But, using it as a basis of thinking, the article's writers and editors come up with these new and monstrous distortions of the U.S. and its past:

- The U.S. Constitution as promulgated in 1789 was "the legislation of bourgeois dictatorship over the popular masses."
- Woodrow Wilson, during his Presidency, revealed himself "a servant of big monopolies." His 14 Points for peace after World War I were an "imperialist peace plan."
- The Harding, Coolidge and Hoover administrations led in "the policy of restoring German militarism."
- In World War II the Second Front was opened only when it became evident "the Soviet Army was capable of liberating Europe and occupying all Germany."
- The Truman Doctrine marked the start of U.S. imperialism in the Middle East, while at home reactionary measures were being taken against the working class.
- By "intervention in the Korean civil war," U.S. reactionary circles tried to promote expansionist plans in China. But U.S. armed forces suffered military defeat, and had to agree to an armistice.

Communism's "world view" also dramatizes unsolved problems Americans freely admit, and aims at issues which divide Americans and tend to alienate us from our friends. Here are some ways the Encyclopaedia claims we fail to practice what we preach:

- In many states, "considerable masses of citizens, particularly Negroes" are denied voting rights.
- Although the U.S. Supreme Court ruled that segregation of school children is unconstitutional, in many Southern states the decision is ignored or opposed.
- In U.S. schools, "there were not enough teachers and every year their number was being reduced."
- Postwar U.S. budgets show a "vast proportion of taxpayers' money spent on defense." Huge public debt and inflation, the Reds say, result from "militarization of the country's economy."

The Soviet leaders set out to hide from their citizens that Americans are steadily making our country a better place for all its inhabitants. Any such admission would puncture "the world view."

As the Reds see them, what are the conditions of American life today? Here are two samples:

- Sixty-two per cent of all families have incomes below the minimum standard of living.
- During the period 1945-1953, "there was an absolute and relative impoverishment of the working class."

When Russians hear or read such gross misstatements, they often believe them. This is possible only because of the isolated condition of the Russian people. Their "world view" thus is a form of impaired vision. Yet I know from my own visits to Moscow that the average Ivan hates neither America nor Americans; he may have a warped picture of it, but he wants to know about it and usually is willing to listen.

Let's Take the Initiative

For the past dozen years — first as Assistant Secretary of State, when I launched the Voice of America in the Russian language, then as U.S. Senator from Connecticut, when I proposed a "Marshall Plan of Ideas" — I have contended that we Americans have far more to gain than to lose in seeking greater contact with the Russian people.

For our own security, we need to seize the initiative, to take advantage of every conceivable opportunity to help the Russian people learn more about America.

I have advocated bold, large-scale American action along several lines. Some steps can be taken without delay. Here are three examples:

AUTHOR BENTON looks up from the hefty, well-illustrated Soviet encyclopedia. The former Senator and Assistant Secretary of State visited Moscow headquarters, where the 460-man encyclopedia staff works, on a 1955 trip to Russia.

Three ways to tell Russians the truth

1) Broadcasts and telecasts. President Eisenhower, Sen. Lyndon Johnson and Soviet Minister Anastas Mikoyan have spoken favorably about regular exchange of broadcast interviews along the pattern of the recent Khrushchev interview.

In fact, I think it would be to our advantage to permit the Soviets to build and operate a transmitter near one of our major cities in return for our right to build and operate one, unjammed, near Moscow or Leningrad.

2) Tourism. Old-fashioned tourist rubbernecking could correct some of the worst distortions. No tourist seeing our supermarkets, our traffic jams of late-model cars, our miles upon miles of neat, comfortable homes could swallow the "impoverishment" idea again. I am not confident the Kremlin will permit more than a handful of Russians to visit the U.S., but we should make the offer.

3) Exchange of students and specialists. We may have much to learn as well as teach. Our scientists say the best Soviet physicists and mathematicians are as good as our best. Exchange groups of physicians, astronomers, construction engineers, lithographers, bankers and bakers are long overdue. Even if we were to learn far less technically than our counterparts—and we would—the mutual exchange of information and viewpoints would outweigh that disadvantage.

Today the skilled propagandists of the Soviet Union claim that America maintains the Iron Curtain. They point to our long refusal to let correspondents in Red China, our stiff immigration practices.

The Great Soviet Encyclopaedia is designed to give pro-Communist answers to all questions. We must seek ways to substitute facts. The Soviets have lifted their Iron Curtain a hesitant fraction. Let us welcome the chance to see — and be seen — without the distortion lens of an artificial "world view." ■

USING PICTURES, Arizona's doctor on wheels, James M. Hesser, shows a little girl what German measles "spots" look like. His slow, sympathetic drawl and down-to-earth approach, often with graphic material, win patients over.

MEET AN AMAZING MAN...

The doctor who lives in a wheel chair

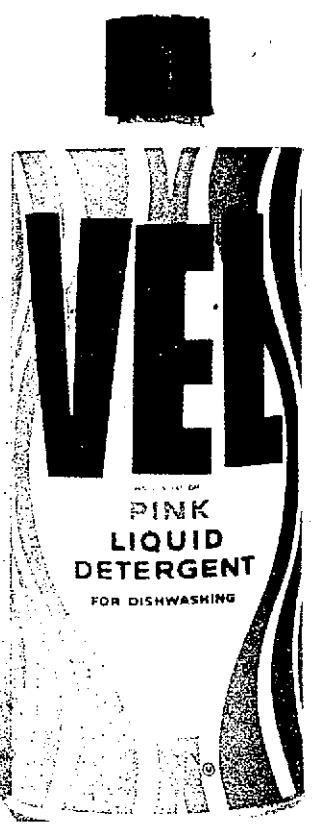

BENSON, ARIZ.

On March 1, 1950, Dr. James Mathews Hesser was summoned to treat victims of a highway accident. En route, his car spun out of control and flipped over. His spinal cord was severed. He would never walk again.

But seven months later, the burly physician (a onetime star wrestler at Oklahoma A. & M.) returned to full medical practice – – in a wheel chair. Since then, Dr. Hesser (now 50) has worked a grinding 14-to-16-hour-a-day schedule. Last year

IN JUST ONE DAY...YOUR HANDS CAN TELL YOU'VE CHANGED TO NEW PINK LIQUID VEL!

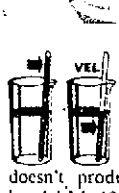

Makes quick work of dishes and pans ...yet no 'detergent burn' to hands!

VEL is the trade-mark of the Colgate-Palmolive Co.

The very first time you touch the dishwater you'll notice the wonderful difference Vel makes. No "slippery" alkali feeling because unlike washday detergents, Vel contains no harsh alkalis to roughen, redden skin. Vel's active ingredient is 100% grease-cutter. No powder, no other liquid is so fast, so economical yet so liquid-pink-mild. It's MarVELous!

NO "DETERGENT BURN!" PROOF: When washday detergents hit water their strong alkalis—meant for clothes—produce heat. The thermometer shows that new lotion-pink liquid Vel doesn't produce heat . . . can't "burn" your hands! It's 100% free of alkalis!

BEFORE SURGERY, Dr. Hesser (r.) gives anesthesia. Handicap or no, he makes his nurses toe the mark.

alone, he performed 200 major operations and treated no less than 30 office patients a day. He is the only doctor within a radius of 50 square miles.

When Dr. Hesser returned to the 20-bed, brown-adobe hospital he owns here, people of Benson (pop. 1,000) and the surrounding ranch country wondered whether a doctor on wheels still could do his job. Dr. Hesser recalls: "The father of the first baby I delivered stayed to watch the whole thing — just to see if his wife would get the proper care from a guy in a wheel chair."

That father left the hospital amazed. More than 100 other couples since have learned the extent of the Benson doctor's skill in the delivery room.

Dr. Hesser's chief assistant is his wife (since February, 1956), Nellie. Ten years ago she came to work at the hospital as a nurse. Today her work schedule is just about as hectic as her husband's.

Reflects the devoted Mrs. Hesser: "Sometimes I think that a doctor who is handicapped can be of more help to people than one who isn't. At least it seems that way with Jim." ■

BETWEEN PATIENTS, Dr. Hesser finds time to pursue a hobby — cooking. Here, he digs into one of his meat pies as Mrs. Hesser beams appreciatively.

TOMORROW'S WEAPON: General White explains supersonic antiaircraft missile to PARADE's Jack Anderson. White replaced Gen. Nathan Twining when latter became chairman of Joint Chiefs.

EXCLUSIVE interview with our new Air Force chief...

Will missiles replace

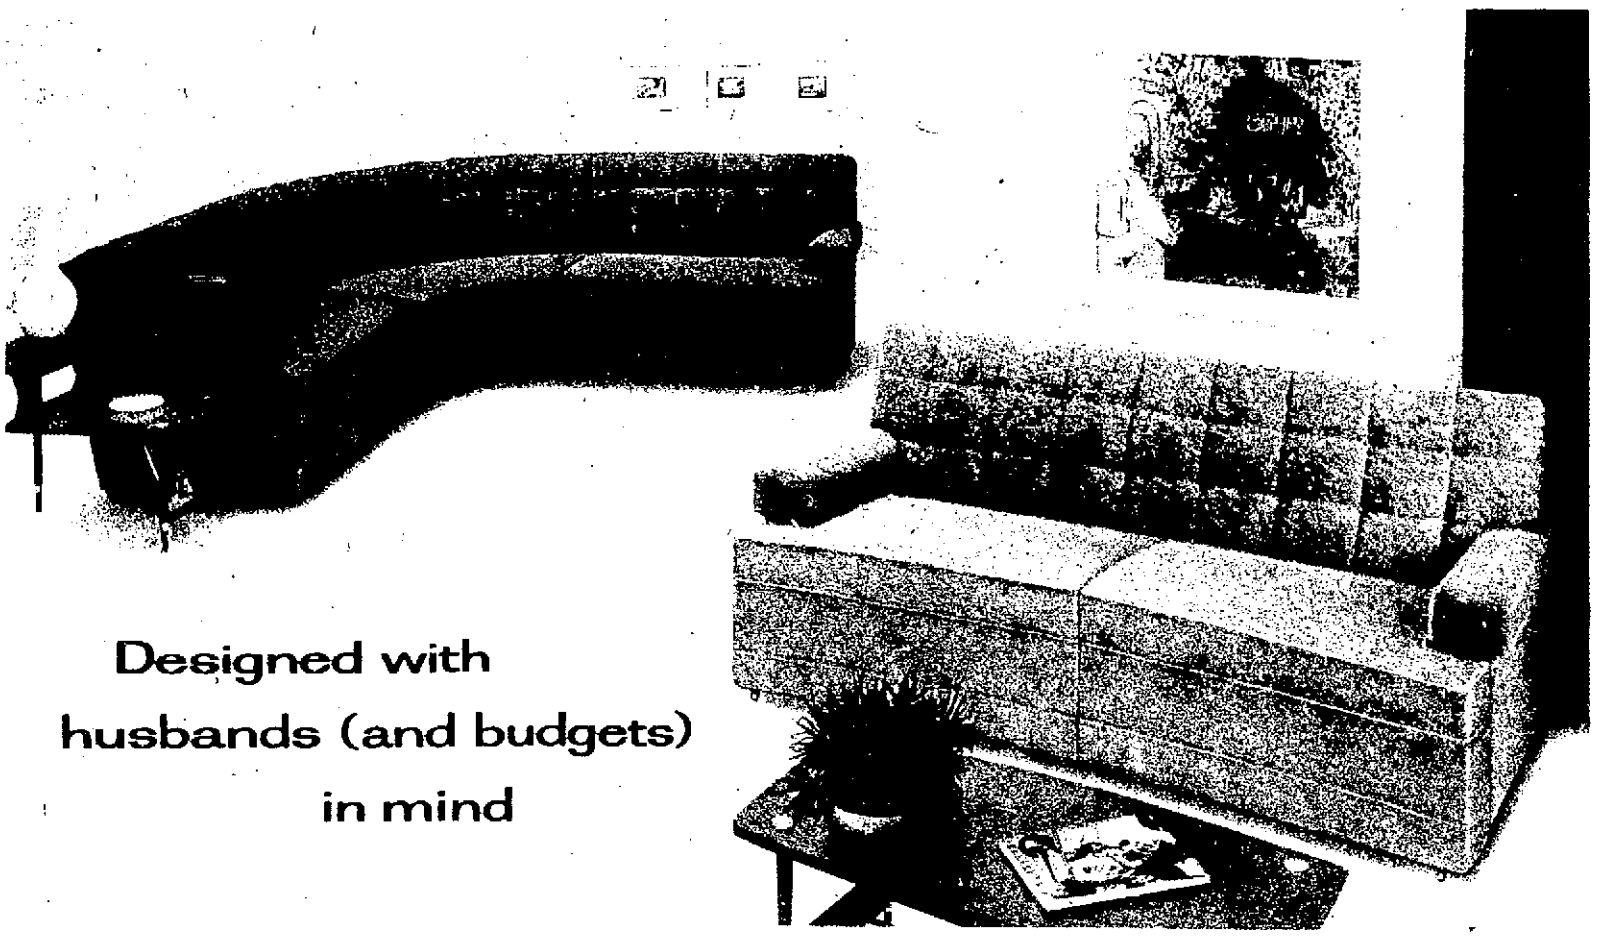

Gen. Thomas White predicts the future of aerial warfare

When President Eisenhower chose a new Air Force chief of staff recently, he selected the service's foremost expert on aerial strategy and the Air Force of the future, Gen. Thomas D. White. White, 56, has served a seven-year apprenticeship as a top Pentagon planner, helped to supervise the development of new and deadly missiles and their gradual introduction into the Air Force arsenal.

Here, in an exclusive interview with PARADE, General White gives his views of the future Air Force, the kind of war it will be prepared for tomorrow — and where it stands today:

Q General White, do you expect guided missiles to replace airplanes as our main military weapon?

A Guided missiles never will replace manned aircraft completely. In the immediate future, they will augment manned aircraft, and ultimately they will take over many operations. But there always will be operational tasks, such as reconnaissance, assessment and precision attacks, that can best be done by manned weapons. We never can develop a "black box" that will replace the human brain airplanes?

in situations that require reasoning ability.

Q Is it true guided-missile units already are replacing fighter-bomber squadrons? Will missiles take over our tactical air arm?

A Our Matador surface-to-surface missile units now are stationed overseas, along with manned aircraft. And we are planning the development of advanced missiles in the 200-1,500 mile range. All these will take over a part of our tactical air tasks eventually.

Q Will antiaircraft missiles become a substitute for interceptor planes?

A Interceptor missiles will first complement and ultimately replace short- and medium-range manned interceptors. The Bomarc, soon to be in operation, will be the first air-defense missile with the range of an interceptor plane and the higher performance of a missile. Combining this with Bomarc's very high rate of fire and quick response gives us a weapon several times more effective than any other available.

Q Will we need intercontinental bombers after the intercontinental missiles are perfected?

A The need naturally will be somewhat reduced. But the first missiles will lack the high degree of accuracy manned weapons now have. The Snark intercontinental missile soon will be operational. The Rascal soon will be available to permit our B-47s to hit targets without penetrating heavy inner defenses. But for some targets, manned bombers will be superior for a long time.

Q What role will the airplane play in the guided-missile age?

A It will continue to be important — for air transportation, supply, "small war" troop support, reconnaissance, patrol. But our future manned aircraft will not all be planes as we know them. They will be manned rockets and space craft.

Q Only 30 years ago, the Army considered the cavalry more important than the Air Force. Is there a similar clique today in the Air Force that would obstruct the advance of the missile?

A To this question I must answer an emphatic No. Despite propaganda, the Air Force has the most progressive missile program of any of the services. But we cannot risk national security by replacing our proven weapons with unproven ones prematurely.

Q Do you believe the three services should continue to share in missile planning and production? Or would it be more efficient to consolidate under one service?

A Each service should manage the development, production and employment of weapons required to accomplish its missions. This is as true for missiles as for any weapon.

Q Has the Army developed a better intermediate missile than the Air Force?

NEW BOMARC interceptor missile heads aloft in Florida test. The Air Force considers this the "hottest" missile yet developed in the U. S.

A It still is too early to tell. But in either case I do not expect their differences will be great.

Q Are Russian missile scientists equal to our own in technology?

A Russia always has had very competent scientific talent. Their recent advancements indicate excellent ability. Their missile technology now should be equal to our own.

Q Which country do you think will develop the first intercontinental missile?

A We believe Russia has made considerable progress, furnishing an increasing threat to the U.S. and the free world. But I would like to emphasize that our basic objective is to create weapons systems which, because of their capability to deliver nuclear firepower, represent a continuing deterrent to would-be aggressors. Thus it is not of overpowering significance which country obtains the first ICBM.

Q Which country is ahead in developing intermediate and shorter-range missiles?

A The Soviet program now appears to be sufficient to attain an arsenal of operational missiles for various purposes. We should recognize the emphasis they must be placing on missiles.

Q Are you satisfied with our missile progress?

A I am very satisfied with the technical progress of our missile programs and feel we are providing for the development of high-performance, quality weapons systems for the future.

Q Do you think we should spend more money on missile research?

A Yes. If we are to assure ourselves of continuing supremacy, an increase in funds may deserve consideration.

Q What can the public do to help win the missile race?

A It should realize the high cost of these new weapons and their importance to national security. It should give maximum support to expenditures for their development. ■

Beauty

SUMMER-TIME LIVING is easy, as you can gather from this picture of the beauty on today's PARADE cover. But the aftereffects of a suntan — no matter how hard you worked to acquire it — give every woman a problem or two.

GLOWING LOOK still can be achieved with a poling after-summer tan — if proper care is taken. And a beautiful silk evening dress (the gown above is designed by Sophie for Saks Fifth Avenue) deserves a silken skin.

A new 'moisturizing' program will revive summer-baked skin ...

for your Autumn Beauty

by GRACE de MUN

Each year, the advent of fall brings with it a problem for every woman: How do I leave behind the effects of a summer in the sun — and do it gracefully? I feel like a million, but sun, wind and water have left my skin dry. My hair has lost its bounce, my hands and feet need smoothing, the pale-pink lipstick that glowed so gloriously with my suntan now looks dim and faded.

There's just one answer: Try a new "moisturizing" beauty program that includes all of you — from head to toe.

The first step in the project — to restore satin-smoothness to your body skin — is to take baths with the added touch of bath oil or essence. (Baths are gentler on summer-dry skin than brisk showers.) And use an after-bath body balm, rubbing the creaminess in. To avoid drying your skin, use talc sparingly.

To give your complexion an after-summer silkening and sparkle, try a creamy liquid cleanser; it's penetrating and practically greaseless. It removes deep-down grime, even old suntan lotion accumulated in pores. Apply it with circular strokes and then tissue off; you'll be amazed at the amount of dirt it takes with it. A liquid moisturizing preparation before making up leaves a velvety-smooth look.

Go to sleep with "nourishment" on your skin — a thorough lubrication with one of the new liquid-thin preparations, wonderfully lightweight but rich in good things for the complexion. (Some now contain bee jelly, humectants, estrogens or flower pollen — plus many softening agents.)

BEAUTY AIDS now are available in so many new and exciting preparations that the selection of a completely "liquid" assortment should offer no difficulties: there's at least one that's been developed for each beauty need.

Your make-up? When the bronze begins to fade, create your own make-up color for each day of your dwindling tan. Mix the colors yourself — as a painter would.

To blend a foundation shade, lighten your deeper summer shade with a few drops of your paler winter shade; blend thoroughly in the palm of your hand with your finger and apply.

To blend face powder: On tissue paper, pour some of your lighter powder on some of the darker shade (use small amounts; you may want a lighter shade the next day), then fan the powders out with a spatula; press and spread. Repeat until all the little streaks are blended in.

Use a new transitional lipstick shade — burnt or coppery red. Be careful of the blued deep-rose colors until you're back to your natural skin tone; they're inclined to look muddy with a tan.

Lots of lotion for hands and feet — and elbows, too — is a "must." Whenever you think of it, rub some on; it removes dead, dry skin, helps restore smoothness.

And most important of all, don't neglect your hair. Get yourself a good haircut for that new permanent (salon- or home-style) you'll undoubtedly need. It will eliminate all dried, split, bleached ends and make it more manageable under new hats.

Luster can be restored to the hair with a rich shampoo and after-shampoo conditioner. Hot air and summer sun strip the hair shafts and make them dull and brittle. But rubbed into the hair and rinsed out with warm water, a good conditioner acts as a "filler" and restores the body necessary to give hair bounce and pliability.

Try a Rinse

Tone down sun bleaching with a rinse; a blue or slate-colored rinse tempers bleaching beautifully. One effective liquid color rinse now on the market has a built-in conditioner. It comes in a plastic squeeze bottle, sprays on, colors and conditions in five minutes.

All in all, girls, you'll want every bit of "moisturizing" you can take. And with the new liquid preparations now available for your beauty program, it's easy to give that healthy after-summer glow a sparkling autumn polish. ■

spare time

Everyone, these days, is concerned about what to do with leisure time. And everyone is especially concerned about what teenagers do with it — including you and you and you.

Recently I attended a panel discussion on this subject in Chicago. It was held at an international youth conference sponsored by the Augustana Luther League (a religious organization dedicated to bringing about a better Christian world).

Approximately 5,000 delegates from this country and 15 other nations — all between 14 and 21 — attended the four-day conference, and their views on leisure time (only one of the topics debated) are worth noting. So much so, that I decided to conduct a panel discussion myself while there, with just a few of the representatives at the meeting.

First, let's find out exactly what "leisure time" is. Mr. Webster (the dictionary) says: Leisure is "freedom from necessary occupation."

And, to go a little further: What do we do with this freedom? Perhaps this is where our panel can help.

Jane Westberg (16), of Chicago, says: "I don't believe there's any such thing as leisure time. You have to be doing something all the time."

A West Orange, N.J., delegate, Phyllis Gustafson (16), thinks she averages an hour each afternoon and two evenings a week. Her idea of leisure includes Luther League, choir, parties.

Pamela Bennett (16), of Chicago, spoke up: "I like to use my leisure to swim, play tennis and write poetry."

Well, do you agree? Should your leisure be spent constructively, doing something?

One of our panelists doesn't. She believes that even talking can be a favorite pastime — "especially among us girls. There doesn't have to be any positive result. We may be just cutting up, but it's relaxing."

But almost everyone agreed with Ardith Linn of Elliott, Iowa, who thinks leisure is the "time to choose what you want to do most."

There never was any question of what you could do with free time. The list is endless: movies, TV, radio, record playing, extracurricular school activities (athletics, dramatics, glee club, orchestra, cheer-leading), reading, even phone calls.

A Range of Opinions

The question really is: What should you do with leisure time?

John Olson (20) of Glendale, Calif., believes that "what will please God should come first. Time equals life," he says, "and when you waste time, you waste life."

At this point in the discussion, one girl asked if just riding in a car up and down the main street was a proper use of leisure.

Cruising around, John answered, is better than parking for a couple of hours.

Surprisingly, little mention was made of dating. But Tim Hay, of Minneapolis, raised a laugh with: "I go steady — every day and week ends. My leisure time is gone right there."

JANE WESTBERG, of Chicago, is a busy, conscientious Luther League leader. "Leisure time," she says, "would drive me nuts."

KENNETH KUHN, of Vancouver, puts it this way: "My choice is not between homework and TV but homework and Luther League."

PHYLLIS GUSTAFSON, of New Jersey, says she has many hours of leisure time — partly because "I get my homework done first."

RICHARD SOLBERG, of New York, emphasizes that time belongs to God: "As stewards of time, we should use it well."

PAMELA BENNETT, of Chicago, doesn't always agree with the other panel members. She favors "leisurely" use of leisure time.

CHUCK HAMMERBERG, of Denver, thinks the "complexities of life" (studies, dating, eating and sleeping) cut down on spare time.

Everyone needs some free time— time to think and plan is important

John broke in here with the comment that many teenagers date on Friday and Saturday nights and then use the excuse of homework for missing important things.

And Nancy Huffman (18), of New York City, agrees. She adds, though, that she has to plan in order to get any leisure.

Kenneth Kuhn, of Vancouver, B.C., chimed in here: "I take so much time choosing what to do with my leisure time that I don't have any!"

Nancy figures she spends about eight hours a week in extracurricular school activities (she was president of the student council last year, belongs to clubs, takes part in athletics) and social work. All of these things Nancy enjoys, but she doesn't class them as leisure.

"I get my homework out of the way first [she's a B-plus student], and I'm in bed by 10 p.m. [her own choice]. But my leisure [at least three-quarters of an hour a day] is spent lying on my bed daydreaming and listening to music. I really feel that I couldn't live without some time all to myself.

"As a matter of fact," she continues, "I like to talk to myself. One part of me says one thing, another says something else. I solve lots of problems this way. To me, leisure time — my kind — is as necessary as work or organized social life."

I suspect Nancy has the right idea. Time to oneself, time to while away, time to think — or not to think — is important to all of us.

"But nobody can tell you how much time to spend looking out the window or lying on your bed," says Joseph Prendergast, executive director of the National Recreation Association.

"Like Nancy," he says, "everyone needs some absolutely free time. But recreation is the creative way to spend leisure. It can be developing new skills, meeting new people or learning new things.

Budget Those Hours

"Teenagers, today, have more leisure time than any generation before them. As adults they'll have still more. Machines are doing more and more of the work people used to do.

"But if you learn to budget your time," Mr. Prendergast concludes, "you'll find you get a bigger bang out of life, and run less risk of feeling empty or shallow."

HOLLYWOOD.

The photo above illustrates the latest step in the development of Elvis Presley as a screen personality. From a jukebox sensation with sideburns he has become—at 22, and in just three pictures—a Great Lover. In the recent Loving You he was kissed by three different females. The upcoming Jailhouse Rock has him bussing blonde starlet Jennifer Holden (above).

Like most beginning actors, Elvis finds his leading ladies attractive offscreen as well as on. Some have reciprocated—but not Miss Holden, who is 20. "I'm sorry, but Elvis just doesn't send me," she says. "I guess I'm too old for him."

Still, a kiss is a kiss. And Elvis is doing all right in other ways. Though none of his films has been exactly a critical success, Love Me Tender (the first) has grossed $4 million and the others may well match it. Elvis now receives $250,000 a picture—plus 50 per cent of the net profits. He has two music-publishing companies (which in turn own six songs he sings in Jailhouse Rock). In the past year he has made eight records whose sales topped a million each. Currently he supports a traveling group of 15 aides, secretaries, cousins and friends—and owns two motorcycles and seven cars (including five Cadillacs).

Where, people here ask, will it end? ■

Allstate takes the red tape and high cost out of automobile insurance

Customer savings of more than 20% are commonplace

Founded by Sears,
Allstate pioneered a new approach
to insurance that has won nearly four million friends

Allstate has replaced the horse-and-buggy selling methods dear to the insurance business with the big volume, low-overhead, quality-for-less merchandising concept pioneered by Sears. Boiled down, it's this simple:

Cut red tape in paying claims . . . print policies in large type and plain language so you know what you're buying . . . make it easy to buy insurance in a relaxed manner.

How much can you save?

Allstate policyholders save different amounts, depending on different risk conditions and on the state where they live. The most common saving is 22% (some policyholders save as much as 38%) from rates charged by most other companies.

How can Allstate do it?

Nearly $1 in every $4 spent with most companies goes to pay selling costs instead of to buy protection. By using modern selling methods to reduce selling costs, Allstate is able to offer lower rates, better value.

Allstate cuts red tape to pay claims faster

Cutting the red tape.
Allstate has more than 3,950 full-time claims expediters in the United States and Canada. Help is always as near as the nearest phone. Allstate's claims experts have the authority to pay claims "on the spot" without any red-tape delays for home office approval.

Easy-to-understand policies.
Allstate prints policies in readable-size type, in understandable language. Illustrations help spell everything out so you know exactly what you're buying.

You don't need glasses to read an Allstate policy

Buy the relaxed, low-pressure way. You can buy Allstate insurance over the counter in a Sears store, or at an Allstate Insurance Center. If you prefer, an Allstater will call at your home. Look for the Allstate listing in the Yellow Pages of your phone book. In every case, you get the help of a professional, licensed Agent.

Today, with automobile insurance costs rising, wouldn't it be wise for you to compare values? Remember, until you have the Allstate facts, you don't have all the facts about auto insurance.

You can buy over the counter at Sears, at Allstate Insurance Centers, or in your own home

This modern kind of automobile insurance brings these surprising benefits:

1. Allstate may save you up to 38%.
2. Allstate cuts red tape to pay claims faster.
3. An Allstate policy is easy to read and understand.
4. Allstate makes it easy for you to buy the convenient low-pressure way.

Parade quiz

What's your hospitality IQ?

by ELSA BRANDEN

WHEN thoughtless dinner guests come late, do you tell them off?

The art of hospitality means a lot more than knowing about knives and forks or just being convivial. Knowing how to make guests feel "at home" often calls for tact, patience and the wisdom of Solomon. Do you rate as the perfect host or hostess? Take the quiz below and find out. (You may get an idea of how you fare as a guest, too.)

1 You're throwing a dinner party for friends of mixed tastes. Some like music, art and books; others prefer baseball and gin rummy. Is it a good idea to invite guests of such different interests and backgrounds?

2 Your husband (or wife) makes a remark that annoys you. Before you know it, you're having a family tiff. You should: a) ask your guests to decide who is right; b) retreat, letting your spouse "save face" before your friends; c) pass the whole thing off as a joke.

3 A careless chain smoker burns a hole in your best antimacassar. You should: a) pass over the incident lightly; b) let him know how you feel, so that he will be more careful in the future; c) accept his offer to replace it.

4 After greeting your guests and introducing everyone, you should: a) take a back seat and let your guests do all the talking; b) lead the conversation.

5 One of your guests is a shy young lady who sits forlornly by herself. You should: a) keep her company for a while; b) draw her into the group in spite of herself; c) leave her alone to get over it.

6 Believing in some kind of planned entertainment, your wisest course is to: a) show home movies of your summer trip; b) play records on your hi-fi set; c) urge your guests to take part in some parlor game or watch television; d) make various suggestions, but drop them if they do not meet with general enthusiasm.

7 Two of your good friends have quarreled, and you are anxious to see them reconciled. Before inviting them to your home, you decide: a) not to interfere between them; b) to bring them together as if by a chance meeting; c) to consult them first, making sure they are willing to meet each other.

8 You've announced an informal party. However, as host and hostess, you feel you should: a) "dress up" for the occasion; b) play down your appearance, dressing simply.

9 One of your guests is disagreeable and argumentative, antagonizing everyone. You should: a) ignore him, hoping the others will, too; b) steer the conversation into other channels; c) attempt to put him in his place.

10 Your dinner party starts at 7. Everyone is more or less punctual, except one couple who arrive at the tail end of the meal. You should: a) reprimand them; b) accept their rudeness with good grace.

11 The dessert is so terrific that a guest asks for the recipe. You'd like to keep it a secret, so you: a) politely refuse; b) write it out grudgingly; c) give the wrong ingredients or measurements; d) promise it for later, then conveniently "forget about it."

12 One of your guests brings a gift; another arrives empty-handed. You should: a) make a fuss over the gift at the risk of causing discomfort to the other person; b) open the gift and express your appreciation unobtrusively, following it up with a "thank-you" note next day; c) express thanks and leave the gift unopened until later.

13 Your party is in a public restaurant. The food and service are disappointing. You should: a) voice your criticism in front of your guests; b) make the best of a bad bargain.

14 An old friend blows into town, calls you for a place to stay. You have no room, so you: a) explain your predicament and suggest a good hotel; b) offer your own bedroom while you take the living-room couch for the night; c) keep your bedroom and offer the couch.

15 Your child starts acting up in company. You should: a) scold him and order him to his room; b)apologize for him and let it go at that, postponing punishment until later; c) throw up your hands and hope for the best.

ANSWERS

1 No. Guests with widely divergent interests usually grope for small talk, wind up tense and uncomfortable.

2 b) Discretion is the better part of valor. Forcing guests to witness a family spat makes them wish they were with anyone but you.

3 a) Maintaining poise in the face of small mishaps marks you a social hero.

4 b) Do it deftly—but don't monopolize the conversation.

5 b) Encourage her to take part in festivities — perhaps by asking her help in passing refreshments. She'll soon be no longer outside looking in.

6 d) Just because you like to play cards, charades, scrabble or watch TV, is no reason to inflict it upon visitors against their wishes.

7 c) This is the safest way; otherwise, you might run into an awkward situation which could result in three people's not being on speaking terms.

8 b) Don't try to outmatch your guests in the clothing department — especially by such sandbagging tactics as the "come as you are" invitation. It's bad manners to be too conspicuous in dress, anyway.

9 b) Try to steer the conversation into less controversial channels. If that fails, try luring this pesty caller into a quiet corner where he won't bother other guests.

10 b) Be gracious, even if it hurts. But make a mental note not to ask them again, or else set the dinner hour much earlier for them than for the others.

11 d) The "forgotten" promise is the tactful way out of the situation. Of course, if your guest keeps insisting, you'll have to come across.

12 b) The donor of a gift likes to receive some gesture of appreciation; on the other hand, avoid being overeffusive. A situation like this should be handled with extreme tact so that the giftless caller is spared embarrassment.

13 b) Your objections will only embarrass your guests.

14 a) You might suggest that an advance notice of your friend's next visit might make it possible for you to make better arrangements.

15 b) If your guests have children of their own, they will understand the situation and readily accept it. Even if they haven't, they will treat it as a common, all-too-familiar incident.

SCORING: Allow one point for each correct answer. A score of 8 is average. If you score between 9 and 12 you have the makings of a social leader; 13 or more, the polish and suavity of an English butler. Anything below 5 gives your wife (or husband) the right to call you coarse and vulgar — even though you say you're just unpretentious. But don't fight about it, folks — especially in front of your guests. ■
